ELKTON, FEBRUARY 21, 1874.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

—The Elkton Building Society sold $1,000, on Saturday night last, at a premium of [illegible] per cent.

—W. [illegible] Nelson, cabinet maker, has introduced the new vaneer chair bottom, which is fast taking the place of cane.

—A crow shooting match is soon to come off among our Elkton gunners. The enterprise is a joint stock concern at $1.00 a share. Each subscriber having his allotted number of birds to fire at. Pigeon shooting will pale before this sable match.

—A gang of railroad laborers with sixteen horse carts bearing their luggage, entered Elkton on Tuesday afternoon last and put up at Price's Hotel till Wednesday morning. They were from Shanendoah Valley Va., where they had been working on a new railroad, and bound for Georgetown, Delaware.

Information Wanted.—Any one knowing the name and post office address of any of the descendants of John Aderson, who married Ellen Passmore, or of Richard Bond, who married Mary Passmore. They had a daughter Betsey Bond. Or of Passmore McVey, will confer a favor by sending them to Box 181, Pottsville, Pennsylvania. Exchanges please copy.

Died from his Injuries.—Perry Wilson, a colored man, residing near Kirk's Mills, Cecil county, while delivering a load of cross ties at the North East depot, on Wednesday last, was thrown from his wagon against a fence injuring him so that he died the same evening. The deceased was unloading the ties when his horses were frightened by the screaming and puffing of a freight train engine, and ran away, with the above fatal consequences. Mr. Wilson was a very respectable man and owned a farm of 96 acres in the 9th District.

Death of Mrs. Tome.—Mrs. Caroline M. Tome, wife of Hon. Jacob Tome, died at the Carrollton Hotel, Baltimore, on Monday last. Mrs. Tome had been an invalid for several months and was staying in Baltimore under medical care at the time of her death. Mr. Tome has the sympathy of his numerous friends in this sad bereavement. The amiable qualities of the deceased attracted to her a large circle of very warm friends who will deeply regret her loss. Her funeral took place from the M. E. Church in Port Deposit on Thursday last. The remains were deposited at Hopewell cemetery.

The County Commissioners.—The County Commissioners were in session on Tuesday and Wednesday last. An order was passed releasing John Tweed, of 4th District, on taxes on $1,050, judgment against Murphy, and return insolvent. Amount of tax $9.65; tax released on $1,440, property of W. H. Yates' heirs, and return insolvent. Amount of tax $14.25. Dr. H. H. Mitchell was ordered to plant willows on embankment of new Elk Neck road; cost not to exceed $10. A number of transfers and changes were made.

Commissioners adjourned to meet on Tuesday next.

Belling the Rats.—Everybody has heard the old story of the cat, in which the whole rat family was so deeply interested; but it was left to the inventive talent of our own time to devise a plan for belling the rats. This feat has been successfully accomplished at the butcher shop in the "Hollow," where the rat is first caught in a live trap and a drop of chloroform applied to the "varment's" nose, when it soon lies in a quiet slumber. A small bell is fastened to the rat's neck while in this oblivious condition, and the animal is turned loose.

This humane treatment was resorted to with the hope of frightening all other unbelled rats from the neighborhood, but the effect was the very reverse of what was expected. The other rats attack those wearing the bells and make it so hot for them under the floor that they are compelled to seek safety above stairs and in the light of day, and may be seen running round the room and about the store in the most docile and friendly manner, more becoming kittens than rats.

The Concert.—Mr. George Caldwell has evinced commendable enterprise in his efforts to get up a first-class vocal and instrumental Concert at the Odd Fellows' Hall, for the benefit of the African M. E. Church. Concerts were given on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, and the performances were very highly spoken of by all who enjoyed them. The white portion of the audience very largely outnumbered the colored people, and the singing of Madame Weaver and Madame Tilghman, two colored singers from Baltimore, was applauded to the echo. Their singing was pronounced by judges very fine. The church choir assisted and sang the choruses remarkably well.

—We take the following items from the Havre de Grace Republican of yesterday.

—A public meeting will be held in the Town Hall, on next Tuesday evening, Feb. 24th, 1874, for the purpose of instituting measures, that may induce the management of the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad, to erect a new depot buildings in Havre de Grace, commensurate with the wants of our people and our importance as a passenger station.

—The personal effects of the "Comedy Company," that exhibited in the Town Hall on Tuesday night, were seized for Hall rent, &c.

—A movement is on foot to establish and put into early operation, a steam ferry across the river between Havre de Grace and Perryville, a charter for which was procured some three or four years ago.

—We are authoritatively informed that the water will be let in the Tide Water Canal on the 15th proximo. Last year, owing to breaks, it was not opened until July.

—The revival meetings which have been in progress in the M. E. Church, still continue with unabated vigor and abundant success.

