FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Correspondence of the New York Post.

EXCHANGING PRISONERS OF WAR.

It is rumored here that William H. Polk, of Tennessee, is urging the Secretary of War to release all the Confederate prisoners in our hands on parole, with the understanding that the Confederate leaders shall return all of our soldiers who have been so unfortunate as to fall into their hands. This proposition does not meet with favor, and Mr. Stanton seems to be thoroughly aware of the feeling of the country upon the subject. The facts respecting the release of the Roanoke prisoners are still in a fog, and unless they are soon reported to the country, a call will be made in the Senate for information upon the subject from the War Department.—It is stated, and apparently upon good authority, that General Halleck recently had written an order releasing 6,000 Confederate prisoners on parole, when he was stopped by a telegram from the War Department. It is generally known that the Confederates demand that all prisoners shall be paroled, on each side, and pretend that such an arrangement was made between Generals Cobb and Wool at their interview a fortnight since in Hampton Roads. The War Department will hesitate to agree to any further exchanges till the Confederate leaders forward all the Union prisoners remaining in Dixie.

A NEW TARIFF BILL.

The new Tariff bill will be reported to the House by the Ways and Means Committee some time in the course of week after next. The general principles of the new bill are understood. The present Tariff laws will be so modified as to agree with the Tax bill. Those articles manufactured or raised in this country which are taxed will be "protected" by a corresponding increased import duty, and wherever, in the judgment of the committee, an article (independent of the consideration just named) will bear a heavier duty it will be imposed. The free list will be curtailed, and very much increased duties will be laid upon spices.

THE TAX BILL.

It is very generally understood in Congressional circles that the Senate Finance Committee have determined to make some radical amendments to the House Tax bill. The sub-committee to whom this particular subject was committed consists of Messrs. Simmons, Pearce and Howard. Mr. Simmons and Mr. Pearce have been ill, so that they could not meet in the committee-room; but it is stated here this morning that they have agreed to propose several radical changes in the House bill.

OUR WESTERN ARMIES.

A distinguished gentleman from Kentucky who is at present in this city, in an interview with several Government officials last evening, expressed his great surprise that, while the best portion of the army was in this vicinity, whether number or munitions of war are taken into the account, yet the most of the severe fighting was left to the Western army, which is deficient in numbers and artillery. "If the Potomac army means ever to participate actively in this war," said he, "it must do it now." He was answered that if he would wait a week longer he would hear of fighting enough to satisfy him on this end of the grand line. The complaints indulged in by the Kentuckian are very general among all Western men. "We are doing nearly all the terrible fighting," is the cry of Western Congressmen and others, until Eastern and Northern men grow restive under the repeated insinuations of a lack of energy, and are wont to reply: "Our troops are under the command of a Western General—when he gives the word to advance, there will be as good fighting here as any we have heard of in the West."

Special Correspondence of the New York Times.

A FRENCH WAR VESSEL TO VISIT ALEXANDRIA.

The commander of the French sloop-of-war Gassend, now in Hampton Roads, has notified the Secretary of the Navy of the fact that he intends proceeding up the Potomac river, for the purpose of visiting the port of Alexandria. The Secretary of the Navy accordingly notified Flag-officer Goldborough, and it is expected that the latter will extend the courtesies usual in cases where foreign vessels visit inland ports. It is the right of the French nation to visit any port of entry, but under circumstances like that attending the visit of the Gassend to Alexandria, it is the practice to give notice of the fact, that any courtesies necessary may be extended.

TRANSPORTS TO BE DISCHARGED.

The immense fleet of transports now lying at anchor off Alexandria, having been chartered by the Government to convey troops and army material, not being longer desired by the Government, will be returned to the owners of said vessels, thus relieving the people of an enormous daily expense.

HOW MANASSAS LOOKED TO THE ADVANCE.—"Boston," one of Col. Howard's brigade, writes as follows to the Boston Journal:

"While we were camped at and near Manassas, I had ample opportunity of examining the deserted camps of the enemy. They had comfortable log houses well ventilated, and from the vast number of boxes, barrels, kegs and cans scattered around, evidently lived as well or even better, than the Federal troops. I saw log huts for at least 75,000 infantry, beside the cavalry and artillery barracks, and none of our officers who examined the camp will admit that less than 75,000 men were at and near Centreville and Manassas. The fortifications were much varied in character, according to the nature of the ground. From Union Mills to Centreville there is a ditch with embrasures for cannon over three miles long. Some of the redoubts are models of engineering skill. It is of no use to underrate them—there they stand, and there are the abandoned cities, so to say, log towns, capable of holding from 3,000 to 15,000 men.
