BALTIMORE.

TUESDAY, APRIL 22, 1862.

From the Dayton (Ohio) Empire, April 19.

MR. GORDON'S PARDON.

The following is a copy of the free pardon, granted Rev. George Gordon, President of Iberia, O., College:

"WHEREAS, On the 6th of November, 1861, in the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio, one George Gordon was indicted and convicted for violation of the Fugitive Slave law, to wit: of resisting a process in the hands of the Deputy Marshal in his attempt to arrest a fugitive slave, and was sentenced by the Court to six months' imprisonment, and to pay a fine of three hundred dollars, with costs of prosecution; and

"Whereas, It is credibly represented that Geo. Gordon did not participate in the incitement and origin of the riotous proceedings, and was not otherwise guilty than that, near the end of the scene, he did encourage and support a riotous breach of the law by his presence and consent; and

"Whereas, Considering his reverend calling as a minister of the Gospel, his reputation for piety, learning and talents, and the high estimation in which the President is credibly informed he is held by the community which knows him best, it does appear to the President that his sentence, though legal, was severe, and that by his imprisonment and sufferings he has atoned sufficiently for his offence, and that in his case the law has been vindicated."

This reverend George Gordon is the man who, pretending to be a disciple of "the meek and lowly Jesus," dragged his clerical robes into the street, and engaged in, and incited others to engage in mobbing a United States Marshal, who was fulfilling his sworn duty of enforcing the laws. This reverend Mobocrat was tried for his offence by a jury of his countrymen, found guilty, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of three hundred dollars. Gordon has not yet served out half his term of imprisonment, but the appeals of his abolition friends to President Lincoln (who, by the way, has a "fellow feeling that makes him wondrous kind") for his pardon, touched the old gentleman's tender heart, and he concluded "that his sentence, though legal, was severe, and that by his imprisonment and sufferings he has atoned sufficiently for his offence, and that in his case the law has been vindicated."

It is a most fortunate thing for Mr. Gordon that he is not a Democrat, and that he was guilty of nothing more than an attempt by force to resist the execution of the laws of the United States, or the majesty of the law might not have been so easily vindicated. But being a ranting Abolitionist, he found great favor in the eyes of the President, who granted him a pardon. At first Mr. Gordon refused to accept the pardon, because the order granting it was not couched in language to suit him; but he has since thought better of it; and being a great lover of liberty, concluded to ignore minor considerations, and accepted the proffered pardon.

In the cells of Forts Warren and Lafayette, are incarcerated hundreds of American citizens.—They were sent there without any specific charges being made against them. They went at the flat of Mr. Seward's supreme despotic power. They have appealed to know upon what charges they were imprisoned. They have demanded and their friends have demanded, that they be allowed the poor privilege of a trial. But their appeals have passed unheeded. They have lain for months in the cells of these Bastiles, and yet, as in the case of Gordon who was legally convicted, they have not yet by their "imprisonment and sufferings atoned sufficiently for their offence, and vindicated the law." Mr. Gordon is an Abolitionist and was imprisoned for attempting to prevent the enforcement of the Fugitive Slave law, and it required but a short time for him to suffer atonement for his offence, and a vindication of the law. The men imprisoned in Forts Warren and Lafayette, are Democrats, and were incarcerated for refusing to bow down and worship at the shrine of abolitionism. In the opinion of the "powers that be" their offence is much greater than that of Mr. Gordon's, and will require a much longer time to suffer out an atonement and vindication of the law. Such is free government under Republican rule.

From the Bedford (Pa.) Gazette, April 18.

ABOLITION IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

A civil war, bloodier and fiercer than that of the British Roses, is now raging in our country—the fruit of that noxious exotic, Abolitionism, transplanted in the garden of freedom by the hand of a false and fanatical philanthropy. Though warned and adjured by no less a personage than Washington himself, not to have anything to do with sectional ideas and isms,—the American people,—or rather a majority of the people of the non-slaveholding States—took under their special charge this deadly night-shade, this Upas plant of the politic in one half of the States of the Union—cultivating it more assiduously and carefully than corn for bread, or flax for clothing.

The solemn warning of the Pater Patriæ, was laughed to scorn. The earnest admonitions of the race of great men that succeeded him, (left as their last and most precious legacy to posterity), were despised, or forgotten. So, the poisonous tree grew and flourished, and distilled its venomous dew over the length and breadth of the Northern section of the country. Rankor and deadlier became its poison, as the muck and filth from the partisan nostrum were applied to its root; denser and deeper and darker grew the shadow it cast over the land, as political preachers built their caterpillar nests upon its branches, and with their festoons of cunningly-woven cobwebs, spun from the finest threads of the "higher law" sophistry, shut out the daylight of the Constitution; then, when in the false light in which men began to behold each other, reason succumbed to prejudice, common sense to passion, and patriotism to partisanship, the clash of arms was heard, and section rose against section, in furious, bloody and most unnatural conflict.

