

VOL. LXXIV.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY JONAS GREEN, BRUCC-STREET, ANNAPOLIS.

Notice is hereby given, That the subscriber has obtained the orphans court of Calvert county, in the personal and testamentary on the personal estate of William Weems late of Anne Arundel county, deceased; all persons claiming against the said deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof, to the subscriber, near Frey's Landing, on or before the 21st day of April next, if they otherwise by law be excluded from the benefit of the said estate, and those who fail to make immediate payment, will be liable to make immediate payment.

Chancery Sale. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court, the subscriber will expose to Sale, by Public Auction, at Caton's Tavern, on the 12th day of November next, the 11th of November next, two Houses and Lots in the City of Annapolis, now in the occupation of Mr. James Holland and Mr. Whittington. They will be sold separately on a credit of twelve months. Bonds, with approved security, bearing interest from the day of sale, will be required. James Shure, Trustee, Annapolis, Oct. 17.

Sale Postponed. By virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court, the subscriber will expose to public sale, on Friday the 8th day of November next, if it may be extended to the 15th day of the same month, the premises hereinafter described, to wit: The Real Estate of Anne Arundel county, consisting of a House and lot in the Town of New-London, in the Baltimore and Frederick turnpike, and a Tract of Land containing about 165 acres lying near Col. Thomas Hood's. It is deemed necessary to give a further definition of the property, as it is presumed those who wish to purchase will view the premises previous to the sale. The file of the house and lot to commence at 12 o'clock; the other at 12 o'clock. Terms of Sale. The purchaser to give bond with security for payment of the purchase money, in 6, 12 and 18 months, with interest thereon. On the ratification of the sale, and on payment of the whole purchase money, the subscriber is authorized to give a deed. Larkin Shipley, Trustee, Annapolis, Oct. 17.

From the Catskill Recorder. MONITOR. 'The Summer is ended' There is an appointed time for man upon earth, and our days are rapid y hastening to a close. 'Our life is nothing but our death begun. As tapers waste the instant they take fire.' The summer of another year is ended. We have gathered in the fruits of the field, to support us during the rigours of the inclement season. We have laid up treasure on earth: we have been as solicitous to lay up treasure in Heaven. We have manifested that heavenly mildness by suitable expressions of gratitude to the beneficent Giver of every good and perfect gift? And while on the other hand his judgments have been abroad in the earth, we have learned righteousness—receiving them as chastisements there by evincing that we are his sons. To many the summer of life is ended. Happy if they have improved the fleeting seasons! Those who have neglected the great end of their existence, have lived thus far in vain. They have slumbered while they should have been up and doing; have been sinking deeper and deeper into destructive prejudices and hardness of heart; continually adding to the enormous weight of their transgressions. And finally, let us fear lest our summer of privilege and grace shall shortly come to a close. To many of us, alas! it may be already ending. This was the case with the rebellious and impenitent posterity of Abraham, when the prophet groaned forth his desperate lamentation. Let us then look towards this holy temple, that it may not be the fate of our souls poignantly to reflect—the harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved.

MARYLAND, Anne-Arundel county sct. On application to me the subscriber, chief judge of the third judicial district of the state of Maryland, in the recess of Anne Arundel county court, by petition in writing, of Peter Simering, of Anne-Arundel county, praying the benefit of the act for the relief of sundry insolvent debtors, passed at November session eighteen hundred and five, and the several supplements thereto, on the terms mentioned in the said act, and stating that he is now in the custody of one of the constables of the city of Annapolis; a schedule of his property, and a list of his creditors, on oath, as far as he can ascertain them, being annexed to his petition, and being satisfied that the said Peter Simering has resided in the state of Maryland for the period of two years immediately preceding this his application, and having taken the oaths prescribed by the act of eighteen hundred and five, herein referred to; I do therefore order and adjudge, that the said Peter Simering be discharged from the custody of the said constable, and that he by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in one of the public news papers in the city of Annapolis, once a week for three successive months, before the third Monday in April next, give notice to his creditors to appear before Anne Arundel county court, at 10 o'clock in the morning of the said third Monday in April next, to show cause, if any they have, why the said Peter Simering should not have the benefit of the said act, and supplements, as prayed. Given under my hand this 9th day of September, 1816. Jeremiah Townley Chase, Test. Wm. S. Green, Clk. August 12. 3m

NOTICE. The Levy Court of Anne-Arundel county will meet on the first Monday in December next in the city of Annapolis, to adjust and settle the accounts of the supervisor of the public roads in said county. By order, Wm. S. Green, Clk. Sept. 26.

