Terrible Storm at SEA
All Hands near Being Lost; But Everything Turns in Right.

THE Steamer Highland Light, after a stormy night and a clear sky, and the wind blowing a gale, reached Annapolis harbor. But strange to say, though many were made awfully sick, not a soul was lost. All goods destined for Easton reached here safely about 11 o'clock next day, and created a terrible excitement on the "Flats." Such a rushing of men, women and children, young and old, to the front doors, never was seen before. Windows were thrown up, heads put out, and a general inquiry made as to what had caused the excitement, when, lo and behold! there came cart loads, and wagon loads, and dray loads of Goods destined for Dave Grimm's Cheap Grocery Store, where he would be happy to receive a call from the public generally. He challenges the Eastern Shore, and is determined to win the "First Position" among the cheap groceries, and can beat all the "Cheap John's" in St. Michaels, Centreville, Denton and Cambridge.
All [illegible] NECESSARY GROCERY. LIQUORS of all kinds, by the gallon or bottle; FLOUR by the barrel or retail; SUGAR, COFFEE, BACON HAMS, LARD CHEESE, FISH, &c.
Also CANNED FRUITS of all kinds, such as Peaches, Pears, Plums, Strawberries, Pineapples, Cherries, Blackberries, Whortleberries; and a great variety of Brandy Fruits and Preserves, and canned Vegetables.
Pickles in variety, Sardines, &c.
CONFECTIONERY of all kinds, including Raisins, Currants, Citron, Ginger, Figs, Cream and French Candies, Nuts of all kinds.
Also a splendid assortment of GLASS, CHINA and QUEENSWARE.
Also some splendid [illegible] SETS, and Paper Vases, finest ever offered in Easton. Come, young man, and make your "sweet heart" a handsome and useful present, that you may not be forgotten a hundred years hence.
The public are invited to call and get the worth of their money, as I defy competition, and sell everything, for Cash or country produce as cheap as any first-class grocery in the place.

SELECT POETRY.

Genivevn.

BY EMMA ALICE BROWNE.

Lady, dowered with youth divine,
Fairest of earth's daughters born,
Twilight's subtile charm is thine,
Locks of night, and brow of Morn!
Cheeks the color of the dawn,
Dimpled mouth of luscious red;
Sure the vermil tint thereon
By the art of Love was spread;

His [illegible]
Some delicious rose's breast,
Where no rifling bee hath been,
Only blandest odors, pressed
From the elixir of the sun,
From the nectar of the dew,
And the rich ambrosia won
From all the sweets beneath the blue.

From the satin-braided hair
To the silken-sandalled feet,
Thou art more than marvellous fair—
Gracious, womanly, complete!
Never springs in barren sands
Brighter than thy dark eyes shone,
Folded lilies are thy hands,
And thy heart a rose unblown

Slender brows of shining jet,
Limned against thy forehead's snow,
Are triumphal arches set
O'er the conquering eyes below;
Sweet thy voice as elfin bells,
And thy laughter mocks the showers—
Where thou treadest beauty dwells,
And thy graces be of the flowers.

Lily-type of budding girls,
Thou no grouser gem shouldest wear
Than the moonlight frost of pearls,
In the twilight of thy hair;
But, with the unpausing years,
Wheeling on their changeful way,
Grief shall come, and loss, and tears,
Faded hopes, and tresses gray.

May thy robes still shine like snow,
And thy paths be fringed with morn;
May thy white, unsullied brow
Wear the rose, despite the thorn;
And where'er thy slender feet
Tread the tangled ways of earth,
Be thy mission pure and sweet,
Angel of the Home and Hearth.

☞ A foreigner, who heard of the Yankee propensity for bragging, thought that he would beat the natives at their own game. Seeing some very large water-melons on a market woman's stand, he exclaimed:
"What! don't you raise larger apples than these in America?"
The quick-witted woman immediately replied:
"Apples! anybody might know you are a foreigner; them's gooseberries!"

☞ A few mornings since, an employer observing one of his workmen staggering about his work, accosted him with—
'What is the matter, Sam?'
'Noth—nothing, sir, only I am loaded.'
'You're discharged,' replied the employer.
'Then of course I must go off,' rejoined Sam, and away he went.

☞ Never refuse to pay the printer when you have read his paper for a year or more. A man who does this is mean enough to steal acorns from a blind pig.

☞ A Chicago lawyer's name is to be stricken from the role for "unprofessional conduct." He probably left a few cents in the possession of his client, contrary to usage.