To drop the figure, Abolitionism, or Anti-slaveryism, proceeded from one step to another, until it created a civil feud whose history is now being written in blood upon almost every heartstone from Maine to the Rio Grande. Horror, ruin, desolation and death are borne upon every wind. Relistation of the awful condition of our country is almost impossible. Tongue cannot utter, nor pen delineate, nor pencil portray, the ineffable agonies, the unutterable horrors, the indescribable dismay that every passing hour brings to the once happy home of the American citizen. And though this dreadful curse under which the people suffer, in the indirect result of that Abolition crusade which set at naught the teachings of Washington and reared its Gorgon head despite the prophetic language of Webster, Clay, and their glorious compeers, the suffering people are called to witness the still further advancement of this monster towards the destruction, nay, the very annihilation, of our Government. Congress has abolished slavery in the District of Columbia! Are we really to be but another example in the verification of the pagan maxim:—"Whom the gods wish to destroy, they first make mad?" Congress is, truly, already insane. The conduct of that body would have made a Secessionist of Job, if he had been a slaveholder. Shall Abolitionism progress still further in its work of disunion and desolation? Will the people permit it?

THE BEAUREGARD CIPHER DESPATCH.

The Beauregard "cipher" dispatch, indicating an intention on the part of Confederates, last summer, to burn Washington and "dispatch Scott and Lincoln," which was picked up at Manassas, is now in possession of a gentleman connected with one of the insurance offices of this city, who freely exhibits it to scores of curious people every day. It is be a forgery, it is a singularly ingenious one, to say the least of it.

The above is from the Philadelphia Inquirer.—The Washington Republican, in republishing it, says:

This Beauregard cipher story is a very good one, but we shall be compelled to spoil it, by exposing the hoax. Some months ago, a gentleman came to this city, with a very ingenious method of cipher writing and telegraphing, which he was anxious the Government should adopt. It was and is, probably, the best system of cipher communication now known, as no expert can, by any possibility, decipher it without the key. The cipher consists in a series of little holes punched in a piece of paper, and which cannot be read by any human ingenuity. The Government, however, was too much engaged to pay attention to any new system of secret correspondence, notwithstanding the fact that some of the Confederate leaders knew all about it.

One day, while the inventor of the new cipher was urging the Government to adopt it, as a means of safety, he demonstrated its simplicity and ingenuity to a little circle of friends, by preparing the identical despatch now imputed to Beauregard, and which is being "exhibited to scores" in Philadelphia. Doubtless the Confederate Government would have paid liberally for the exclusive use of this cipher, but the inventor has no means of exhibiting it to the Confederates, and had no desire to, as that Beauregard never heard of his despatch until he saw it in print, and the ingenious author of it supposed it had been destroyed immediately after his friends had examined it. Pleased with the ingenuity of the cipher, it is likely one of them secreted it, and, being fond of a practical joke, had it published as genuine, and, of course, picked up at Manassas.

THE MERRIMAC.—A correspondent of the New York Times, writing from Fortress Monroe, says: "The Merrimac is not correctly represented in the cuts of her hitherto published in the illustrated papers. She is longer than usually shown, and appears not so high above water. She appears not black, but of a rust color. Altogether she inspires profound respect, with a shade of terror, in one who looks on her as an enemy. When I looked on our vast fleet of schooners outside the Roads, huddling together, with their white wings folded, and them at the long, rusty creature that turned about so violently in the waters ahead, I could compare her to nothing, but a huge copper-head snake, unheeding its coils in a barn yard, to the terror of all the young chickens resorting there; or, to change the figure, and look at her and her consorts alone, she appears as the bull buffer of the ring, and the Yorktown and Jamestown as her bottle-holders and spongers—who beak her in betz, and called 'time' in the fight."

RELIABLE NEWS.
BALTIMORE, March 29, 1862.
Mr. Geo. Pearson—Dear Sir: Being troubled with a severe SORE THROAT and Cold (which settled on my lungs), I tried your MEDICATED TAR DROPS, and can speak very flatteringly of their having relieved me in a few hours, and curing me in three or four days. I cheerfully recommend your justly celebrated Tar Drops to all similarly affected, who will find them pleasant, simple, very efficacious, and the cheapest remedy I ever used. Yours, very truly,

FRONT STREET THEATRE.
MONDAY, APRIL 28th,
First appearance in this city of the
GREAT PRESTIDIGITATEUR, HERRMANN.
The Managers, Messrs. ULMAN & PALMER, of the Academy of Music, New York, would respectfully call the attention of the public to the appearance in Baltimore of
MONSIEUR HERRMANN,
Who is universally recognised as the
GREATEST LIVING PRESTIDIGITATEUR, and whose performances at the Academies of Music in New York, Philadelphia and Boston, where he has played to pronounced the most wonderful in their peculiar line.
The performances of Herrmann are entirely original and novel. Their distinguishing feature is the entire
ABSENCE OF APPARATUS,
All effects being solely produced by extraordinary MANUAL SKILL.
During the interval of M. Herrmann's Programme will be given a
GRAND CONCERT
BY THE
FULL ORCHESTRA,
and the celebrated Trio, from the Academy of Music, New York—
Messrs. SCHRIENER, Pianist,
DORIHLER, Violinist,
WEIDMEYER, Violoncellist
The order of the performance will be announced from the stage by M. Herrmann himself.
