Another Rail Road Butchery.

—Another of these awful accidents by which many people are hurled into eternity without a moments warning occurred on Monday on the Hudson River railroad, near the town of New Hamburg between Poughkeepsie and Fishkill. The accident was occasioned by a collision between a special oil train coming south and the second Pacific express train which left New York at 8 o'clock that night. The axle of one of the oil cars broke just before reaching the drawbridge at New Hamburg, thus throwing the car from the track, and jolting along the ties while on solid ground, but when reaching the drawbridge, projecting sufficiently to be struck by the locomotive of the express train which was approaching

The entire express train was instantly thrown from the track, and the engine was precipitated into the water on the east side of the drawbridge. Several of the oil cars were crushed by the locomotive of the express train, and the wreck of both trains were set on fire by the blaze communicated from the furnace of the locomotive to the oil. The scene that ensued cannot be described. Three sleeping cars were attached to the train. In the first of these the passengers were all so badly injured, or perhaps stunned by the collision, as to be unable to leave the car before it was eveloped in flames and not a single passengers was saved.

In less time than it has taken to write these lines the whole drawbridge was in flames, and in a very short time fell with a crash, carrying with it the burning cars and burying in the ice and water the half consumed bodies of the occupants or the first sleeping car.

One peculiar feature of this accident was that there was no wounded excepting a firemen and brakeman. It is positively known that 21 lives were lost in this horrible manner.

Destructive Fire.

Shortly after one o'clock on Tuesday afternoon a dense volume of smoke suddenly enveloped the warehouse of Messrs Lewis and Isaac Baer. No. 11 Comden street, between Charles and Light, one of the most prominent and well known business firms in that section of the city. and by the time the firemen arrived at the scene of disaster the entire building, which was about one hundred and fifty feet in length and one story in highth, was enveloped in flames. In fact the flames sped with such rapidity that not five dollars' worth of goods were saved from the building where the fire originated.

One of the firm stated to the Reporter that the place must have been designedly fired, as the flames made their appearance in a part of the warehouse where no fire was used, and that no person who had a pipe or cigar in his mouth wasn't permitted to enter that section of the premises.

WHAT THE BUILDING CONTAINED.

The contents of the building, would have shamed the original Noah, could he have looked into it after he had quitted his ark; not from the different varities of animals contained, for there were none there although there were the hides of several, but from the endless number of odds and ends that were therein.—Among other things in the building there were 600 saddles, once use used by the soldiers in the late rebellion, 1,500 sets of harness, 32 bales of cotton, 1,800 pounds of feathers, several hundred bales of rags, tons of old paper, copper enough to cover several vessels, shovels and picks to arm a colony of Chinese laborers, old rope enough to hang innumerabl criminals, rags sufficient to cover the nakedness of hundreds of paupers, old iron enough to furnish rails for a small railroad, John Brown pikes, and in fact an abundance of all the odds and ends of creation.

SPECIAL ARTICLES.

Among the heterogeneous mass there was pointed out to the Reporter the identical ram taken from the bow of the celebrated Rebel craft Merrimac. This once formidable engine of destruction was laying amid a heap of charrad leather, rags and paper, and a little further on in the building there was encountered a pile of bombshells and spherical shot. An excited individual, perceiving the shot and shell, became impressed with the idea that they might be filled with powder, and that to prevent a dire calamity he would remove them to the street. He therefore grasped hold of a shell, and notwithstanding the fact that the hot iron caused several inches of skin to secede from the palms of his hands, he carried the shell into the street and threw it down.

A SCAMPERING.

The shell had no sooner been despatched in the street than a report ran through the great crowd of persons who had been attracted to the spot by the burning building that there were several hundred loaded shells in the burning building, and that they would explode The crowd scattered in all directions, and but few persons remained in close proximity to the building until an hour afterwards, when it became known that the fire in the building had been extinguished.

AN HISTORICAL BUILDING.

Adjoining, and in the rear of the building where the fire originated, was a three-story structure filled with tar pots old sails, tents and other merchandise which go to make up the stock of a first class junk shop. This building and its contents were also greatly damaged by the fire and water. In 1805 this site was occupied by a building known as the State Armory, and on several occasions raids were made upon it by belligerent parties, who rendered Baltimore famous for the many mobs that occurred. In course of time the armory was demonished for use by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and in 1849 or 1850 the property was purchased by Mr. Donovan, the well-known slave trader. He improved the lot by erecting thereon.

A SLVE PEN OR JAIL.

The building was three stories in height, with iron grated windows facing the east only. The first story of the building was used as a kitchen an lounging place for the slaves, the second story by the females as a sleeping apartment, and the third story by the males for the same purpose.

THE LOSSES BY FIRE.

