THE CURRENCY.

The law recently passed by Congress, empowering Secretary Chase to issue another large amount of Demand Treasury Notes, thereby creating a currency vastly in excess of the wants of the country, has commenced to bear its legitimate fruit. While the country was so greatly elated, as it but recently was, by the false belief in the invincibility of the Army of the Potomac, and the bright prospects of the speedy capture of the Confederate capitol, and the consequent probable collapse of the great rebellion at an early period thereafter, there was comparatively little danger of any such extraordinary panic in monetary circles as that which has occurred since our last. But, with the retrograde movement of that army and its attendant disasters, it at once became evident that the capture of Richmond, if not problematical, was, at least, indefinitely put off, and rendered exceedingly improbable for some time to come. These facts dispelled the fatal illusion under which the country had for so long a time been resting, and, combined with the fears of foreign interference in American affairs, which they have engendered, resulted in the extraordinary excitement in Wall street and its environs, above referred to.

But the great advance in Gold and Silver and Foreign Exchange—or rather the depreciation in paper money—is more directly traceable to the recent enactment of the Treasury Note Bill, against the remonstrances of a united public, proclaimed through the columns of an almost undivided press, for seldom, if ever, has the press been so unanimous against any public measure as it was against the passage of the bill conferring such great powers upon the Secretary of the Treasury. We learn that it is by many considered exceedingly doubtful if Mr. Chase will use his power by issuing any more Demand Notes, but, if this be true, in view of the extraordinary and deplorable condition of affairs now existing, and the still more unfavorable prospects, we conceive it to be the duty of the Secretary to inform the public to prevent such a determination. If, however, he shall conclude to issue more Demand Notes, the circulation of Bank Notes should be reduced in like ratio, as this alone would probably save the country from the evils which it is beginning to experience, and which are attributable directly to the passage of the Demand Note Bill, the crisis having only been deferred for a brief season by the general belief that the war was about to be brought to a close by a splendid coup of the Army of the Potomac. There is a limit in the issue of paper, beyond which it is dangerous to advance, and it is now evident that this limit has already been reached, if not passed.

Rarely has the spirit of speculation run so high in Wall street as during the past three days, and though the belief that there is a scarcity of Gold and Silver is simply chimerical, yet it exists in a great degree, nevertheless, and the enormous premiums which have been paid for specie and its equivalent by speculators, has gone far towards confirming it. So great has the evil already become, that it is impossible to obtain change anywhere except by patronizing the brokers and paying the enormous premiums which they demand. Various are the attributed causes for these evils, but the true and only cause is to be found in the past and prospective excessive issues of paper currency. Were it not for this, it is undoubted that Gold and Silver would to-day have been quoted at par, and with no prospect of being any higher. This is certainly a fit subject for Mr. Chase's thoughtful contemplation, and we trust that he will hesitate long before taking so evidently fatal a step as the further issuing of any considerable amount of Demand Notes. The public mind has become completely unsettled, and it is the firm conviction of many people, who make finance their chief study, that the country is fast drifting into a state as much worse than that it is now experiencing as the existing state of affairs is worse than that which prevailed previous to the enactment of the last Demand Note law.

Evidently a change in the whole financial system of Mr. Chase, or the assurance that no more Demand Notes are to be issued, is what is required to bring order out of chaos, and to place the financial affairs of the country once more on a firm and healthy basis. This will undoubtedly exert a far more favorable influence than the assurance of continued non-intervention in American affairs by foreign Powers, or than the promises of important victories soon to be achieved by the army and navy—yes, or even the victories themselves—for, be it remembered, the long period of [illegible] last year so preeminently conspicuous, failed to depreciate the currency in the least, or, as it is termed, to enhance the value of Gold. It is needless to say that the value of Gold and Silver remain the same now as then, the difference between specie and paper money being in the depreciation of the latter. It rests with the Secretary of the Treasury to stop the wild speculation in specie, and restore order to the financial affairs of the country, by declaring his intention to create no more currency, or by using the power conferred upon him by Congress to its fullest extent, to swell the current of speculation until the country shall have become hurried on to the brink of bankruptcy and ruin. We sincerely trust he will pay heed to the unmistakably portentous signs of the times.

SHAME, SHAME, UPON THE SENATE.

Editorial Correspondence of the New York Express.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—There is sometimes danger, in listening to the debates of the Senate, that one looking down from the galleries, and hearing the discussion of fanatical and angry men, may become as partizan as those who rail there so bitterly against the welfare of the Government. So, of the House of Representatives, and in this respect Washington is not a wholesome atmosphere for men who love a purer air than one tainted as this is, with sectional and party politics. For long days, weeks, and even months, now, these discussions have been continued. They were planned in the Senate, I am assured by a Senator in Congress, in a Republican caucus held as long ago as last December. The whole programme was then laid out by the majority, and the parts in the drama were then given to A, B, and C, and each man was assigned his place in the work of revolutionizing the Government by the introduction of the series of radical measures, which, from time to time since December last, have been introduced, pressed and mostly passed. The first great effort was to bring the people up to the revolutionary standard through the public debates, the public press, out-of-door and in-door speeches, tracts, pamphlets and sermons. There were to be stationary and travelling agents and all the appliances of conversion, proselytizing, instruction, &c. The South having left the field to the radicals, as they meanly and basely abandoned the Government, because they could not rule in everything, the revolution begun by them was to go on, by the persevering measures of the worst of those left behind. Following this caucus and its programme, came the series of Cheever, Phillips and Greeley lectures, the like of which had never been heard out of Congress before in the city of Washington.

