G. WASHINGTON, } Churchwardens. W. GARDNER, }

Mr. GREEN, I TAKE this Method to entreat those of my Creditors that have Writs against me, to call them in, or not to suffer them to be executed; I believe most of them know, I have no other way of paying my Debts, but by teaching Dancing; and, as my Method of Teaching is well approv'd, am satisfied I could in less than Three Years pay every Thing I owe, and in mean Time support my Wife and Children; but while these Things are hanging over, can do nothing towards it. I have now several valuable Schools, which I dare not attend for fear of the Sheriff, into whose Clutches, should I fall, am satisfied I must go to Jail, not having Effects sufficient to satisfy Twenty Shillings.—And to imprison a Man for Debt, when he has nothing to pay, nor can procure any Thing but by his honest Industry, is a Piece of Cruelty that ought to be found no where but among the most uncivilized Barbarians, I cannot expect it from my Creditors. The Apprehension of being locked up in one of our filthy Jails, there to be starved, even to Death; together with the Thoughts of having a poor Wife, and Children, perishing under the Consequence; must surpass any Fear we can possibly feel here! and are sufficient to make a Man ask what Country he is in? I hope my Creditors will be more Charitable, and not lay me under the disagreeable Necessity of Petitioning the next General Assembly for Relief.—I humbly request those of my Creditors that may think it equitable to indulge me, that they let me know by a Line, the first Opportunity, in order I may proceed to get something for them, they may depend what I get shall be divided in Proportion to their Debts, till all are paid and satisfied. Your giving this a Place in your Paper, shall be acknowledged a particular Favour. I am, Sir, your most obedient humble Servant, March 9, 1767. ANTHONY SMITH.

It has been asserted by some, that mixing the Blood of English Horses with the Breed of this Country, renders the Offspring less durable; but such Sort of Reasoning will meet with little Countenance, amongst Men of Understanding. It's generally allow'd. the Light Breed of English Horses are equal, if not superior, to those of any Country; to dispute this, would be contrary to the Opinion, and Experience, of almost every Country in Europe, who are daily importing great Numbers from England; but the Objection to that Breed of Horses, can only exist in the Imagination.
