SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1862.

FRANCE AND THE SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY.

Correspondence of the New York Herald.

PARIS, June 13.—I have ill news to communicate this week. Months ago I warned you that what I now have to tell would occur sooner or later; that is, that France and England would interfere in the American quarrel, and that beyond a doubt they would favor the South. After waiting to see whether General McClellan would not at once destroy the Confederate army at Yorktown, or between that place and Richmond, the French Government, finding that such a result was one of time, has sent M. de Persigny, that most liberal of all liberal ministers, to London, where he is to endeavor to persuade the St. James Cabinet into a joint action with France, in what the latter styles a "mediation," but which, once refused, as France fondly hopes it will be, will degenerate into an armed and forcible intervention—a most unwarrantable interference in the affairs of others. But I warned you months ago of this, and that at a time when others were assuring you that Napoleon was your friend, that he had his eye on England, and such like bosh.

I assert again, as I have ever since the commencement of the American rebellion, that France is, and has been from the first, hostile to the Washington Government. At the commencement of the struggle it was Napoleon III. and his sycophants who were your enemies. Now scarcely a man in France but what deems the Government of the United States in error, and but what sides with the South. So much for the shameful course pursued by the French semi-official press, as well as by the American Minister here, who should have exerted himself in causing the foul misrepresentations of the Paris press to be stopped. He could have accomplished this had he endeavored to do so; at any rate, he could have widely disseminated denials to be given to those foul lies and slanders against the Government he represented. Those who have so constantly repeated that France was friendly to the North were either grossly ignorant of the real state of affairs or else they are the enemies of the North. Any one really acquainted with the state of affairs here must have known that France was but watching for an opportunity to carry out her idea of intervention.

Some weeks since the Emperor received reports as to the future naval power of the United States, which rather startled him, else he would have recognized the South alone. Now he wishes that England should join him, and Persigny has gone to London to bait the hook for Palmerston. Persigny has succeeded in impressing Europe that France and England would act together, through the medium of the London Post—that journal being the organ both of Palmerston and the French Minister. The Post, at the instigation of Persigny, has lately been most violent in its attacks upon the North; and, as it is known to be the organ of Palmerston, many persons suppose the views of the Post are his. This, however, remains to be seen.

France, now that she is fairly launched in the Mexican expedition, is of course anxious to mediate; in fact she sees no other course open to her. Will England see out of the same spectacles? That remains to be seen.

I must warn you against a rumor which is now circulating here, to the effect that France and Russia have formed an alliance as regards the Question d'Orient, and that Turkey will suffer thereby. I am assured by those whom I have ever found well informed that the true state of the case is as follows:

Napoleon III., fearing, in case of a war between France and the United States, that Russia would lend moral if not armed aid to the latter, has endeavored to forestall any such eventuality by proposing to Russia an alliance as regards the East—France and Russia to divide the spoils. Now, it is supposed throughout Europe, from the tone of the French papers, that Russia has made such an alliance with France. I can assure you that, as yet, she has not. It is also announced that a special envoy will leave Paris for Constantinople, charged by the Emperor with presenting to the Sultan the Grand Cordon of the Legion of Honor, and that a like messenger will be at the same time sent by the Czar as bearer to the Sultan of the insignia of a Russian order given but to crowned heads. It is hardly necessary to add that this is one of the Patrie's bouncers. The whole of this rescue itself into the fact that France wishes to take such measures beforehand as will prevent Russia from giving you aid.

Get your Parrott and Dahlgren guns ready and hurry up your iron-plated steamers—you will have need of them soon, I fear. All will depend upon the action of England, and no one doubts now that four-fifths of the nation are hostile to the North. Your London files will prove to you how eagerly the English journals seized upon the rumor of a proclamation by Gen. Butler against the women of New Orleans to attack you with a bitterness unexampled in the annals of journalism. They might at least have waited to ascertain whether the proclamation was really genuine before making their onslaught. Decidedly the European press has, with but few exceptions, been most unfair and hostile to the North. Galignani's Messenger, which gets half its support from loyal Americans, has been as unfair as any London or Paris journal, always reproducing the attacks against the Washington Government, but rarely noticing the answers to those attacks. I dare say Mr. Slidell could account for such partiality. It is plain that the North should have an organ here, one that would truly represent American affairs here, and which, sent to the United States, would truly represent European affairs. Americans would surely patronize a loyal paper in Paris.

It is now certain that France will, at all risks and hazards, hold on to Mexico, unless the Mexicans succeed in repelling the invaders. Large reinforcements are now en route for Mexico, in spite of the yellow fever. Many will die, no doubt; but what does the Emperor care, as long as enough reach the City of the Montezumas to hold it for France?

