THE WAR OF THE "INS" AND THE "OUTS."

A contest is at present going on in this city, which cannot but draw largely the attention of the nation itself; a contest betwixt the "ins" and the "outs." And as men are usually made to feel the want of some excitements in place of any suddenly removed, perhaps in some sense it is but natural to hunt for something to supply the news of those daily details of battles and sieges, so suddenly put an end to by the advent of peace. It is possible, also, that by that wise provision shown in all things, this community,—one continually and deeply moved in the past,—was to be let down easily in the stir of a minor warfare, a struggle betwixt these same "ins" and "outs."

At any rate, since the clash of arms ended, the political fight has become fiercer and fiercer, until it may be supposed now as the trains are loaded almost constantly with rival delegations to Washington, that no small portion of the profits of the road spring from the rush that has arisen in that direction. And as railroad managers run excursion trains upon occasion for the purpose of sharpening competition as well as accommodating the public, it is rather matter of surprise—having a shrewd glance to their own profits—that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has not already officially recognized the actual condition of affairs betwixt the two cities, by getting up extra trains, or "commuting" for parties so constantly upon the road.

But seriously, where is this thing to end? Already it may be complained of as having sadly compromised the reliability or truthfulness of the press. Over and over have we been compelled by telegraph or "news items," to chronicle the one or the other set of claimants to office as having been "appointed," whilst perhaps the very next day we would be compelled to take it all back again; to publish a formal disclaimer, to the disgust not only of the "ins" and the "outs" themselves, as one or the other set seemed to prevail, but to the regret of the great patience-abused public, which supposed the squabble finally at an end. It is a game of "seesaw" which appears to have no end. "Here we go up! up! up!" cries one set, as they are temporarily elevated for the day; "Here we go down! down! down!" cries the other, as they think their chances gone forever, with the advent of different news from the White House. Here we go around! and around! and around! cries the perplexed public, as "sold" for the twentieth time, they know not what to believe, and finally, taking little or no interest in the contest, except as it may be forced upon their attention.

We are tired of all this, and we are quite sure that the President is more wearied than any; and whilst there are one or two friends on either side we should like to see benefit by the scuffle, we see but one solution of the difficulty, and that is for the President to recognize no "state" whatever which is the product of fierce partizanship on either side. As Union men, as the "Union party" of the State, all these gentlemen are to be supposed as thoroughly patriotic, as willing to make almost any sacrifice for the good of the State, to subserve its harmony. Many of them have, from the stump, eloquently urged their constituents and followers to stand up in the front of battle for the best good of the State. Let them consent to a far smaller sacrifice than life in this case. Let them urge upon the President the imperious necessity of themselves giving way in this contest to another class altogether; to a set of men who have provoked no political animosity, and whose advent to office could not be considered as constituting the reward of old rivalries. The President can find such men in the State, retired, able business men; men who never sought office, who could not be made to wrangle for it, and yet just the men for these posts. Breaking up in this manner every "state," must of necessity be extinguish at one stroke those animosities of faction, whose very life depends upon these "loaves and fishes," these "bones of contention" so fruitful of evil, so fatal to all harmony.—Let the President hunt up patriotic, able men, we say, no matter how obscure at present; and however he might fare with the politicians, he would assuredly have the thanks of the people, of the masses of the State, who have so long been vexed and shamed by these quarrels.

And if this is not done, it is not, in our opinion, hard to see what will happen. We need not go back to the last election to see what will be the fate of the Union party, as such, if it goes into a contest with heart-burnings and a divided front. Do what we will, it is going to call for every element of strength possible to save us from defeat. Had this course of rebuking all factious proceedings, all party quarrels, been adopted long since; had the national good and national principles been put in requisition to put down small men and petty squabbles, the quarrel would have long since died out with the desire for office which has kept it alive. Let the President begin now—we repeat—if he would end the contest so much to be deprecated here.

