Political.—Gen. Thomas Ewing, Jr., declines to accept the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor of Ohio.

Although General Schenck is not going to contest the seat of Mr. L. D. Campbell, from the Third Ohio District, it is said the Republicans do not intend to allow the Democratic member to hold his seat in peace. They charge that there were frauds in the election, and will present their case in Congress in order to procure a new election, if possible.

Besides a Delegate to Congress, the people of the District of Columbia had to choose a House of Delegates, composed of twenty-two members, at the election on the 20th inst. The Republicans made their nominations. The President nominated the eleven members of the Council.

The close votes in the elections for Governor in New Hampshire and Connecticut have caused an inquiry as to the former memorable instances of that kind, of which there are many. In 1839, Marcus Morton, Democrat, was chosen Governor of Massachusetts by 1 majority.—In 1840, Edward Kent, a Whig, was elected Governor by 68 majority over John Fairfield, Democrat. In 1848, Secretary Ford beat John Weller, Democrat for Governor of Ohio, by about 250 votes. In 1850, Horatio Seymour was defeated for Governor on the popular vote in his State by some 250 votes; and in 1854 he was beaten again by the "fusion" candidate, Mr. Clark, who had 300 more votes than Mr. Seymour.

The Louisville Courier Journal wants the next Democratic National Convention to be held in that city. It says that Louisville "is to the country to-day what Baltimore was to the country five and thirty years ago, a middle point, an accessible point, a point from which sound ideas and good influence can take a ready and radiating departure," and adds:—"What the Democratic party needs is light; and if the North and West will come here they can look directly into the South and get a perfect notion of the Southern situation, which is again to be the bone of contention." The St. Louis Times thinks St. Louis is the only proper place for the Convention.

A Democrat writes as follows about the doubtful condition of the gubernatorial question in New Hampshire. "In New Hampshire there was no choice of Governor by the people, and the House of Representatives elects. In this branch the two parties are nearly evenly divided. Three or four Republicans were elected by Democratic votes, and it has been supposed they would go with us and vote for Weston, when the question came before them, and thus decide the vote in favor. But since the election in Connecticut it is rumored, and I fear the rumor is true, that they will stick to their party, and, if necessary to secure Pike's election, will vote for him. I shall not be surprised to see a Republican organization of the House, the election of a Republican in the Councillor District, where there was no choice—making the Council stand three Republicans and two Democrats; the Election of the Republican candidate in the vacant Senatorial district, making that body a tie, and the ultimate election of Mr. Pike as Governor. We hoped for a betttter state of things, but Connecticut has upset all our calculations."

BRUTAL ASSAULT ON A THEATRICAL MANAGER.—The Chapman Sisters' burlesque troupe were detained some hours at Jonesborough, Ga., while en route from Atlanta to Macon, by reason of a freight train being off the track. While waiting for the track to be cleared some of the male members of the troupe strolled to a grocery near by, and their curiosity being excited by some lettering on the back of a bench upon which some men were sitting, one of the members of the troupe, in a respectful manner, requested one of the men sitting upon the bench to allow them to see what the letters were on the bench behind him, to which the person addressed replied by uttering a dirty remark about theatre people, whereupon Mr. Harry Ford, the manager of the troupe, (and a respectable young Baltimorean,) remarked that he "did not know that the young men South were so rude." The bully jumped up, and drawing his revolver and uttering an opprobious epithet attempted to shoot Mr. Ford, when W. A. Gregston caught the revolver with his right hand, and placed his left around the cylinder and upon the caps, thereby preventing its being fired. The ruffian whapped the pistol three or four times, cutting Gregston's thumb in two or three places. At length some of the bully's friends interferred and took the pistol from him, and Mr. Gregston escaped without further injury. He displayed much courage in saving Mr. Ford's life at the risk of his own.—Macon Ex.

THE CASE OF LAWRENCE.—On the assembling of the Court on Friday morning, says the Denton Journal of Saturday last, Frederick Lawrence, convicted of the murder of Emeline Handy, was brought into Court and placed in the prisoner's dock. The room was well filled, but a breathless silence prevailed. The prisoner manifested the same stubborn indifference which characterized his conduct during the trial, and when the Judge said "Frederick Lawrence, you have been tried for killing Emeline Handy, and convicted of murder in the first degree. Have you anything to say why the Court should not pronounce judgment against you?" not a muscle of his face moved. After a reasonable pause His Honor. Judge Wickes, proceeded to pass the following sentence:

