FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

MONETARY.

Great activity and excitement prevailed in the gold market yesterday. At an early hour in the morning telegrams from New York stated an advance was being had in that city, and by eleven o'clock, the Baltimore market became "rampant" During the morning a number of parties, members of the "shorts," became sorely perplexed and made anxious enquiries as to opinions of a further advance.

The reason assigned for the advance yesterday was caused by the late intelligence from Europe, which states that in Europe five-twenties had fallen off, and that large amounts would be re shipped to this country for speculation, there being a difference of about four per cent. in the loan between this country and Europe.

On Saturday last upwards of $4,000,000 in specie was shipped from New York to foreign account, to meet bills drawn last week.

It was a difficult matter yesterday to find a gold bear, as from their statements a few days since, the community had are this expected to see gold selling at twenty. A reaction however, may be looked for, when the demand for exchange shall be satisfied. The stock market was also active yesterday, and prices showed a more healthy condition. Sam's Clara advanced one-half per cent. with a fair business doing. Holders of this stock do not appear over anxious to part with it, feeling assured that it will gradually advance until it reaches forty.

The New York money market yesterday was stringent and money commanded seven per cent. The withdrawal of the Government from the market as a purchaser of army and navy supplies has had a damaging effect upon a long list of commodities, and prices at the decline cannot be quoted firm.

Much as the Government buying has been reduced, its purchases will be soon contracted still further, as it will be relieved from the cost of feeding the large armies moving homeward to be discharged. The coal and iron trade has been greatly contracted already, and labor of most kinds can be had at greatly reduced rates.

The restoration to labor of the country of the force so long diverted by the rebellion into consumers, will shortly bring wages back to the old standard, and with it the prices of all commodities. The day of high prices is over, and the loser the people go in debt the better it will be for them as the year draws to a close.

The financial career of the Government, in its conspicuous results, is likely to be fully as brilliant in the closing scenes of the war as its military. The extraordinary rapidity with which the people have absorbed its loans, besides giving the vast support to the cause that they have in bounties, in contributions to the various benevolent commissions, in charities to the destitute or needy dependents of our soldiers, reveal a spirit of faithful loyalty of which there was not even the most limited knowledge until the war brought it to the test.
