ONE SQUARE CONTAINS SIX LINES OF SPACE.

ONE YEAR AGO.

BY REV. C. C. COX.

[The following pathetic lines, from a recent number of Harper's Magazine, are from the pen of the present Lieutenant Governor of Maryland, who is not only a writer of singular grace and power, but an accomplished speaker. Few men have rendered such valuable service as he in placing Maryland in the proud position she now occupies. Dr. Cox is the author of many valuable poems. We hope to see them gathered into a volume.]

What stars have faded from our sky!
What hopes unfolded but to die!
What dreams so fondly pondered o'er
Forever lost the hues they wore!
How like a death-bell, sad and slow,
Tolls through the soul, "one year ago!"

Where is the face we loved to greet,
The form that graced the fireside seat,
The gentle smile the winning way,
That blessed our life path day by day?
Where fled those accents, soft and low,
That thrilled our hearts "one year ago?"

Ah! vacant is the fireside chair,
The smile that won, no longer there;
From door and hall, from porch and lawn,
The echo of the voice is gone;
And we who linger only know
How much was lost "one year ago!"

Beside her grave the marble white
Keeps silent guard by day and night;
Serene she sleeps, nor heeds the tread
Of footsteps o'er her lowly bed;
Her pulseless breast no more may know
The pangs of life "one year ago!"

But why repine? A few more years,
A few more broken sighs and tears,
And we, enlisted with the dead,
Shall follow where her steps have led:
To that fair world rejoicing go
To which she passed "one year ago!"

A LITERARY PLACE.

Charlottesville is fairly entitled to be called the literary centre of the South. There is, first, the University of Virginia, with its learned professors on all sorts of subjects. Then we have two large female seminaries, where young ladies learn thirty or forty things ending in—ology. Then we have some half dozen first class academies for boys. Then several select schools. Then a number of schools for the English branches. And then the whole colored population of all sexes and ages is repeating from morning to night a—b—ab; e—b—eb; i—b—ib; c—a—t—cat; d—o—g—dog; c—u—p—cup; &c—through all the varieties of the first lessons in orthography. There are some four or five colored schools, and little negro chaps darken every door with primers in their hands. If we pass a blacksmith shop, we hear a—b—ab; if we peep into a shoemaker's shop, it is a—b—ab; if we pass by a negro cabin in the suburbs of town, we hear the sound a—b—ab; if the cook goes out to suckle her infant, it is a—b—ab; the dining room servant washes up his dishes and plates, crying a—b—ab; the hostler curries his horse, repeating a—b—ab; Jerry blacks your boots, saying, with rapid strokes, a—b—ab—a—b—ab; the whole air is resonant with a—b—ab. The little yellow boy who sleeps in our chamber awoke us the other night, muttering in his dreams a—b—ab. Mr. Greeley has stirred up thunder here. If you send a little negro boy on an errand, he is spelling everything he meets in one syllable. The little white boys look at them wonderingly, and try to cork them. In a month or so we expect to issue an evening edition of the Chronicle in monosyllables to increase our circulation—perhaps a pictorial, with tubs and spades, and ants and cows, and owls and bats—like the primers.—Charlottesville (Va.) Chronicle.

REMARKABLE WILL OF A HAMBURG BANKER.

The Hamburg Borsen Halle gives the following particulars of the will of Carl Heine, the great Hamburg banker, who died worth, it is supposed, about three millions sterling. He leaves £200 to Hamburg and Altona poor; £30,000 to charitable institutions in Hamburg; £2,000 to charitable institutions in Paris; £15,000 to the Art Gallery in Hamburg; and sums varying from £370 to £3,000 to his clerks. To every clerk who has been twelve years in his employment, and is more than forty years old, a yearly pension of £50, the half of which sum to be continued to their widows. To his head gardener he leaves a legacy of £300; and to all male and female servants in his establishment both in Hamburg and Paris legacies of from £10 to £60.

His old tutor is remembered with a pension for life of £250; and various old servants and friends with pensions of from £25 to £200. His sisters and relatives have got sums from £50,000 downwards His widow is left as residuary legatee, and after her death the whole is to go the adopted daughter. None of his furniture or effects must be sold, but can be given away by his widow. He instructs that he shall be buried in the morning without pomp, and that his grave shall be marked with a stone, on which simply his name and the date of his death shall be inscribed. He also ordered his business to be wound up (but without haste); and instructs that all private debts under £120 can be entirely cancelled, if desired, by the debtors; while sums above £3,000 may be allowed to stand over for a year at former interest. To crown the whole, he orders his executors, under the greatest secrecy, neither to crave nor to sue by law for any out standing claims.