BENEFIT OF MR. FORD.—In the outset of Mr. Ford's troubles proceeding from the Washington trials, we took occasion to deprecate the hard usage to which his unfortunate, although involuntary relationship through his holding the theatre subjected him; and now that he has come out of the terrible ordeal as all who knew him were sure he would do, it is but just and proper that his many friends should in some way demonstrate their satisfaction at the result, and at the same time endeavor to make good in some degree his losses. To this end, we understand that it is in contemplation to give him a benefit at the Holliday on Friday night. As the occasion will comprise attractions of the first character, and as the whole affair may be reckoned in the light of a welcome of Mr. Ford back to Baltimore, we doubt not the theatre will be crowded front pit to dome, and that he will be made to feel that he more than holds his old place in the regard of this community, and that his career will thence be onward.

WOODS' CITY DIRECTORY.—This valuable publication—a credit to the city of Baltimore, in the manner in which it is brought out—is now being delivered to subscribers, and will be welcomed by all as one of the real essentials to business pursuits here. More carefully compiled than ever, and containing a great deal of information in relation to the organization and location of everything about the city, every resident here should if possible be in possession of a copy of it. We trust the enterprising publisher may be amply compensated for his labors.

MEETING OF THE REGISTERS.—A preliminary meeting of the Registers—we are requested to state by one of these gentlemen—will be held at the Criminal Court to-morrow, at four P. M., to discuss business matters in which all are interested.

☞ The proprietors of the Richmond Whig have been permitted by the authorities to resume the publication of that paper, and consequently it made its appearance, as usual, on Monday morning last.

☞ Mr. A. C. McIntyre, of Adams Express, will accept our thanks for late copies of the Richmond papers.

ANOTHER SENSATION.—An attempted sensation in the gold line has been inaugurated by the Richmond Republic.—Yesterday a letter appeared modestly in its columns, and this morning a part of it was reprinted in the editorial columns, thus:—

"Those who returned from the wars too late to put in crops, are very busy washing gold from the branches and mines. I suppose there are two thousand miners at work getting gold in Goochland and Louisa counties; they average two pennyweight a day to each miner. I have heard that they are working in Buckingham, Culpeper, Fluvanna and other counties. The gold mines have never been fully developed. The quartz veins are large and very rich, and would pay well. But not a single quartz mill is working in the gold districts. In a few places some are working with stone and iron mortars, and in that rude way doing very well—There will a brighter day dawn upon the mining interests of Virginia before fall."

There it is. Five counties mentioned where gold is found and the correspondent is vouched for by the editor. Will Wall street go crazy? Will there be a repetition of the petroleum fever? Seriously, there is gold in these counties.—Culpeper Mine Ford has long been known in the State, where miners, with the most shiftless of labor, produced two dollars per day to each man. Properly worked, these mines would produce a fair remuneration for the capital employed.

THE SUGAR CROP IN LOUISIANA.—Before the rebellion the annual produce of sugar in the State exceeded 400,000 hogsheads, a crop which has since diminished to about 10,000 or 11,000. It has been stated that the probable amount this year would reach 30,000 hogsheads. The Picayune, however, thinks the quantity raised this year will not greatly exceed that of 1863, and says:

"To promote this important and desirable end—the revival of our sugar culture—it is necessary that our planters should be alive to a serious danger which threatens their future—and that is, the loss of the seed cane, the extinction or disappearance of which will make it a work of many years to recover this most valuable product. A large portion of the country which had been planted with cane, on the west bank of the Mississippi, has been overflowed, and the aggregate crop this year will be further reduced from even the beggarly exhibit of the last season. If steps are not taken to save all the cane of this season for seed, instead of grinding it into sugar, there is reason to fear that for the next year there will not be seed enough to supply a dozen plantations."

