preparing to dislodge the English from Diamond Rock; but their grand object was not known. It was reported that 2000 troops were to be embarked at Martinique in addition to those brought from France. We are not enabled to give the names of the commanders of the fleet. The troops are under general Lauriston.

Many reasons incline us to believe that the immediate object of the French fleet in the West Indies is the conquest of Jamaica; and that the next will be the conquest of the Empire of Hayti. It can scarcely be supposed that there is, at present, any design of molesting the windward islands; else why not at once attack Barbadoes, in the port of which not less than from 100 to 150 sail of valuable merchantmen must have been at anchor at the time the French passed it. Still we would in vain search for a cause which could induce so long a delay at Martinique; by which they not only ran the risk of the arrival of a British fleet; but gave time for the governors of the islands, Jamaica in particular, to be apprized of their approach, and to be prepared for their reception. If their attack be made on Jamaica, where, besides the regular force, there is a well organized militia of from 11,000 to 14,000 men, there is some reason to hope that they may be detained long enough to allow Nelson or some other British hero to overtake them.—Nothing can prevent this, except the uncertainty of their destination, which would not be removed by the distraction prevailing at the moment in the British ministry, and particularly affecting the board of admiralty. A few days will doubtless relieve us from uncertainty on this important point.——But whatever may be the apparent view of Bonaparte in sending out this fleet, we have little doubt that it is intimately connected with the invasion of England, Ireland, or both; and should he succeed in wresting from Great Britain her valuable West India possessions, her commerce, and consequently her finances, would receive a severe a shock, that ... wonder ... her commerce she cannot possibly exist.

Charitable Marine Society of BALTIMORE.

A yearly meeting will be held on WEDNESDAY, the 26th June, at 6 o'clock in the evening, at Peck's Hotel, Fell's Point. An election for officers will then take place and the pension list for the next year collected; it is therefore thought necessary to impress on the members a prompt attendance, and that they come prepared to pay up the arrears, as, without a very general collection, the society will not be able to pay the many humane demands that must necessarily take place.

JOHN HAMILTON, Sec'ry.

VENERIAL COMPLAINTS.

AS Dr. WARNER's practice has been very extensive both in public and private, daily experience convinces him of the propriety of his method of removing the venereal disease, in preference to any medicine vended or known in Baltimore. He has removed the most desperate cases with care and dispatch, after the failure of some of the ablest physicians both in Europe and America. Complaints of the urinary passages and debility thereof, from various causes and accidents, removed in the shortest possible space of time.—As there are persons from various causes cannot personally apply, it may be necessary to inform them, they may be relieved from a description of their complaint.

Dr. W. warrants a cure in all cases. Masters of vessels and travellers may have their medicine so prepared that a safe, effectual and expeditious cure may be effected, without the least restriction in drink or diet.