NOTICE. Is hereby given to all, whom it may concern, that a petition will be presented to the next General Assembly, for a public road to lead from the bridge which divides the farm of V. Massey from that of John Johns, on West River, in Anne Arundel county, to the landing of Capt. William Norman on said River. Sept. 26.

NOTICE. The Levy Court of Anne-Arundel county will meet on the first Monday in December next in the city of Annapolis, to adjust and settle the accounts of the supervisor of the public roads in said county. By order, Wm. S. Green, Clk. Sept. 26.

BASIL SHEPHARD, TAILOR.

Grateful to his friends and the public generally for the patronage so liberally bestowed on him in the line of his profession, has now the pleasure of informing them that he has on hand, (just from Baltimore) a choice and select assortment of SEASONABLE GOODS, CONSISTING OF Superfine blue, black, brown, bottle green, grey and olive Cloths, Second do. same colours, Cassimere, drab, blue, black & grey; superfine. Same colours, second quality. Stockingnets, and Corduroys. A Handsome Assortment of Waistcoating, Flannels, &c. &c. Which he will make up on moderate terms, in the most approved style, with promptness and dispatch. October 17. 4 tf.

FOR SALE. A fine young saddle HORSE, to be seen at the stable of Isaac Stephens. Price, $130. Annapolis, Oct. 21. 3 tf.

TAVERN. REZIN D. BALDWIN. Respectfully informs the public, that he has opened a Tavern and Boarding-House, at that well known stand occupied for many years by Captain James Thomas. Its vicinity to the Stadt-House will at all times render it the most convenient resort to strangers having business to transact in any of the public offices. Those who may be inclined to patronize the establishment, are assured that the best accommodations are provided, and the most unremitting attention shall be paid to his guests. This establishment having been always the resort of gentlemen from the Eastern Shore, it is hoped that they will continue to frequent it, and so far as attention, good fare, and moderate rates, can support the character of a self establishment so well known, he pledges himself they shall not be wanting. Boarders taken by the day, week, month or year, and horses taken at liberty. Sept. 12. 7

Notice is hereby given, To all whom it may concern, That a petition will be presented to the next General Assembly of Maryland, praying the passage of a law to straighten and make public the road in Prince-Georges county, branching from the Piscataway road, near John Palmer's tavern, passing through the lane between the lands of the late Peter Savary, and William Bayne, and intersecting the Alexandria road from Upper Marlboro', at Francis Perkins'. Geo. Seames, Esq. Sept. 18. 8

NOTICE. The subscriber having been appointed agent by Mrs. Ariana Hall, Executrix of Dr. Henry Hall, late of Anne-Arundel county, deceased, to settle the estate of said deceased, requests all persons having claims against said estate to bring them forward, legally authenticated, on or before the 1st inst. and all persons indebted to make immediate payment. Philip Pindehl, senr. Agent. October, 10, 1816. 6w.

For Sale. The fast sailing schooner Carroll of Carrollton, burthen from 900 to 1000 bushels, and in good repair, with sails, rigging &c. at a reasonable price for Cash. Also—A valuable Yawl, in complete order, suitable for a pleasure or market boat.—Further particulars, will be given on application to the subscribers. Actridge Sears, John Sears, William Sears, dec'd. Poplar Island, Oct. 10. 5 Ex't.

Notice is hereby given, That a petition will be presented to the next General Assembly, praying that a law may pass to make public a road that leads from the public road between Piscataway and Mr. Samuel Bond's through the lands of the heirs of Col. John H. Beanes, of William Lyles, and of Joseph Boardman, to Piscataway Creek, and to the Cove-fishing-landing of Mrs. Mary Boardman. Basil Bozinger, Esq. Sept. 19, 1816. 8w.

NOTICE. The Levy Court of Anne-Arundel county will meet on the first Monday in December next in the city of Annapolis, to adjust and settle the accounts of the supervisor of the public roads in said county. By order, Wm. S. Green, Clk. Sept. 26.