In Congress, through this caucus, to one (Mr. Grimes, of Iowa) was assigned the bill to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia, and in a form most offensive to the people of the District. To another, was given the Bill to legislate Polygamy out of Utah—that being a plank of the party platform—but the thing was to be done so as to make the law a dead letter, by leaving the citizens of Utah to bear and try the offence of which their Priests, Deacons, and Jurors who were to hear and decide the cases, were the chief offenders. In the midst of war, was the inopportune hour selected for this measure. To a third party was given the law of "No Slavery, now, or hereafter, in the Territories," when there were no Territories where slavery could enter. To a fourth (Sumner) was assigned the part of converting certain States of the Union into Federal Provinces; and this policy was advocated on Friday by Mr. Harlan, of Iowa, in a violent and sectional speech. The Hayti Bill, the Admission of Negro Testimony, and the revolutionizing of Municipal Laws, were other portions of the programme. The Municipality of Washington dare not execute their local laws, for fear of giving offence to the Radical members of Congress. Let it be remembered that these measures were adopted when Congress was one-half full, and in the midst of war.

Other Senators have been identified with schemes of Confiscation, finally settled yesterday, by the reports of Committees of Conference, with authority to arm negroes as in the bill for some days before the Senate, and in various radical schemes, which have disturbed the country, disheartened the Union men of the Border, divided the North, seriously injured the Government, and put off the day of peace.

SINGULAR APPLICATION.—Virgil McNight, President of the Bank of Kentucky, applies by letter to General Beauregard to restore the sum of $44,938 33 cash, taken from the branch bank at Columbus on the 30th of December last, by order of Major General Polk. The funds (together with the books and notes), were removed from Columbus on the 19th of January. Applications for their restoration were made to Governor Johnson, Provisional Governor of Kentucky, and promises given which, thus far, fall of fulfilment. The President of the Bank now applies, through General Halleck, to General Beauregard, in due form, for the rendition of the money and effects. In lieu of the funds, the bank holds a receipt for the same signed "W. B. Richmond, C. S. A., Aid-de-camp of General Polk," which receipt appears at present to possess no commercial value.

REV. DR. PLUMER.—Rev. Dr. Plumer, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, Alleghany, Pa., recently created quite an excitement among his parishioners by refusing to pray for the success of the Federal armies and to return thanks for their victories. Shortly afterward the Presbytery of Alleghany ventilated the subject, and appointed a committee who reported in favor of the Doctor's withdrawing from the church. But the report was tabled after a warm debate, by the casting vote of the Moderator. The friends of Dr. Plumer then bought out his unfriendly parishioners, who in consequence withdrew from the church. And thus the matter ended.

INDIAN QUEEN HOTEL.—Travellers speak highly of the Indian Queen Hotel, Wilmington, Del. There is no better conducted public house, it is said, this side the Atlantic seaboard. Everything that a guest may wish may be had at small cost, together with the kindest possible treatment. The house is well ventilated, the beds soft and downy, and the latest modern household conveniences to be met with in every direction. The table groans with luxuries, and the bar is filled with the purest and best of liquors. If any of our readers should stop in Wilmington over night, they would be much pleased, we know, by stopping with Mr. CHAS. M. ALMOND, of the Indian Queen.

GEO. PEARSON, Esq.
Dear Sir—I feel it a duty to express to you my sincere acknowledgments of the benefit derived from the use of a package of your MEDICATED TAR DROPS.
I was suffering with a SEVERE COUGH and SORE THROAT, when a friend presented me with a package of your celebrated TAR DROPS, and when I used them, I was free to confess it was more to gratify my appetite for sweetmeats than the idea of deriving any good from them; but really, the rapid allaying of the irritation and subsequent entire cure of the cough, induces me to thank you, and I take great pleasure in recommending to the public so effective a compound. Respectfully yours, J. K. SMITH, M. D.,
Assistant Surgeon Artillery Brigade U. S. A.

TO THE PUBLIC—The copartnership difficulties between the undersigned and the Messrs. BROADBENT having obtained some public notoriety through the press and otherwise, I deem it now but a simple act of justice to say that, upon a thorough re-examination of the affairs of the late firm, made by myself, I find that the accusations of fraud or unfairness against the Messrs. Broadbent grew out of misapprehension and misstatements on the part of others of facts, and I now believe that their dealings in connection with our copartnership were characterized by liberality and fairness. It affords me pleasure thus voluntarily, and without their knowledge, to repair any injury that may have been done by a contrary impression.
