THE OLD CAPITOL BUILDING AND ITS INMATES.

Correspondence of the N. Y. Times.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The old Capitol building, which has been used for the past ten months for the safe-keeping of Secessionists, both political and belligerent, has become one of the "institutions" of the Metropolis. Sight-seers who come here to get a peep at our "elephants" never fail to include this prison among the things to be wondered at.

It is a low, flat, brick building, two stories in height on the front, with a three-story back addition, containing in all some eighteen rooms. Situated at the north end of the avenue, and directly in the rear of our present Capitol, with an unbroken view of the country around, it is altogether a pleasant and desirable place for a country residence, and affords our deluded friends a healthy summer resort.

On entering the main door in front, and presenting your pass to converse with a prisoner, you are officer of the day is on hand at the interview, and as all conversation must be in a tone sufficiently loud to be distinctly heard by the presiding officer, it is quite impossible that secesh visitors can squeeze in an interdicted remark to their imprisoned relations. These interviews are generally limited to fifteen minutes, but larger license is sometimes granted, and thirty minutes are permitted. The style of conversation is restricted to that appertaining wholly to the domestic affairs of the prisoner, and all remarks animadverting on the course pursued by our Government touching the imprisonment, is strictly forbidden.

The prison, which is under the management of the superintendent, Mr. William P. Wood, is in thorough order, well cleaned, and in a condition to render its inmates as comfortable as practicable.—At this time there are about eighty persons confined, of whom only sometimes or twelve are political—the remainder being prisoners of war. The great feature of the establishment is the female portion of its inmates, three in number—Mrs. Greenhow, Mrs. Baxley and Mrs. Morris, (alias Ewart.)

Mrs. Greenhow, who has been incarcerated since last summer, partly in her own dwelling, but for the last three months in the old Capitol, is, or rather has been, a gay, dashing widow, rather tall, of small facial outlines, and graceful in movement. We say she has been a gay, lively widow, as we understand that her vivacity is considerably reduced since her Secesh plumage has been clipped with Union shears. She is aged about 48, but presents a much more youthful appearance, and would readily pass for a person of 48 summers. Her daughter, Miss Rose, is a sprightly lassie of 13.

Mrs. Baxley has been sojourning here some three months. She is a virulent, lequacious secesh, and inclined to be troublesome. A black silk apron, representing a Confederate black flag, is sometimes hung from her window, and though ordered by the guard to withdraw it, it is not often that she agrees to the request. She is aged about 45, not prepossessing, and would be termed plain-looking; wears an air of nonchalance, and seems contented with her quarters.

Mrs. Morris, in style and personnel, is decidedly the most interesting widow of the three. With a fair, smooth complexion, a finely-cut nose of the Roman order, a well-proportioned mouth of the pouting disposition, and a mien at once erect and commanding, she appears to a stranger rather "taking." Like Mrs. Baxley, she is disposed to "pitch" into the guards outside her windows, and annoy them to the utmost. It is contrary to rules to lean your body from the window; but our fascinating subject, calculating, probably, upon a pretty face for extra privileges from the guards, will thrust her head from the opening and make signals, when unobserved, to sympathizing Secessionists who may be passing by. She is emphatically uneasy under her imprisonment, and chafes under the rod like all refractory children. A chubby-faced, healthy son, aged 6, keeps her company.

These hoop-skirt Confederates will leave us for Dixie on to-morrow or next day. Already the sum of four or five hundred dollars has been collected in their behalf, as previously asserted in the Times, and it is said that they have been promised by Jeff. Davis immediately on their arrival a position under his threadbare Administration whereby they may earn a livelihood—rather severe, Lopina, on Mrs. Greenhow, who has been an accepted belle at the White House under Buchanan, and an especial favorite of Ex-Senator Slidell, now Minister at large.

AN AMERICAN IMPOSTOR IN LONDON.—The London Observer, of March 15, [illegible] "Count" Fitz-Simmons Calhoun, Captain in the American service, was charged at Bow street with fraudulently obtaining £10 under the following circumstances: Mr. G. O. Hall, a gentleman possessed of large estates in Louisiana, said: I am at present staying at Norfolk-villas, Paddington. Last April I was residing in Gloucester Square. About that time the prisoner called, and said he was a brother to a gentleman known to me in Paris by the name of Meredith Calhoun. I invited him into my parlor, and in the course of our conversation he said that on his way from Sweden to London he had lost his pocket-book. He also said he wanted to go to Philadelphia, and asked me to lend him £10, and that when he got to Liverpool he should have some funds from Mr. Brown, the shipper, and he would remit it the following day, or he would give me a bill on his brother in Paris. I lent him the £10, and he gave me an order. I never received the £10 again, and I afterwards heard he was an impostor, and for form sake, as I had a friend going to Paris, I got him to present it. Mr. Calhoun was out, but his wife, who was at home, confirmed the report as to his being an impostor, by saying that they knew nothing of the prisoner. Yesterday, I saw him in Burlington Arcade, and for the sake of public security I gave him in charge for forgery, as he had signed himself 'Francis Fitz-Simon Calhoun,' and when I addressed him yesterday he said his name was 'Fitz-Simmons Calhoun.'—The prisoner, after saying that he knew some of the most eminent men in America, was remanded."

