steady. dull.

The Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company has declared a dividend of 3½ per cent., equal to $1.75 per share.

The New York Tribune of Monday says:

In money matters there is no important change. Demand loans are 5@6 per cent., and gilt-edged paper 6@7 per cent.

The subscription to the National loan at the Sub-Treasury is a good large, reaching $340,000, including $100,000 from the Chemical Bank, in addition to their quota of the general bank subscription. Several other banks, including the Seventh ward, have taken smaller amounts. These have been taken for retailing at the bank counters. A banking house also took $50,000.

There are a large number of applications for 7.30 per cent. Treasury Notes at the office of the Government agent, Mr. Morris Ketchum, but the amounts were small. The banks of Hartford have in the aggregate taken $705,000 of these notes.

The Foreign Exchange market is weak to-day at ¼ per cent. decline. The demand has been very light, and the appearance of the circular of Mr. Chase in regard to confiscating balances, &c, has quieted the fears of the parties interested, and there is no disposition to remit the money deposited here on Southern account. Leading Sterling is 108¾@109¼. France 5.32½@5.27½.

Without marked activity excepting in a few descriptions, the Stock market opened for the week with a buoyant feeling, and more disposition to make a speculative movement. The transactions were restricted, however, by the moderate quantity of stocks offering excepting at higher quotations. The bears made no special demonstration, and there was a fair demand for buyers' options, especially in Central, which was unusually active. The registered transactions reach 3,500 shares; 2,450 shares were taken regular. The quotations advanced to 73¾, closing at 73¾ bid. This activity would lead to the inference that the prospect is favorable to an arrangement of the questions in dispute between this Company and the Erie, and an advance of rates. Erie was also firm, selling at 26¼. In the Western shares the market was rather quiet but very firm. Galena advanced ¼, Toledo ¼, Rock Island ¾ per cent. At the Second Board the market was inactive, but prices were generally firm. The changes in shares were immaterial. In bonds to-day the transactions have reached about $150,000, of which $90,000 were Missouris, which were sustained, notwithstanding the unfavorable news from Lexington. Tennessees were ¾ per cent. better. The feeling in Government securities is very strong, and the inquiry fair. The 6's of 1881 were 90¾@91¼; those of 1867 sold at 90½, and the 5's of 1874 at 80¾. Treasury 6's, two years, sold at 98¾. At the close, in the street, the market was dull at: United States 5's, 1874, 80¾@80¾; United States 6's, 1881, registered, 90¾@90¾; United States 6's, 1881, coupon, 91@91¼; Tennessee State 6's, 43¾@44; Virginia State 6's, 51¾@52; Missouri State 6's, 43¾@43¾; Canton Company, 8@10.

The grain trade of the Lakes continues very active. The Detroit Free Press of Tuesday speaks of the number of vessels passing that port as unprecedented. It says: "Of the large number of downward-bound vessels, fifty-one more have passed since our last issue. The whole number of the present fleet will not vary far from one hundred and fifty sail, and by far the largest quantity of grain which has ever passed this port during the same number of hours."

BRUTAL MURDER.—Chicago was the scene of a brutal murder on Thursday last. A family named Murphy were arrested on suspicion of committing the deed.

IOWA.—Hon. Lincoln Clark, of Dubuque, has been placed at the head of the Union ticket for Governor of Iowa, in place of General Baker, declined. Hon. Martin D. A man named William Nichols attacked two men named G. W. Duffy and Geo. Rifford, in Covington, Ky., on Saturday night last, wounding Rifford mortally, and Duffy very seriously. Cause—jealousy. Nichols was arrested on the Louisville mail boat.

A CORRECTION.—As the series of letters written from the United States to the Paris Opinions Nationale are attributed to the pen of Prince Napoleon, it is proper to say that they are not written by him at all, but (it is understand) by Col. Bojou, one of his suite. So says the Washington Star.

Gen. James G. Anthony, brother of Senator Anthony, of Rhode Island, died at his residence in Coventry, on the 16th. He was formerly a cotton manufacturer, and at the time of his death was President of the Providence, Hartford and Fishkill Railroad Company.

Judge Betts, of New York, has rendered decisions condemning eleven vessels and cargoes seized for attempting to run the blockade, &c. Their value is supposed to be about a quarter of a million of dollars.

