COTTON.

Our market quotations, this morning, show the prices of cotton in this city, and indicate very plainly to what we are coming. We are to realize, unmistakably, all the horrors of a cotton famine, not only in this country, but throughout Europe. Prices are to go up, not down, until there comes a general financial and commercial smash up. Indeed, we are to get no more cotton in the next three years. Our mills have got to stop; our manufacturers, if they are not blind, may already see ruin staring them in the face. In six months Rhode Island's fate will be sealed.

At last accounts there were only 213,270 bales of cotton in Liverpool, against 1,123,000 bales at a corresponding date last year. Were the mills to run on full time, every pound of cotton in England would be used up in four weeks! India, of which we have heard so much in abolition speeches, supplies no part of the deficiency occasioned by the loss of the American article. Instead of sending more than usual to market, there was short, at last accounts, of India cotton, only 45,000 bales, against 240,000 last year, and 280,000 in 1860. There are millions of persons who have heretofore been employed in the cotton manufactories of England, four fifths of whom are to be wholly out of employment in a short time! And the same state of things, to an extent fearful to contemplate, is to exist in New England.

"But we are to have cotton," say the abolitionists. "This rebellion is to be crushed, the Southern ports are to be opened; and cotton is to pour in upon us, most plentifully." This is the talk of crazy fanatics and fools. The Southern ports may be opened; but we shall get no cotton. The old crop will be destroyed whether its owners like it or not. They dare not resist a measure so essential to their independence. The torch will be applied to nearly every bale that remains unburned to-day; and not more than enough is being raised for Southern consumption. The uniform testimony is that there are no cotton fields to be seen on the Mississippi. "Plant corn, and not cotton," was the order, and it has been strictly obeyed.

"But next year we shall get cotton enough," some abolitionist will say. We know better. We shall be lucky if we get a bale per week through the year. No attempt will be made to raise it until this war is over; and the war will not end, as things now look, until even the foundations of Southern industry, Southern business, and Southern social life, are overturned. Abolitionism has taken the reins; and it will not permit us a moment's rest until the whole South is thrown into confusion, and all hope of the raising of cotton is destroyed. The legislation of this fanatical Congress has rendered restoration almost impossible, until nearly the entire white population of the South has been exterminated, and the North has brought upon itself bankruptcy and ruin. The South will not yield to the policy of the abolitionists, while resistance is possible; and in spite of all we can do it may prove possible, until Federal Treasury notes are sold for ten cents on the dollar.

Do we speak despondingly? We say only the truth. We warned the people in 1856 of just this state of things. We predicted it again in 1860.—When the war broke out we believed it might be brought to an end, and the South be brought back to the Union, in a year or two, if we followed the conservative policy, and asserted only the supremacy of the Constitution. Instead of this, our whole course has been calculated to exasperate the Southern people, dishearten Unionists everywhere, and divide the North into factions. We are farther from a final victory than we were one year ago. All that our armies have done has been undone by a reckless Congress and a yielding President. We have spent six hundred millions of dollars, and sacrificed fifty thousand lives, and got for it all—what? We have saved Maryland, and Kentucky, and Missouri, by a show of bayonets, and lost them by a show of radicalism. The Union cause will hereafter find little hearty sympathy south of Mason & Dixon's line.

And now, we say again, the North is to bear her full share of suffering. Her cotton mills must stop. Her laboring men are to become paupers. The Government is going to take care of the niggers; white people, without bread or employment, must take care of themselves.

LEGAL-TENDER NOTES FOR ONE CENT.

Mr. Chase has succeeded in obtaining a bill from Congress making postage stamps legal-tender money. Mr. Chase has thus the exclusive honor of being the first financial agent of any Government that ever ventured to issue legal-tender money of the denomination of "one cent." This bill is the final, crowning act of insanity that consummates this iniquitious paper money system of Mr. Chase.

Too much paper money has caused gold to advance to nineteen per cent. premium, or rather has reduced the value of Mr. Chase's legal-tender dollar to eighty-one cents, and Mr. Chase's remedy for this is like unto that of Rehoboam for the evils of the children of Israel—he cures them by increasing them; he decreases our paper money by adding about $40,000,000 to $60,000,000 in this proposed supply of postage stamps.

The bank note circulation of Great Britain and Ireland, on May 31 of this year, was $187,000,000 ($37,554,554). The largest amount the United States, North and South, have ever had, was $214,000,000 in 1857, and in the Free States $156,000,000 in 1860.

When Mr. Chase's paper schemes are carried out according to the acts of Congress, now become laws, our paper currency will be as follows.

Mr. Chase's legal-tender notes, by act of February, 1862	$150,000,000
Mr. Chase's legal-tender notes, by act of June, 1862	150,000,000
Legal-tender postage stamp bill, by act of July 17, 1862	60,000,000
Bank note circulation before the passage of the act of February, 1862	150,000,000
Probable increase since then, upon the deposit of legal-tender notes	50,000,000
Total	$560,000,000

Gold is at nineteen per cent. premium from the use of about $70,000,000 legal-tender notes. What, then, will be its price when the politicians' and speculators' paper scheme is carried out to its full result? Any one can make the calculation.

There is only one effectual remedy for this depreciation in legal-tender notes: it is to use no more, and to withdraw as soon as practicable those in use, or bank notes to an equal amount, until our paper money is reduced to $150,000,000, or at the outside $200,000,000.

Let Mr. Chase pay contractors in certificates of indebtedness or United States six per cent. bonds.