State of Maryland. In Council, September 16, 1816.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN, WILLIAM DAWSON, Esquire, having produced to the Governor an Exequator signed by the President of the United States, and sealed with the seal of the said States, recognizing him as Consul from his Britannic Majesty, for the State of Maryland. Ordered by and with the advice and consent of the Council, that the said recognition be published for the information and government of the people of this State. Given in council at the city of Annapolis, under the seal of the State of Maryland, this sixteenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixteen. C. RIDGELY, of Hampton. By the Governor, NINIAN PINKNEY, Clk. of the Council

James Madison, President of the U. States of America. TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN, WILLIAM DAWSON, Esquire, having produced to me his commission as Consul of his Britannic Majesty for the State of Maryland, I do hereby recognize him as such, and declare him free to exercise and enjoy such functions, powers and privileges as are allowed to the Consuls of friendly powers, between whom and the U. States there is no particular agreement for the regulation of the consular functions. In testimony whereof, I have caused these letters to be made patent, and the seal of the U. States to be hereunto affixed. Given under my hand at the city of Washington, the seventeenth day of August, A. D. 1816, & of the independence of the U. States of America, the forty first. JAMES MADISON. By the President, JAMES MONROE, Secretary of State. Ordered, that the foregoing be published eight times in the Maryland Gazette and Annapolis, the Federal Gazette and Telegraph at Baltimore, the Fredericktown Herald, and the People's Monitor, at Easton. By order, NINIAN PINKNEY.

Two Hundred Dollars Reward. Ranaway on or about the 25th January last, a negro man named London, called himself London Turner, late the property of Mr. George W. Higgins, of Anne Arundel County. London is 38 or 40 years of age, five feet, ten or eleven inches high, grey eyes, yellow complexion, had on when he absconded a new black turd hat, a blue cloth great coat, with a large cape; he had other clothing with him. London is a complete carpenter and joiner; he has a wife and three or four children, the property of Mr. Field Higgins, living in Prince-Georges county, as likewise a mother and several sisters residing either in George town or Washington City. This fellow was purchased by the subscriber at the sale of George W. Higgins property. A reward of 100 dollars will be given if he is taken in the state, and the above reward if taken out of the state, and secured in any goal so that I get him again. David Ridgely, Annapolis, April 11, 1816. NB All persons are hereby warned harbouring said negro at their peril. D. R.

20 Dollars Reward. The above reward will be paid for lodging in goal, or bringing home negro Sophia, a bright mulatto woman, about eighteen years old, well grown, she has large grey eyes, and her hair rather light. The above woman ran away from Col. Waring of Mount Pleasant, about the 15th June, (of whom I purchased her.) She has been heard of in the neighbourhood of Mr. William Tillard's near Pig-Point, where it is supposed she has been waiting to get a passage in the packet to Baltimore. She has acquaintances in Baltimore, Washington, Annapolis, and Norfolk. Her clothing not recollected, excepting a green stuff frock. Wm. B. Beanes, Upper Marlboro' Sept. 26. 1f.

Public Sale. By virtue of an order of the orphans court of Anne Arundel county, the subscriber will expose to public sale, on Saturday, the 7th day of December next, the residue of the personal property of S. Harrison, junr. deceased, (at his late residence near Herring Bay,) consisting of a number of valuable negroes, men, women and children, some cattle, household & kitchen furniture, and a collection of valuable books.—Terms of sale, six months credit on all sums of and above 20 dollars, under that, cash.—Sale at 10 o'clock. J. G. Harrison, Admr. At the same time and place, A valuable stock of fine sheep, crossed with merino, a fine stock of cattle and horses. Terms as above, by J. G. Harrison, Esq. Oct. 24. 3

State of Maryland. TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN, WILLIAM DAWSON, Esquire, having produced to me his commission as Consul of his Britannic Majesty for the State of Maryland, I do hereby recognize him as such, and declare him free to exercise and enjoy such functions, powers and privileges as are allowed to the Consuls of friendly powers, between whom and the U. States there is no particular agreement for the regulation of the consular functions. In testimony whereof, I have caused these letters to be made patent, and the seal of the U. States to be hereunto affixed. Given under my hand at the city of Washington, the seventeenth day of August, A. D. 1816, & of the independence of the U. States of America, the forty first. JAMES MADISON. By the President, JAMES MONROE, Secretary of State. Ordered, that the foregoing be published eight times in the Maryland Gazette and Annapolis, the Federal Gazette and Telegraph at Baltimore, the Fredericktown Herald, and the People's Monitor, at Easton. By order, NINIAN PINKNEY.