"It has become our painful duty to pronounce that judgment which the law commands. You have been defended by able counsel, who have done everything which professional ability and unremitting labor could accomplish. Your trial was removed from Talbot county where you supposed some prejudice existed; and here, in a community without any prejudice existing against you, you have been tried. The jury selected by your counsel, of upright and impartial men, without any knoweledge of the crime with which you were charged, except such as they derived from the evidece, after an impartial hearing, have convicted you of the highest crime known to the law. Your steps were traced from the day you uttered the threat that you would kill Emeline Handy, until that fatal Sunday morning when the crime was committed. As the testimony closed around you with its array of connected facts which no human power could break, the conviction of your guilt was irresistable. We have made these remarks that you may know and feel that it is useless for you to hope for or expect any relief in this world. You have broken the law of man by willfully taking the life of a fellow creature, and that law requires that your life shall be forfeited. Your time in this world is very brief; and in a few weeks which will rapidly pass, you must suffer death on the gallows. From man you can expect nothing. There is another tribunal before which you must appear. When you leave this world a dreadful and awful eternity will open before you, when you will be brought face to face with the majesty of an offended God. He has commanded that "thou shalt do no murder," and forgetting this injunction you have violated His law. But such is His inscrutable wisdom—such His boundless and infinite mercy, that if you truly repent, and ask forgiveness through the merits of an atoning Savior, he will pardon. Let us admonish and avise you to turn to Him in this your hour of need and seek of him pardon and mercy.—The judgment of the Court is, that you, Frederick Lawrence be taken to the jail of Talbot county, from whence you came, and from thence to the place of execution, at such time as will be appointed by the Governor of the State, and there be hanged by the neck until you are dead. And may God have mercy on your soul."

The New Arctic Expedition.

Capt. Chas. F. Hall will soon return to the far North to continue his explorations in search of the open Arctic Sea, which is supposed to exist beyond the limits of eternal ice. The New York Times thus speaks of the preparations which are being made:

Mr. John Morrison, an old whaler and shipping resident in this city, has been authorized to make the requisite shipment of men, materials, &c., by Capt. Hall, for his new Arctic expedition.—Upon application at his office, at No. 109 South street, Mr. Morrison stated that a powerful Government tug boat, sharp as a knife, top-sail, schooner rig, now lying at the Washington Navy Yard, is shortly expected in this city. Her burden has lately been increased from 325 to 400 tons. On her voyage here it is proposed that a patent application of oil for feeding her furnaces be used, which if it should prove successful, will enable her to dispense with other fuel. Capt S. O. Burdington, from Groton, in Connecticut, who has spent his life whaling, is to have charge of the Polaris, which is the name of the craft. A scientific corps will accompany the expedition, including the eminent chemist, Dr. Bessells, of Heldelburg, who arrived here a few days since from Germany, and who formed one of the scientific corps on board the last North German expedition to the Polar regions. The Chief Engineer is Emell Schuman, a Saxon, and his assistant a Scotchman named John Wilson. The wages of the former is $70 a month and of the latter $40. A phenomenon goes out with them in the shape of a Swede, named F. L. Berggren, who has shipped as blacksmith and fireman, for the doctor who examined him previous to his signing articles stated he had never seen such muscular development.—The shoes he wears measures thirteen and one-half inches in length. The name of the first able bodied seaman registered is W. Jessup, of Hull, England. The wages for the period for which the men engage, five years, is $25 a month, but it is understood that the trip will hardly exceed three years. Carpenters are to be engaged at the Washington Navy Yard, while the Steward, named Maton, who was with Capt. Hall in his five years' explorations, returns. The twelve men who go before the mast are all chosen sailors, and able to navigate if required. The engineers have been approved by Mr. Henry L. Brevoort, of Broadway. It is expected by Captain Hall that the expedition will leave this port by the 15th of next month,

A NARROW ESCAPE.—On Sunday, at the Catholic Church of St. Mary, Williamsburg, Long Island, there was a narrow escape from a terrible tragedy. A procession of young girls, each girl carrying a lighted taper, entered the church while the priest was baptizing a number of converts. Suddenly the flame of a candle held by one of the girls set fire to her veil, and the flames spread from veil to veil until some twelve of the children were on fire. Happily, through the presence of mind of those present the flames were extinguished before the girls were seriously burned.

BURRIED ALIVE.—A negro man engaged in hauling dirt from one of the public banks last week dug too far under the bank, and gravity not being supported the top of the bank caved in on him entirely burrying him, with the exception of his head, with them aperature. He soon made his situation known to some persons working near by who came to his rescue and succeeded in digging him out.—Centreville Citizen.

