TO THE PUBLIC.

THE MARYLAND NEWS SHEET will be issued daily from the office formerly occupied by the Daily Exchange, and will be, as its name implies, simply a "News Sheet." It will furnish the latest intelligence as derived from the despatches of the Associated Press, by which it will be supplied in common with the New York journals; from its exchanges, and from such reliable private sources of information as it may be able to command. Expressing itself no opinions, it will devote its editorial columns to such extracts from other journals as may be deemed of interest to the public.

WAR AND OTHER NEWS.

The forces under General Kelly, in his attack on Romney, are reported to have comprised, among others, the 3d and 7th Virginia regiments, one Ohio regiment, and the regiments commanded by Colonels Moss, Thorburn and Zeigler. The 3d Virginia regiment is commanded by Col. Hughes. C. E. Swearingen is the Major. The above six regiments have, for some time past, been performing guard duty between Grafton and Cumberland. General Kelly is well known in Baltimore, having been for many years the general agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at the Wheeling terminus.

The correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing from Edwards' Ferry, intimates that the repulse at Ball's Bluff has deranged the plan of the Commander-in-Chief, and may possibly defer temporarily the advance of the main army, which was projected about this time. Others, however, still hold to the belief that the grand movement so long in preparation will take place before many days. The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, whose means of information is second to none, entertains the opinion that an advance will be ordered within a few days, perhaps within a few hours.

The steamer Louisiana, which reached here yesterday morning from Fortress Monroe, reports that the naval flotilla was still anchored in Hampton Roads when she left the previous evening. It was supposed that this modern Armada would put to sea yesterday morning if the weather proved propitious. Speculation is altogether at fault as to the exact destination of the flotilla. The New York Post, which assumes to be in the secrets of the Administration, announced on Saturday last, under the belief that the fleet had already sailed, that its destination was some ill-fortified harbor or inlet, supposed to be Port Royal on the coast of South Carolina, and that the object of the expedition was the capture of Charleston from the rear. Some, on the contrary, surmise that its destination is much nearer the present base of operations.

The Springfield (Ill.) Journal, President Lincoln's home organ, states that Gen. Fremont recently tried, but failed, to get his officers to indorse him. So says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Washington Republican and Star have succeeded in getting themselves into a quarrel as to whether or not Gen. Stone gave the order to Col. Baker to advance on Leesburg. We give elsewhere the orders referred to, as reported by the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune, and also what the Republican and Star say on the subject. As the affair is likely to undergo a thorough investigation at Washington, the Government may possibly ascertain at whose door to lay the blame of the late disastrous defeat at Ball's Bluff.

The first hogshead of tobacco, of the new crop, made its appearance in the Louisville market on Wednesday last, and found a ready sale at ten dollars and twenty-five cents per hundred.

The intelligence from New Granada, telegraphed by the last quotations, would be about $42,570—or $57 per share.

Confederate Postage Stamps.

The first of the new Confederate States postal stamps were issued yesterday, and were eagerly bought up. The new stamp is green, with a lithographic likeness of President Davis within double oval border, surmounted with the inscription, "Confederate States of America." Outside of the circle, and at the head of the stamp, is the word "postage," and at the lower edge its denomination, "five cents."

Preparations for the Winter.

Large quantities of lumber and a great number of sashes have been conveyed during the present week over the Central road to Manassas, for the purpose, probably, of winter quarters for our troops in that immediate vicinity. Several of the bales of blankets brought by the Bermuda, from England, were also dispatched to the same destination yesterday.

MARRIED.

At Richmond, Va., on Tuesday morning, the 24th of September, at St. Paul's Church, by the Rev. W. H. Hecksie, General K. KIRBY SMITH, of the Confederate States Army, to CASSIE, daughter of Samuel M. Selden, deceased, of Richmond.

DIED.

[From the National Intelligencer of 28th.]

OBITUARY.—Died at his home, on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Lt. commander WILLIAM MAY, of the U. S. Navy, aged 46 years.

The subject of this notice, though cut off in the prime of a useful life, had passed through many of the perils which are incident to his profession, both on the deep and in the battle, and one who knew him long and loved him well desires to pay this last sad tribute to his memory. He was a native of this city, and the third son of the late Dr. Frederick May, who was among the earliest residents of Washington.

He entered the navy when very young, in May, 1811, and had passed about eighteen years of his life while in the service at sea. He had twice circumnavigated the globe, and in his first cruise in the Potomac frigate, under Commodore Porter, took part in the battle of Quiafo Batton, when a settlement of desperate Malay pirates was broken up and punis'ed.

He was an officer of the Exploring Expedition to the South Sea, an i encountered the terrible dangers and privations of those frozen regions in the little schooner Flying Fish a New York pilot-boat, which was purchased as a tender to the expedition. He was reported to the Government by his commanding officer for his gallant and self-sacrificing conduct in saving overboard at the risk of his life to save a drowning sailor in the harbor of Rio Janeiro. He was wrecked at the Navigator Islands while surveying its dangerous reefs, and, when saved his instruments, he felt it to be his duty to the service to save a piece of his boat for more than twelve hours.

Commodore Ringgold May was engaged in the battle which severely punished the treacherous Feejee Islanders for murdering our seamen and navy officers, and was wounded by a blow while fighting from his boat with the savages, which broke his front teeth. He was constantly engaged in arduous surveying duties, and his skill as an accomplished draughtsman was illustrated in the execution of the largest and most elaborate chart of that laborious expedition. His health, naturally as robust as was possessed by any one, prostrated cruise in such vicissitudes of climate.

He was the executive officer of the brig Porpoise during the Mexican war, and deserved great credit for saving that vessel when thrown on its beam ends by a violent norther off Vera Cruz. He was at the capture of Tobasco by Commodore Perry, in the Mexican war, and while ascending the river in an open boat in advance of the squadron he encountered the enemy and was very severely wounded, his arm being shattered at the elbow joint by an escopette ball. He was for a long time disabled by this wound, from which he never entirely recovered.

Obtaining a furlough when gold was discovered in California, he was among the first to visit that country, (which he had previously assisted to survey,) and he shared in the labor of the miners, and exhibited a wonderful spirit of energy and perseverance.

His last cruise was as First Lieutenant of the frigate Congress. His idea of discipline and duty imposed upon him unceasing vigilance and labor, and left no time for attention to his health, then much impaired. His ship arrived in the Delaware in mid-winter, surrounded by ice, and though very sick this devoted officer performed every duty of his position up to the moment of his discharge from her decks.

He returned home with a fatal disease of his lungs, and through his extraordinary vitality and courage wrestled with it to the very last moment. He then quietly and firmly, as he had ever proposed to himself to do, met his dread summons and yielded up his useful, patriotic, and honorable life without murmur or a sigh.

Commander May will be remembered by all who knew him for his high sense of honor, his gallantry, his courage.

A more honorable, faithful, and braver officer and gentleman has not graced the annals of our navy. His virtues as a warm friend and devoted son and affectionate brother and tender husband are inscribed upon hearts that will ever cherish his memory with love and admiration.

Up the 27th instant, Mrs. SARAH GULKEY, wife of the late Philip Guley, in the 71st year of her age.

On Sunday afternoon, 27th instant, JOHN LEE, in the 92d year of his age.

On the 27th instant, Mrs. MARGARET SANDS, aged 23 years, wife of Lawrence Sands.

On the 27th instant, MIRIAM JENET, daughter of George V. and Agnes E. Metzel, aged 4 months and 23 days. [York, Pa., papers please copy.]