The building where the fire originated was owned by Mr. J. Noah, who estimates his loss at $4,000; insured in the German office for $3,000. The Bear Brothers estimate the value of their stock at from $40,000 to $60,000; they are insured in the Potomac and Atlantic Insurance Companies to the amount of $7,500.

Mr. Holloway, Fire Inspector, estimates the loss upon the buildings and stock at $15,000, and is of opinion that the fire was the result of spontaneous combustion. One of the Bear's used to trade in this section.

Our Baltimore Letter

BALTIMORE, Feb. 8, 1871.

At last there is an end to the fighting in France, and all eyes are now turned to Bismarck and the representatives of the French Government, who are negotiating for a permanent peace. The German troops will not enter Paris, but form a close cordon around the entire city, so that nothing enters or leaves without their consent. In the meantime the city has been re-victualled, and the starving inhabitants once more have an opportunity to enjoy a "square meal," a luxury unknown in Paris the past two or three months. In the negotiations pending, Bismarck inclines to be severe upon the French, and to make them pay handsomely for having brought about the war. The Emperor William, however, is disposed to act more magnanimous, and it is generally believed that the result will be the ceding of Alsace and Lorraine to Germany, together with the payment of the German war debt by France. The Imperialists are very actively working for the restoration of Napoleon, in which work they are endorsed and assisted by the governments of England and Austria, and it is said by the Emperor William also; the latter, on account of his belief in the "divine right of Kings," being scarcely willing to be the means of destroying an empire and building up a republic in its stead—as he most assuredly has done in this case. A committee of public safety has been appointed to control the affairs of France, and composed as it is of such libe als as Gambetta, Rochefort, and others of the same party, the imperialists can have no hope of success.—The committee have decreed that no person who has held office in France between the years 1858 and 1870 shall be eligible to office under the new order of things. Thus they have the red republicans "on the hip."

A London letter says that when the armistic was presented to the ex-Empress Eugenie for signature, she very indignantly refused to receive it, and imperiously ordered from her presence the officer who bore it.

There has been a terrible flood in Rome, inundating the entire city and doing incalculable damage.

And speaking of floods brings us right home. We have had considerable snow and rain lately, and fears were entertained that if such weather continued a few days longer, the irrepressible Jones' Falls might take a notion to deviate from its usual course of mud and slime and give us another wholesale bath. Luckily, however, the clear heavens again made their appearance, and our fears were for the time allayed, Meanwhile, the city council has taken hold of the matter; one of the board of commissioners for its improvement has resigned previous to being kicked out; the other two are to be kicked out before they will let go their "hold;" the surveyor has been ordered to discontinue his labors, and we are to wipe off the slate and begin anew. Now all this "pomp and circumstance" has cost the city between ten and eleven thousand dollars exclusive of the salaries of the commissioners and their secretary and incidentals, (what a multitude of sins that word sometimes covers!) and not a solitary thing has been done since the commission—except, by their disgraceful proceedings in the premises, to make the whole matter a jest and by-word throughout the country. So well known was it in New York, that a party of gentlemen from that city offered to remedy the evil for a much smaller sum than has yet been calculated for in this city, but the way the council made them "shake the dust" of Baltimore from their feet was a caution to slow-goers. 'Twill never do to let that heirloome go out of the family, you know!

Large meetings have been held in New York, Boston, and elsewhere for the purpose of collecting funds to send bread stuffs and provisions to the suffering people of France and Germany. The government has ordered certain vessels of the navy to be held in readiness to convey whatever may be contributed to its destination. Of course, Baltimore will not be behind her sister cities in this work of charity.

Extensive arrangements are being made in Washington for a grand carnival, on the 20th and 21st., to celebrate the paving of the streets with the Nicholson pavement. Everybody and his uncle is expected to be there, and the most elaborate preparations are being made for their reception. Our crack regiment—the Fifth—will compete with the Seventh New York for a stand of colors valued at a thousand dollars.

During the past year there was received at the Post Office in this city 6,925,117 letters, being an increase of 872,776 over the year previous.

The number of deaths in the city during the week ending Monday last foot up 148. Scarlatina has been for some time affecting the inmates of our city jail, but its ravages were fortunately confined to that institution.

The past few days have been severely cold, and as a result the river and harbor has again become tightly closed, causing uneasiness among shippers generally. The ice boat State of Maryland, however, is again doing good service in breaking a channel for the steamers and sailing crafts.

Yours, &c., H,

SELECTIONS.

Selected for the Easton Gazette

BY RAYAH.

RECEIPE FOR A HAPPY HOME.—Six things, says Hamilton, are requisite to create a happy home. Integrity must be the architect, and tidiness the upholster. It must be warmed by affection, and lighted up with cheerfulness; and industry be the ventilator, renewing the atmosphere, and bringing in fresh salubrity every day; while ever all a protecting canopy of glory, and nothing will surffice except the blessing of God.

