

...the confessions which they are said to have made before the police, and on which they are found guilty. Picot, servant to Georges, on the trial, said he had been put to the torture to make him confess; and we understand Pichegru was actually racked to death with the same view. It is said, that the place of high admiral of France will be reserved for Jerome Buonaparte, whose marriage is to be cancelled, as it had not obtained the emperor's consent, and his rights restored to him. The imperial family will then be completely provided for, at least for the present.

Extract of a letter from Liverpool, dated June 24.
The tragedy of the Revenge was performed here last night. The character of Alonzo was sustained by Mr. Barrymore, and Zanga by Mr. Cooper. In the last scene of the play, where Alonzo stabs himself with the dagger which he had previously wrested from Zanga, poor Barrymore realized the scene. It was a real African dagger, a favourite of Mr. Cooper, and the same which he always uses in acting Zanga. Mr. Barrymore, not aware of this, struck himself violently with this dreadful weapon, and instantly fell upon the stage. As he lay upon the stage he called loudly for help, saying, "I am wounded; it is a real dagger." For a few seconds the performers stood motionless from terror. At length some cried out, "Drop the curtain," and an alarm was excited. Some ran from the house, others flew to the stage to gratify their curiosity; among these were two medical gentlemen, who gave their assistance. Upon examination they found that the dagger took a slanting direction across the lower ribs, which it passed over, and lodged in his belly, in which it inflicted a wound of about an inch. He lost a great deal of blood; it flowed over the stage. The wound was dressed upon the stage, after which he was carried home faint with the loss of blood. This morning I called at his lodgings, in company with a gentleman of the theatre, but the surgeons had ordered that no one should be permitted to see him. We are told he is not considered in danger.

July 4.
Private accounts from Paris of the 10th state, that the imperial guard had preceded Buonaparte to the coast. They add, that between the 11th May and the 7th June, upwards of 200 vessels, some of them with troops, entered Boulogne from Brighthelm, Ostend, Havre, &c.

All our accounts from the continent concur in stating, that the long menaced invasion is on the eve of being attempted. Our letters from Holland during the week, state that the encampment in the neighbourhood of Beverwick had broken up for the purpose of embarkation, and that all the forces in North Holland were moving towards the Helder, for like purpose.

The circumstance, however, which more than any other convinces us that the enemy are about to engage in some naval enterprise, is, that the crews of all the French privateers are impressed immediately on their return to port, and sent to man the national marine; and so urgent is the order on this subject, that the famous privateer the Blonde, which made greater desolation in our commerce than any other of the enemy's cruizers, has been stripped of all her arms; and we learn, by a letter which we yesterday received from the Phoenix frigate, that she is laid up in port, near Bayonne. There are four other privateers, similarly circumstanced, at this latter port, and from thence to Bourdeaux, upwards of twenty. It is not probable that the government would forego the advantages resulting from the active occupation of these cruizers, if their services were not required for objects of more importance; or that they would be prematurely taken from a condition, in which they enriched the country as well as themselves, and materially embarrassed our trade.

Buonaparte has officially notified his elevation to the imperial dignity to the courts of Vienna, Berlin, Copenhagen, Stuttgard and Munich, but no answers had been returned at the date of the last advices from these capitals.

It is reported that the French troops are about to evacuate Hanover, which is to be occupied by Prussian troops till a peace.

There is another report in circulation on the continent, that Buonaparte has proposed to Prussia and Austria to partition the electorate of Hanover and the bishoprics.

Dispatches were received from J. Borlase Warren, Petersburg, which are said to be of a very important nature. Whatever may be the result of the communications between the courts of England and Russia, we can have no doubt but that they must refer to objects of very general interest to the states of the continent. It is said that Russian ships, full of troops, are arrived at Corfu.

Another violent cannonade took place on the English coast, between Calais and Boulogne, on Saturday morning, supposed to have been occasioned by one of our cruizers attacking a division of the enemy's flotilla on its way from the eastward to the grand port at Boulogne.

The prorogation of parliament is fixed for to-morrow month, unless something new and extraordinary should happen.

The bill for the Abolition of Slavery, which passed the house of commons a few days since, has been rejected in the house of lords, by postponing its second reading for three months.

His majesty has completely recovered his health. Buonaparte, in his late addresses to the continental powers, calls them all, Cousins! but they, we believe, exclaim in return, with Father Foigard—"the devil burn the relationship honey."

Maryland Gazette.

ANNAPOLIS, THURSDAY, August 30, 1804.

WE are authorized to say, that Mr. ARCHIBALD VAN-HORN will be a candidate at the next election for representatives to congress, for the second election district of this state, composed of Prince-George's and Anne-Arundel counties.

WE are authorized to say, that Mr. BARUCH FOWLER will serve in the legislature, if elected by his fellow-citizens of Anne-Arundel county one of their representatives at the next election.

Mr. Fowler is a friend to the General Court, the Seat of Government, the Farmers Bank of Maryland, Ellicott and company's turnpike road law, and such laws as will constitute good and convenient roads, and is opposed to caucuses, and intrigue in government affairs, and, if elected, will support the five former, and oppose the two latter. He is a true American republican, and a friend to merit.

THE committee of conference, appointed on the part of Prince-George's county to advise with a similar committee of Anne-Arundel, relative to the selection of a proper character to represent the republican interest of the district in congress, beg leave to signify Thursday the 6th of September, for a meeting at Queen-Anne.

The necessity of punctual attention on the part of Anne-Arundel will doubtless occur, and it is assured to be a circumstance that would be truly indulging to their political associates of this county. An interchange of sentiment is the only possible and laudable mode of ascertaining the will of the district, and at once promises security to opinion, order, and success.