DISINTERESTED BENEVOLENCE.—We hear a great deal about the prevalence of the above virtue among that class of our fellow-citizens who profess unbounded love for the negro, and manifest unmitigated hatred of all secessionists. Now, as we have a case which has excited considerable interest, and afforded much amusement to the more conservative friends of our Senators and Representatives in Congress, we will relate it. Not long since it was reported in the newspapers that Mr. ——, a prominent citizen of Washington, a secessionist, had been arrested and imprisoned; this was not a matter of much surprise to those who knew him and had conversed with him. That gentleman was confined eighteen days, and then released, it is said, upon the urgent solicitation of Mr. John B. Alley, of Lynn, aided by Messrs. Sumner and Wilson. Parties here have been very much surprised to hear of the continued confinement of General Stone and the release of this Mr. —— without trial, but it has been ascertained that in this case the party imprisoned was owing John B. Alley four thousand dollars, and he exerted himself most mightily to extricate him. We do not say that Mr. Alley gets his four thousand dollars, or any part of it; but we only state the reported facts, as an instance of disinterested benevolence—Boston Courier, April 18.

THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.—A few days ago we partially confirmed in these columns certain reports alluded to by a contemporary, reflecting upon the official fidelity of Mr. Smith, Secretary of the Interior. We did this in the full belief that certain statements made to us some time ago were to be fully relied upon. A strong censure directed at the Commercial Advertiser by a Washington contemporary of high character, awakened suspicion that we had been deceived and had been guilty of a wrong to the Secretary while we supposed we were only discharging a public duty. We therefore instituted inquiries which have made suspicion certainty. In accordance, therefore, with the principles which have always guided our editorial course—never intentionally to commit a wrong, and if we commit one inadvertently to acknowledge it fully and rectify it thoroughly—we withdraw our unfavorable comments upon the official conduct of the Secretary of the Interior, as entirely unmerited on his part. And we do this more cheerfully, as in the course of our inquiries we have learned that Mr. Smith is held in the highest personal and official estimation by his colleagues in the Cabinet and by the President.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

IRON-CLAD BOATS ON ALBEMARLE SOUND.—It is rumored that the Confederates are building two shallow iron-clad boats at Norfolk to send through the Dismal Swamp Canal and down the Pasquotank river into Albemarle and Pamlico Sounds to destroy the fleet and bombard the camps of General Burnside. The suggestion is an alarming one, and we cannot say that it is improbable. The Navy Yard at Norfolk is one of the largest and most completely furnished in the United States; the foundries and machine-shops which turned out plates and bars for the Merrimac's sides have had time, since she was completed, to prepare other bars and plates for the small vessels mentioned. The Dismal Swamp Canal is navigable for schooners drawing from four to six feet water, and an armed vessel of sufficient size could pass through to Elizabeth, take her prize, and then hunt down our fleet in the Sounds, for whom, indeed, there would be no escape, as the passage out to sea is not always practicable.—New York Post, April 18.

Thomas B. Monroe, Jr., formerly editor of the Lexington Statesman, and late Private Secretary of Governor Magoffin, of Kentucky, was killed at the battle of Pittsburg Landing. The Louisville Journal states that intelligence to that effect has been received at Frankfort by a telegraphic despatch. He fell on the Confederate side.

The well-known Col. Corcoran, now a prisoner at Richmond, has been appointed a Harbor Master of New York by the Governor of that State. Some of his friends are dissatisfied, and claim that he should be made Brigadier-General by the President.

RELIABLE NEWS.
BALTIMORE, March 29, 1862.
Mr. Geo. Pearson—Dear Sir: Being troubled with a severe Cough, Tightness and Cold (which settled on my lungs), I tried your MEDICATED TAR DROPS, and can speak very flatteringly of their having relieved me in a few hours, and curing me in three or four days. I cheerfully recommend your justly celebrated Tar Drops to all similarly affected, who will find them pleasant, simple, very efficacious, and the cheapest remedy I ever used. Yours, very truly,