THE CORN CROP.—The Petersburg Express of Friday says: It has pleased God to bless the Southern States with the most abundant and wonderful corn crop ever known, and we are, therefore, saved from all danger of famine and suffering for want of food. No contingency of drought, hail or storm can now injure that great Southern crop for man and beast. With the granaries bursting with corn, all else goes well with the Southern farmer.—Whites, blacks, horses, mules, oxen, cows, pigs, sheep and fowls, all wax fat when the supply of corn is unstinted. The editor of the Richmond Times, in an article on the abundant harvest of the present year, says:

During a recent trip through a portion of the Valley of Virginia, where the ruins of mills and barns still mark the ravages of war, we found the corn crop everywhere magnificent in promise. We were informed that throughout the valley of Virginia, from Harper's Ferry to the southern extremity of the Valley, the corn, oats and hay crops are better than they had been for years. In the Western and Northern States we hear accounts of the same wonderful promise of corn. Before this prospect of plenty the combination of the speculators to keep up the price of breadstuffs have collapsed. Emboldened by the short wheat crop, they advanced some weeks ago, the price of all kinds of breadstuffs. But by no tricks, combinations or devices, have they been able to keep up prices.

THE VOTE QUESTION.—General Carl Schurz, in one of his letters from Georgia, starts the "vell question," and thus describes it:—Formerly, under the old order of things, negro woman were not permitted to wear veils.—Now, under the new order of things, a good many are wearing them. This is an outrage that cannot be submitted to. The white ladies of that neighborhood agree in being indignant beyond measure. Some of them declare that whenever they meet a colored woman wearing a veil, they will tear it from her face. Others, mind ul of the consequences which such an act of violence might draw after it, under this same new order of things, declare their resolve never to wear veils themselves so long as the colored women wear them. This is the vell question, and this is the way it stands at present.

AFFAIRS IN HOWARD COUNTY.—We copy the following items from the Ellicott's Mills Record:

More Horses Stolen.—Two horses were stolen on the night of the 11th instant, from Mr. Henry Cover. Next morning, just as Mr. Cover and his sons were about to depart in various directions in pursuit of them, Mr. John Smallwood made his appearance, with the stolen property. Mr. S. captured them from a negro, near Waterloo. The negro escaped, as Mr. Smallwood was unarmed at the time. Last Saturday night, 12th instant, the stable of Mr. Henry Owings was broken into and a valuable pair of carriage horses stolen therefrom. Although every effort was made to recover the property, and the reward of $1000 offered for the horses and thief, as yet no clue can be had as to their whereabouts. On Wednesday night, two work horses were stolen from Thomas O'Neal, residing near Oakland. Mr. O Neal, is a poor, hard-working man, and this will be a severe loss to him.

Property Sales.—During this week, the following sales of property have been made: Dr. Hubert sold his 82½ acre farm, near Waterloo, to Mr. J. Hicks, of Washington city, for twelve thousand dollars. Richard Kerr also sold his farm, adjoining the above, to the same gentleman, for $3,500. Mr. Juntt has sold his farm, recently purchased of Mr. G. Mecumsey, containing about 85 acres, and adjoining Mr. John Stabler's, to Mr Chorwick, for $2,700. Colonel Berninger sold his farm, containing 113 acres, situated in Baltimore county, near the terminus of the Catonsville and Baltimore railway, to a Mr. White, from Pennsylvania, for $33,800.

Serious Charge.—On the 14th instant a man by the name of Alben Wells, residing at Elk Ridge Landing, was committed to jail by Justice McCauley on the charge of having murdered Ann Pierce, a woman with whom he has lived for many years as man and wife.—The woman was found dead in the house on the 8th instant, and the appearance of the body and other suspicious circumstances revealed before the coroner's inquest, were considered sufficient to commit him to jail, to await his trial at the September term.

Stock Growers' Meeting.—According to announcement a meeting of the stock growers of Howard county was held at the Union Hotel, in this town, on Wednesday last. The meeting was organized by calling the Hon. Anthony Kennedy to the Chair, and appointing Mr. Philip Tabb Secretary. Hon. Edward Hammond, Dr. W. W. Watkins and George Sands, Esq., were appointed as a committee to wait upon the Governor, state the grievances to which the farmers of the county have been subjected by horse thieves, and consult with him as to the most effective method of putting a check to these depredations.

Fearful Accident.—Last Saturday, Mr. Reuben I. Dorsey, while wrestling with his brother in law, Mr. Cook, received a severe fall, whereby his right arm was badly fractured near the shoulder joint. At last accounts he was suffering severely, though under the best medical attendance.

Camp Meeting.—A camp meeting will be held, by the Methodist denomination, on Elkridge ground, near McKendree Church, beginning from the 21st mile stone on the Baltimore and Ellicott City railroad, commencing on Friday, the 1st of September. Every arrangement will be made by the committee, for the accommodation of visitors.

A Severe Cut.—Mr. Thomas Shipley, while carpentering on the premises of Mr. Richard Davis, near Woodstock, a few days ago, cut his foot nearly off with an axe. Dr. W. H. Worthington was sent for and dressed the wound, and we hear that Mr. S. is doing as well as could be expected.