NEW-YORK, August 22.
Captain Wickham, arrived yesterday from the Isle of France, informs that there was an embargo at that place on all vessels bound to the eastern parts of India, in consequence of a secret expedition fitting out; which had detained several American vessels sometime longer.

PHILADELPHIA, August 21.
We understand that letters have been received in town from Madrid, announcing that the Spanish government have refused to carry the French convention with the United States into effect, in consequence of the conduct of our government relative to Louisiana. We have not been able to ascertain the particulars, nor can we vouch for the correctness of the information.

INSURGENCY.
FROM THE LYCOMING GAZETTE, AUG. 16.

Our accounts from Tioga are of a very alarming nature. It appears those assassins and incendiaries are determined to go on, in opposition to the laws and authority of the state. Threats have been publicly made by a person or persons residing in that country, that they will have a fresh hide (meaning the skin of a Pennsylvanian, or person leaving from the Pennsylvanians), in the course of a few days—they also declare that they will take the governor's life before the first of October, &c. When such are the threats of those men, what are the poor settlers who oppose their proceedings to expect—plunder and massacre—justice and mercy cry aloud for the interference of government, and unless the measures of the executive are prompt and energetic, those villains will be suffered to remain in quiet possession of property to which they have no just claim whatever.

PITTSBURG, (Penn.) August 18.
Last week arrived at this place, a number of emigrants from the prince of Wirtemberg's territory in Germany, and have descended the Ohio to commence a settlement on Bull Creek.—The purchase of 50,000 acres has been made some considerable time.—And we may anticipate from their sobriety and decency of deportment a considerable acquisition to the state of Ohio.—The whole number at present expected will amount to about 600.

BALTIMORE, August 24.
Captain Green, of the brig Lucy Anne, of Rhode-Island, in 40 days from Cadiz, was informed by the vice-consul that it was probable a war would take place between Spain and the United States. The report was current in Cadiz, the cause supposed to be some dispute about Louisiana; it was so much believed by some of the Americans, that they were hurrying to get away as fast as possible.

August 27.
Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Wythe Court-House, Virginia, to his friend in Frederick-town, Maryland, dated July 30, 1804.

"We have for 10 days been clouded with a dark smoke, and this day I was informed by a gentleman from Kentucky that the Clinch mountain had sunk (for many miles) to the depth of 50 feet; after which clouds of smoke issued therefrom, so that the inhabitants at the distance of 20 miles from the place were not able to discover an object at 20 feet distance. This, I suppose, was occasioned by the burning of the stone coal which is in the mountain."

ANSWER TO THE ENIGMA IN THE LAST GAZETTE.
AN Ellipsis doth bound the charms of her face,
And heaven's kind favours in Iris we trace;
Some poets call Zephyr the westerly wind,
An Adamant's a di'mond, the hardest we find,
While the pupil of Zeno's, a Stoic doth prove,
And the sweets of her lips, is Nectar for Jove.
Those, rightly divided, and each one will own,
The fairest of maidens—the lovely Miss STONE.

No. 17
TWO sixths of the favourites of Heav'n's high king,
Who around his bright throne their sweet anthems do sing,
And one sixth of a spice which from India we bring,
Three fourths of a word which implies to command,
One third of the type of the sea and the land,
One third of a poem by Horace admir'd,
With one sixth of a Zone by scorching sun's fir'd—
These being united a maiden will give
In whose form each mild beauty and excellence live.

18
Two thirds of the beam which creation illumines,
Dispelling the shadows of night and its glooms,
One sixth of a season most dreary and cold,
A fourth of a gift, which most precious we hold,
Three fifths of a bar of bright metal most pure,
Which the more we possess we desire the more,
With one fifth of a substance aromatic and sweet,
These being connected, a lady will greet,
With each charm both of mind and of person replete.

19
Two fifths of a star which swift flies thro' the air,
With whose blazes terrific none else can compare,
One fifth of that line from whose elliptical way
The planets will ne'er thro' eternity stray,
With one fourth of a plane whose bright gnomon will shew
How the sun thro' the varying hours will go—
These parts, when connect'd, will shew a sweet maid,
In whose mind a kind nature each charm has display'd.

20
One sixth of the man who for liberty dy'd,
Whose lessons re-echo all have did abide,
Two twelfths of a judge, in England now fam'd,
For laurels by wisdom and justice proclaim'd,
With half of an admiral, whose deathless disgrace,
In the annals of Britain posterity'll trace.

21
The name of a queen by bigotry fir'd,
When the tenets of Luther all Europe inspir'd,
Three sixths of a king of ephemeral sway,
Whom on Hastings' stain'd field the Norman did slay,
With the name of the grove where poets retire,
To collect from the view their poetic fire.

22
One fifth of a figure, whose four equal sides,
Include angles unequal with diverging lines,
A third of a beast whose fleetness derides
The speed of the hound, that no hindrance confines,
One fifth of the clime where the morning's first glow
Paints with roscat hues th' horizon's blue line,
With one fifth an event whose time none can know,
Which imprudence oft hastens, and sometimes designs.

23
Three ninths of a town in a province of Spain,
Circumscrib'd by intrenchments and fosses profound,
Three sixths of an air whose lowly breath'd strain
Softly swells on the ear with harmonious sound.

24
Two tenths of a man who did vainly aspire
At those powers which none but celestials wield,
Who stole from above the enlivening fire,
To inspire the lifeless cold clod of the field,
One tenth of the doctrine which treats of the tribe
That inhabit the azure-abys of the deep,
With two eighths of the tomb on which we inscribe
The virtues of those for whose mem'ry we weep.