FOREIGN. LATE FROM EUROPE. From London papers to the 17th of September, received at the office of the New-York Evening Post, by the arrival last evening of the fast sailing ship, Comet, captain Ceffter, in 35 days from Havre. We have at length the satisfaction of congratulating the country that our navy has obtained a complete victory over one of the Piratical Powers of the Mediterranean, and have destroyed, in a good degree, their means of future piracy. It might, indeed, have been wished, that this destruction had been more complete, and that not only the vessels, but the town itself, had been destroyed. We had indulged this hope, and we must confess, that though we concur in the general feeling of the country, that the navy has added another victory to its former glory, we do not think that enough has been done. We surely have had sufficient experience of what kind of people these Barbary Powers are, not to expect any farther faith from them, than what is natural to robbers,—just so much and so long as we have them in our power. The moment our fleet is departed,—the moment that they can determine that it will cost us more money to punish them than to suffer their piracies, in that moment they will resume them. The security of treaties with other powers is founded in the common law of nations,—that public law of Europe, which acknowledges a political person of a State separate & independent of the Sovereign who temporarily governs and represents it, and which upon this principle renders all treaties as durable as the government. The Barbary Powers have no law of this kind, nor any notions founded upon it. They are strictly and truly Barbarians. If they dislike a treaty they murder the Dey who made it, & thus terminate all treaties by considering them only as his personal acts and obligations. Their next act is to proceed to the houses of the European Consuls, and unless they be fortunate enough to effect their escape in due time, to murder, or at least to imprison them. This is followed by the massacre of all slaves, &c. LORD EXMOUTH'S VICTORY. We have, to-day, the high gratification of announcing, by an Extraordinary Gazette, published last night, the arrival of the dispatches of Lord Exmouth, which communicate the successful result of his Lordship's operations before Algiers. Captain Brisbane, with the dispatches, arrived on Saturday night, at the Admiralty, at a quarter before nine o'clock, but neither Lord Melville nor Mr. Croker being in town, the Captain changed horses at the Admiralty, and proceeded to the seat of Mr. Croker, at Fulham, with the dispatches. It appears that Lord Exmouth, after encountering some opposition from the adverse elements, placed himself before Algiers, by day-break on the 27th of last month, and that the irresistible gallantry of his fleet soon brought the ruffian enemy to terms. In the attainment of the important objects of his expedition, we have to lament the loss of many gallant officers and men, but this we must consider a "partial evil for universal good." The British Consul was happily restored in safety—and it is not an uninteresting circumstance, that his wife and daughter were brought away in the disguise of midshipmen. A child of the Consul unconsciously betrayed its intended escape in a basket, by its cries. It was, however, sent off next morning by the Dey, who, it appears, was disposed to make a virtue of necessity. The loss of the enemy is between 6 and 7000 men, besides the destruction of his implements of piracy, his vessels. Memorandum of the Destruction in the Mole of Algiers, in the attack of the 27th August, 1816. Four large frigates, of 44 guns, 5 large corvettes, from 24 to 30, all the gun and mortar boats, except

FOREIGN. LATE FROM EUROPE.

From London papers to the 17th of September, received at the office of the New-York Evening Post, by the arrival last evening of the fast sailing ship, Comet, captain Ceffter, in 35 days from Havre. We have at length the satisfaction of congratulating the country that our navy has obtained a complete victory over one of the Piratical Powers of the Mediterranean, and have destroyed, in a good degree, their means of future piracy. It might, indeed, have been wished, that this destruction had been more complete, and that not only the vessels, but the town itself, had been destroyed. We had indulged this hope, and we must confess, that though we concur in the general feeling of the country, that the navy has added another victory to its former glory, we do not think that enough has been done. We surely have had sufficient experience of what kind of people these Barbary Powers are, not to expect any farther faith from them, than what is natural to robbers,—just so much and so long as we have them in our power. The moment our fleet is departed,—the moment that they can determine that it will cost us more money to punish them than to suffer their piracies, in that moment they will resume them. The security of treaties with other powers is founded in the common law of nations,—that public law of Europe, which acknowledges a political person of a State separate & independent of the Sovereign who temporarily governs and represents it, and which upon this principle renders all treaties as durable as the government. The Barbary Powers have no law of this kind, nor any notions founded upon it. They are strictly and truly Barbarians. If they dislike a treaty they murder the Dey who made it, & thus terminate all treaties by considering them only as his personal acts and obligations. Their next act is to proceed to the houses of the European Consuls, and unless they be fortunate enough to effect their escape in due time, to murder, or at least to imprison them. This is followed by the massacre of all slaves, &c. LORD EXMOUTH'S VICTORY. We have, to-day, the high gratification of announcing, by an Extraordinary Gazette, published last night, the arrival of the dispatches of Lord Exmouth, which communicate the successful result of his Lordship's operations before Algiers. Captain Brisbane, with the dispatches, arrived on Saturday night, at the Admiralty, at a quarter before nine o'clock, but neither Lord Melville nor Mr. Croker being in town, the Captain changed horses at the Admiralty, and proceeded to the seat of Mr. Croker, at Fulham, with the dispatches. It appears that Lord Exmouth, after encountering some opposition from the adverse elements, placed himself before Algiers, by day-break on the 27th of last month, and that the irresistible gallantry of his fleet soon brought the ruffian enemy to terms. In the attainment of the important objects of his expedition, we have to lament the loss of many gallant officers and men, but this we must consider a "partial evil for universal good." The British Consul was happily restored in safety—and it is not an uninteresting circumstance, that his wife and daughter were brought away in the disguise of midshipmen. A child of the Consul unconsciously betrayed its intended escape in a basket, by its cries. It was, however, sent off next morning by the Dey, who, it appears, was disposed to make a virtue of necessity. The loss of the enemy is between 6 and 7000 men, besides the destruction of his implements of piracy, his vessels. Memorandum of the Destruction in the Mole of Algiers, in the attack of the 27th August, 1816. Four large frigates, of 44 guns, 5 large corvettes, from 24 to 30, all the gun and mortar boats, except

