MRS LINCOLN'S PARTY.

festivities at the white house—great throng of visitors—scenes and incidents of the evening.

Special Despatch to the New York Herald.

WASHINGTON, Feb 5.—The grand event of the season—looked forward to with such earnest anticipation by the fashionable world—took place at the President's house to-night, being a brilliant party given by Mrs. Lincoln.

THE INVITATIONS.

Some five hundred invitations were issued, including in the list the most distinguished of the land. The invitation read as follows:

"The President and Mrs. Lincoln request the honor of your company on Wednesday evening, Feb. 5th, at 9 P. M."

THE MISE EN SCENE.

The night was clear and beautiful, and fortunately a moonlit one. By 9 o'clock carriages began to throng the semi circular roadway leading to the White House. The latter, at a distance, presented a most brilliant appearance, and was lighted in every room. The second story was devoted solely to ladies and gentlemen as a retiring room. The entire suite of rooms on the first floor were thrown open, except the dining room. The front saloon leading to the east room was brilliantly lighted up. The east room was also brilliantly lighted, none of the furniture being removed, nor the covering put on the carpet for dancing.

MR. AND MRS LINCOLN ENTER.

At half-past nine the President and lady entered the East Room, and taking a position under the main chandelier, commenced to receive the tide that ebbed and flowed by them.

THE COMPANY PRESENT.

Among the very first of the visitors was Lord Lyons, who shook hands with the President and Mrs. Lincoln in the most cordial manner. Monsieur Mercier, the French Minister, soon followed, and, after the usual salutations, the Prussian, Russian, Spanish, Swedish, Portuguese and Italian Ministers paid their respects to the President.

HE CABINET.

Secretary Seward was the first one of the cabinet who entered. Secretary Welles, Chase, Smith and Attorney-General Bates came in afterwards.

THE PEOPLE IN GENERAL.

Then came the throng of naval and military officers, senators, judges of the Supreme Court, and other equally distinguished people. Among them were Senators Browning, Doolittle, Latham, Saulsbury, Harris, King, Powell, Nesmith, Foster, Dixon, Chandler; Speaker Grow; Representatives, F. A. Conkling (N. Y.,) McPherson, Crittenden, Mallory, etc. Brigadier-Generals McDowell, Porter, Heintzleman, represented a portion of the military, and Commander Dahlgren, of the Navy, was also present.

At 10 o'clock P. M. the rush was at its height and with a brilliant display of military and naval circles, and the georgeous toilettes of the ladies, the East Room presented one of the most splendid scenes ever witnessed. The Marine band, of some fifty pieces, were stationed in the ante-room, performing some most enchanting operatic gems.

HOW MRS. LINCOLN WAS DRESSED.

Mrs. Lincoln was dressed in white satin, with one heavy flounce of black honiton lace, a wreath of natural flowers formed her head-dress, and a simple diamond brooch was the only ornament that adorned her person. At her right stood the President, dressed in becoming plain costume, and just behind their eldest son Robert and Vice-President Hamlin and lady.

GENERAL M'CLELLAN.

At 11 o'clock, P. M. General McClellan, accompanied by Miss Marcy, his wife's sister, entered the room, and immediately visited the President and lady, afterward promenading, the observed of all observers. In a short time General McClellan was conversing with Mrs. Lincoln.

GENERAL FREMONT.

At this moment P.esident Lincoln appeared with Major General Fremont and ladies, and introduced them to General McClellan. This caused quite a sensation. At 11 P. M. the reception ended, and the President, accompanied by Miss Browning, of Illinois, and Mrs. Lincoln, and by Senator Browning, promenaded with the throng.

Gen. Walbridge, of New York; Gen. Hooker, Gen. Shields, Gov. Morton, of Indiana, and Gov. Newell, of New Jersey, were among the notables; also, N. P. Willis, and Duke De Chartres.

THE SUPPER ROOM.

The supper room was the great centre of attraction, the table being set in the most magnificent style, by Maillard, of your city. The various dishes comprising an endless list of designs, commencing at the head of the table with a superb helmet, representing the military element, and a large ship representing the naval element. One other design of great extravagance of workmanship completed the picture, including a fine piece of work called The Temple of Liberty, which surmounted the table as a centre piece.

All the rooms were filled with the rarest flowers.

THE TOILETTES.

The varieties and richness of the toilettes were specially noted, those of Mrs. ex-Senator Weller, Mrs. Senator Thompson, Mrs. F. A. Conkling, Mrs. Kelly, and Miss Stuart, of Philadelphia, being very prominent. Mrs. Fremont was dressed in pure white muslin.

NO DANCING AFTER ALL.

After eleven o'clock the party were distributed through the various rooms, enjoying themselves in social re-unions, until 1 o'clock in the morning, at which hour no dancing had commenced, and it was generally understood that there would be none, the idea being abandoned. The band continued playing operatic pieces.