Let Mr. Chase use the $50,000,000 of Treasury notes bearing 3.65 per cent. interest, authorized by act of Congress, July, 1861, in the denominations of $10 and $20.

Let Mr. Chase authorize Mr. Cisco in New York, and also the Assistant Treasurers in other cities, to receive money on deposit at five per cent. interest.

Let Mr. Chase authorise Mr. Cisco to sell on application any of the Government securities, at a price agreed upon between the departments at Washington and New York, and in accord, of course, with law, and governed somewhat by the New York market quotations.

If Mr. Chase will try these simple and well-tried modes of raising money, and will discard entirely his paper theories, the finances of the country will soon be placed on a more sound basis, and gold and silver will reappear in circulation without a premium. Mr. Chase's proposed paper remedies are an aggravation of our financial miseries, even now almost too intolerable for further endurance by the people of these loyal States. Let Mr. Chase leave paper money to bankrupt Confederates.

From the New York World, July 19.

General Halleck has been advanced to the rank of General Commanding. Another name was nearer the people's lips, but they experience an inexpressible sense of relief at the designation of his, for General Halleck adds to an experience in civil life, as large as either Mr. Lincoln's or Mr. Stanton's, a military training, and now a military experience, to which neither the commander-in-chief nor the Secretary of War could lay claim. He comes, too, with a reputation for skill in administration and direction, acquired by his admirable conduct of the Western campaign from St. Louis, which must make his presence at Washington grateful to every officer in the field. The President has chosen not to remove Secretary Stanton. He has, however, conceded something to public opinion, and has virtually superceded him. For this much let us be duly thankful. Henceforth we confidently hope there are to be no more blunders, no more retreats, no more hacking and falling, no more wasting of the precious blood of the nation—but advances, victories, economy of life and labor, and the straightforward crushing out of the military power of the rebellion.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED.—Governor Tod telegraphed to Quartermaster General Wright yesterday, that 800 men were wanted for temporary service in Kentucky. He had none at his command. "Could they be raised in Cincinnati?" Can they? We hope so. Our young men are beginning to exhibit patriotism. The issue presented by General Boyle, commanding in Kentucky, is that Morgan's gang must be routed or captured before he recruits an army. Readers must perceive the importance of this suggestion. If Morgan is let out he will accumulate an army within a few days which will make the situation of Cincinnati precarious.—Cincinnati Commercial, July 18.

The last official reports of the strength of the steam navy of France show that that power has three hundred and sixty war vessels propelled by steam, of which number one hundred and seventy-two are in commission and thirty are iron-clads. Ten iron-plated ships are building (each carrying thirty-six guns); besides the six iron frigates and twelve floating batteries now complete. No wonder England is nervous.

The shipment of Pennsylvania rock oil, or petroleum, from this country to Europe, during the first six months of the present year, amounted to considerably more than one million of dollars. This, for a trade that is in its infancy, is a large business.

SEVENTY MILES SAVED IN GOING TO CAPE MAY. We would say to persons visiting Cape May, that by laying over in Wilmington, instead of going on to the city of "Brotherly Love," they can save seventy miles of travel, and have their baggage taken care of by a responsible person, thereby securing a night's rest. After partaking of an excellent breakfast at the Indian Queen Hotel, Fifth and Market streets, they can take the cars at 9.30 A. M. for Newcastle, and arrive there at 12 M. for the boat.

S. T.--1860--X.

A NEW BUT EXPENSIVE WAY TO ADVERTISE.—We proceeded to Fairmount on the Fourth of July evening to see the grand display of fireworks, which was announced to come off at that place. At least 100,000 people were congregated upon the backs of the beautiful river, and the display was the most splendid ever witnessed in this country. Some of the pieces exceeded in brilliancy and effect the fireworks exploded in honor of St. Genevie, in Italy. Italian suns changing from the most gorgeous lines of deep crimson to rich emerald and royal purple, disrobing the night and illuminating the surroundings with all the brilliancy of day. Presently, and as if by magic, the whole heavens were filled with rockets of every description, and thousands of hissing serpents all pursuing their fiery course towards the deep blue vault above. Then, amid the bursting of bombs, which exploded in mid-air, was flashed out in letters of living fire, (in red, white and blue,) the following: S. T. 1860 X., DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS CURES DYSPEPSIA. The effect was almost magical. The women waved their handkerchiefs and the men, as if with one common content, gave three tremendous cheers which shook the very earth. The secret of this grand display was thus revealed and while the people were gratified with the pyric fireworks they could not help admiring the genius who had nerve and enterprise enough to thus make his business known. The exhibition closed with a flight of signal rockets and at least fifty fire balloons beautifully illuminated, and bearing the inscription, Drake's Plantation Bitters, which was plainly visible and cheered by the immense crowd. The display, it is said, cost thousands of dollars, and must certainly have had the desired effect. For there are not ten persons in all our city who do not know there is such a thing as Drake's Plantation Bitters. It

INDIAN QUEEN HOTEL.—Travellers speak highly of the Indian Queen Hotel, Wilmington, Del. There is no better conducted public house, it is said, this side the Atlantic seaboard. Everything that a guest may wish may be had at small cost, together with the kindest possible treatment. The house is well ventilated, the beds soft and downy, and the latest modern household conveniences to be met with in every direction. The table groans with luxuries, and the bar is filled with the purest and best of liquors. If any of our readers should stop in Wilmington over night, they would be much pleased, we know, by stopping with Mr. CHAS. M. ALMOND, of the Indian Queen.