FOREIGN. LATE FROM EUROPE. From London papers to the 17th of September, received at the office of the New-York Evening Post, by the arrival last evening of the fast sailing ship, Comet, captain Ceffter, in 35 days from Havre. We have at length the satisfaction of congratulating the country that our navy has obtained a complete victory over one of the Piratical Powers of the Mediterranean, and have destroyed, in a good degree, their means of future piracy. It might, indeed, have been wished, that this destruction had been more complete, and that not only the vessels, but the town itself, had been destroyed. We had indulged this hope, and we must confess, that though we concur in the general feeling of the country, that the navy has added another victory to its former glory, we do not think that enough has been done. We surely have had sufficient experience of what kind of people these Barbary Powers are, not to expect any farther faith from them, than what is natural to robbers,—just so much and so long as we have them in our power. The moment our fleet is departed,—the moment that they can determine that it will cost us more money to punish them than to suffer their piracies, in that moment they will resume them. The security of treaties with other powers is founded in the common law of nations,—that public law of Europe, which acknowledges a political person of a State separate & independent of the Sovereign who temporarily governs and represents it, and which upon this principle renders all treaties as durable as the government. The Barbary Powers have no law of this kind, nor any notions founded upon it. They are strictly and truly Barbarians. If they dislike a treaty they murder the Dey who made it, & thus terminate all treaties by considering them only as his personal acts and obligations. Their next act is to proceed to the houses of the European Consuls, and unless they be fortunate enough to effect their escape in due time, to murder, or at least to imprison them. This is followed by the massacre of all slaves, &c. LORD EXMOUTH'S VICTORY. We have, to-day, the high gratification of announcing, by an Extraordinary Gazette, published last night, the arrival of the dispatches of Lord Exmouth, which communicate the successful result of his Lordship's operations before Algiers. Captain Brisbane, with the dispatches, arrived on Saturday night, at the Admiralty, at a quarter before nine o'clock, but neither Lord Melville nor Mr. Croker being in town, the Captain changed horses at the Admiralty, and proceeded to the seat of Mr. Croker, at Fulham, with the dispatches. It appears that Lord Exmouth, after encountering some opposition from the adverse elements, placed himself before Algiers, by day-break on the 27th of last month, and that the irresistible gallantry of his fleet soon brought the ruffian enemy to terms. In the attainment of the important objects of his expedition, we have to lament the loss of many gallant officers and men, but this we must consider a "partial evil for universal good." The British Consul was happily restored in safety—and it is not an uninteresting circumstance, that his wife and daughter were brought away in the disguise of midshipmen. A child of the Consul unconsciously betrayed its intended escape in a basket, by its cries. It was, however, sent off next morning by the Dey, who, it appears, was disposed to make a virtue of necessity. The loss of the enemy is between 6 and 7000 men, besides the destruction of his implements of piracy, his vessels. Memorandum of the Destruction in the Mole of Algiers, in the attack of the 27th August, 1816. Four large frigates, of 44 guns, 5 large corvettes, from 24 to 30, all the gun and mortar boats, except