—The Susquehanna Building Association sold $1060 on last Monday night, at an average premium of 1¾ per cent.

Teachers' Normal Association.

PORT DEPOSIT, Feb. 18th, 1874.

The Teachers' Normal Association met Saturday Feb. 7th, 1874, at the Brick School House. As only four of the members were present (owing to the inclemency of the weather) the literary exercises were postponed till next meeting. Reappointments as follows: Essays—Miss Biddle, Miss Jinks, Mr. Quigley. Oration—Mr. Currier. Select Readings—Mr. Hynes, Mr. Watts. Referred Questions—Mr. Warner, Miss Harland, Mr. Calhoun. Class Drill in Spelling—Mr. Watts. Discussion—Messrs. Squier, Calhoun and Hynes.—Question—"Will a God of infinite mercy and justice inflict an infinite punishment for a finite offence." Meeting adjourned till Saturday Feb. 28th, 1874, at the usual time and place.

MATE L. ROBERTS, Secretary.

Report of the School Commissioners.—The Board met agreeable to adjournment on Tuesday last. All the members present.

On motion the action of the Board at its last meeting in regard to teachers' certificates was reconsidered, and laid on the table.

On motion Mr. Robert Blackaway was appointed Trustee in Cecilton school, vice W. T. Weldon, removed from the district.

Resolved, That twenty-four additional desks be furnished to the school at North East, and that Commissioner S. J. England be authorized to purchase the Soper desks at a cost not to exceed six dollars each.

The matter between Mr. John Berry and the Board in regard to the Conowingo colored school, was, on motion, referred to the President and Secretary.

A petition from the citizens living on and near the public road leading from Elkton to North East was read, asking the Board to take measures for building a new school house near the dividing line of the Third and Fifth Election Districts, and the subject referred to Commissioner Biddle and the Secretary.

The subject of altering the desks in the school at Hickory Grove was referred to the President to have them altered at his discretion.

Resolved, That the office of the School Commissioners shall not be used for any purpose but school business, unless by permission of the Board.

On motion Commissioner Biddle was authorized to pay James W. Morgan an additional amount of three dollars for hauling coal to Pond's Neck School.

Resolved, That each School Commissioner be authorized to grant the use of the school house and books now in the school to the patrons of the schools who may wish to keep the schools open during the month of March; provided the school furniture and books to be under the same government and control as during the other terms of the school year.

Resolved, That section 7, article 7, of the by-laws be amended as follows: By inserting the words "and the use of tobacco in any form in the school room," after the word language in the third line.

Resolved, That the abstract of the annual report be published in the same form as last year.

Commissioner Biddle and Secretary reported that they had visited the proposed site for a school house on the road leading from Elkton to North East, and that a desirable lot of half an acre was offered by the patrons of the proposed school house. Report accepted.

The bill of R. Thomas, Sheriff, amounting to $26 was ordered to be paid.

Death—Wedding—Concert—Visit—Election Ice—A Return.

The body of Mrs. Tome, wife of Hon. Jacob Tome, was brought home from Baltimore, on Tuesday last, where her death took place on the day preceding. Her funeral took place on Thursday, 19th inst. She will be deeply lamented by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Miss S. Lyon, one of our Port ladies, and Mr. W. K. Reckefus, Deputy Clerk of the Circuit Court, of Cecil county, were united in marriage on Wednesday, Rev. John Squier, officiating. The happy couple after a sumptuous repast, started for Washington on a bridal tour. Many good wishes went with them on their trip.

A concert and dramatic entertainment was given in the Town Hall on Wednesday night. We learn that the audience was rather sparse. Such affairs are becoming a bore to our good citizens, unless for some beneficial object, when they show their liberality and appreciation by attending almost en masse.

Cecil Lodge No. 31, K. of P., purpose paying a friendly visit to the Monumental Lodge, No. 5, Baltimore city, on 20th inst. No doubt they will have a good time while exchanging fraternal courtesies.

The election on Wednesday, passed off very quietly, owing to the absence of stimulants. We suppose our worthy fellow townsman, Mr. Davis, will have the pleasure of filling the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Groome. Party predilections were in many cases laid aside, and many good Democrats assisted us in swelling Mr. Davis' vote, for which they have our thanks.

The ice dealers, who formerly obtained ice on the Susquehanna, being unable to secure the usual supply, from a failure in the arrangements of the clerk of the weather, have made contracts at a low rate, with parties in Massachusetts to furnish the desired supply.

Our town is now favored with a visit from Mr. J. W. Hill, of Colorado Territory, but formerly of this county. He is engaged in an extensive business in his adopted home, but came east to see his friends. He gives a glowing account of the Far West, to which he will return early in March, at which time our town will lose one of our estimable young men, Mr. Geo. W. Kirk, who expects to transfer to paper, photographically, some of the fine views of the Western wilds. We wish him success in his intended enterprise, and hope he will inform us through your columns, of the sights among the Rocky Mountains.

