THE FATAL APATHY WHICH INSETTLING DOWN ON THE ENGINEERS OF THE REBELLION.

Since the rebellion led off in such a whirl of excitement and temporary success, there has been no time when events in the South commended themselves as much to the thoughtful consideration of the sanguine engineers of it, as just now. Happen what might of disaster to their cause, such as the taking of Nashville and New Orleans, and scores of other places, calculated one might suppose to cause them serious misgivings as to a final triumph of their purposes, it was always in their power, somehow, to put by the disaster, to excuse it, to make it appear, after all, as possibly a benefit. Ingenious and determined in misleading their ignorant and fiercely prejudiced subordinates, they have been enabled to keep them—up to this time—throwing away life and property upon an idle quest; but the hour has come at last when in the face of the advance of the Union armies, resistless, sweeping, as whole States are traversed, no excuses will answer; nothing can hide from the thousands of the rank and file of the rebel armies, that they were getting thoroughly whipped.

And the evidence of this comes up to us now in numberless and varied forms. The streams of deserters that pour into our lines, all tell the same story, and the rebel prints—out of breath with lying up to this time,—make a virtue of necessity, and admit the facts. And it has come to that with them, too, that they seem content to chronicle one disaster after another to their forces, in a sort of stolid, dumbfounded amazement. They have ceased to rave about it; to blame this or that high civil or military functionary for what is occurring, because they know at last, that no talent, nor no resolution will avail, when military resources are exhausted—that the game of battle is at length played against such odds as to preclude all hope of success on their part.

We have been forcibly struck with all this, on the perusal of rebel accounts of Sherman's recent movements. After stating that the national troops have gained a great comfort in the "very extensive piece of woodland" recently taken into our lines at Hatcher's Run, the account proceeds with a coolness of detail, which might have happened had any loyal journal been the chronicler for the occasion. We would call attention to some of these points made by the Richmond Dispatch, of a late date:

"Unofficial intelligence has been received here that a force of the enemy, "estimated at 20,000 men, have landed at "Newbern. It is believed to be their object to advance at once upon Raleigh, or "at least upon our lines of railroad in "North Carolina. They are said to have "brought with them five locomotives and "railroad iron enough to lay forty or fifty "miles of track. Grant visited Newbern "some ten days ago, and his visit now "appears to have been to plan and arrange "this expedition."

Now let us consider, just for a moment, what would have been the mad excitement attending such an announcement as that, in the earlier stages of the war? Raleigh, the capital of a "sovereign State," is imminently threatened by the Union forces: the inevitable and remorseless Yankees are likely to overrun and trample down the "chivalry." Yet where are the Wise and Beauregard "proclamations," the blood and thunder manifestoes which used to call in frantic rage for a general extermination of the invaders—where are the bowie knives, the black flags, the "no quarter" yells which were heard of in the olden time? Reading what emanates from them now, even in the most terrible emergencies, who can doubt but that the war they would have has tamed their fierce spirits, that the prescriptions they themselves ordered have cooled the raging fever of secession and civil war? We will quote two or three more paragraphs, which look so calmly, apparently, to submission to an inevitable fate, that they are really worthy of consideration just at this time:

"From East Tennessee the report "reached us yesterday that Stoneman and "Burbridge were preparing to make a "raid from Tennessee into North Carolina, in the direction of Raleigh, in the "hope of co-operating with the columns "now said to be on foot to invade the State "from the Atlantic coast. We give this "for what it may be worth." All this is from the Dispatch. The Examiner is not less cool. We quote:

"The statement that Sherman's forces "had probably cut the Augusta branch of "the South Carolina Railroad at different "points west of Branchville, is borne out "by late Charleston papers, which state "that the Yankees had reached and cut "the road referred to at three points," etc.