☞ A conscript being told that it was sweet to die for his country, exposed himself on the ground that he didn't did like sweet things.

'That's laying down the law,' as an Irishman said when he knocked down the Judge.

'A sufficiency has been truly and wittily defined as 'a little more than what a person has already got.'

Good Temper.

BY C. S.

There's not a cheaper thing on earth,
Nor yet one half so dear;
'Tis worth more than distinguished birth,
Or thousands gained a year;
It lends the day a new light;
'Tis virtues firmest shield;
And adds more beauty to the night
Than all the stars may yield.

It maketh poverty content;
To sorrow whispers peace;
It is a gift from heaven sent
Nor mortals to increase.
It meets you with a smile at morn;
It lulls you to repose;
A flower for the peer and peasant born,
An everlasting rose.

A charm to banish grief away,
To free the brow from care;
Turns tears to smiles—makes dullness gay—
Spreads gladness everywhere;
And yet 'tis cheap as summer dew,
That gems the lily's breast,
A talisman for love as true
As ever man possessed.

As smiles the rainbow through the cloud
When threatening storms begins—
As music 'mid the tempest loud,
That still its sweet way wins—
As springs an arch across the tide,
Where waves conflicting foam,
So comes this seraph to our side,
This angel of our home,

What may this wondrous spirit be,
With power unheard before—
This charm, this bright divinity—
Good nature—nothing more;
Good temper—'tis the choicest gift
That woman homeward brings,
And can the poorest, peasant lift
To bliss unknown to kings.

All Noble Workers.

Sing, O sing, all noble workers,
In the vale or in the steep;
Build the factory, and the railroad,
Launch the steamer on the deep,

Let Napoleon's fire heart thunder,
Only from a cloudy horde;
Labor's sun shall merit the cannon,
And the loom outlive the sword.

Smiling Shakespeares then shall follow,
Newtons wave the starry rod,
Miltons stand divinely chanting
Opposite the throne of God.

So for them prepare the Temple,
Brace the arm, and clear the brow;
After while we'll sink the Epic,
But we'll live the Epic now.

Interpretation of Dreams.

To dream of a small stone around your neck, is a sign of what you may expect if you get an extravagant wife.
To see apples in a dream betokens a wedding, because where you find apples you may expect to find pears.
To dream you are lame, is a token that you will get into a hobble.
When a young lady dreams of a coffin, it betokens that she should discontinue the use of tight stays, and always go warmly and thickly shod in wet weather.
To dream of fire, it is a sign that—if you are wise you will see that the lights in your houses are out before you go to bed.
To dream that your nose is red at the tip, is an intimation that you had better leave off brandy and water.
To dream of walking barefooted, denotes a journey that you will make bootless.
To dream of eggs, is a sign that you will discover a mate's nest.
When a fashionable lady dreams of a filbert, is a sign that her thoughts are running upon the Colonel.
If you dream of clothes, it is a warning not to go to law, for by the rule of contraries you will be sure of non-suit.
To dream that you are eating, is certain to come true at breakfast.
To dream of a barber, denotes losses—hairs may be expected to be cut off.
To dream of having a great number of servants, is madness.
It is very lucky to dream you pay for a thing twice over, since afterward you will probably take care to have all your bills receipted.
If you dream of beer, it is a sign that you may have pot luck.
To dream of ice, is a favorable omen for a lady, that she relates her dream to an elegant young man passing a pastry cook's shop on a hot day.
To dream of soap, betokens a combat in which you may expect to get lathered.

☞ Mr. Jones—"That is a fine horse you are leading, Patrick. He carries his head well."
Pat—"That's thrue. An' it's a grand tail he carries behind him."
Jones—"Behind him. Don't everything that carries a tail, carry it behind?"
Pat—"No, your honor."
Jones—"No? what don't?"
Pat—"A cint, shure. It carries its tail on one side, and its head on the other sidr."

We heard the other day of a gentleman who was so near sighted that he was obliged to wear his spectacles to bed, as he could not see to sleep without them.

'I will consent to all you desire,' said a young female to her lover, 'on condition that you will give what you have not, what you can never have, and yet what you can give me.' What did she ask for? A husband.

It is vain to stick your finger in the water, and pulling it out, look for a hole; and equally vain to suppose that, however large a space you occupy the world will miss you when you die.

☞ Fortune knocks once at every man's door. If she ever knocked at ours we were out.

☞ The drunkard shall come to want.