A NOVEL ANNOUNCEMENT.—The following announcement, recently made through the Mountain City Times, at Cumberland, Md., is rather a remarkable production. It is decidedly the best take off we have ever seen. It gives office-seekers some pretty keen thrus:

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.—I am a canidate for the next Sheriffalty of the Alleghany county. This announcement is made boldly and above and without fear of contradiction. I do not claim that there is anything original in the idea of running for sheriff—other men have been advance of me in the same line—but I offer my services to the suffering voters of the county, simply because I feel that it is far better to run for sheriff than to have the Sheriff run me. One of the two must be did and I hereby do it. I have heard that the Sheriffalty does not pay; I am anxious to get the office in order to find out why it is that it is so. So many are after it. Christopher Columbus was no more anxious to discover America than the humble servant of the public, the undersigned, to elucidate this sublime but mysterious secret. Once in possesion of the office, I feel certain to probe its paying or non-paying capacities to the utmost, and on the honor of the Office-seeker my trusting constituents shall have the bedefit of my experience for their future guidance and information. At present I incline to the belief that the office does not pay because so many are seeking it, and I feel unwilling to give my many competitors credit for being possesed of the same disinterested patriotism and burning desire for useful information as that which accuses me in my struggle for that position.

I beleive I would make a good Sheriff. Have a large acquaintance throughout the county; know all the competent individuals within its limits who are subject to be summoned as taelsmen for a jury. Have no squeamish scruples about capital punishment, believe a little hangiug to be wholesome, and feel no hesitancy in asserting that there are numbers of persons within the confines of Alleghany, in the total surpression of whose respiration I would take a painful and profound delight. Should any of my constituents imagine that this assertion is made simply because I desire the office, I take great pleasure in stating my readiness, if elected, to give them a final and conclusive proof of its veracity, at the end of a rope, should occasion, require.

If the office does not pay, if elected I propose to stand the loss. If it does pay, I hereby announce my absolute willingness to allow my friends a fair share of the profits. The person who can produce reasonable proof that his exertions have carried an entire district in my favor I propose to deputize to attend to the affairs of the office in such district, giving him in compensation therefor, one-half of the fees to accrue from such services. With any person splitting a district and giving me a majority of its delegates, the same rule will be pursued except that the commissioner shall not exceed one-third of the delegates from any district and making the other half blind drunk on the day of the County Convention, I will place on my list of regular talesmen to be summoned as jurors in extraordinary cases, of which a good thing can be made by any honest man of elastic conscience and reasonable susceptibility as to the bribes. Other services like the loose plunder in a country sale bill, "too tedious to mention," will be paid for in proportion.

As to my political proclivities, I am a sort of a Whig-Knownothing-Original Succession-Union-Radical Republican, Democratic Conservative. This I believe embraces all the regular parties to which I ever belonged, although probably I may sometime have slipped upon sid issues, the particulars of which I have forgotten, yet, so willing am I to serve the people, if these principles are not satisfactory, I am ready to embrace anything else that on reflection I deem to be popular.

Correspondence from prominent men in local politics throughout the county is respectfully requested. I do not intend making any canvass of the county feeling confident that the terms I have proposed are unapproachable and that if any one else undertakes to offer greater inducements he will certainly fail in their performance.

These are my sentiments and upon this platform I launch my bark upon the waves of the political sea already so thickly studded with the sails of Sheriffs in embryo.

The latest candidate,
S. R. DEAN.

P. S.—I am desirous to open an account with the bar-keepers in the county for a limited number of drinks for my constituents; to be paid for from the county fund as "extra expenses," if elected. If not, for further particulars see my notice of insolvency which will appear shortly after the decision of the county convention.

KILLEED.—A Sad Ending of a Fox Chase.—L. L. Rollinson, a well known citizen of this county, living at Urieville was instantly killed on Monday last while fox-hunting. It seems that Mr. R., with a number of friends, had been enjoying this sport during the day, and were about to return home, when just before night they struck a fresh trail in the neighborhood of Brooks' woods; the whole party gave loose rein to their horses and followed the dogs towards the woods. Mr. Rollinson's horse became unmanageable and dashed into the woods at full speed, when Mr. R., losing his equilibrium, struck his head with fearful force against the trunk of a tree, fracturing his skull and killing him instantly. His comrades were immediately on the spot, but found that life was extinct, and his body was conveyed to his home, not far distant. The deceased was a carpenter by trade, but for some years past has been engaged in farming and other pursuits, and at the time of his death had charge of the grist and saw mill at Urieville. He was about 55 years of age, and leaves a wife and seven children to mourn his sad death.—Kent News.

