Extract of a Letter from Jamaica, dated July 19, 1766.

"By all our Advices from the other Sugar Colonies they make large Crops this Year, there was Reason to expect the same in this Island, but it is now most certain we shall fall short not less than fifteen thousand Hogheads, of what were first reckon'd upon, partly owing to the severe Winds towards the End of last Year, which lodg'd and damaged the Canes of many Plantations; partly to great Rains in the Course of the present Crop, and in some Measure to a Black Blast, which has spread itself through many Estates in the Parishes of St. Elizabeth and Westmoreland; at the North Side in particular, the Rains have been so heavy, that the Parish of St. Mary will not make above Half of what was expected. It is to be hop'd that some Regulation of the Commerce of the Sugar Colonies may take Place for their Advantage; certain I am we are in Need of Relief: Whoever really knows the Situation of this Country, must be sensible of the Distresses and Wretchedness of a great Majority of the Planters, and that they merely subsist upon Credit."