You will have received ere this notification of the blockade by France of the ports of Tampico and Alvarado. Blockading seems to be the order of the day on your side of the Atlantic. The Patrie says that this step has been taken to prevent Americans from introducing arms and munitions of war into Mexico. The semi-official organs here now openly avow that France has assumed the "protectorate of Mexico."

PARIS, June 14.—I have just made a visit to London. So much had been said in Paris about the contemplated mediation of France and England in American Affairs, and so commonly reported was it that France had listened to the complaints of her manufacturing districts, to the degree that M. Persigny was about to carry in his pocket to England a proposition for the mutual interposition of the two countries, that I determined to see for myself in London what was really the cause of such reports. The semi-official organ of Paris, for several days past, had been sounding the tocsin—the alarm-bell—which denoted some great coming event. Still I was incredulous. Wherever I went I invariably heard from the lips of leading men words to this effect:—"France cannot compromise herself with America, in whom she always looks to find a great and powerful ally. The want of cotton is intolerable; but the hatred of America would be still more so. Do not believe in any offensive mediation on the part of France. England is pressing upon her in every shape and manner. Our manufacturers are becoming daily more alarmed, and these articles of the semi official press are only so much soothing syrup administered to the cotton consumer to gain time for America to work out her own salvation."

Well, as soon as I got to England, and threw myself into the clubs and among those leaders of parties with whom I have long had correspondence, I found it was exactly as I suspected. England has simply been exerting all her energies and influence to make France the catspaw. She sees you are really carrying all before you, that victory—subjugation of the Confederate States—is already spreading its halo over your banners, and she knows that in that case it will be war to the knife with her. Hence all this puritanical indignation about General Butler's proclamation. No living man presumes for a moment that such a proclamation was meant to be carried out en pied de la lettre, any more than a father is supposed to mean what he says when he threatens corporeal punishment to a wayward child; but the haste with which the pretext has been seized sufficiently indicates the enemies.

Lord Palmerston's fine burst of morality last night was only a grand display of counterfeit indignation. The Ministry are very sulky that the Emperor won't fall into their views, and don't at all like—though they pretend to acquiesce in it—the determination of Napoleon III., expressed by M. Persigny, to do what he does single-handed and at his own time. Persigny, if I am correctly informed, told Earl Russell that without another Bull Run—an event particularly unlikely at the present moment—there was no place for mediation.—Whether the Emperor would choose to convey any views of his own, as those of an independent friend, to the Government of Washington, he was not prepared to say; but anything like joint action for the purpose of intervention—or, in other words, an armed interference—was simply out of the question.

The general tone of public feeling in England regarding America is the very reverse of that of France.

THE GREAT EASTERN—BRIGHTER TIMES.—The last trip of the mammoth "Great Eastern," according to Liverpool letters to New York, was a complete success. She made the passage in nine days and eleven hours, after allowing for differences of time; and everything passed off satisfactorily. Indeed the passengers are emphatic in their declarations that she is the pleasantest ocean craft afloat; there is less roll and motion, and more immunity from sea-sickness. She is an exhibition at Liverpool, and is advertised for two more trips from Liverpool to New York—one on the 1st of July and the other on the 16th of August. A letter to the New York Times says the passengers held a meeting and expressed their gratification at the pleasant arrangements and the roomy accommodations of this magnificent steamer, and adds:

I speak for, and at the request of, all the passengers, in expressing the desire that this magnificent vessel may take her place among the steamers plying regularly between New York and Liverpool. There is not one of us who have come over in her who will not desire to return by the same conveyance, in preference to any other, and most of our company have crossed the Atlantic from two to twenty-five times. The pitching and rolling of the smaller ships and steamers we have passed or met have heightened our admiration of this leviathan of the deep, and made us doubly thankful that the stormy waves of the Atlantic are so effectually bridged over.

GEO. PEARSON, Esq.

Dear Sir—I feel it a duty to express to you my sincere acknowledgments of the benefit derived from the use of a package of your MEDICATED TAR DROPS.

I was suffering with a SEVERE COUGH and SORE THROAT, when a friend presented me with a package of your celebrated TAR DROPS, and when I used them, I was free to confess it was more to gratify my appetite for sweetmeats than the idea of deriving any good from them; but really, the rapid allaying of the irritation and subsequent entire cure of the cough, induces me to thank you, and I take great pleasure in recommending to the public so effective a compound. Respectfully yours, J. E. SMITH, M. D.,

Assistant Surgeon Artillery Brigade U. S. A.

PEARSON'S MEDICATED TAR DROPS are prepared and sold by GEO. PEARSON, No. 5 North Liberty street, Baltimore, at 10 cents per package. Sold also by all the principal Druggists. je21-tf
