Mr. Fish on the Alabama Claims.

We do not often punish ourselves for our many offences by reading the diplomatic papers of our own or foreign governments, but we were insensibly drawn into a perusal of the whole of the introductory despatch of Mr. Secretary Fish to Mr. Minister Motley, upon the subject of the Alabama claims by the fascination of its style, the singular clearness of its statements, and the lucidity and vigor of its arguments. The gravamen of our government is so explicitly set forth, and sustained with such cogency, that we cannot see upon what pretence the English government can resist any claims which are likely to be made against that country by our own. Nay, more, we believe that even the Democrats who most probably will be more difficult of conviction than the foreign enemies of the country, if they will read this letter of Mr. Fish, will confess that the great wrongs committed by England, though done in behalf of themselves and their Southern friends and allies, should be condoned only after the most thorough apology and ample compensation.—These English were not the sincere friends of the Southern people. They were glad to aid them to destroy those who were then competitors for the trade of the world, or who by their democratic system of government gave a standing rebuke to their toryism, but they had no more love for Southerners as such, than for Northerners. The people of the South owe to the English nothing. The English had their reward in the harm done the United States.—Their advocacy and aid of the South were dictated by the most sordid motives, or by motives of jealousy and envy—quite as condemnable as those generated by mere commercial rivalry. Let every Democrat however extreme he may be, read this compendious statement of the grievances of this country, with no predetermination not be convinced, and we believe he will come to the conclusion to sustain General Grant's administration in whatever demands for redress, compensation and apology, although he may not be able to give his approbation to other measures of the Republican party. Let us be as one against England, and for the right, however we may differ in our domestic policy. We would commend Mr. Fish's despatch to all those who admire the style of a gentleman. Its depth is concealed by its lucidity. Its candor disguises the ingenuity of its argument. Its courtesy gives pungency to its culminating statements. If it possesses any of the usually attributed deceptiveness of ministerial papers, this arises from its very clearness and transparent truthfulness, by which minds accustomed to the tergiversation and obfuscation of traditional diplomacy, are more readily confused and bewildered than by language the most equivocal and sentiments the most guarded'y expressed.

"The Lovely Maiden."

TO "ETHA H———"

'Tis not your neatly fitting dress—the finely formed figure, or features—the expensive shawl, ostentatious ear-bobs, or finger rings, that attract the attention of men, (ASSIBLE ONES, I mean.) Foppish men and sots may be charmed and fascinated by flashy, gaudy apparel. The unprincipled may be ever ready to pay addresses, but the wise man, the good man, the noble man, the man that desires peace, felicity and happiness in hymenial bonds, does not deign to glance at the costly habiliment, in which you may be arrayed. His keen faculties, by which he reads a person's inner being, are ever on the alert. Not a sentence escapes those rosy lips, unnoticed, nor the manner in which it is delivered. Such MEN are not won by gewgews, fooleries and nonsense.

The maiden I admire (and she is worthy admiration) is clothed in modesty. Pleasant language, filled with melody issues from her beautiful lips, interwearing and intertwining itself around, and through the heart, but there is nothing so lovely as a young maiden watching over her aged parents, that they may enjoy peace and tranquility. Their solace in trouble, ever anxious to promote their happiness.

"The Lovely Maiden," does not acquiesces in, or ratify any immoral proposition. A sweet, silent influence accompanies her always. S. H. F.

St. Michaels, Dec. 27, 1969.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS

Come to possess the quality of ACCELERATING CIRCULATION and imparting it to the body, wherever the circulation of the blood becomes equalized upon the parts where applied, causing pain and morbid action to cease. The Porous Plasters are popular and found of a great help to those who have weak backs, or pain in the side. Especially are they valuable to those who have neglected colds. They are both preventives of consumption; and, when commencing, to have loosened the grasp of the disease, relieved, and been mainly instrumental in effecting a cure. In variable climates they should be worn on the breast or between the shoulders, or over the kidneys, by those who are subject to take cold easily.

YOUNG LADIES BEWARE!

OF THE INJURIOUS EFFECTS of Face Powders and Washes. All such remedies close up the pores of the skin, and in a short time destroy the complexion. If you would have a fresh, healthy and youthful appearance, use HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT SARSAPARILLA.

Those who desire brilliancy of Complexion must purify and enrich the blood, which Helmbold's Concentrated Extract of Sarsaparilla invariably does.—Ask for Helmbold's. Take no other.

MANHOOD.

IN THE YOUNG AND RISING generation, the vegetative powers of life are strong, but in a few years how often the pallid hue the lack-lustre eye and emaciated form, and the impossibility of application to mental effort, show its baneful influence. It soon becomes evident to the observer that some depressing influence is checking the development of the body. Consumption is talked of, and perhaps the youth is removed from school and sent into the country. This is one of the worst movements. Removed from ordinary diversions of the ever-changing scenes of the city, the powers of the body too much enfeebled to give zest to healthful and rural exercise, thoughts are turned inward upon themselves.

If the patient be a female, the approach of the menses is looked for with anxiety, as the first symptom in which Nature is to show her saving power in diffusing the circulation and visiting the cheek with the bloom of health. Alas! increase of appetite has grown by what it fed on; the energies of the system are prostrated, and the whole economy is deranged. The beautiful and wonderful period in which body and mind undergo so fascinating a change from child to woman, is looked for in vain; the parent's heart bleeds in anxiety, and fancies the grave but waiting for its victim.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU, for Weakness arising from excesses or early indiscretion, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, General Weakness, Horror of Disease, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Dreadful Horror of Death, Night Sweats, Cold Feet, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Languor, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Often Enormous Appetite with Dyspeptic Symptoms, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Pallid Countenance and Eruptions of the Face, Pain in the Back, Heaviness of the Eyelids, Frequently Black Spots Flying before the Eyes, with Temporary Suffusion and Loss of Sight, Want of Attention, Great Mobility, Restlessness, with Horror of Society, Nothing is more desirable to such patients than Solitude, and nothing they more dread, for Fear of Themselves; no Repose of Manner, no Earnestness, no Speculation, but a hurried Transition from one question to another.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on—which this Medicine invariably removes—soon follow Loss of Power, Fatuity, and Epileptic Fits, in one of which the patient may expire.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience, can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,

JOHN B. OGDEN,

PIMPLES.

The undersigned will cheerfully mail (FREE) to all who wish it the Receipt and full directions for preparing and using a simple and Beautiful Vegetable Balm, that will immediately remove Tan, Freckles, Pimples, Blotches, and all eruptions and impurities of the Skin, leaving the same soft, clear, smooth and beautiful.