A PLEA FOR HUSBANDS.—Says the Temple Bar: The husband suffers by the mistake which his wife makes about him in general. She fancies he has more weaknesses than other men, simply because she knows more about him than them. He might turn around and say, though he would probably not convince her: "Dont' you imagine all the men you see are invariably so heroic as they appear to be before you. Because they are all pretty speeches, and smiles, and nonsensical, extravagant attention toward you, do you imagine that they always maintain that admirable attitude? Don't be a fool, Anna Maria; but believe that all men are pretty much alike, and that I am not the only monster in the universe."

"Strike!" as said the anvil to the hammer,
Strike! and never let your iron cool,
Up head, my boy! speak bravely, do not stammer,
Lest all the world should set yo down a fool.

There is notime allowed for shilly shally,
But seventy years allotted to the best;
Down with the rocks, tear up the fertile valley,
Work out your purpose—leave to God the rest!"

PREPARATIONS FOR SERVICE.—"Methodist I looked and saw the master standing and at his feet an earthen vessel. It was not broken nor unfit for service, yet there it lay powerles and useles, until he took it up. He held it awile and I saw that he was filling it, and anon I beheld him walking in his garding whither he had gone down to gather lillies. The earthen vessel yet again in his hand, and with it he watered his beautious plants and caused their odors to be shed fourth yet more abundantly. Then I said to myself. "Sorrowing Christian! hush! hush! peace be still thou art this earthen vessel; powerless, it is true, but not broken, still fit for the Master's use. Sometimes thou mayest be laid aside altogether from active service and the question may arise.—"What is the Master doing with me now?" Then may a voice speak to thy inmost heart, "He is filling the vessel, yes, only filling it ready for use." Dost though ask in what manner? Nay, be silent; is it not too great an honor to be used by this at all? Be content whether though art employed in watering the lillies or in watering the feet of the Saints. Truly it is a matter of small moment. Enough surely enough, for an earthen vessel to be in the Master's hands, and employed in the Master's service."—Spurgeon's Feathers for Arrows.

WHEN NOT TO EAT.—Never eat when very much fatigued—wait until rested.

Never eat just before you expect to engage in any severe mental or physical exercise.

Never eat when in a passion, or under any mental excitement, whether of a depressing or elevating character.

Never eat just before taking a bath of any kind.

Never eat just before retiring for the night.

Never eat between regular meals.

SALE OF TROTTERS.—Mr. J. E. Maynard, of Boston, has effected a sale with New York parties of "Yound Dexter" for $4,000, "Lady Alice" for $2'500, "Lady Gaskill," the Fenton colt, a pair of chestnut geldings and a four-year old chestnut filly, all trotters of good reputation and a promise. Mr. J. D. Walton was the purchaser of "Young Dexter," Dan Mace of "Lady Alice" and the chestnut filly, and Mr. Kirk, of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, of "Lady Gaskill."

SELF CONTROL.—It is a great advantage to keep quiet, gracefully and naturally. Self-control is the best evidence of a cultivated intellect and a clear conscience. It is a great pleasure to meet those who wisely listen and observe—who review what is said without prejudice, and with or without advice commit errors. Nothing is so difficult to do—nothing so rarely done.

☞ Avarice in old age is foolish; for what can be more absurd than to increase our provisions for the road the nearer we approach to our journey's end.

Clear & Harmless as Water

Nattans' Crystal Discovery for the Hair.

A perfectly clear preparation, in one bottle, easily applied as water for restoring to gray Hair its natural color and youthful appearance; to eradicate and prevent dandruff, to promote the growth of the hair and to stop its falling.

It is entirely harmless and perfectly free from any poisonous substenance, and will therefore, take the place of all the dirty and unpleasant preparations now in use. Numerous testimonials have been sent up from many of our most prominent citizens, some of which are subjoined; in everything in which the articles now in use are objectionable, Crystal Discovery is perfect; it is warranted to contain neither Sugar of Lead, Sulphur or Nitrate of Silver. Clear and clean as water, it does not soil the close or scalp; it is agreeably perfumed, and makes one of the best dressings for the hair in use, it restores the color of the hair more perfectly and uniformly than any other preparation, and always does so, in from three to ten days Virtually feeding the roots of the hair with all the refreshing qualities, necessary to its growth and healthy condition, it restores the decay, and induces a new growth of the hair more positively than anything else. The application of this wonderful discovery also produces a pleasant and cooling effect on the scalp, and gives the hair a pleasant and elegant appearance.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25th, 1870.

MR. ARTHUR NATTANS—Dear Sir:—It affords me pleasure to say that I have used your Crystal Discovery with perfect success. Having tried many others, I find yours superior to any I have heretofore used and I cannot too highly recommend it as a rapid promoter of the growth of the hair, and by a few applications restoring it to its origional color. It is perfectly clean and free from any objectionable matter.

Very respectfully, yours.
