THE FOREIGN PARTY AT WAR WITH EACH OTHER.—About four o'clock on Sabbath afternoon, the day they love to desecrate, a very entertaining, yet disgraceful affray occurred between certain members of the Foreign party at Busch's Ferry Bar house, Light street extended. It seems that there had assembled a number of rotationists and anti-rotationists in office, who, becoming excited, upon finding that words would not convince either side, set to word with a regular knock down argument, and bloody noses and black eyes were the result. During the melee a man named Rudolph held another named George Lawrence, whilst John Carter pummelled him severely. After having been beaten for some time the friends of Lawrence rallied and drove the anti-rotationists down to the water, where all succeeded in getting into boats and pushing off, except a man named John alias Jack O'Donnell, who becoming dreadfully frightened by his pursuers jumped into three feet water. The Americans present, who had been quietly looking on and enjoying the fight between the Kilkenny cats, came to the unfortunate man's rescue and pulled him out.

After the boat had got a short distance from the shore a man named Henry Richardson pulled off his hat and commenced hurrahing, when one of the rotationists threw a brick at him, which took effect upon the side of his head and knocked him overboard, where after paddling and splashing about for some time, he was fished out by his comrades. Those in the boat being afraid to land on the Spring Garden side, rowed all the way around the port and up to the city wharves. We are told by those Americans who had the pleasure of witnessing the scene that it was one of the most amusing affairs they ever beheld, and are anxious to be present at the next occurrence of the kind. When they do get up another we trust it will be for the public benefit, and that they will advertise it, but we hope they will not name Sunday, for we have some scruples with regard t. attending sports of the kind on that day.—Clipper

A SEVERE LAW.—There is a law in South Carolina which inflicts the penalty of death for grand larceny. A man named Antonio Den, has been tried and convicted under it at Charleston, and on Saturday last was sentenced to be hung in December next.

DEATH OF SENATORS.—Senator A. P. Butler, of South Carolina, expired in that State, on Tuesday. Hon. James Bell, also a United States Senator, from New Hampshire, died at his residence on the some day.

AMERICAN STATE CONVENTION.—The American State Convention to nominate candidates for Governor, Lottery Commissioner, Comptroller of the Treasury, &c., will assemble in Baltimore city, on Tuesday, July 23d

The duty which this body will have to perform is one of great importance. Upon its action depends in a great measure the future success and usefulness of the American party. The enemies of American measures will resort to every means to compass our defeat. No stone will be left unturned. They will force into service all their energy; will combine, and in solid array endeavor to pierce our centre and scatter the hitherto victorious legions of the American party in this ancient commonwealth. They have become desperate.—Defeat has maddened them, and they will assuredly endeavor to combine all the discordant and heterogeneous materials out of which it is composed, under a single cognomen, and bring them into action against us in November next.

In this they are actuated by a three-fold purpose. They desire in the first place to wipe out the disgrace of a ignominious defeat in November last; in the second place they are anxious th t this gallant old State shall, by a public verdict, manifest her approval of the policy of the present administration, forgetting—as they never will do, so long as her granite hills shall stand proudly erect amid the storms that beat in harmless fury against their summits—the ruthless manner in which they were persecuted during the campaigns of 1855 and 1856, by the unscrupulous leaders of the democratic party. The infernal region was a Paradise compared to the place to which they wished to consign them, and the beasts of the field perfect lambs contrasted with the native-born citizens composing the rank and file of the American party.

And in the third place, they have a consuming desire to possess themselves of the "public plunder" which victory would place at their disposal. Herein lies the great moving spring of their efforts. In the single monosyllabic word "spoils" they concentrate all their hopes; it is the cohesive agent that binds them together, the great lever by which the complicated machinery of the party is moved. Without it they could not form a corporal's guard, not be able to carry an insignificent borough election. They would melt away like flakes of snow beneath a June sun, and the place that knew them once would know them no more forever. Their name would become a hiss and a by-word of scorn.

To compass these three objects, the Sag Nicht party will wage a relentless war, not against the principles, but against the members of the American party. The principles to which we anchor our faith they are afraid to discuss. They never have discussed them, they dare not do it, because they are the off-spring of the great national heart, and they beat in unison with its every pulsation. They will, therefore, resort in their extreme desperation to the low, dirty filth, springing out naturally from the dirty throats of anti-American demagogues. Upon these they will rely to break down the ramparts of the American party, erected in the heart of the people, and plant themselves in the high places in the State which they have hitherto used only to promote partizan purposes, without a single thought of the public welfare.

