DEVELOPMENTS IN REGARD TO THE LATE CONFLICT—EMIGRATION OF THE DISAFFECTED.

When South Carolina projected rebellion and revolution, drawing into the movement the other Southern States, everything pointed to the conclusion that her leading politicians intended to have indeed a separate government on the line of the Ohio river, with an indefinite expansion of territory toward the Southwest. And that in regard to this project she was defeated and bitterly disappointed in the very outset, at Montgomery, by Jeff. Davis and his particular followers, who cared not by what road he might reach the White House, is about as plain to the shrewd observer as anything else connected with the attempted revolution. The great slave "empire" projected by Rhett and his fellows, they were shrewd enough to see, could never be made to expand towards the North; whilst with a feeling of audacity not then tamed, Davis fancied he might initiate a rebellion at the South which would enable him, in a Mexican fashion, to come around through the States of the Northwest to fetch up at Washington; the presumption, of course, being, that Mr. Lincoln—no warrior—would incontinently vacate, leaving him at his leisure to fasten upon the whole country that system presumed strong enough, aggressive enough, on the "five to one" theory of conquest, to dominate everything.

And besides the evidence furnished by the proceedings at Montgomery, where it was proposed to allow certain "free States" to come in on their programme for settling matters, the bribe being the "free navigation of the Mississippi," was the declaration of Jeff. Davis himself made just before he left Washington—that "there "could be but one empire betwixt the "Lakes and the Gulf, and that Washing-"ton must be its capital;" all of which, we say, fixes the fact conclusively, that the purposes of Jeff. Davis and of the South Carolinians were quite at variance in the intended final settlement of matters. Davis wanted power and unity on the basis of a military despotism;—South Carolina wanted "independence" and "separation." But the latter, deprived of the leal almost as soon as she had assumed it, had no alternative but to follow along sullenly after Davis, grumbling furiously however from time to time at the inefficiency and wrong-headedness of the leader foisted upon her, and whom the Charleston Mercury, after the cause had suffered various heavy reverses, was pleased to sneer at as—"our Moses!"

Well, the upshot of all this now, is rather curious to contemplate, and perhaps a disappointment as to what might have been expected. Governor Pickens, one of the most earnest and bitter of the original nullifiers and secessionists, has—it seems—quietly accepted the result; is "as tame as a sucking dove;" is scarcely heard of in his desire to be "let alone;" although he is the man who thirty years ago proposed "guerilla warfare" as the best method of prolonging the contest even then contemplated. Wade Hampton has got enough of fighting and makes no difficulty of settling himself down for the future, along with others down there of the same set, like the Rhetts, who seem fairly to have crept into retirement; so that the only cues left who are so chagrined that they cannot stay in the country at all, are quite a different set: mostly, it seems, those very Mississippians who, had things gone to suit them, would have kept up the alliance with the free States gladly, on the score of being continued in power.—These are instructive reminiscences at this time in the light of what is happening, showing how completely the calculations of the original revolutionists are reversed; and when we add to them the reported declaration of Howell Cobb, who expresses "an earnest desire to see Georgia resume her former position in the Union"—and of Ex Governor Joseph Brown, of the same State, who "thinks it would be well for the State convention to declare slavery at an end in Georgia without excitement or discussion on the subject," we are furnished with more facts which show how completely the originators of the revolt have broken down. And now, after this exhibit, let us see who of the leaders are so earnest in their antipathies and disgust at the way matters have gone, that they cannot even stay in the country; who those are who purpose to show their "faith by their works" in quitting it. The editor of the Galveston News has lately been in conference with some of the illustrious disappointed, and amongst those scattering in various directions from Texas, he instances Magruder, Kirby Smith, Preston, Hindman, and General Price—the latter bound for Rio Janeiro, as those—"none of whom ever expect to return to their former homes in the United States!" And this is not all that is indicative of movements abroad on the part of the disgusted and disappointed. We quote a paragraph from the New York Express:

"EMIGRATION TO BRAZIL.—The new "steamship Montana will leave this port "for Rio Janeiro on Tuesday next. Colo-"nel Wood, late of the Natchez Free "Trader, will be among her passengers.—"Col. W., we believe, goes out on a spe-"cial commission from some hundreds of "families in the gulf States, with a view "of effecting an arrangement with the "Emperor of Brazil, whereby they may "be permitted to occupy a certain district "of country in the valley of the Amazon "as a permanent settlement. Notwith-"standing the losses incident to the war, "these emigres are understood to have res-"cued enough of this world's goods from "the wreck, to enable them to inaugurate "their new enterprize with a promise of "success."