It is stated that Dr. Cummings, who predicts the end of things earthly in 1866, has, notwithstanding, had his life insured, and has leased a dwelling-house for thirty years.

Some nine hundred barrels of flour per diem are used up in Washington for the army. Of fresh bread alone there are one hundred and fifty thousand loaves consumed.

The Surrender of Col. Mulligan.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 23.—Before Colonel Mulligan surrendered, he sent two hundred of his men across the river to Brookville, en route for Quincy, Illinois.

CHICAGO, Sept, 23.—Colonel Mulligan has been released on his parole, and will arrive here this evening. Two thousand of his command were also released on parole, and will arrive at Quincy on Tuesday. His whole force was only twenty-five hundred, including the Home Guards, who are accused of cowardice. The flag was hauled down by the Home Guards, but Colonel Mulligan refused to surrender his sword, and it was taken from him by force.

A Quincy despatch says that Mulligan and the commissioned officers are held prisoners by the Confederates.

Details of the Surrender of Col. Mulligan.

HUDSON, Mo, Sept. 24.—Henry Bradburn, a soldier of Col. Mulligan's command, who left Lexington on Saturday, gives an account of the fight and surrender. The fort was surrendered on Friday after 59 hours' fighting without water, their only supply from the river having been cut off by the Confederates after a severe fight on Wednesday. The camp-ground contained no springs or wells, and embraced ten acres with breastworks around it except the river front.

The Confederates procured bales of hemp and rolled them in advance, and under their cover succeeded in securing a position in the rear. They made but few assaults, their object being to surround the fort and cut off supplies of water, and, this accomplished, waited till necessity compelled Mulligan to yield.

Previous to the surrender, Col. Mulligan offered to take a position on a level spot of ground and give General Price the odds of four to one in a fair open fight, but they declined.

After the surrender the Confederates mounted the breastworks mad with joy, and trailed the national flag in the dust.

A large amount of gold, supposed to be a quarter of a million, fell into the possession of the Confederates. It had previously been buried by Col. M., but was unearthed by the enemy.

The brave Colonel wept like a child when he found himself compelled to surrender. The morning after the surrender his men were all released on their parole and ferried across the river.

The loss of the Confederates is not known, but is supposed to be not less than one thousand killed and wounded. Their first attack was more disastrous than the siege.

Apprehensions as to the Safety of Gen. Prentiss' Command.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—A special despatch to the Tribune, dated Quincy, 2.30 P. M., says that Gen. Prentiss started West yesterday, and he is now west of Brookfield, and his communication is cut off by the Confederates, supposed to be a part of Gen. Price's forces. Great fears are entertained that he will be captured.

Reports are rife that a body of three or four thousand Confederates are marching on St. Joseph, and an attack is expected there to-morrow.

The Gallant Defence of Col. Mulligan—How Viewed in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The gallant defence of Col. Mulligan is the theme of admiration among the most distinguished military men. It was not until late last night, when a telegram was received from Fremont, that the previous report of the surrender was fully though officially credited.—The latter, while informing the Department that he was on the eve of starting with a heavy force, expresses the hope that he will be able to dislodge the Confederates from the position they now occupy at Lexington.

The deepest interest continues to be everywhere manifested concerning that point, including the military movements in the same direction.

The War Department has determined to vacate the offices of all Quartermasters, Commissaries and other officers, who fail to respond promptly by filing their bonds and presenting themselves for active service.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Count De Paris and Duc De Chartres Attached to Gen. McClellan's Staff.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Commissions were today issued to the Count De Paris and Duc De Chartres as aids to General McClellan. They expressly stipulate that they will receive no compensation for their services.

Post Office Order.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The following important orders have been issued from the Post Office Department:

Ordered, First—That no newspaper or other printed matter be admitted into the letter-pouches destined for the Pacific Coast, letters exclusively being placed therein.

Second—That separate bags be appropriated exclusively to newspapers destined to the Pacific Coast, excluding all other printed matter.

Third—That such letter-pouches and newspaper bag be forwarded to California, as usual, by the overland route.

Fourth—All other printed matter of every kind destined to the Pacific Coast must be sent in bags to the New York post-office, there to be delivered to the agents of the Overland Mail Company.

Fifth—Postmasters are requested to comply with these orders until further notice. Any neglect thereof to be immediately reported to the Appointment Office.

