able detail of the operations of the Russians on the other side the Danube, printed at Petersburg, which consists of 21 pages in quarto, a reason for their retreat, the following is: "Our cavalry was so harassed by continual attacks from the Ottomans, and by the bad weather they could no longer sustain the fatigue, whole time they were obliged, by the orders of the enemy, to be under arms. Want of another hardship they underwent, particularly that was detached to reconnoitre the enemy's army. In the night they were exposed to winds, without covering, and in the continual harrassed by fresh bodies of troops, renewed by others, who fought with fury their former losses; whilst we (says the author) were obliged with small fatigued bodies of numerous bodies who were repulsed in the night by nature, and of easy defence. In our place the narrative informs us, "That the Russian columns advanced towards Osman's camp, they were furiously assailed by the enemy, who were in ambuscade, who no sooner discovered our artillery, than they were replaced by fresh troops from the retrenchments, who fell on us with wing with horrible noises, by which means we enrolled men, unacquainted with their attack, ran off, and put the rest of the army in disorder; but luckily the last division came creeping up a continual fire, gave the former a check, after which Col. Klitsenka took possession of the retrenchments, and not one of the enemy escaped, had they not retired into Silesia.

camp which the Russians took possession of in the night were found the orders of the grand vizier, which were "for him to fall on the enemy whilst they were attacking, which means not one of the infidels could escape, that if Numan did not succeed, he had grace from the Sultan, and punishment from the prophet."

Lord Lytleton was born at seven months; and wife supposing the infant dead, threw the child in the cradle; and it was not till some time after he engaged the attention of one of the attendants, who shewing signs of life. Thus was the child to have been deprived of a character that is an honour to humanity. His lordship was a tender constitution, and it was by the singularity and sobriety that his life was preserved, more especially if we consider the age of 64, more especially if we consider the age of his mind for some time past. During his life he was several days insensible; however, before his death he recovered the entire use of his faculties. His fortitude, resignation and that of a good man and a Christian. He desired that his blessing and forgiveness be delivered to his son. Of his daughter in law (Lytleton) he took the most affectionate commendation to her in the strongest terms could never forget her duty to God; for it is not that he would not exchange the pleasure of a good conscience for the possession of wealth. All his domestics, even the lowest, were added to his thanks for their services. Of this wishes a more able pen would do justice to so distinguished a character. He can be said that as a Christian, a gentleman, and a patriot, he was an honour to his country, and left an example for the nobility of this and...

1282 Blanks. Last drawn 50
2250 Tickets, at 4 dollars each, are 9000

But a little more than one and a quarter blanks to a prize.
Fifteen per cent, to be deducted for the above purposes.

The necessity of repairing the town wharf, and building ferry stairs, for the convenience of the public, will be readily acknowledged—and the ruinous condition of the market-house, must induce every friend to the prosperity of the town or country, not only to wish, but to assist, in having it removed, and a neat and convenient edifice erected in its room. To effect these good purposes the above scheme is offered,—and it is presumed a lottery so favourable to the adventurers, and instituted for such good designs, cannot fail to meet with the favour and patronage of the public.

The drawing is to begin on the 22d day of February next, at the court-house in Chester-town, under the inspection of the following gentlemen, who are appointed managers, and will give bond, and be on oath faithfully to discharge the trust reposed in them, viz. Thomas Smyth, Eleazer M'Comb, Col. Richard Lloyd, John Maxwell, John Voorhees, James Hynson, John Page, Jeremiah Nicols, Thomas Ringgold, William Sluby, jun. and Dr. William Burdrey. As soon as the drawing is finished, the fortunate numbers will be published in the Annapolis, Baltimore and Philadelphia news papers, and the Prizes paid by the respective managers who signed the tickets.

Tickets may be had of the managers, and of Messieurs Gilpin and Jurey of Kent county, of Messieurs Richard Tilghman Earle, & Co. of Mess. Hopper and Kent, and of Mr. Robert Brown, of Queen-Anne's county, of Mr. John Clapham, and Mr. Charles Wallace, at Annapolis, and of Mr. James Cheston, at Baltimore.