Now this is consistent, and even praiseworthy. If Ex-Governor Joseph Brown of Georgia was correct in his former expression of a belief—that certain of the Southern leaders wanted a "monarchy," why Brazil will furnish the institution for some of them ready made; and as the enjoyment of "slavery," that great "corner stone," was another prominent requisite, that for which the conflict was initiated and waged, this too will be ready to their hands; in other words,—and like "Mahomet's mountain,"—"if it will not come to them, they can go to it." The world is wide; and what a pity they had not thought of this comparatively easy and harmless way of gratifying their partialities, before entering upon a terrible and ruinous war for the purpose! Let the country congratulate itself then, as it sees such an exodus taking place, for it was devoted by the founders of the Republic to the needs of those who believed in unity, in free institutions, in progress. Possibly, too, the Emperor of Brazil may have reason to congratulate himself on the acquisition, since the admonitions the discontented exiles have received, may make them better citizens of that country than they have proved themselves to be of this.

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL.—Another break, which will cause a suspension of navigation for about a week, has occurred in the Canal at the nine mile level, about five miles from this city. Since the first of the month 210 boats have cleared, carrying 22,621 tons of coal. The large increase of the coal trade and scarcity of coasting vessels have induced coal shippers at Georgetown, D. C., to largely increase the rates of freight to New York, Boston and other shipping points. The Georgetown coal dealers have advanced their prices to $11 per ton. 370 boats were registered at Georgetown during the first fourteen days of this month.—Cumberland Union.

FOR MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS MATHEWS' VENITIAN HAIR DYE has stood the test of trial, and is constantly increasing in public favor.

THE VENETIAN HAIR DYE is the best and cheapest made. Its price is only 75 cts. and each bottle contains double the quantity of dye in those usually sold for $1.

THIS HAIR DYE is manufactured by a peculiar process, which renders it infinitely superior to any dye in market. Being complete in one bottle, no preparation is required, which greatly simplifies the application.

IN USING THIS DYE you avoid that rusty, dead appearance by which dyed hair and whiskers are so readily recognized, when an inferior article has been used, as it produces a perfectly natural color of any shade that is desired, from a rich brown to a jetty, lustrous black, that will not smut, crock, or stain the clothing. Invest 75 cents, and you will be convinced. Sold by all Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers.

IT LOOKS LIKE CONSUMPTION.

Never neglect disease of lungs until consumption sets in and you are pronounced incurable.

Always attend to a complaint at once. "A stitch in time saves nine" is an adage quite as applicable to bodily ailments as to business transactions. Remember that your life is in danger, however insignificant may seem to be the malady in its first appearance; and, as it is "the best life you have got, and you may never get a better," I use John Wesley's quaint language, take care of it. The use of Radway's Ready Relief, in the incipient stages of consumption will always avert the grip of that fatal affliction. We have personally known cases of diseased lungs, which looked just like consumption, and which had many of the symptoms accompanying it of confirmed consumption, that gave way immediately to Radway's Ready Relief, taken as a stimulant, in hot sweetened water, on going to bed at night. The perspiration occasioned by it was copious and extremely offensive, but it carried off all the dangerous appearance, and in a surprisingly short time the persistent use of the Ready Relief every other night, for three or four weeks, the diseased lungs became well. The rattling of blood ceased. The cough gradually disappeared. The pain in the chest departed. The dark, thin venous blood from the heart once more properly oxygenized in the lungs, returned a bright red, and full of vitality (or arterial circulation, and the Ready Relief is certain to effect such a wholesome change if its application be persevered in. Not that we assert it to be a remedy for any decided case of consumption. We cannot conscientiously aver that. But we do say, we utter it with confidence, that it has cured, and that it will cure many cases which look like consumption, and may be called consumption in its incipient state. That may be depended upon. The Ready Relief is sold by druggists.

N. B.—As an evidence of the importance of Radway's Ready Relief, in the treatment of weak lungs, colds, and premonitory symptoms of consumption, we present the following letter from a well known citizen of Michigan:

"MEMPHIS, MACOMB CO., MICH., September 4, 1864.

"DR. RADWAY—Dear Sir—About four years since I was very much affected with DISEASED LUNGS. My friends thought I had the Consumption. I was entirely unfit for business, raised blood, and had every symptom of the above fatal disease. One night, on going to bed, I thought I would take a sweat, and took your READY RELIEF (in hot water) as a stimulant to sweat me. It did so. The perspiration was of a slimy substance, and offensive smell. I followed taking the Ready Relief every other night for four weeks, and at the end of that time was entirely well. This is a true statement of facts, which I will testify to under oath.
