VERY SPICY.—We take the following very spicy article from the Baltimore American of Wednesday—

There resides in this city a young man whose career during the late war placed the seal of bravery upon him. His deeds of valor were the praise and almost envy of his comrades in arms, and many were the perilous adventures which he passed through.—Now it would naturally be supposed that the man who was so brave in war would be equally so in love, but such his not been the case. Whenever a pair of bright female eyes, especially those of the black, and expressive order, were unmasked to him, he would sound a retreat and only again approach after fortifying himself with any number of resolves. At last, however, he was fairly captured by a sweet young lady, and strange to say, "popped" and was accepted, but how he got through the wooing, and how he summoned up courage to propose, is known only to himself and his young wife. He had passed through these important stages, and all that remained to do was to obtain a legal sanction for carrying his intentions to an honorable close. At this critical juncture he began to waver. He even trembled at the certainty of the thing he was about to do, and as a last resource he threw himself upon the sympathies of a friend, and on Monday morning last they both started for the office of the Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, where marriage licenses are issued. Before the brevet husband reached the Clerk's office he grew faint and disappeared into a drug store on Baltimore street, complaining that he felt unwell. His friend, however, divined the cause of his sickness and induced him to leave the store. On the way up Calvert street the young man again became sick and suddenly plunged into a restaurant, where a dose of medicine was swallowed. After considerable persuasion he was induced to walk to the Court House, but not being acquainted with the topography of that building, he walked into the City Circuit Court instead of into the Clerk's office. A case was on trial in which a man was suing for divorce from his wife, on the ground of ill-treatment. The evidence was appalling. The young man was frightened, he hastily made an inventory of his own stock of hopes and fears, and wondered if his wedded bliss was to have such a termination as the one before him. He reconciled matters for the time being with the thought that he had strayed into the wrong room. So he proceeded to another apartment, but the scene which there presented itself was more damaging to his nerves than the one encountered in the Circuit Court room: This time he stumbled into the Criminal Court room. A woman was on trial for beating her husband, the face of her husband plainly indicating that there had been a row somewhere, and that somebody's finger nails had been at work. The young man listened to a portion of the testimony, became sick and reeled out of the Court almost persuaded to give up the idea of getting married. The persuasive eloquence of his friend, however, prevailed, and after a short chat with the Clerk of the Common Pleas Court was found, but when the young man reached the Clerk's desk he was speechless. The Clerk asked him if he should run for a doctor. The sick man looked wildly about the room and then faintly ejaculated, "No, I want to know if you can tell me how much the fare is to New York." Here his friend administered a gentle punch in the ribs, which revived him sufficiently to ask for the license papers. The document was granted, and on Monday night the timid young gentleman was married to his lady-love. The marriage was a strict private one, the only persons present (besides the happy couple) being the mother of the bride and the minister. At last accounts the young husband was still alive.

STEAMER "RICHMOND,"
OFF MEMPHIS, TENN.,
January 1st, 1870.

Mr. Editor:—Having a few leisure moments, I propose, with your permission, to devote them to the readers of the Gazette.

First, a word or two about our boat. The "Richmond" is the largest and most magnificent steamer on the Mississippi River. She is fitted up in the most splendid style, equal to any first class hotel. She is a miniature town, even to publishing a newspaper on board every other day, a copy of which I send you with this. We have a first rate string band on board, and dancing is the "order of the evening."

We left Evansville, Ind., on the 15th of last month for New Orleans, with a full freight and passenger list. Our trip down the river was very pleasant, if I may except a snow and rain storm of some four days duration, and we looked forward to a merry Christmas, but unfortunately the day was ushered in amidst disaster and ruin. About daylight the "Richmond" reached Texas Landing, La., about two hundred miles above New Orleans, and proceeded to take on a quantity of wood for fuel. Not receiving a sufficient supply, she moved up stream to another wood pile, some two miles distant. While moving up, and when very near the wood, the steamer Wild Wagoner, a packet plying between Vicksburg and New Orleans, came down under full headway, and in endeavoring to make the same landing, ran across the bows of the "Richmond." Our boat blew several short whistles, to warn her off, and immediately commenced backing both wheels, but too late to prevent a collision. The Wagoner struck our stem fairly, mashing off some ten or twelve square feet of her larboard guards, knocking a hole into her hull, and otherwise damaging her. Both boats were immediately run into the bank, our crew meanwhile boarding the Wagoner, breaking open the staterooms and arousing her passengers, who sought safety aboard the Richmond. The crew then turned on a portion of the freight and tore up some of the deck planking to find the hole in Wagoner's hull, as by this time she had commenced to sink rapidly. Luckily the hole was soon found, the pumps started, a bulkhead built around the hole, and the steamer saved from sinking. Fortunately but one life was lost—that of a colored deck passenger, who was killed by bales of cotton falling upon him. If the Richmond had been under headway, we must surely have gone through the boilers of the Wagoner, resulting in an explosion and serious loss of life. The only damage sustained by the Richmond was the loss of her jack-staff and a portion of the railing on the hurricane deck.—Owing to all this—negligence on the part of the pilots of the Wagoner. If she had not struck us, she would have split herself wide open against that bank. And so was the beginning of our Christmas, which threw a gloom over all for the balance of the day.

I think you readers, doubtless, will not understand the meaning of "guards," as applied to Western steamers. They are platforms, or decks, built outside of the hull of the boat, extending the whole length of the boat, supported by iron braces, for the convenience of passengers, by increasing the carrying capacity which increased freights. The width of these guards, of course, depends upon the size of the boat.

