The Barbering Business

is as much a profession as that of the doctor, lawyer or banker, and experience is requisite to a full knowledge of all professions.

Having had an experience of more than twenty years in this business, and having served my patrons to their satisfaction during that time, I take this method of announcing that the same attention will be given as heretofore.

How Joe Carpenter Secured a Good Salary.

By F. A. MITCHEL

Joe Carpenter was a clerk in the office of the third vice president of the Central Railway. Joe was at his desk the morning after the incident in the last chapter, when the president came in. When he saw Joe he said:

"Good morning, Carpenter. Miss Dorothy wants you to take her to the theater tonight. Here is a ticket. Be sure you get Miss Dorothy home safely. Do as she tells you."

Joe took the ticket and said: "Yes, sir."

He had heard that Miss Dorothy was a very fine young lady, and he was very much pleased at the prospect of taking her to the theater.

He took the ticket and went to his desk. He had heard that Miss Dorothy was a very fine young lady, and he was very much pleased at the prospect of taking her to the theater.

But it was not the prospect of taking Miss Dorothy to the theater that had caused Joe to be so much pleased. It was the fact that the ticket was a free ticket. But it was not the free ticket