Then to glance at the articles which have recently reached us from the Raleigh Progress, makes this matter still more significant. No one reads them—it appears to us—but must come to the conclusion that they are anxious, in the capital of North Carolina, to see Sherman enter it—anxious to be delivered from the tyranny of the Richmond usurpation and to be restored to the Union. And thus the signs of the great change coming multiply day by day: are foreshadowed more and more plainly. Convinced at last, in spite of themselves, of their madness and folly, they await with a kind of conviction bordering on fatality their coming fate. Compelled to see the Union armies closing in upon them, enclosed as in a net from which soon there will be no chance of escape, they are showing their sense of it by their deportment, by their sullen apathy.

And we believe that the end of the accursed insurrection is much closer at hand than is generally supposed. Proof abounds that already, Lee considers himself in a close place, and with no other hand possible left to think out through General Grant's lines, who is now compelled to sit with Sherman's heavy combinations advance in his rear, a blowing up of the whole rebel structure, so complete and so sudden, too, as perhaps men wonder when it comes at what seemed its vast proportions a little time before? We believe, we say, that this will happen, and soon. The probabilities, at least, are in its favor, and so let the friends of the Union cause keep up good heart. Let the great conspirators bluster and rave in their efforts to fire anew the Southern heart. It is but stirring amongst the dead ashes of that once fierce fire, which in its fury has at last consumed even their hopes.

SIGNIFICANT CONFESSION.—The Mobile Advertiser and Register, of Jan. 20, makes a remarkable confession:

We do not attempt to disguise the fact that the Confederate cause is passing through its most dangerous crisis. Large numbers of the people—perhaps a majority—are heart-sick of the war, and willing to end it upon terms which would have been scouted as treasonable two years or even one year ago. Even the class of slaveholders having the deepest pecuniary stake in the struggle for independence, are willing and ready to make sacrifices which a short time ago would not have been tolerated. We have no doubt that the country, including the slave proprietors, large and small, would compromise to day for peace and independence on the basis of a gradual and universal emancipation of the blacks. We may go further and say that large numbers would be willing to give up all their cherished thoughts of independence and exchange their institutions for naked peace upon terms of reconstruction. This is a great change, a wonderful revolution of popular sentiment, resulting from four years of tremendous war.

THE TORONTO Globe says the discount of four per cent. on American halves and quarters has driven them out of circulation in Canada, while the smaller coins, being taken at par, are very plenty. They are pushed about from one to another, wherever they can be disposed of, and merchants experience great inconvenience from their accumulation. They cannot be deposited at the banks, and so turned into paper, except at a large discount, and they are not readily taken in large sums for the payment of debts. The Globe suggests as a measure of relief, that a large discount be at once placed upon the small American coins, say twenty or twenty-five per cent, and thus drive them out of circulation.

☞ A young woman—a Norwegian—of attractive person, and respectable character, committed suicide in Chicago a day or two since. The young woman was engaged to be married and became fearful that her lover was becoming indifferent to her. This was confirmed by his avowing a determination to change his place of residence, and in her grief she took the fatal drug.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ UNITED STATES SENATOR.—The people ought to know what is going on. The newspapers publish what is publicly done, but the pulling of wires is only seen by results, and they say nothing about it! It was very ominous on Friday that every Secessionist in the Senate voted with Mr. Whitney to obtain an extension of the United States Senator without a caucus. Every Union man voted not to concur! People wonder! They do not see! Every rebel in the House and Senate was ready to vote for Mr. Hicks! A few doubtful Union men uniting he would have been by their votes elected. The law requiring the Senator to come from Eastern Shore would have been nullified, and Mr. Hicks regular ticket with rebels at Annapolis would have proved more successful than Mr. Blair's negotiations with rebels at Richmond.

The Democratic Line Broke at Cumberland.

Their candidate is blair, he has no claims on the people of this State. He did not carry with all his influence in Mr. Lincoln's Cabinet, Montgomery county, which he claims as his residence, for the New Constitution. He made no effort to do it. He is a bald pate who did not dive for the celery, but seeks to take it from the Canvass Backs who did.—Let the Eastern Shore maintain her rights. She is entitled to fill out the remainder of Senator Hicks' term. Let her wrongs not be cheated by rebel votes. And let all the people mark the men who do not think it beneath them to unite with rebels to carry a political measure.

