THE WEEKLY CLIPPER.

The current number of this valuable paper will be issued promptly this morning at the usual hour. As a complete epitome of current events it commends itself to all, and it is rarely that the reader obtains so much that is really entertaining and instructive at so trifling an outlay. To those who desire to post their friends at a distance of the progress of the great events of our times, we know of no journal so admirably adapted to the purpose as the Weekly Clipper. It can be had at the counter, with or without wrappers, at the usual price.

THE ANTICIPATED VINDICATION OF THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

In speculating upon the possible future of this country, now that peace amongst ourselves is so soon to be established, there are those here who look for an immediate and forcible vindication of the Monroe doctrine, so long treated with contempt and defiance by those great powers abroad, which, in the beginning of the war, made large calculations on the destruction of this Government. And that Europe expects to see our statesmen take initiatory steps in this direction without much delay, is shown of late by the London Times, which knows public sentiment here well enough to be certain that a matter—a policy so cherished here in the past, cannot be suffered to remain long in abeyance. Whether it is acquainted with the views of the new Executive, in this regard, is not so clear, since it does not allude to his expressed sentiments in discussing this matter; and yet, on no one topic has President Johnson—always outspoken—been more decided and explicit, than in giving his views on this very subject in one of his—comparatively—recent speeches in Tennessee. That he will be at all precipitate in regard to it, however, is not to be expected of him. With ample time before him to deal with it, and with abundant means to carry out his purposes, —since the two sections will be a unit on this point,—at least,—he can debate at his leisure the best method of approaching the matter, especially as in addition to this, the complications of the question of holding Mexico with French troops under an Austrian, become every day more embarrassing to those who originated it.—Whilst the expense to the French people of keeping a large army in Mexico is distasteful to them, the new Emperor of the latter country is getting on badly, as it appears, with his brother of Austria; and this, again, is a new source of trouble, one may suppose, to Louis Napoleon, since if keeping Maximilian on the throne of Mexico answers no good purpose in making a friend of Austria, it is but a barren compensation to support an extravagant and tottering dynasty, assailed by the Mexican people continually on one side, and now certainly threatened by the most powerful military State in the world, on the other.

That the American people will ever give up their purposes to overturn the new condition of things in Mexico, need not be expected; because if any act could be calculated to give them offence, it was the act of Louis Napoleon in seizing the period of our embarrassments in carrying on a civil war, to embarrass us further, by defying our most cherished traditions, in planting alongside of us a government hostile to republican institutions. That he would have ventured upon this grave offence but for our troubles, no one will believe; and it is but natural, therefore, that this country,—even if the wisdom of vindicating our old policy was not as plain as it is in the need of protecting ourselves—to feel indignant, hurt at such conduct, and as a consequence, to resolve when the fitting time for it comes, to teach so unscrupulous an invader and despot a lesson, by driving out the puppet which, as the representative and avant courier of monarchy on this continent, he has ventured to set up.

And never, even in our most disheartening troubles for the past four years, has this purpose been lost sight of for a single instant. In stimulating one another to fight for a good future the idea has always been held out—that one of the things for which we were bound to contend to the last moment, was the power to punish Louis Napoleon for his daring perfidy in attempting—against our dearest traditions—to plant monarchical principles on this continent. And now that our great purpose in restoring the Government and the Union is at last fairly achieved, it is but a matter of course that we should amongst the first things contemplated, look to rebuke in fitting terms European presumption; it is but natural that we should repeat the solemn declaration made long since in the interests of free government,—that this continent must be dedicated to the spread of republican doctrines, and be exempt forever from European interference in the interests of despotism.

And now the question comes up—as to what is good policy in correcting the wrong doing already entered upon by France. We have said there is no occasion for haste, because a more tottering and precarious dynasty was never set up than that so recently set up in Mexico; and let alone long enough, few, we think, doubt but that it would fall into rule of itself. Cursed with the most discordant elements in its very creation, an Austrian set up over Mexicans by the aid of French bayonets, brought from thousands of miles distant, it has besides this, complications with the church of the country, which are enough to overthrow it, except it were strongly kept up by the law of force, whilst no one doubts, beside, that should Louis Napoleon die, the new Mexican monarchy would not last three months. We say the question then, is—what is good policy on the part of the United States Government in dealing with this matter? Simply—we say—to do for the present as little as possible, beyond giving those concerned to understand that the Monroe doctrine is certainly and ultimately to be vindicated, come what may. It need not be followed by any hostile demonstrations on the part of the Government. Its debt heavily, and with some repose needed in which to re-establish itself on strong foundations, it may well afford to wait; it may well afford—as a Government—to leave events to vindicate its prerogatives. And what are the events referred to as likely to happen in this regard?—They are—as we conceive—simply these:

The great armies lately in hostile array against each other are, the greater portion of them, to be soon disbanded; and so all may calculate with as much certainty as that emigration will still tend to the Pacific coast, that the idle swords and revolvers—made so by the advent of peace here—will gravitate towards Mexico, and into the ranks of its defenders against the assaults of the propagandists of monarchical doctrines, as naturally as any thing else that happens on earth. It will take but a few of these military emigrants and colonists, to turn the tide of evil fortune which has assailed republicanism in Mexico; and so, ere long, the United States Government, in no essential complicated with European powers, will find the French and Austrian invaders driven out, never to return. The Monroe doctrine will thus be vindicated by individuals, if need be, leaving the Government free to pursue the even tenor of its way in repairing the evils and losses caused by the war. And this is what we mean when we say—that events will vindicate the prerogatives of the Government, in dealing with questions, otherwise at the present somewhat embarrassing, emerging as we are now doing, from a war which calls for quiet and a chance to repair the injuries inflicted.

CURING DIPTHERIA.

Diptheria is an alarming disorder, whether it afflicts a child or an adult, and yet it can be cured at once by the application of Radway's Ready Relief. Try it and you will be convinced, however skeptical. Diptheria is a malignant sore throat, with some additional and really fatal features. Besides the anguish occasioned by the rapid ulceration of such a delicate part of the system, the membrane which so speedily grows over the throat, threatens a speedy death from suffocation. There is no time for trifling in such a crisis. The ablest medical men stand appalled. They know not what to do with a feeling of certainty, and yet the patient must have instant relief, or expire. Then steps in Radway's Ready Relief, like a protecting angel, and bids the sufferer live. It is applied to the throat externally, with freedom. A little of it mixed with water is administered internally. The patient revives. He breathes with more ease. He feels the marvelous medicine inspiring his entire frame with new vigor. He rapidly improves under such appropriate treatment, and in a short time walks forth, despite all predictions to the contrary, rescued from the grave. Could anything be more cure or more simple? Yet Radway's Ready Relief costs only fifty cents a bottle—about half the sum you would have to expend for the first prescription written out for you by your medical attendant. This is saying a great deal for the virtues of Radway's Ready Relief, but not a word more than it conscientiously deserves. It will promptly cure Diptheria; will anything else?

As an evidence of the remarkable powers of Radway's Ready Relief in the treatment of Diptheria, Sore throat, Hoarseness, Inflamma. Coughs, and Colds, the reader is requested to read the following letter. Let this important fact be borne in mind—Radway's Ready Relief never fails in withdrawing the inflammation to the surface. Let it be applied to the throat as directed, the patient will surely recover.

The following case is one out of many that we received in the winter of 1858—9, during the prevalence of this disease at Albany, N. Y. Mr. Gambrill of Albany, writes:

"Three of my children were seized with a peculiar kind of sore throat, which has prevailed to a serious extent in this city, of which a great many children have died. It commenced in my family with a sore throat, headache, hoarseness, sore lips, so to speak, then fever would set in, and the skin turn to a yellow tint. I knew how good your Ready Relief and Pills were for the general run of complaints, and determined to risk the lives of my children on their merits. My trust was well founded. I gave each of them four pills, and rubbed their bodies from head to foot with the Relief. My children were as well as ever in twenty-four hours after taking your medicine. I believe, had my neighbors used the same means, they would have saved the lives of their children."

Radway's Ready Relief is sold by all Druggists and country merchants, and at Dr Radway's office, 97 Maiden lane, New York.

MORE AND MORE DESIRABLE. The Rebellion is suppressed, and the Government has already adopted measures to reduce expenditures as rapidly as possible to a peace footing, thus withdrawing from market as borrower and purchaser. This is the THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET now offered by the Government, and constitutes the GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE. The Seven-Thirty Notes are convertible on their maturity, at the option of the holder, into U. S. 5-20 Six per Cent. GOLD-BEARING BONDS Which are always worth a premium. FREE FROM TAXATION. The 7.30 Notes cannot be taxed by Towns, Cities, Counties or States, and the interest is not taxed unless on a surplus of the owner's income exceeding six hundred dollars a year. This fact increases their value from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate levied on other property.

Less than $200,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within two months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans. It now seems probable that no considerable amount beyond the present series will be offered to the public.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.