By order of the Postmaster General,

(Signed) JOHN A. KASSEN,
First Assistant Postmaster General.

Grand Review of the Army of the Potomac.

The event of to-day was the review of a portion of the cavalry and artillery attached to the army of the Potomac, this afternoon at 4 o'clock, at about a mile beyond the Capitol, the best location which could be selected in this vicinity. There were five regiments of cavalry under command of General Stoneman, Chief of Cavalry, and eight batteries, consisting of forty-eight pieces, under command of General Barry, Chief of Artillery.

The review was witnessed by the President, the heads of the departments, foreign ministers, and other distinguished personages, together with an immense crowd of spectators.

Gen. McClellan and staff appeared in full uniform, accompanied by nearly all the field and staff officers attached to the army of the Potomac. The artillery fired the salute usual on such occasions. There were two full mounted bands of music.

The review is regarded as the grandest, considering the description of the forces, that ever took place on the continent.

Toward the close of the display, an accident of a serious character took place. As the artillery was passing at double-quick, the tongue of a caisson broke, throwing the artillerists from their seats, and causing severe injuries to two of them, namely: James Gillion and Wm. Hatfield, of company K, 4th artillery.

The Quartermaster's Department.

The Quartermaster's Department is narrowly watching the conduct of all persons employed in the administration of its affairs, and within the present week several removals have taken place in order to secure more satisfactory service by other appointments.

Captain Jenkins has been assigned to the Quartermaster's Department under General Anderson; and Major Allen to a similar position under General Fremont.

Captain Ingalls will for the present remain with the army of the Potomac, although it was understood several days ago that he was to be transferred to Gen. Fremont's command.

From the South Side of the Potomac.

Early last night the barn situated to the left of Bailey's Cross Roads, used by the Confederate pickets, and from which a number of our men have been killed, was destroyed, being fired by hot shot thrown by our troops.

The military authorities have stationed guards along the principal streets and avenues for the purpose of preventing fast riding, long a source of annoyance to pedestrians and destructive to the Government horses.

The Confederates are throwing up earthworks miles from Alexandria, on the line of the Orange and Alexandria railroad, and two miles this side of Springfield Station. There is, however, no large force there.

FROM GEN. BANKS' COLUMN.

DARNESTOWN, Sept. 23.—A tragical occurrence transpired near this village yesterday, in the Pennsylvania 46th regiment, Colonel Knipe, on their way to join Gen. Banks' column. In the regiment is a company composed principally of Irishmen, who have given the commander much trouble.—When near Muddy Run two of the men got engaged in a fight, and one of them named Lanahan, of Co. I, a very bad character, was by order of Major Arnold C. Lewis tied to the rear of a baggage wagon. After proceeding about a mile it was reported to Major Lewis that Lanahan was at large with a loaded gun in his hands. The Major, accompanied by Assistant Surgeon W. Chas. Rogers, rode towards Lanahan and ordered him to give up the gun. Lanahan refused, and while the Major was in the act of getting off his horse to enforce his order, Lanahan retreated a few steps, took deliberate aim, and shot the Major in the back with a ball and three buckshot.

The latter fell and expired in three minutes without uttering a word. Lanahan was secured, and the body of the unfortunate officer was placed in a wagon and guarded to the camp. Lanahan is now in the hands of the Provost Marshal, and will be tried by a drum-head court, probably to-day. The murderer is a resident of Scranton, Pa.

Major Lewis was thirty-two years of age, was married about a year ago, and leaves a wife but no children. He served in the Mexican war, and on the breaking out of the present rebellion was editing the Catasaqua (Lehigh county) Herald, which occupation he resigned to enter the army. He was dearly beloved by the whole regiment, and his death hangs like a pall upon the spirits of his associates.

Yesterday morning, Colonel Le Due, of the New York 34th, keeping guard on the Potomac, discovered a body of Confederate cavalry on the opposite side, partially concealed by trees and ravines. From various movements it was supposed that they were in considerable force, and that they meditated constructing some offensive works there.—About noon he commenced throwing shells from a point too far distant to produce much effect. Changing the position, he threw several shells into their midst, scattering them in every direction. This occurred at the mouth of the Seneca river.

The Massachusetts 12th, Colonel Webster, has recently taken a position which relieves the New York 34th of portion of the arduous duty of guarding nine miles of the river line.