Caught in the Act.—On the night of the 12th inst., the guard employed by Mr. David Hays, at Waterloo, to watch his stable, detected two men in the act of breaking in the stable. They were immediately arrested and taken before Justice Cocling, who committed them to jail.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.—A Man Butchers his Wife and then Commits Suicide.—About eleven o'clock to day intense excitement was created by the discovery that a German named Henry Berrier, residing on Second street, in the upper part of the city, had brutally slaughtered his wife and then committed suicide. Some neighbors heard the woman's screams, but knowing the desperate character of her husband, who has long been a terror in the neighborhood, were afraid to enter the house. On the arrival of the chief of police, who had been summoned, an entrance to the room was effected, when both husband and wife were discovered lying on the floor weltering in their blood, the latter with his throat cut from ear to ear and entirely dead.

The woman, although still living, was found to be seriously if not mortally injured. On the left side of her head were two ugly wounds, evidently inflicted with the pole of an axe which was lying by her side, Ler shoulder-blade broken and her ribs stoved in. It is not expected that she will survive. When we left the scene of this terrible tragedy a large crowd of excited people were gathered around the house, awaiting the arrival of the coroner. The deceased was known to be a man of violent and uncontrollable temper, and exceedingly desperate when his passions were aroused, or when excited by liquor. It is alleged by relatives of the family, however, that for some time past he has not been of sound mind, and that the bloody deed was committed under the influence of partial insanity. An inquest will be held and further developments made upon the arrival of the coroner, who resides some miles from this city, in the lower end of the county.—Harrisburg Union, 19th.

HOW VIRGINIANS SUFFER.

We understand that on Monday last, a man dressed in citizen's clothing, and riding a black horse, visited that portion of the county of Stafford, in the neighborhood of White Oak, and selecting out those families, the male members of which were absent, informed them that he was an agent of confiscation for the United States, and that unless they paid him fifty cents per acre for each acre of land now in corn, their land would be sold this week, and they would never be allowed to repurchase it. By this statement, and by means of threats, he succeeded in obtaining, in one instance at least, all the money which one person had at the time.—Whether he succeeded in other cases, we have not heard. The following is a copy of the receipt given for the money.

Received in full, for forty acres of land, $200 50 from _____ for taxes.

Signed THOMAS JONES.

He is represented as a tall slim man, with dark hair and light whiskers. We would caution the citizens in the county to be on their guard against him and all others like him.—Fredericksburg Ledger.

WHAT MR. LINCOLN HAS.—Mr. Raymond, Mr. Lincoln's biographer, says a few days before the attack was made on Fort Sumter, Mr. Lincoln said to Mr. Raymond that he wished he could get time to attend to the Southern question; he thought he knew what was wanted, and believed he could do something towards quieting the rising discontent, but the office-seekers demanded all his time. "I am," said he, "like a man so busy in letting rooms in one end of his house, that he can't stop to put out the fire that is burning the other." The clamor of the hungry office beggars undoubtedly influenced Mr. Lincoln more than the coming political storm, the violence of which he could not estimate till he had to encounter it. It is no impeachment of his judgment that he did not comprehend the situation at that time, and it is no impeachment of the character of the office beggars that they should take so much of his time at such an important era attending to them—that is the way they manifest their patriotism.

POWER OF TRUTH.—"It has often been found," says a political philosopher, "that profuse expenditure, heavy taxation, cruel commercial restrictions, corrupt tribunals, disastrous wars, seditions, persecutions, conflagrations, inundations, have not been able to destroy capital so fast as the exertions of private citizens have been able to create it." This shows the power of individual industry, and is a proof that amid apparently the most adverse, extravagant, and demoralized condition of society, the great mass of people must be diligently attending to their own business, and creating a great deal more than they expend.

SICKNESS.—The bilious and chills and fevers prevail in our town and many parts of the county to a greater extent than has been known for many years. Physicians are busy, riding day and night. But few deaths, however, have occurred, the diseases, in most cases, yielding readily to proper treatment, but the difficulty is that a relapse is almost certain to take place if preventatives are not constantly administered, and in many instances when they are.—Kent News.

BEARS.—Bears are abundant in Maine this season. The Aroostook Pioneer says the children who go after berries along the margin of the woods are often frightened by them, and tracks are frequently seen along the by-roads leading to and from the back settlements.

THE MANCHESTER MURDER.—The property left by Mrs. Starkweather at Manchester, Conn., has been appraised at $3,667, and so soon as the estate is settled it will go to the son Albert, who murdered his mother and sister for it.

☞ Edwin Forrest, the celebrated tragedian, is seriously ill at Philadelphia.

MEDICAL.

EVERYBODY, EVERYBODY, WHO USES HANCE'S CHEMICAL HAIR RESTORATIVE, IS CONVINCED OF THE FACT THAT It will Restore the Natural Color of the Hair. Where age or sickness has turned it gray and so it will render it soft and glossy.

ANYBODY

Who may try it will find that it does not color the skin, but by stimulating the natural secretions at the roots, gives new life and strength to the Hair, and thus restores its color and freshness. It can be used as freely as water upon the scalp, and with as much safety—is composed of oil and stimulating spirits, and as an article for the toilet has no equal.

Price $1 per bottle.