Chesapeake City Items.

Fire—Religious—Donation—Markets.

Mr. Andrew Beaston, of Bohemia Manor, had his barn burned on Monday afternoon, 16th. The barn contained all his provender, which was consumed. The building was insured.

The extra meetings that have been held in the M. E. Church here, were brought to a close a week ago. We understand that about seventy-five persons have been added to the church.

The ladies and friends of the Rev. G. R. Bristor, Pastor of the M. E. Church, gave him a donation of sixty dollars (cash) last week as a memento of their high regard and appreciation of his earnest labors.

Corn 65a70; flour $9.00; butter 35a40; eggs 25; lard 11a12; potatoes $1.00 per bushel.

North East Items.

The Hop—Slippery Trick—For Sale.

The hop at Anthony George's, on Thursday night last, was a grand affair. Owing to the superb entertainment and "mud," the North Easters did not get home until 8 o'clock next morning.

A sprightly land agent of Philadelphia, who has been dealing with Mr. Perkins for lots, and who traded the same for horse and sulky the other day, left rather unceremoniously, things not being all very satisfactory.

Tickets for sale, at B. F. Thomas', for Salt River—very cheap.

The Elkton Night School.

This school is now in a flourishing condition. It is largely attended by boys from six to eighteen years, many of whom give promise of great proficiency in the various branches taught.

Swearing, lying, chewing and smoking, and drinking are a few of the minor branches.

It is contemplated to send reports to the parents who so liberally patronize this school as soon as they can be prepared.

The thanks of the principal are particularly due to those professing christians who send their children.

T. H. E. D. E. V. I. L.,
Principal.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CECIL WHIG:—The law prescribes one of the duties of the Town Commissioners of Elkton to be the preservation of order in our midst—on the street, at church, at public meetings, at the post office, and in every place where decency is likely to be insulted by disgraceful rowdy behavior on the part of any. It is a fact, a stubborn fact, and one continually thrusting itself before our notice that the youth and boys of this place very often deport themselves so disgracefully even in public, as to bring odium on the town. Perhaps it is all done in thoughtlessness,—if so, such thoughtlessness is none the less criminal, since it is done before the force of public decency.

The cry goes up, where and when will this end? whither are we tending? in the premises, what is needed? Naught less than a strict enforcement of the common rules of order, and if that wont do, a strict enforcement of law.

Our town Commissioners, it must be confessed, are oftimes delinquent, and blind to their duty, or at least willing to shirk the performance of it—even conniving at growing disorder, which respect for the name of their office, if nothing else, should compel them to suppress.

They and our marshals are the custodians of order, the conservators of peace—an office than which none more important, more sacred, can be named. Let them be true to their trust, without regard to persons, and public opinion will sustain them.

Let some harmless negro on the outskirts of our town raise his arm to throw a soft snow-ball with the chances ninety-nine to one against his hitting one if he tried, and instantly half a dozen armed men are on hand to carry the inoffensive wretch to jail.

Let a row be raised at a place so sacred to order as a post office—a place where ladies and gentlemen must come—a place where the government meets its subjects—a fountain of intelligence, of order, of peace and respect, and we look on, laugh and say, "let them alone, they are in fun." Fun! such fun in such a place is heinous.

Will order and decency thrive, will our standard of morals which should be irreproachable suffer no taint if this is our spirit. ORDER.

ROWLANDSVILLE, Feb. 17th, 1874.

EDITOR WHIG:—The card of "Preceptor;" which appeared in your issue of the 7th instant, has been perused.

In reply I beg to say, that the extemporized report of my "Production" or "Oration," as given by the Secretary of the Teachers' Normal Association at Port Deposit supercedes the necessity of a more extended or minute publication of that article. I shall, however, for the benefit of "Preceptor," and in justice to myself, respectfully correct certain errors to be found in said report.

We certainly do not believe "that religion virtue and vice have no basis without education."

Our assault was against false education and its multiplied concomitants; we ignored and do ignore false measures, but never true men, and we think the audience then present would bear united testimony that we were guilty of no compromising personality. We leave this kind of work to be performed by meaner men than we wish to think ourselves.

We have our religious, ethical and political opinions; but we condemn wrong practices, (which are often but the fruits of a false education) whether those practices attain in church, state or party.

Respectfully, J. THOMAS HYNES.

LETTER FROM KANSAS.

FT. SCOTT, KAN., Feb. 10, 1874.

