ANGLOPHOBIA.

AN ATTACK ON THE NEW YORK HERALD.

From the London Telegraph, July 19.

In the dread annals of ancient violence and crime there is the story of a vanquished king who was poisoned by being forced to drink blood. But the horrible draught appears to have had a very different effect upon the stronger stomachs of the Americans—it simply makes them drunk. At least, this is the inevitable conclusion forced upon us by a perusal of the last New York journals—After the events of the 1st and 2d of July, even the 4th, we should have thought, would have been a quiet and a sober season. At any rate, if the affronted memory of Washington necessitated the usual expenditure of gunpowder and fireworks, the following days ought to have brought back some reflection along with headaches. But we have before us the New York Herald of the 6th inst., containing an editorial as truculent, as vain-glorious, and as insolent as though the grand army of the North were bivouacking in Richmond, instead of lying decimated by battle and disease behind its entrenchments at Berkley.

We do not marvel, indeed, to find iterated and reiterated boasts of "trampling on" the rebellious South, since the policy of coercion in the North has given way to a passion for it, so that, in regard to the war on hand, American editors can scarcely be expected to be reasonable. But what seems incredible is, that, while the horizon of that war is so dark for the New Yorkers—while the bitter fruits of it are coming home to them in taxes and troubles and desolate hearths—there can be found a public writer so wilful and wicked as not only to foretell, but to look forward with eagerness to other and bloodier wars. Yet this is what is done at New York by the miscalled "organ of public opinion," in its latest issue. Upon the very same page where it is announced that all Fredericksburg is in agony and mourning, because the regiment of sons and brothers recruited there has been cut to pieces on the Chickahominy—side by side with this awful picture of war, the New York Herald smacks its lips for fresh bloodshed.

Other Yankee papers only whisper of such an event as a struggle between England and America; the New York Herald gloats upon the time when "the apprehension will have become a reality." Others are sensible enough to shrink from challenging the power and impatience of France with the broken strength of the North; the New York Herald prates of sweeping Napoleon's fleet from the Gulf and his army out of Mexico. Others, if they covet Canada, are wise enough to wait till they are sure of England's weakness and her dependency's disloyalty; the editor of the New York Herald has made up his mind to annex her, and will only give the colony twelve months' grace at farthest to agree with him. But, lest we should be accused of exaggerating Yankee exaggerations, we will present our readers with an extract from this farrago, and let it be remembered that the following is supplied to the appetite of New York by no obscure purveyor, but by its chief caterer of political food.

"The Canadians," says this conscientious and modest writer, "are terribly stirred up by the course of the British journals in giving them the cold shoulder and telling them to defend themselves or become annexed, in the event of a war between England and the United States. But they will soon be stirred up still more when apprehension becomes reality. What they ought to do is to consider now where they will make their bed before it is too late. In a very short time our iron clad ships will be in such force on the ocean as to sweep Napoleon's fleet out of the Gulf and his army out of Mexico. England perceives that, and wants to give Canada an opportunity of taking care of herself when the storm comes which will make her, if she desires it, one of the United States—the greatest Republic in the world, and about to become the most powerful nation of the earth. We will give the Canadians six, nine, or twelve months to make up their minds as to what they will do; we are not in a hurry; but the sooner they decide that their destiny is with the United States the better for themselves."

This is "summer madness" with a vengeance!—Only, unhappily, its ravings are not confined by the padded cell and straight jacket, but gibber in the open streets. Ignorant men read these poor follies, and catch the infection of political lunacy. The high priest of rowdyism says it, and the congregation of the bars and oyster-saloons is straightway convinced that nothing but the forbearance of Wall street saves the Old World from falling into pieces. The arrogance of the production is, however, less offensive than its profligacy. Louis Napoleon is not very likely to swerve a hair's-breadth from his plans in Mexico because the fleet that cannot pass Fort Darling threaten the master of the "Gloire." Canada, in six, nine, or even twelve months, does not promise to become more enamored of that "powerful nation" in posse, which in esse reels under debt and dismemberment.

As for us, our fate, we observe, is sealed, and there is an end of it. When the war with which we are openly threatened has arisen, we are to be so certainly "whipped," that we shall have no word at all in the disposition of Canada. There will be no Bull's Run, no Manassas nor Richmond in that campaign. The Britisher will be abruptly "chawed up" by the "great republic," which is also to sweep the French from land and sea, so soon as it has made a mouthful of the South. This is all so obvious, so certain, so "thought and paid for" in the vernacular of Broadway, that the Herald is quite fussy in cautioning the Canadians to be prepared for it.

"They ought not," it says, "to lose a moment in declaring their independence, for thus they will avoid trouble, in which they are in danger of being involved by the policy of England. The question of annexation is an after-consideration, and one that must be decided by themselves. We are not anxious to annex Canada; but, if she desires to cast her lot with this great country, it will be for her own interest, and we have no doubt that a proposition from her to that effect would be favorably received by our Government and people." We have no doubt of it either! These paper warriors, though they are generous in their might, and do not propose to force all Canada into the new Union, will not object if she comes of her own accord into their happy family of debt and discord. Unhappy France and England, doomed in the black parlor of the New York Herald to political annihilation! And still more unhappy Canada, designed to become one of the States where the Herald is circulated and believed!

