BALTIMORE.

THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1862.

[In compliance with the request of a number of our subscribers, we reproduce from the editorial columns of the Baltimore American the following article, without comment, and simply as a matter of record—EDS. M. N. S.]

THE MARYLAND STATE PRISONERS IN FORT WARREN.

From the Baltimore American, May 15

We learn that the Commissioners appointed by the Secretary of War to examine the cases of State prisoners in custody at the time the order was made—Major-General Dix and Judge Pierrepont—performed their duty at Fort Warren last week. Of twenty-nine State prisoners—the whole number from all parts of the Union—twenty were released, or offered their release, on parole. The other nine were either not examined, or were, after examination, remanded to custody. Of the latter class two were officers of the navy who had refused to take the oath of allegiance.

We understand that the prisoners not examined were Messrs. S. Teackle Wallis, T. Parkin Scott, Charles Howard, F. Key Howard and George P. Kane, all of this city. The reason why no examination was made in these cases is understood to have been the conviction on the part of the Commissioners that they ought not to be permitted to return to Baltimore, on any condition, while the class of citizens here, of which they are a type, keep up an unrelenting hostility to the Government, provoking, most justly, a hostile feeling towards them on the part of the Union men of this city. Mr. Kane is under an indictment for treason, and this fact may have had its influence on the Commissioners in leaving him in custody without an examination. That the feeling of hostility to which we have alluded has been fostered and embittered by the vindictiveness of the Secession women of Baltimore there can be no doubt, and to them is due, in a great degree at least, as prime movers of disloyalty, the continued imprisonment of their friends.

Mayor Brown had a hearing and was advised by the Commissioners that the existing condition of things in Baltimore did not admit of his resuming the duties of his office. They tendered him his release if he would consent to resign it. This he declined, and he was remanded to custody.

Messrs. Harrison, Gatchell and Warfield, Mr. Lyon, the son of Mrs. Norris, and Mr. Thomas W. Hall, formerly editor of the Exchange and of the South, were offered their release on their parole of honor to give no aid or comfort to the enemies of the United States, and all declined. The inference is irresistible that if released without condition they would not scruple to give aid and comfort to the enemy whenever they should have an opportunity.

It is well understood that the leading men at Fort Warren—those who, as members of the Legislature, voted for an immediate recognition of the Independence of the Confederate States after the atrocious attack on Fort Sumter—have established a tyrannical surveillance over their weaker minded fellow-prisoners, and that no one can even give his parole without losing caste with them.

The case of Mr. Robert Hull is a striking illustration of the influence of the parties referred to. Mr. Hull is a very fair minded citizen, and left to himself would, we have no doubt, have agreed to render no assistance to those who are in arms against the Government of their country with the diabolical design of overwhelming it. When he was called before the Commissioners and offered his release on parole, he declined, and he had, as we learn, a written constitutional argument against the right of the Commissioners to exact it. Mr. Hull, we do not doubt, is a very excellent man of business, but we are sure his most familiar acquaintances will be a little surprised to learn that he has been suddenly converted, in the atmosphere of Fort Warren, into an interpreter of the Constitution. If we could be favored with a sight of the paper he presented we might possibly find in it foot-prints which would guide us to some one else as the true author.

We have no wish to treat this subject with the slightest levity. On the contrary, it is one which deserves to be considered calmly and gravely under all its aspects, and especially in its relations to the Government, against which these gentlemen have arrayed themselves. We should be glad to see them restored to their friends and their homes. But until those with whom they are associated here, and of whose movements they have been the central force, are animated with a better spirit towards the Government—nay, until these gentlemen cease to be a fourth note and become disturbers of the public peace and a nucleus of disaffection. We can, at all events, congratulate those who sympathize with them on the fact—pregnant with commendation to the Government as a merciful custodian—that there is not one of them who has not gained flesh under the benignant regime of Colonel Dimick.

From the N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

SICKNESS IN THE WESTERN ARMY.

The accounts beginning to be received thus early in the season, respecting the prevalence of sickness among our troops in the Southwest, are calculated to excite apprehension. There is reason to fear that unless every possible precaution is exercised and the best medical preparations are made, the list of mortality from disease will equal if not surpass that arising from the casualties of war. The correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, writing from near Pittsburg Landing on the 9th inst., says the army is "absolutely melting away" from sickness—that more than 10,000 men in the army of the Southwest are already disabled from this cause.—Another correspondent says, under date Harrisburg, Tenn., May 12th:—

"Sickness continues on the increase. The weather is intensely hot, and, of course, the prostration of the troops correspondingly great. You can have no idea of the immense loss caused by sickness. I passed through the hospital-receiving boats to-day, and the sight of suffering humanity that there presented itself was enough to harrow up the soul."