ACCIDENT ON THE RAILROAD.—One of the brakesman on the gravel train on the Kent County Railroad, was seriously if not fatally, injured on Thusday last, on the track between Kennedyville and Worton Station. It seems, from what we can understand, that he became entangled in the breaks some way and was thrown across the track, the cars passing over his body, terribly lacerating the left arm and right leg. He was taken to Kennedyville and properly cared for. We have not been able to learn the name of the unfortunate man.—Ib.

RE-CAPTURED.—Michael Hagerty, whose escape from jail we noticed last week, was captured near Bridgetown, on the day after his escape. He went to Bridgetown, broke open a store and a dwelling, stole some clothing, and proceeded to sell them, when he was captured. He was returned to jail and ironed.—Centreville Observer,

Death from Blood Poisoned Meat.

BOSTON, April 18.—An inquest held at Brighton yesterday to investigate the death of George Temple, butcher, developed facts showing that it is the common practice of dressing and sending to the Boston market carcasses of beef trampled to death in the cars or afflicted with disease. The inquest showed that Temple's death was caused by blood poison inoculated in his system while dressing a dead ox taken from the yard of the Boston and Albany Railroad Company, the deceased being in the employ of August Weitz, and that Weitz sent the meat to market with other beef.—The jury investigating the case earnestly recommended to the Board of Health to establish and enforce stringent regulations for the prevention of the introduction of any dead creatures into the slaughtering establishments of the town.

☞ At Concord, N. H., a baby celebrated her first birthday anniversary Monday afternoon by a party at which the Monitor said there were assembled some thirty ladies and gentlemen, aged from eleven weeks to three years, "embracing the elite of our city." At five o'clock refreshments were served at two long tables; around which twenty-four "high chairs" had been placed, and the usual viands were most lavishly served. Prominent on the bill of fare were ginger-bread elephants and roosters, biscuits one inch in diameter, and choice cake of similar dimenaions.

Trustee's Sale
OF
Two Valuable Farms
IN Island Creek Neck.

BY virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Talbot county, sitting in Equity, the undersigned as Trustee, will offer at public sale, in front of the Court House, in Easton, on Tuesday, 23d day of May next, between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock, P. M., of said day, all that valuable real estate known by the name of situate in Island Creek Neck, Talbot county, in manner following. First:

Farm No. 1,

embracing that portion lying on Island Creek, known as the

'HOME PLACE,'

(saving and excepting a field separated by a cove and ravine on the left in entering,) and embracing also a portion of the farm over the road, exclusive of the buildings on the latter place, and containing more or less, of which 29 3-4 Acres is in wood land.

This farm is admirably situated on Island Creek, within a mile and a half of the steamboat landing at Clora's Point, in a delightful neighborhood, with spacious lawn, and an abundance of fish, fowl, crabs, and all the luxuries of the salt water at the door. The oysters are the finest in the State, and are in large quantities within a few yards of the dwelling, several acres of ground being condemned for the purposes of bedding and entirely secure from depredation. This land is adapted to the growth of grass, grain, fruit and vegetables. It is especially noted for its wheat growing properties, and here was first grown in the State of Maryland, that beautiful white wheat known as the "New York Flint," now so celebrated and generally adopted.—There is an abundance of marl on the Shore, and in fact, underlying the surface of the whole farm. This marl is of the very best quality, and was spoken of in the report of the State Geologist, Dr. Ducatel, years ago, as with one exception, superior to any other to be found on the Shore. The improvements consist of a comfortable and the necessary out buildings, including stabling, carriage house, granery, tenement house, &c. By throwing a bridge across Island Creek, the whole neck will be brought into close connection with the Maryland & Delaware Railroad. Persons desiring a first class situation, with all the advantages of health, productiveness and a fine neighborhood, are invited to call and examine this property.

Farm No. 2,

comprising the field separated from the above described tract by the ravine and a line running to the county road, and also the remaining portion of the farm over the road, the line of division running nearly with the line extended from the ravine, containing

94 Acres, 1 Rood & 28 Perches, more or less, of which 28 3-4 Acres is in woodland. The purchaser to have the privilege of removing the buildings which are near the line of division.

This farm has all the advantages of farm No. 1, including water situation, productiveness, marl and luxuries of the salt water. To one wishing a farm of this size the strongest inducements are offered.

Plots containing an account and description of both farms may be seen at the office of the undersigned in Easton.

Terms of Sale.

The terms prescribed by the decree are, one third of the purchase money to be paid in cash on the day of sale, and the balance in two equal instalments of one and two years from the day of sale, the credit payments to be secured by the bond of the purchaser, with approved security, bearing interest from the day of sale. Stamps and title papers at the expense of the purchaser.
