

BALTIMORE, January 4.

At the date of our last accounts from Paris, general Scherer, at the head of the army of the Eastern Pyrenees, had arrived at Albenga, and replaced Kellerman in the command of the army of Italy. Immediately afterwards Scherer pushed his left wing beyond Balestrino and his right wing took possession of Toriano. The Sardo Austrian army, afraid of being hemmed in, abandoned their entrenched camps and retreated precipitately towards Borunda.

AUTHENTIC.

Extract of a letter from Stephen Cathalan, jun. son of the late consul of the United States at Marseilles, dated at that city, the 24th of Sept. 1795.

Having mentioned the peace made between the United States and the Dey of Algiers, Mr. Cathalan adds:

"I hope then soon to see in this harbour many American vessels with flour and other articles, which will be sold advantageously here, tobacco excepted, as they have too much of this article now. I have sold yesterday a cargo of flour at 110 livres per barrel in specie. Tobacco at this moment won't fetch 30 livres per ql. in specie, Marseilles weight."

On the 20th November last the right hon. Guy lord Dorchester, the governor general of Lower Canada, went in state to the legislative council, and being seated on the throne, &c. the usher of the black rod was ordered to notice the commons to attend—after which he made his speech to both houses, in which he informed, that the deficiency of harvest in Britain, and the failure of crops in Canada, had induced him to prohibit the exportation of wheat, flour, peas, oats, barley, Indian corn, and biscuit, until December 10, and recommended measures to prevent the poor of Canada from being distressed.

It is queried, whether the European scarcity, and the Canadian failure of crops, will not distress the poor of the United States? whether the present prices will not drain us of bread by spring? and whether congress should not inquire into it?

The schooner Harriot, capt. Luce, arrived at Alexandria, on Wednesday last from Martinique, brings intelligence, that on the 10th ult. a brig arrived there, which had been dispatched from the British fleet for the West-Indies, on the 13th of November, then three days at sea. That this fleet was slated to consist of 9 ships of the line and 18 frigates, and to have 32,000 troops on board—That 3000 negroes, furnished by the different islands, were dispatched from Martinique to Barbadoes on the 10th ult. to join the fleet and act as pioneers on an expedition said to be against Guadaloupe and St. Lucia, for which great preparations were making both in Barbadoes and Martinique—That a party of French, said to be about 180 men, (from St. Lucia) with 500 stand of arms, &c. had effected a landing on the east end of Martinique, but were immediately routed with the loss of all their military apparatus.

From the Eclipse, a Rouen paper, of Nov. 6.

MENTAUBAU, October 19.

The troops under lieutenant general de Werunneck arrived the day before yesterday, and yesterday followed the advanced guards towards Neuwied. On the 17th, this guard pushed the French in their precipitate retreat and took 130 ammunition carriages, and 300 prisoners.

This lad is well known to gentlemen of the turf, having rode for several purses in Virginia and Maryland. He stole and carried off with him a sorrel horse, about fourteen hands high, with a star in his forehead, and branded on the near shoulder with the letter B. There is some reason to believe he will attempt to get into Kent county, in the Delaware state, and pass himself as a free man; FORTY DOLLARS shall be paid for the boy, and TEN for the horse, if secured so that I get them again.
