[COMMUNICATED.]

IS BISHOP WHITTINGHAM AN ABOLITIONIST!

Messrs. Editors:—I send you the following extract from a sermon delivered in St. Luke's church, New York, August 2d, 1832, by Rev. W. R. Whittingham, the present Bishop of Maryland:

"Against our fellow beings, too, our pride has made us sin, in withholding that measure which has been so bountifully dealt to us. We are free—it is our glory. But the poor black still groans in slavery. He is made a thing of merchandise, while we are too proud (fain would I impute it to this source, rather than hard-heartedness and cold-blooded love of gain!)—we are too proud to own him for a man and a brother. Even in his slavery we deny him the best of boons, the treasures of the mind; because we dare not give him moral power. O, that his sighs and tears be not bottled up for witnesses against us! that his moral degradation, and, far worse, the eternal ruin which must too often be its fruit, be not required at our hands!"

THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION FOR SPECIAL PRAYERS.

The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer writes as follows:

In order the better to give effect to the President's proclamation, it was the desire of some of the Episcopal clergy that Bishop Potter should set forth a special prayer, thanking God for the national victories, to be said on Sunday, and with that desire I have reason to believe the Bishop was made acquainted. Strange to say, however, he interposed a variety of objections—one of which was, that it was not settled yet whether the fight at Pittsburg Landing was a victory or a defeat; and the result was, no notice of the proclamation could be taken at all in the prayers of the church—though in the sermons the default was abundantly made good. Bishop Odenheimer, of New Jersey, in like manner paid no attention to the proclamation—an omission which some attribute to the fact that he has a son in the Confederate army. But, perhaps, the most remarkable manifestation of public feeling, during the day, was at the Church of the Pilgrims, in Brooklyn (Rev. Henry Ward Beecher). The reverend gentleman, in the course of his review of the condition of the country, took occasion to say it was a dangerous thing, in a free Government, for those in power to take a man's liberty from him without the opportunity of a trial, and it was a dangerous thing for a people to submit to have it done and never speak out against it! This little incident gave a solemn turn to the proceedings, and when the assemblage separated, it was in singing, in full chorus, the hymn, "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow."

From the New York Times April 11. (Editorial.)

THE EMBARGO ON ANTHRACITE.

At Philadelphia, yesterday, much consternation prevailed because of a Government order forbidding the exportation of coal. It was thought to have some relation to the Merrimac, and to be an awkward way of announcing that coal-bearing vessels, southward bound, were in special danger of that arch-adversary. Similars orders were doubtless sent to all the loyal seaports, and possibly provoked like irrational commentary.

The explanation, we take it, is simple. The coal shipped from our Northern ports has been going to the Bermudas, the Bahamas, and Antilles, where it has been on sale to any customer. Some of these have been ugly customers—privateers, to wit, and British steamers carrying arms and munitions to the Confederates—all of whom have eagerly paid any price to obtain anthracite in preference to bituminous coal. And this for an obvious reason. The steamer burning bituminous coal is visible at sea even when on the very horizon.—Its flaring columns of smoke is seen even when the hull of the ship is beyond sight, whereas the anthracite coal shows no smoke whatever. The difference in fuel has therefore become a distinguishing mark of the American navy, which uses the latter coal, while British and French steamers use the former.

It has been a constant practice of the privateers, and of such contraband vessels as the Ella Warley and other traders between Nassau, Charleston and Savannah, to lay in a stock of anthracite at the British Islands, and thus add a most important aid to their means of eluding our cruisers. This game it is to forestall the purpose of Government to tranship their cargoes at Nassau, or to run the blockade. It is not the intention of Government to facilitate this traffic by keeping up the supplies of anthracite at accessible points. It is, on the contrary, the intention to draw the line so sharply between national vessels on the one hand, and Confederate and foreign steamships on the other, that the smoke-pipe shall decide whether a doubtful vessel is entitled to approach or pass the blockade. Or, to express the formula colloquially, smoking will not be allowed within the lines.

IMPORTANT ORDER CONCERNING THE SHIPPING OF COAL.—A despatch was received in Philadelphia on Monday morning from the Secretary of the Treasury, directing the Collector of the Port not to clear any vessel with anthracite coal for foreign ports, or home ports south of Delaware Bay, until otherwise ordered. The despatch, being misconstrued on the first report, created quite an excitement in the Stock Board, it being supposed to apply to all vessels, and exciting fears that the Merrimac had got out. From certain facts that have transpired, the order is supposed to be a precautionary measure on the part of the Government to prevent Confederates from receiving supplies of coal via Havana, shipped from Northern ports in barrels, &c.—New York Tribune.

The Fortress Monroe correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer states that on Saturday afternoon, as Robert Irons, of Baltimore, employed by the Commissary Department, was removing some barrels of coffee, one of them fell on his left leg, breaking it.