During the shelling to day one of the Confederates, by the aid of glasses, was discovered to have on a uniform of the Thirty-fourth, belonging, it is supposed, to one of the killed or captured scouts who ventured across the river last week.

Continued ill-health has compelled Col. Seward, of the New York Nineteenth, to resign, and he leaves for his home to day.

The following nominations, by the ballot of the commissioned officers of the regiment, have been sent to Governor Morgan, and their commissions will probably be received this week:

For Colonel, Major James H. Ledlie; for Lieutenant Colonel, Captain Charles H. Stewart, of Company G. For Major, Captain Solomon Giles, of Company H. The Rev. Henry Fowler, Chaplain of the regiment, having resigned, the Rev. Dr. Coit, of Bridgeport, Connecticut, has been appointed in his place.

Much to the regret of the officers of the First Brigade, reports are current that Colonel Biddle, Brigade Commander, with his Buckeye regiment, are to be transferred to General McCall's division, near Washington.

In view of the probable scarcity and high prices of fuel the coming winter, it is suggested that the Maryland farmers along the line of the Potomac would advance their own interests by felling the useless trees of their forests on the first fall of the leaves, instead of delaying that work until winter.

Winter blankets and new tents are being issued to several of the regiments, in view of the approaching cold weather. Saturday night was very cold, and the farmers predict early frost in this region.

A Skirmish at Point of Rocks.

POINT OF ROCKS, Sept. 24.—To day an action took place at this point between a part of the forces under the personal command of Col. Geary, and some four or five hundred Confederates on the Virginia side of the Potomac. The Confederates were sheltered in the high point of Catoctin Mountain and in the houses at its base, but they were driven from every place by the battery and the rifles of Col. Geary's command. The houses were burnt to the ground and, whilst several of the Confederates are known to have been killed and wounded, the Federal troops sustained no injury.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sept. 23.—Ross Winans, Esq., one of the Baltimore members of the Legislature, having taken the oath of allegiance, was this morning released, and will to-night accompany his son to Baltimore. The other prisoners are still in close confinement.

Commodore Stringham was to-day relieved by Captain Goldsborough, and will proceed to-night to Washington.

Col. De Russy leaves Old Point to-day to assume forth with command of the Engineer Department in California. He has long been in charge of that department at Old Point, and the removal of no officer since the beginning of the rebellion has caused so general a feeling of regret. He is succeeded by Captain Steuart, a most efficient officer.

For three days in succession a flag of truce has gone to Norfolk, for the accommodation of a few ladies. Meanwhile two have arrived here from Norfolk, on a similar errand. The feeling here is entirely against these frequent communications.

Resolutions of the Republican State Committee.

ALBANY, Sept. 24.—The Republican State Committee have adopted a series of resolutions; setting forth that a least half a million of men should be enrolled for the war, and that New York should furnish at least one hundred thousand men; recommending to the General Government the propriety of giving each volunteer, hereafter enlisted, twenty dollars of the bounty promised at the end of the war, or one month's pay in advance to the time of his enlisting.

Arrival of European Steamers.

FARTHER POINT, Sept. 24.—The steamer Jura passed here early this morning.

SANDY HOOK, Sept. 24.—The steamer City of New York, from Liverpool on the 11th inst., has arrived.

The advices by both steamers have been anticipated.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

THE PORT DEPOSITE AFFRAY.—From a gentleman who was present at the affray which occurred on Saturday afternoon last at Port Deposite, between a squad of soldiers from the New York Second Life Guard and several citizens of Cecil county, the following particulars are learned:—A precinct meeting of citizens favorable to peace was held in the town in the afternoon for the purpose of selecting delegates to a county convention to nominate candidates for the Legislature, and also to nominate a candidate for commissioner in the precinct. The meeting was convened in a room in the rear of the bar room of a hotel in the place. After the ballot had been taken for delegates, several of those composing the meeting walked away from the hotel to await the counting of it, intending to return afterwards to vote for constable. This statement of their leaving the place is made for the purpose of explaining why it was that so few citizens were present to resist the attack made by the soldiers.

While the ballot was being counted eleven soldiers entered the bar-room, and one of them asked for the "damned Secesh and new tents are being issued to several of the regiments, in view of the approaching cold weather. Saturday night was very cold, and the farmers predict early frost in this region.

A Skirmish at Point of Rocks.
