ed for Cadiz, where they had arrived, 30 in number, two days before the Friendship's sailing, and with 5 ships in that port, forming a fleet of 35 sail of the line. This intelligence was received at Gibraltar 8 hours after captain W. sailed, together with a further account, that the Carthagena squadron, of 6 sail of the line, the same that was to have joined the Toulon squadron which round down the Straits, but was not ready, had arrived at Malaga, 48 leagues from Gibraltar only.—Just before sunset, (says capt. W.) an easterly wind sprung up, with which the Carthagena squadron probably sailed, as they were in plain sight from the Rock some time before dark, 5 sail of the line and many gunboats; this created a most serious alarm at Gibraltar; all was bustle, the exertions were constantly doubled, which were heard on board his ship until 10 o'clock at night, at which time the wind had increased to a very strong Levanter, and the night being very dark, it must have been then a fine chance to pass the Gut.

At the time the alarm was given, the squadron under Sir R. Bickerton was at anchor in Gibraltar Bay, consisting of the Queen of 98 guns, Prince 98, Minotaur and Bellerophon, 74's, 3 frigates and 2 gun-ships.—This squadron had received some time waiting at Gibraltar for reinforcements from England, to go up and blockade the Carthagena squadron above mentioned. Some days after the alarm, the squadron got under weigh, it was said to join the squadron off Cadiz, under Sir Roger Curtis, (we think Admiral Collingwood—Sir Roger Curtis has not command) who according to some accounts, had 12 sail, and according to others 8 sail of the line.

Captain W. was informed by the American Consul, and other gentlemen at Gibraltar, that a Week before Spanish and American appeared in Gibraltar Bay, the Spaniards were in daily expectation of war being declared against them by the United States—an Embassador, whose negotiation had failed, was expected to leave Madrid, in the Prince of Peace's (Godoy) and thought it expedient not to proceed to Algiers as we have before known. In consequence the Spanish Government issued orders to stop, search and capture all American vessels, and the contents of a royal order to that effect was published and mounted, when captured.

We learn that the Confession of CHRISTIAN CUNNINGHAM, who was executed at York, (Penn.) on Friday to his sentence, passed on the 4th of August last, for the Murder of JOHN LOCKER, aged 14 years, is now in the press, and will be published on Wednesday next. It was delivered in the presence of the Rev. Messrs. Geo. Lloyd and Chas. Wilson, and contains a series of unheard of villanies.

For THE AMERICAN.

Mr. Paulin,

BETWEEN [illegible] day morning, fire was discovered in tenement, No. 67, Lombard-street, and extinguished without any material damage, through the well directed exertions of Providence and active members. On this occasion, some illiberal strictures have been disseminated respecting an alarm of fire without a sufficient cause, and the like; I therefore consider it necessary to state the local situation of the house, in order that the public may have an opportunity of judging whether or not I acted conformably to the dictates of propriety in giving the alarm. The seat of the fire, and its subsequent destruction, was under the hearth of a chimney built on the floor of the second story of the house. The hearth, as usual, was composed of bricks; but, horrible to relate, they were laid on brick work, and imposed upon square pieces of wood prepared for the purpose, without so much as sand to obviate the danger. Consequently the wood seems to have been at intervals reduced to a charcoal and consequently a state of flame by, owing to the powerful heat of the bricks; hence the great fire, as above recited, which I discovered merely by an emission of smoke, by the agency of my lungs were, in some degree, stifled, so as to prevent from sweet slumber and the delightful influence of Somnus, to witness and suppress by dint of exertion, an impending conflagration of destruction, apparently ready to burst forth with reiterated force from between the ceiling and floor, whereon I slept, into my room. Now, in the name of common honesty, I would ask, if such threats are not sufficient cause of alarm. Unbiassed and liberal minds judge not, ere they examine facts; while illiberal, illnatured ignoramus's found their opinions on prejudicial invention: and therefore, merit the contempt of the former, to whose generous breasts, alone, I look for justification. H.

September 30.

The New-York Board of Health report for Friday—twenty seven cases of fever, and fifteen deaths---they add eight admissions into Bellevue hospital---three deaths---three discharged, cured—thirty-two remaining in the hospital—and seven convalescents.

Capt. Smith, of the brig Rajah, informs, that on the 24th of August, two British privateers came into the port of Naevetas, and burnt the town. The guard house, store, and two or three private dwellings escaped the conflagration. (N. Y. Gaz.

Capt. Davis, from Bordeaux, informs that on the 1st inst. in lat. 42 20, long. 58, he saw five sail of men of war, two of which appeared to be ships of the line, standing to the southward, with the wind at East. (Ibid.

Extract of a letter from Capt. CHASE, of the ship Huntress, to his owners, at Newburyport, dated, London, August 2.

"Doubtless you will be surprised on opening this; but not more so than I feel aggravated in being compelled to address you from this city. After an agreeable passage until the morning of the 26th inst. at 4 o'clock—being then in sight of the Island of Schouen, was brought to and boarded by the British frigate Amethyst, Capt. Spranger, who after detaining me 4 hours, put a men and a prize-master on board, and ordered the Huntress for Yarmouth, where we arrived the 7th inst. From whence I proceeded immediately to this place, where I arrived yesterday.

"The only pretext the captain of the frigate assigned for sending me in was, that the greater part of the cargo was the produce of an enemy's colony, and that possession taken of by an American into the United States did not neutralize the property—that of course, which taken in time, was liable to condemnation; for which reason he applied to a last decision of Sir Wm. Scott.

"On these grounds there is about 20 sail of American vessels arrived and detained within a few weeks, and have been almost daily coming in.

"I was supplied to the American Consul and Merchants, who appear to be much surprised at the conduct of the British Government—they further observe that they cannot conceive that government will ever establish the above as a principle. They further say, that they think that government has not given any particular orders for these captures; it is however very uncertain what our fate will be, or how long before it will be determined: there has been no trials on similar circumstances with ours; what has been condemned, is where the importation has been in the same vessel in which it was re-shipped, on which circumstance they lay great stress."

[N. B. The Huntress is a new ship, and on her first voyage.]

The powers of the metropolis having conceived an article from the Liverpool Chronicle, which stated, that Master Betty had performed to a full house during his last engagement in this town, Mr. M'Cready, the manager of our theatre, which is acknowledged to be, and to truth, has contradicted the assertion through the means of one of the daily prints in which the paragraph appeared. In the fourteen nights which he performed here, the receipts amounted to £4564. 14s. 2d. (Birmingham, Eng. paper.)

Captain Smith met two French privateers going into Nevetas, having as prize a British ship of eight guns, dismantled, which they said, was bound from Philadelphia for Jamaica. The above privateersmen informed, that a British packet bound to Jamaica, had been recently captured by a French privateer, and sent into St. Jago de Cuba.
