of the sanctity of the Sabbath in this country. As a nationed weighed in the divine balances we are found wanting—the cry of our abominations is heard in heaven, justice would reply, but Sabbath prayers conduct off the piecy judgement. Sabbath is the great filterer of the world's muddy waters—it is our weekly redemption—we are vile, but so long as the Sabbath is retained, we remain within the reach of hope and heaven.

We regret that the ordeannces of the Sabbath are so often impeded, and even damaged by the hurry of protracted business. The ship is closed only at midnight, and the Sabbath finds the mind distracted or exhausted. The minister comes to sow the word, but the round is strong or thorny. The spirit comes to renew or sanctify, but he finds no welcome. The heart is preoccupied, and he retires grieved by our worldliness.—There can be no proper enjoyment of the Sabbath without previous preparation. A Sabbath of slumber may refresh the body—a Sabbath of amusement may excite the spirit; but a Sabbath of worship only can make man wiser and better. His vexed soul finds there a refuge—for his grain an open fountain.

We know from Bible threatnings—from provisential judgements—from the voice of history—from the confessions of the profligate—that the face of the Lord is set against Sabbath-breaking.

Let the Lord of the Sabbath be the expositor of its obligations, and his examples illustrate what are the works of necessity and mercy.

Dear reader, may your Sabbath recollections contribute to your death bed comforts.

"Then the Sabbath's Lord shall say,
Come ye blessed, enter ye
Your Sabbath rest, your Sabbath day
Through endless ages be."

INCREASED ACCOMMODATIONS

CENTREVILLE LANDING.

ADVENTURE. CAPT. J. H. OZMON.

CORSICA. CAPT. T. W. KENDALL.

I have great pleasure in informing the public that I am now prepared to extend to them greatly increased accommodations at my Wharves at Centreville Landing. I know they will exceed any ever before offered to the freighting public. My line of the Granary owned by Capt. A. McCabe, expires upon the first day of January next, and I have been compelled to put up additional buildings and convenences. I have now

Three Large Granaries,

which will hold a little over Forty Thousand bushels of grain. They contain ninety separate compartments, thus enabling shippers to keep their grain kept separate.

TWO LARGE FREIGHT ROOMS,

and one LARGE OPEN SHED, sufficient in size to store 250 tons of Fertilizers, and a large quantity of miscellaneous freight, and am fully prepared to properly store fertilizers, lumber, lime, and all other freight that may offer. Farmers and merchants residing at a distance will have goods properly cared for until convenient to remove them. I am fully determined to give

as the necessity therefor arises. I have also erected, at considerable expense, an improved

Hoisting Apparatus,

by the use of which a single man can load his team—a hogshead of lime, bacon, heavy tobaccos, or, in fact, anything that does not weigh over a ton, thus saving to my customers both time and labor. Among my advantages for shipping grain to market are

Two Large and Safe Vessels, which will carry from 7,000 to 7,500 bushels, and which will make weekly trips to and from Baltimore. For the purpose of giving dispatch to trains, I have two granary keepers, and unload from ten to twelve trains at a time. One of these men will be found at the granaries from sun to sun, observing no holidays except Christmas day.

All grain weighed and receipted for at my granaries will be charged at the rate of 1 cent per bushel after it has remained sixty days, and ½ cent per bushel for each additional thirty days thereafter.

All grain and goods at owners' risk in case of fire.

All grain must be ordered shipped by the verbal or written order of the owner. Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a share of the public patronage.