HOMICIDE IN GEORGIA.—A few days since, Hugh M. Moore, Esq., was killed in Dublin, Ga., in a rencounter with a man of that place by the name of Elsinger. Moore was shot through the heart by Elsinger, and another person slightly wounded in the hand and arm by the pistol of Moore. Both fired almost simultaneously. Elsinger was arrested by Federal guards, and turned over to the civil authorities by whom he was admitted to bail in the sum of thirty thousand dollars. From this it would be inferred that there were mitigating circumstances in the case. A difficulty had existed between the parties for a few days on personal matters, growing out of reports made by a contraband, as to hire, the merits of which we do not know, and threats were made by Moore. Moore was of a highly respectable family, and had been Senator from Laurens, and secretary of the Senate of the State of Georgia. He leaves a wife and several children, and many friends to mourn this sad bereavement.—Savannah Republican.

INTERNAL REVENUE DECISION.—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that the proviso of section 64, Internal Tax Regulations, that cloth, fabrics or articles made of thread, yarn, or warps, upon which a duty has been assessed and paid, shall be assessed and pay a duty on the increased value only thereof, is held to apply to cloth, fabrics or articles made wholly or principally of thread, yarn, or warps of domestic manufacture, and upon which an excise duty has been paid. It does not include imported thread, yarn and warps, or thread or wire manufactured from any metallic substance. Therefore, unless such fabrics are made principally of domestic thread, yarn, or warps, they are subject to tax on the entire value, as may be the case with bead trimming.

In estimating the "increased value" of fabrics, or the taxable value, the value of imported thread, yarn, or warps, or the value of wire or thread made of any metallic substance cannot be deducted.

DISCOVERY OF A FOSSIL FISH.

An interesting paleontological discovery has been made in a quarry at Templeaux le Guerard, near Epechy, in the department of the Somme, France. M. Lesage, the proprietor of the quarry, while splitting a block of stone to be used in building, found in the interior a fossil fish in the most perfect state of preservation. It chanced that the fossil was flat in the place where the block of stone separated into two parts. It appeared in relief on one half the block of stone, except a part of the head, which remained on the other portion, with the mark of the scales and fins. The fish appears to belong to the salmon tribe, and measures two feet in length and five inches in diameter.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

This medicant needs no eulogium. "Old wine needs no bush," and the Ready Relief is its own best recommendation. Within a few minutes after its application it will prove that it deserves the name it bears, and is a "ready relief" indeed to all sufferers who use it. Rubbed upon the spine, or breakbone, say for ten or twenty minutes at a time, about three times a day, and away goes at once all the pain resulting from such female complaints as leucorrhœa, weakening discharges, obstructions, retentions, prolapsus uteri, hysterics, headache, &c., the complaints themselves gradually disappearing if you only persevere in the application of the Ready Relief. For all spinal affections, for weakness, rheumatism, nervousness, weariness, lumbago, spasms, sciatica, gout, paralysis, numerous diseases of the kidneys, bladder, urethra; for pains in the small of the back, in the hips and thighs; for weakness in the back or kidneys, run the spinal column well, in the manner mentioned, and you may depend upon a certain and speedy cure. Some people to rub with Ready Relief the part of the body afflicted with pain or disease, and in ninety-five cases out of a hundred the pain will vanish at the first rubbing; if not it will rarely go at the second. This is especially the case in attacks of croup, diphtheria, sore throat, hoarseness, pain in the breast, pain in the bowels, sprains, cuts, bruises, wounds, cramps, chilblains, headache, tic, sore knees, feet, joints, legs, arms, and so on. A teaspoonful in a wineglass of water taken internally, besides the external rubbing, soon puts to flight cholera morbus, cholic, dysentery, looseness of the bowels, cholera morbus, heartburn, vomiting, convulsions, sick headache, &c. What medicine can compare with it? Ready Relief can afford "ready relief" under so many distressing circumstances!

N. B.—Radway's Ready Relief is not only the best, but it is the cheapest; medicine in the world. Fifty cents expended for a bottle of Relief will do more good, secure more health, and can be used for more purposes than ten dollars expended for other medications. There is no pain, ache or infirmity—from the slightest wound to a broken limb, but that Radway's Ready Relief will be found of great service. Sold by Druggists. jy24-6w&w