These things being true, it behooves the members of the American Convention to weigh well the claims of those named in connection with the offices to be filled, and to select those only who are eminently qualified in every essential for the posts.—We have a large numerical majority in the State, and our success is put beyond a contingency, but do not let us rely too confidently upon a triumph, nor in that feeling of security which the knowledge of our strength is apt to engender. The only true plain to insure another glorious victory is to bring on the best man amongst those named for each office than to be vigilant, active, energetic—every member of the party putting his shoulder to the wheel and applying his individual strength to aid the combined efforts of all the members to give it a strong, vigorous and triumphant forward movement. Do this, and there will be achieved one of the most glorious victories ever won in the State.

There are good and true men, loyal Americans, named for the different posts, and if the Convention will nominate them, we shall entertain no fears of the result. This is an enlightened age; people are not moved by passion or impulse, but by dictates of a calm and deliberate sense of duty to themselves and their country. They look at the principles of antagonistic political parties, observe how those principles are to affect, for good or for evil, the weal of the State; they note the party most rigid in their adhesion to their avowed tenets, and vote as their convictions of right shall prompt. In a contest of this kind, where the judgment of the people, and not their passions, are appealed to, the American party fears not a reversal of the decision rendered in last November. The principles upon which it grounds its hopes for success are eminently conservative and patriotic. They originated in a deep-rooted love of country; they have taken fast hold upon the affections of the people, and they cherish them as heir-looms to be handed down to succeding generations. They will, therefore, rise up in the full majesty of their strength, and go forth, panoplied in the armor of a righteous cause, to do battle for the land that gave them birth. The malevolence of a ruthless enemy will not deter them, nor will the tongue of slander, made rancorous with hate until it "out-venoms all the worms of Nile," divert them from the path where duty points the way.—Cumberland (Md.) Telegraph.

LAND SPECULATION IN THE WEST.—It is calculated that ten thousand new town-ships and villages have been laid out on paper recently, in the new lands of the Western States and Territories, and it is supposed that at least ten millions of dollars cash and twenty millions credits have gone out within two years to be invested in speculations there. It is also generally supposed that there will be a general blow up pretty soon.

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.—We learn by the last arrival that fourteen hundred miles of the Atlantic telegraph cable have been spun, and that there is everything to encourage the friends of the great enterprise. The practical difficulty, we apprehend, will be in laying the cable.

THE PRICES OF FOOD.—It appears that the prices of food in the markets of Philadelphia are as high as they are in this city. The Ledger says:

The year is nearly advanced into summer and vegetation seems growing luxuriantly, though a little behind, which a few days of sunshine, like Sunday, will bring up very rapidly Go into our markets and we see the stalls supplied about as liberally as usual at this time of the year with the products of the garden and with butchers' meat; yet, judging from the price asked, we would seem to be on the verge of starvation. Twenty cents a pound for beef fit to be eaten, thirty-seven and a half and forty cents for a pound of butter, twenty cents a bunch for common asparagus, and one cent apiece for spring onions were the prevailing price on Saturday, everything else to correspond. There is no scarcity which warrants such extravagant prices, and we were pleased to see that tubs of butter remained untouched, the people preferring to try the effect of hot weather upon that melting article, since abundant grass has failed to reduce the price.

PUBLISHERS AND THE PUBLIC.—A principle of law, the Philadelphia Ledger states, was decided lately in that city, with which publishers and the public should be acquainted. A bookseller, in another city, lately began the issue of a work, which he advertised to finish in three volumes, at so much per volume. His agent, in that city, procured quite a large list on the faith of these representations. The work, however, has already extended to four volumes, and still another, we believe will be necessary to finish it. On the delivery of the fourth volume, accompanied by a bill for the extra volume, one of the subscribers refused to pay, alleging that the publisher had contracted to print the work in three volumes, and that if printed more, he must furnish the extra ones gratis. Aldermen are proverbial for giving verdicts for the plantiff, but in this case the alderman before whom the suit was tried pronounced the defendant right. If the court, on appeal, sustains this decision, it will work a wholesale reform, for publishers, when works are issued serially, are too apt to advertise to complete them in fewer numbers than the result verifies, thus holding out, though perhaps not intentionally, what are substantially false inducements to subscribe.