Such men as Miller, of Anne Arundel, and Thomas G. Pratt, of Annapolis, are not those to be recalled to the end of the term whom the Union people of this State wish to see the successor of Governor Hicks.

tf EASTERN SHORE.

☞ ELEVENTH WARD DRAFT ASSOCIATION.—The following gentlemen will wait upon the Citizens of this Ward for their contributions TO-DAY, they having kindly volunteered their services:

☞ GRAND MASS MEETING OF THE NINETEENTH WARD DRAFT ASSOCIATION, THIS WEEK, AT THE Hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, corner of Shroeder and Pierce streets, at 7½ o'clock

Every citizen of the Ward is expected to come, come and put to rest the question, will there be a draft or not? you can stop the draft if you will, so come up to-night and bring your money with you, and we will finish the work.

At a former meeting, the following resolution was adopted.

Whereas, Experience has shown us that the Wards from which the draft is taken in which all are equally and deeply interested, are blamable contributors liberally to effect that end,

Therefore be it Resolved, That the names of all who contribute to the Association, with the names of each subscriber, as well as those who do not contribute, be published in the public journals of the city. By order,

SAML. A. EWALT, Pres't.

☞ GRAND MASS MEETING OF THE NINETEENTH WARD DRAFT ASSOCIATION, THIS WEEK, AT THE Hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, corner of Shroeder and Pierce streets, at 7½ o'clock

Every citizen of the Ward is expected to come, come and put to rest the question, will there be a draft or not? you can stop the draft if you will, so come up to-night and bring your money with you, and we will finish the work.

At a former meeting, the following resolution was adopted.

Whereas, Experience has shown us that the Wards from which the draft is taken in which all are equally and deeply interested, are blamable contributors liberally to effect that end,

Therefore be it Resolved, That the names of all who contribute to the Association, with the names of each subscriber, as well as those who do not contribute, be published in the public journals of the city. By order,

SAML. A. EWALT, Pres't.
R. O. STOCKSLEGER, Secy. 11

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ UNITED STATES SENATOR.—The people ought to know what is going on. The newspapers publish what is publicly done, but the pulling of wires is only seen by results, and they say nothing about it! It was very ominous on Friday that every Secessionist in the Senate voted with Mr. Whitney to obtain an extension of the United States Senator without a caucus. Every Union man voted not to concur! People wonder! They do not see! Every rebel in the House and Senate was ready to vote for Mr. Hicks! A few doubtful Union men uniting he would have been by their votes elected. The law requiring the Senator to come from Eastern Shore would have been nullified, and Mr. Hicks regular ticket with rebels at Annapolis would have proved more successful than Mr. Blair's negotiations with rebels at Richmond.

The Democratic Line Broke at Cumberland.

Their candidate is blair, he has no claims on the people of this State. He did not carry with all his influence in Mr. Lincoln's Cabinet, Montgomery county, which he claims as his residence, for the New Constitution. He made no effort to do it. He is a bald pate who did not dive for the celery, but seeks to take it from the Canvass Backs who did.—Let the Eastern Shore maintain her rights. She is entitled to fill out the remainder of Senator Hicks' term. Let her wrongs not be cheated by rebel votes. And let all the people mark the men who do not think it beneath them to unite with rebels to carry a political measure.

Such men as Miller, of Anne Arundel, and Thomas G. Pratt, of Annapolis, are not those to be recalled to the end of the term whom the Union people of this State wish to see the successor of Governor Hicks.

tf EASTERN SHORE.

☞ ELEVENTH WARD DRAFT ASSOCIATION.—The following gentlemen will wait upon the Citizens of this Ward for their contributions TO-DAY, they having kindly volunteered their services:

First Precinct—Messrs. Zell, Neilson, King and J. J. Ryder.

Second Precinct—Messrs McKim, George, Jr., H. C. Wagner and Thomas.

Third Precinct—Squire Bride, F. Carter, Mr. McComas and Jas. Anderson.

Fourth Precinct—Messrs. Duffy, A. Stewart, J. Snow, J. Epply and Rausch.

The Association will meet the MONDAY EVENING, at 7½ o'clock, at the N. E. corner of Gurson and Madison.
