LISBON JAN. 8.

Extract of a Dispatch from H. E. Marshal General Lord Wellington to H. E. D. Miguel Pereira Forjaz, dated Head Quarters Frencida, December 25, 1811.

The 6th division of the army of Portugal left Placencia on the 21st inst. and crossing the Tietar, marched in the direction of Naval Moral.

Nothing important has occurred in the North of Spain.

The enemy was in St. Roque from the 1st of last month, till the 12th inst. when they retreated to Los Barrios; Gen. Ballesteros, had advanced to St. Roque the next day, and Col. Skerret remained in Tariffa.

Major General Cooke relates, that the enemy had made two attempts to force the pass of La Pena, in both of which he had failed. I have not as yet received the particulars of these occurrences.

Extract of an official letter from his E. Marshal General Lord Wellington, to his Excellency Don Miguel Pereira Forjaz, dated Head Quarters, Frencida, January 1st, 1812.

I have received no official intelligence with respect to the affairs of Valencia, since the 20th of November; but I hear from Madrid, that Suchet was still before that place on the 10th of December.

Since my last despatch to your excellency, dated December 25, I have received from Cadiz the accounts which had not come to hand—it appears that Col. Skerret by the request of General Ballesteros had embarked at Algeiras the 29th, and gone to Gibraltar to assist that General in an attack against the enemy.

SAVANNAH, JAN. 30.

SINGULAR OCCURRENCE.

The ship Georgia, capt. Stokes, from Lisbon to Savannah, on the 21st November last, in lat. 30, N. long. 23, W. about 3 P. M. then distant from the nearest land Crany Islands, at least 200 miles, while sailing with a fine breeze from the southeast, about eight miles, a black cloud arose from the south west, and the ship was all at once becalmed; a light air afterwards sprung up from the north east, at which time there fell from the cloud an innumerable quantity of large GRASS-HOPPERS, so as to cover the deck, the tops and every part of the ship they could alight upon; they did not appear the least exhausted; on the contrary, when an attempt was made to take hold of them, they instantly jumped and endeavoured to elude being taken. The calm or a very light air, lasted fully an hour, and during the whole of the time these insects continued to fall upon the ship and around her, such as were within reach of the vessel alighting upon her, but immense numbers fell into the sea, and were seen floating in masses by the sides. During the next day many still remained about the rigging and deck and were seen in quantities jumping and flying from one place to another. Two bottles filled with some of the grasshoppers preserved in spirits, are kept for the inspection of the curious, and for the information of those who may not have had an opportunity of seeing them, the following description is given. The insect is of a reddish blue; with red and gray speckled wings, eyes black, two horns, six legs, four long and two short, which last aid them in jumping; two wings on each side; length of the body two inches, and including the wings when folded, two inches and seven eighths.