A letter from a Washington correspondent of the New York Times indicates that active movements are on foot to relieve Gen Walker from his position in Nicaragua, or if it be too late for this, to take possession of the Transit route. The rumor of Walker's escape from Rivas is generally discredited. At the last advices he still held that place, and it is confidently predicted by his friends that he would be able to hold it for some weeks or even months longer. But it is said that 293 men left San Francisco for his relief in the Ocean Bird, and we were told several days since, on good authority, that 500 more would soon be ready to go from New Orleans. We do not attach much importance to these statements, although if the steamer next due should bring news that Walker still holds out, there is very likely to be another vigorous attempt for his relief.

THE COMET.—Professor Mitchell of Cincinnati, in a recent lecture on astronomy, ridicules the idea of the collision of a comet with the earth, and remarked in relation to the idea that the earth may, after all, be destroyed by a comet, that he could not tell, but thought that "if we lived to meet such a catastrophe, we should pass the age of Mathuselah about ten million of years!"—We think but very few people would be content to wait so long for such a spectacle. Nervous people may take courage—There is good chance for them to die peaceably, and in the good old fashioned way.

A FAIR HIT.—Mr. Choate writes a hand that has been compared to the autograph of a seventeen legged spider just crawled out of an inkstand. An exchange says:

"We are informed that Hon. Rufus Choate will be sent to China; not, however, by the Government as Minister Plenipotentiary—but that he has been engaged, at a large salary, to go out to Canton, where he will be employed in lettering tea chests. It is said that his peculiar style of chirography will enable him to put on those interesting hieroglyphics at a much cheaper rate than the Chinese painters can do it."

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.

Important from Central America.—The steamer Empire City, from Aspinwall, is coming up with the noted General Walker and staff of the Nicaraguan filibusters, on board they having capitulated on the 1st of May to Capt. Davis, of the United States sloop of war St. Mary's. They were brought to Panama by him. The Costa Ricans are not known in the articles of capitulation. Two hundred and sixty men came off with Walker.

The steamer Illinois left Aspinwall, on the 19th for New York with $2,000,000 in gold.

New Granada has ceded the island in the Bay of Panama to England in settlement of the McIntosh claim.

SECOND DISPATCH.—The Empire City reached her wharf at seven o'clock; ten thousand people were present, Gen Walker, accompanied Col. Jacques, Mr. Turner, agent of the associated press, proceeded in carriages to the St. Charles, where Walker spoke, expressing his thanks for the reception; recognizing the American love of liberty in the masses, and assuring them that victory was still sure. The greatest excitement exists in the city. The St. Charles is besieged by thousands. Walker spoke twice.

The California papers discredit the story of Crabbe's defeat and execution. Walker surrendered because Captain Davis signified his intention of seizing the schr. Grenada, which held Walker's reserve. Walker was kept a prisoner by the U. S. commander at Panama, notwithstanding the terms of capitulation allowed him and his officers to retain their sidearms and liberty.

From Washington.—Jonathan S. Jenkins, United States consul at Navigator's Islands, was arrested this afternoon on the steps of the State Department, immediately after his interview with Assistant Secretary Appleton, on a warrant issued by Justice Goddard, on a c arge of piracy, sworn to by Dr. Van Camp, in seizing by force of arms and selling a large amount of property belonging to citizens of the United States, including the cargo of the ship Endorus, in the harbor of Apla.

It appears from the papers filed in the department that on his arrival there he formed an admiralty court, styling himself vice commissioner, and appointed assistant judges, a marsal, &c. The propety alleged to have been sacrificed amounted to about $70,000, while that of V. P. Chapin & Co. and A. Van Camp was over $100,000. Mr. Jenkins was committed to jail to await the requisition of the Governor of N. York, where the case must be tried, he having first touched the soil of that State on his return to this country.

The Postmaster General has allowed the claim of Captains Buchanan and Kelly of $15,000 per annum for extra steamboat mail service from Apalachacola to Binbridge, Georgia.

Until the day of sale, the statue is to be exhibited free of charge at the Merchant's Exchange.