MR. EDITOR:—You may talk about the sunny climes in Italy, and the soft sunshine that glitters upon the sands of Lake Como, where the strolling Yankee shoddy makes love to Swiss girls by "moonlight alone;" or the bright soft skies of the tropics, where we may see the sun standing amid roses in the Western sky, into which he has thrown his ray-brush wherewith he has been painting the earth all the live long day; where the Isles are all lovely, set with an emerald sea, and there are dyes in the rich heavens, such as sparkled in the grand and gorgeous plume of Juno's favorite bird—every varying hue of every beautiful thing on earth—the tint of heaven's own iris! Ah! Nature—but we began this paragraph to remark upon the weather here in Southern Kansas and in the Indian Territory. Well, it is equal to the above, if not better, while pork is only three cents per pound, coal two dollars per ton, land five dollars per acre, rabbits ten cents per dozen, dears one dollar a piece—"and yet I am not happy!"

But we crave your pardon for this digression, as we started out to illustrated to you an every-day scene in the streets of Fort Scott, Kansas.

First, a drove of lean, half-fed cows, among them a few yearlings; an old brood mare; two rakish, lazy, lank colts; and behind them, bringing up the rear, a girl and boy, each mounted upon a scrubby pony, and attired in costumes anything but fashionable. They were as oblivious to the outside world as they passed throught the streets on Sunday afternoon, as if they were already far out upon the plains, to which they were bound. But it was not of this part of the "gwine West" party that special mention was intended. It was of the "outfit" which followed close behind. First, came a "spike team," or, in other words, three horses hitched up, one in the lead and two to the wagon tongue. The wagon was the most peculiar portion of the "outfit." It was a real original "outfit," prepared at considerable cost expressly for the occasion. It was an ordinary "prairie schooner," or ox wagon elongated to the length, and of the ordinary width of a narrow guage railroad passenger car. It was of the height of one of the common shanties we see sticking over the plains, and instead of the usual canvas for covering, was ceiled overhead with pine lumber, tastefully painted. On each side were five small glass windows, and in the center a stove-pipe, out of which smoke poured forth, indicating culinary preparations for supper. But the most attractive feature of all was nine little juvenile noses flattened against nine of the windows—eighteen bright eyes staring forth at the panoramic (to them) scene passing before them. We hailed the old man seated in the fore part of this gunboat on wheels, where he proudly sat alongside a stout, buxum girl of sixteen or seventeen, who, as we approached, retreated back into the seclusion of a monstrous calico sun bonnet. The following brief conversation ensued:

"Hello stranger?"

"Hello yourself. Howdy?"

"Where are you from?"

"From Highland keownty, Ohier."

"Where are you bound?"

"Gwine furder West to better my fortune. Ain't this Keansars?"

"You are now in Kansas. Good day, sir."

"Good day, mister. Git up, Sal! Yew Bally, what ye dewin? Go lang there."

And the "outfit" drove on, the observed of all observers. Fourteen more hard-working citizens for the fertile prairies of Kansas. C. F. W.

SPEECH-MAKING IN CONGRESS.

The style of much of the speaking shows that the prayer-meeting and the play-house have been its nurseries. Those who have taken play-actors as models, are inflated, emphatic and painfully slow. Such members say, "Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to introduce a bill," as if the utterance were a startling truth that had never burst upon the world before. They have the theatrical gags and vulgarities, and say che-yild for child, me for my, with much basso profundo, swelling and posing. Such pretension promises much, and always falls short. Those who have taken the class-leader and the preacher as their models, are also unpleasant speakers. There is, and has been, a tendency in certain of the priesthood to run into a nasal sniffling tone in the exercise of spiritual functions, under the mistaken notion that it adds solemnity to the words. This influence is very perceptible in Congressional speaking, and sometimes becomes so marked that we expect a speaker to reach the climax, raise himself on his toes with a tremulous shake and pronounce the "Yea, ver-i-ly" of the Praise-God Barebone of Puritan memory. In the speaking of Congress, it is worthy of remark, that a great body and prominent stomach lend a certain weight to the words pronounced. The dapper man with an insignificant voice is thus at a disadvantage, for let him speak as he will, his words do not have the importance of the man who delivers his over a great abdomen,—supposing them to be of something like equal talents. This was illustrated in the presentation of a gold snuff-box to Lord Jeffreys, a man of great mental stature but small in the flesh. He who presented the box was large,—compared to the diminutive nobleman,—and of dignified manners; after pronouncing the usual compliments, he handed the box to the nobleman with a grand bow: the theatrical ease of word and manner took away the little man's faculty of speech, he thrust the box into his pocket and sat down without saying a word. In the same way, the big men in Congress occasionally bear down upon the small lean ones, and if they cannot take away their speech, they do sometimes disconcert them with their ponderous ways and utterances.—Albert Rhodes; Scribner's for January.
