THE PEOPLE BENT ON ENJOYING THE BLESSINGS OF PEACE.

The remarkable quiet in the political world continues, despite the attempts of a few State Conventions to arouse the people to a belief that the country is not sufficiently governed, or of certain politicians—few in number—to convince them that it is "governed too much." Let the cause for this wonderful absence from excitement be what it may, never in the history of a nation did there occur so profound a lull from the fiercest turmoil, such almost irksome silence from an earthquake uproar that fairly shook the continent—Although so short a time since the mightiest military forces ever arrayed against each other were in arms, the million of men, more or less, have already been measurably absorbed into the peaceful ranks of the people, whilst the capital of the nationality whose broad avenues they but lately filled to repletion, has relapsed into the old condition of sparseness of population it presented before the war.

And what perhaps is just as significant, the various Departments at Washington, in appearance, tell the same story. No more crowding upon the Secretaries; no elbowing and struggling for an audience; every ante-room crowded, every face exhibiting its anxiety. But lounging about as usual the holiday seekers, the veteran eminently polite, seem to crowd each other; seem to have become supernumeraries, seem to have lost their vocation; only at the White House the reverse being the rule in the rush made to obtain a hearing, for pardon or for office. All this indicates a determination so persistent to enjoy quiet, that there seems danger of going to extremes; of taking too little interest in public affairs.

But the people are not idle. The thousands who left their homes to fight the battles of the country, have, in a majority of instances, found plenty to do. Many a field has required to be re fenced, many a dwelling to be repaired; whilst numberless enterprizes, in contemplation, absorb their attention as they are preparing for the campaigns of peace. Better citizens than ever, because the blessings of good government and of quiet are more than ever appreciated, and assured of a long respite from the excitements of a Presidential contest, they will continue to frown upon all attempts to embroil them in political excitements; they will leave to the governing power the task of maintaining order. The South is exhausted by what has taken place, whilst its allies in the North are admonished; and therefore we say again—that we look for a period which is to be eminently favorable to substantial progress, to that advancement which is speedily to repair the damages that have been inflicted by a sanguinary and destructive conflict.

And as to how these conditions are to have a bearing on the destinies of the State and nation, we have already indicated. We have taken occasion to show the certainty that exists that our own commonwealth is to be amongst the first to be benefitted by the new movements consequent upon the remarkable revolution that has occurred. The shifting of population is already being demonstrated—the chances of great changes in the future are plainer than ever. On this subject the New York Times, speaking of the coming emigration of actual and permanent settlers, such as farmers, mechanics, artisans, young merchants and "so forth,"—continues:

"These classes will begin to penetrate the Southern States from the North in the coming Autumn months. They will look around for lands, make enquiries as to employment, and see what are the opportunities for business. They will study questions of climate, production, soil, trade, commerce and industry. They will make up their minds as to their chances. If found favorable, they will communicate with friends and acquaintances in the North; and next Spring, the border States of the South, such as Tennessee and the two Virginias, and the cities of the seaboard, will see the beginning of a real tide of emigration that will yet sweep over their entire surface, carrying enterprize, industry, capital, education, prosperity and wealth."

Now when we consider that the foregoing extract from a leading Northern journal is but one of many similar in sentiment from papers scattered all over that section; that the conviction appears universal, that the rush hither in vast numbers is to certainly occur, it fully justifies the inferences we have drawn from the appearance in our State of the advance line of this peaceful invasion; and is a guaranty that the forward movement which has begun, is to have no limit. And taking all this for granted, we insist again, with the Newark (N. J) Advertiser, that the great advantages presented by our State over others South in the way of real estate titles to property is of immense importance at the present time—Whilst it will be years before titles disturbed by "confiscation," of the larger estates in the South, will be adjusted, and whilst immense tracts of land there, and especially in Virginia, are left without a fence or tree to designate old boundaries, the very records also being burned or otherwise destroyed, our own State now finds the substantial advantages that have accrued to it from having had the war kept away from its doors; it will thereby gain a start in the race for wealth and prosperity, from this cause, the importance of which cannot be estimated.

In this view of the case, who can now place a value on the services of those who during the inception of difficulties managed to keep our State out of that fearful vortex which has swallowed up the prosperity of our immediate neighbor, Virginia, along with that of so many others? Our own State put on higher ground, actually, by occurrences which carried only ruin and desolation to the States in rebellion, doing little to invite the evils they seemed to covet, we have come out of the conflict rid of that which in the past has weighed us down; and to-day we stand in a line with the most favored commonwealths, and privileged to contemplate a prosperous and desirable future.

Then we say, finally, let the quiet, or the stagnation—if that is a better name for it—in the political world continue.—Let demagogues complain, if they will, that the people cannot be aroused to a sense of the wrongs they suffer, the dangers that impend over them. Meanwhile, they accept the peace they have, and they are hard at work to advance the material interests of the country, and their own, individually, along with them.

PILLS THAT ARE PERFECT.

There are many good pills in the world, we hope, for the sake of humanity, but the pills that are really "perfect," because they are aperient, tonic, laxative, stimulant, counter-irritant, sudorific, and alterative at the same time, are Radway's Regulating Pills, sold everywhere, and for only 25 cents a box. With these rare pills in your house, you can do without purging by means of other pills or powders. You can do without salts, sudlitz, castor oil, citrate of magnesia, senna and tamar, and so on. You will know of them. Radway's Regulating Pills are a substitute for the whole of them, and, what is better, may be taken with safety and comfort by the most delicate woman as well as the robust man. They are the only vegetable preparation existing which will answer in place of calomel, regulating the action of the liver, without making you a live-long victim to the use of mercury or blue pill. They open the bowels in a proper and wholesome manner, being composed of the extracts of suitable medicaments. They do not purge violently, like the drastic pills of aloes or Croton or Harlem oil, or cathartics, but leaving the mass of the intestines. They are worst the "perfect" pill of the age, and when taken keep all the secretions in a healthy condition, compel all the organs to do their duties with regularity, purify the blood, and restore that lost health blooming, sound health. There is nothing like Radway's Regulating Pills for the cure of all disorders of the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and bladder, for nervous debility, costiveness, indigestion, bilious fever, piles and all derangements of the internal viscera. For 25 cents a box you have in these pills a panacea for some of the most painful and dangerous of all diseases. Sold by Druggists.

N. B—Dr. Radway's pills are elegantly coated with gum, are free from taste of smell, and peculiarly adapted for the use of all who are averse to taking pills. Which can resolve them in their case; they are mild, soothing and healing in their operation, they purge disease like ogly from the system. Every family should keep them in the house. aul4-2dw

☞ TO THE PUBLIC

The general interest which manifests itself in every direction in regard to the coming Annual Festival of the Baltimore Light Guard RIFLE ASSOCIATION, ("Baltimore Schuetzen Verein,") and the large number of guests from abroad and from our midst who will be present, promise to be of a character much more interesting and more extensive than was originally anticipated. From all sides we are receiving prize gifts, and it may be expected that the exhibition of articles, representing the arts of art and industry, will attract the examining eye and judgment of many strangers and thousands of our own citizens. To give all who may desire to contribute to the Festival Exhibition an opportunity to do so, and also to enable the Committee to provide proper and sufficient room, we request those who wish to be represented by contributions at the place of the Festival to send such articles as they may select to JULIUS CONRAD, No. 3 South Frederick street, or to give notice at the latter place where we may call for them. A printed catalogue of the articles contributed will be published and circulated.