A correspondent connected with the Wisconsin Sanitary Commission at Pittsburg Landing, says the seriously sick in four regiments from that State now before Corinth, number about 500. We also notice the frequent arrival of boats at Cairo, St. Louis, &c., laden with sick. It is evident that we shall soon be compelled to recognize the fact that a hostile climate is in alliance with the enemy, to oppose the progress of our arms, and that what we do before the commencement of hot weather must be done quickly. If it is impracticable to bring the war to a close this spring, we have but to consider how it can be carried on through the summer months, with the least sacrifice of life from exposure, and especially to make the most complete sanitary provision which our medical institutions can command.

It would also be humane to exempt from military service in the Southern States, so far as possible, all those regiments recruited from the extreme North, till cold weather again returns, as this class of volunteers will be most liable to suffer. The peculiar exposure to which the army is subject, is apparent from the use made of marshy districts as a part of the plan of defence. At Corinth, for example, the Federal army is in close proximity to extensive swamp, which no doubt will soon evolve dangerous miasma. But it is satisfactory to know that this point, at least, is not likely to fear trouble much longer, from the fact that the Confederates concentrated there must soon either fight, run or starve, their communications in a great measure being cut off.

It is not, however, correct to suppose, as many do, that the entire South is unhealthy for Northern troops during the summer season. The interiors of many of the States, especially North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia contain places of resort which are in all respects as salubrious and perhaps as cool as can be found in the Northern States. The same is true of many points on the sea coast, and of the pine regions, where they are not swampy. If, therefore, the great work of destroying the Confederate armies can be accomplished before the hot weather sets in, there will be no difficulty in finding positions in any of the Southern States in which our volunteers can be summered with perfect safety and comfort.

A MARYLAND DEPUTATION IN WASHINGTON—GOV. HICKS.—A large number of Maryland farmers headed by ex-Governor Hicks arrived in Washington this morning, for the purpose of waiting on the President to consult about enforcing the fugitive slave law. I can assure you that the President is having this thing done, without any solicitation on their part; but Maryland Rebels in their demands will be dealt with according to their deserts. None but good Union men will have their slaves returned.—Cor. N. Y. Journal of Commerce, May 19th.

THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS PARTIALLY RESTORED.—After an involuntary absence of about three months, during which time we were made familiar with the classic and once hallowed grounds of Fort McHenry—we again resume, partially, our old vocation of "enlightening the world with lamp-black." OUR PRESS, being deemed dangerous by the Government, has been kindly limited, and, for the future, instead of publishing "THE SOUTH, or any other paper, without consent of the Commanding General," we shall moderately labor in the humble department of the "art preservative of all arts," by executing every description of BOOK AND JOB PRINTING, hoping through that medium to sustain ourselves and those dependent upon us, and would earnestly appeal to our friends to favor us with their patronage. We have prepared our JOB PRINTING DEPARTMENT to execute all kinds of printing neatly, expeditiously and cheaply, and solicit a call at our old building.

STILL ANOTHER TRIUMPH.

BALTIMORE, May 1st, 1862.

I have experienced so much benefit by using PEARSON'S, MEDICATED TAR DROPS, that I believe it not only a duty but a pleasure, to make it known to others. I was afflicted with a Sore Throat and Dry Cough, which debilitated me so that I could get no rest. My friends told me that I had the consumption. I am now happy to inform you that your MEDICATED TAR DROPS have cured me.

I find that your MEDICATED TAR DROPS are counterfeited, and I caution the afflicted to be on their guard. This is really a shame that so efficacious a remedy should be injured by unprincipled men. I am glad, however, to see that your signature is now on each package, and I advise those who purchase to bear that in mind.

Yours, truly, HENRY FISHER,
No. 15 North Bond street.

PEARSON'S MEDICATED TAR DROPS are prepared and sold by GEO. PEARSON, No. 5 Liberty street, Baltimore. Sold also by the principal Druggists at 10 cents per package.