But the Herald, though it is circulated, is not believed. We hasten to do so much justice to that American public which disentitles the injustice of supporting this shameless paper. Not for one moment do we condemn its scandalous boasting with the true opinion of New York and Washington. These cities, or we mistake them, have not much more stomach for war. The impetus of passion carries them on towards the ever vanishing horizon of the present struggle; but that horizon once reached, if ever it should be, the citizens of the North will have had their fill of battles. It is, indeed, a discredit to them to tolerate such stuff as we have reluctantly placed before our readers, but we will not accuse them of endorsing it. They take their Herald as they take their drams—the liquor does not quench their thirst more than the journal satisfies their judgment; but there is a pleasant though a dangerous flavour in each; and they continue the bad habit.

But they know the paper and its inspiration.—They remember who howled against law and justice in the case of Mason and Slidell; and afterwards cowered like a beaten hound, in silence and fear, when Seward held up the whip of expediency. They know who pleaded for the life of the slaver and pirate-captain, and has never had a word of pity or remorse for the victims of this and civil war. They know who would be content to see it last for an eternity, outraging humanity and convulsing commerce, so that his journal sold, and so that sensation headings could season the flatness of his lucubrations. On such a stage, and in presence of such transcendent interests, it is hardly fit to name the small trumpet which makes all this noise; but it is right that America should be aware that we do not confound the journalist with his readers.

It is right that we should hunt this nuisance, which seems so large, to its hole, which is so small, and drag it forward, to burst, like the ambitious frog, by the side of that great public opinion, which it would fain be considered. For the sake of decency and dignity, we caution New York against the New York Herald. There is a vainglorious boasting which is forgiven for its patriotism, and an ignorance which is pardoned for its honesty; but the boasting and the blindness of this unhappy issue is of a kind that should smell in the nostrils which they were intended to gratify.

AURORA BOREALIS.—One of the most startling and magnificent displays of the Aurora Borealis, or "Northern Lights," ever witnessed in this latitude, arrested the attention of thousands last night. The first glow of this beautiful phenomenon was noticed about 9 P. M. Commencing on the northern horizon, it, in the course of an hour, overspread the greater surface of the heavens, extending in long streams of wavy fluig-ness to the zenith, and thence to every quarter of the compass. Hours of dense black vapor appearing about 10 o'clock, interrupted the display, and about midnight, when the light was brightest, surrounded the entire horizon with a bank of gloom that heightened, by contrast, the beauty of the pearly light that for many hours continued to flit to and fro over the undescribed portions of the sky.—New York Times.

Charcoal dust proves to be even a greater disinfectant and preservative than had been supposed. Rev. Dr. Osgood has exhibited to the editors of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican a cutlet taken from a ham which had been kept eight years completely imbedded in that preparation, and which seemed as sweet as if it had been cured only a single season.

DEAR TOBACCO.—The highest price ever paid for tobacco in Louisville was realized last week. Mr. W. J. Anderson, the well-known tobacco manufacturer, purchased a hogshead at $72 per hundred. The tobacco in question was grown in Hart county. Mr. Anderson also purchased at the Boone Warehouse a hogshead grown in Breckinridge county by Mr. A. Meador, at $25 per 100 lbs.

CIGAR AND TOBACCO STORE,

Established in 1840.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of Smokers and Chewers to the well selected stock of CIGARS and TOBACCO of Mr. J. C. SMITH, 155½ Baltimore street, opposite the Museum. This gentleman has, by his thorough knowledge of his business, and personal attention thereto, obtained a well deserved reputation for the finest goods in his line, and we confidently recommend all who desire a really fine imported" HAVANA CIGAR and superior CHEWING TOBACCO, SNUFF &c., &c., to give him a call. The fact of his having been twenty two years in his present place of business, we read as the strongest evidence to what we have said in reference to his reliability in furnishing the best in his line of business. jy22 1m

THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS PARTIALLY RESTORED.—After an involuntary absence of about three months during which time we were made familiar with the classic and once hallowed grounds of Fort McHenry—we again resume, partially, our old vocation of "enlightening the world with lamp-black." OUR PRESS, being deemed dangerous by the Government, has been kindly limited, and, for the future, instead of publishing "THE SUN, or any other paper, without consent of the Commanding General," we shall modestly labor in the humble department of the "art preservative of all arts," by executing every description of BOOK AND JOB PRINTING, hoping through that medium to sun ourselves and those dependent upon us and would earnestly appeal to our friends to favor us with their patronage. We have prepared our Job PRINTING DEPARTMENT to execute all kinds of printing neatly, expeditiously and cheaply, and solicit a call at our old buildings.