The cotton crop on the states bordering on the river has been immense this season, every boat bringing as much as they could. Large quantities of this staple were taken on the Ohio, owing to the scarcity of labor to gather it. The labor question has become a serious one to the planters. Few of them are desirous of cultivating less land now than they did before the war, and generally refuse to introduce the Chinese. The most of them have no love for the negroes. The first arrival of "John Chinaman" are now being initiated into the art and mysterious of sugar making in Louisiana, and if anything can be made of them in that branch of agriculture, they will doubtless be placed in the rice and cotton fields. A large number of Irish and German laborers are being imported from the Western States, but as they cannot be made generally applicable to the labor desired, there seems to be no alternative but Chinese.

It is a noticeable fact how eager the negroes—in this section—are to become "planters"—That is, to rent a piece of land and plant cotton, if they only raise five or six bales. A large number have at times went up with us to Memphis "to sell their crop." I noticed they were of the orderly and respectable class of negroes, in no wise pretentious or impertinent, and always willing to learn. And to those the land owners offer every inducement. But we have another class, and, I am sorry to say, much larger, who do nothing but scour the country on their horses, each with a revolver stapped to him, creating discontent among those who would otherwise be good citizens, and always inclined to incite disquiet. These the "planter" class call "niggers."

Large numbers of Texas cattle are being shipped northward, mostly to Chicago. They go by boat to Cairo, Ills., and thence by Illinois Central Railroad. They are quite a drug in Texas, and as the shipping north is very large, I presume the shippers are making a good thing of it.

Business in New Orleans was quite brisk when we left, (Wednesday last,) if one may judge by the immense piles of freight on the levee, and the streets alive with people and loaded vehicles. From all accounts, the small pox is on the increase in that city.

The levee here also presents a lively appearance, and this, immediately after the holidays, indicates more than usual business.

The Mississippi is rising very rapidly, and as a consequence is full of drift wood, rendering navigation somewhat dangerous. Floating logs and snags are frequently picked up by the paddle wheels and carried through the wheel-houses, thereby doing much damage.

We left New Orleans luxuriating in most delightful spring-like weather, but we are now having it quite cold. The change is very perceptible as we progress northward.

And now, as I have already written to some length, and probably tired the patience of many of your readers, I will merely add that I will "come again," with your consent, whether they like it or not! Yours, &c.,

A HUMBUG.

How often we hear this expression from persons reading advertisements of Patent Medicine, and in nine cases out of ten they may right. It is over 22 years since I introduced Dr. Tobias' Venetian Liniment to the public. I had no money to advertise it, so I left it for sale with a few druggists and there keeps through a small section of country, many taking it with great reluctance, but I told them to let any one have it, and if it did not do all I stated on my pamphlet no one need pay for it. In some stores two or three bottles were taken on trial by persons present. I was by many thought crazy, and that I would be the last they would see of me. But I knew my medicine was no humbug. In about two months I began to receive orders for more Liniment, some calling it my valuable Liniment, who had refused to sign a receipt when I left it at their store. I warrant it superior to any other medicine for the cure of Croup, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic Vomiting, Spasms, and Sea-sickness, as an internal remedy. It is perfectly innocent to take internally—see oath accompanying each bottle—and externally for Chronic Rheumatism, Headache, Mumps, Frosted Feet, Bruises, Sprains, Old Sores, Swellings, Sore Throats, etc.

MANHOOD.

IN THE YOUNG AND RISING generation, the vegetative powers of life are strong, but in a few years how often the pallid hue the lack-lustre eye and emaciated form, and the impossibility of application to mental effort, show its baneful influence. It soon becomes evident to the observer that some depressing influence is checking the development of the body. Consumption is talked of, and perhaps the youth is removed from school and sent into the country. This is one of the worst movements. Removed from ordinary diversions of the ever-changing scenes of the city, the powers of the body too much enfeebled to give zest to healthful and rural exercise, thoughts are turned inward upon themselves.

If the patient be a female, the approach of the menses is looked for with anxiety, as the first symptom in which Nature is to show hereafter power in diffusing the circulation and visiting the cheek with the bloom of health. Alas! increase of appetite has grown by what it fed on; the energies of the system are prostrated, and the whole economy is deranged. The beautiful and wonderful period in which body and mind undergo so fascinating a change from child to woman, is looked for in vain; the parent's heart bleeds in anxiety, and fancies the grave but waiting for its victim.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU, for Weakness arising from excesses or early indiscretion, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, General Weakness, Horror of Disease, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Dreadful Horror of Death, Night Sweats, Cold Feet, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Languor, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Often Enormous Appetite with Dyspeptic Symptoms, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Pallid Countenance and Eruptions of the Face, Pain in the Back, Heaviness of the Eyelids, Frequently Black Spots Flying before the Eyes, with Temporary Suffusion and Loss of Sight, Want of Attention, Great Mobility, Restlessness, with Horror of Society, Nothing is more desirable to such patients than Solitude, and nothing they more dread, for Fear of Themselves; no Repose of Manner, no Earnestness, no Speculation, but a hurried Transition from one question to another.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on—which this Medicine invariably removes—soon follow Loss of Power, Fatuity, and Epileptic Fits, in one of which the patient may expire.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the receipt and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured.