FOREIGN. LATE FROM EUROPE. From London papers to the 17th of September, received at the office of the New-York Evening Post, by the arrival last evening of the fast sailing ship, Comet, captain Ceffter, in 35 days from Havre. We have at length the satisfaction of congratulating the country that our navy has obtained a complete victory over one of the Piratical Powers of the Mediterranean, and have destroyed, in a good degree, their means of future piracy. It might, indeed, have been wished, that this destruction had been more complete, and that not only the vessels, but the town itself, had been destroyed. We had indulged this hope, and we must confess, that though we concur in the general feeling of the country, that the navy has added another victory to its former glory, we do not think that enough has been done. We surely have had sufficient experience of what kind of people these Barbary Powers are, not to expect any farther faith from them, than what is natural to robbers,—just so much and so long as we have them in our power. The moment our fleet is departed,—the moment that they can determine that it will cost us more money to punish them than to suffer their piracies, in that moment they will resume them. The security of treaties with other powers is founded in the common law of nations,—that public law of Europe, which acknowledges a political person of a State separate & independent of the Sovereign who temporarily governs and represents it, and which upon this principle renders all treaties as durable as the government. The Barbary Powers have no law of this kind, nor any notions founded upon it. They are strictly and truly Barbarians. If they dislike a treaty they murder the Dey who made it, & thus terminate all treaties by considering them only as his personal acts and obligations. Their next act is to proceed to the houses of the European Consuls, and unless they be fortunate enough to effect their escape in due time, to murder, or at least to imprison them. This is followed by the massacre of all slaves, &c. LORD EXMOUTH'S VICTORY. We have, to-day, the high gratification of announcing, by an Extraordinary Gazette, published last night, the arrival of the dispatches of Lord Exmouth, which communicate the successful result of his Lordship's operations before Algiers. Captain Brisbane, with the dispatches, arrived on Saturday night, at the Admiralty, at a quarter before nine o'clock, but neither Lord Melville nor Mr. Croker being in town, the Captain changed horses at the Admiralty, and proceeded to the seat of Mr. Croker, at Fulham, with the dispatches. It appears that Lord Exmouth, after encountering some opposition from the adverse elements, placed himself before Algiers, by day-break on the 27th of last month, and that the irresistible gallantry of his fleet soon brought the ruffian enemy to terms. In the attainment of the important objects of his expedition, we have to lament the loss of many gallant officers and men, but this we must consider a "partial evil for universal good." The British Consul was happily restored in safety—and it is not an uninteresting circumstance, that his wife and daughter were brought away in the disguise of midshipmen. A child of the Consul unconsciously betrayed its intended escape in a basket, by its cries. It was, however, sent off next morning by the Dey, who, it appears, was disposed to make a virtue of necessity. The loss of the enemy is between 6 and 7000 men, besides the destruction of his implements of piracy, his vessels. Memorandum of the Destruction in the Mole of Algiers, in the attack of the 27th August, 1816. Four large frigates, of 44 guns, 5 large corvettes, from 24 to 30, all the gun and mortar boats, except

FOREIGN. LATE FROM EUROPE. From London papers to the 17th of September, received at the office of the New-York Evening Post, by the arrival last evening of the fast sailing ship, Comet, captain Ceffter, in 35 days from Havre. We have at length the satisfaction of congratulating the country that our navy has obtained a complete victory over one of the Piratical Powers of the Mediterranean, and have destroyed, in a good degree, their means of future piracy. It might, indeed, have been wished, that this destruction had been more complete, and that not only the vessels, but the town itself, had been destroyed. We had indulged this hope, and we must confess, that though we concur in the general feeling of the country, that the navy has added another victory to its former glory, we do not think that enough has been done. We surely have had sufficient experience of what kind of people these Barbary Powers are, not to expect any farther faith from them, than what is natural to robbers,—just so much and so long as we have them in our power. The moment our fleet is departed,—the moment that they can determine that it will cost us more money to punish them than to suffer their piracies, in that moment they will resume them. The security of treaties with other powers is founded in the common law of nations,—that public law of Europe, which acknowledges a political person of a State separate & independent of the Sovereign who temporarily governs and represents it, and which upon this principle renders all treaties as durable as the government. The Barbary Powers have no law of this kind, nor any notions founded upon it. They are strictly and truly Barbarians. If they dislike a treaty they murder the Dey who made it, & thus terminate all treaties by considering them only as his personal acts and obligations. Their next act is to proceed to the houses of the European Consuls, and unless they be fortunate enough to effect their escape in due time, to murder, or at least to imprison them. This is followed by the massacre of all slaves, &c. LORD EXMOUTH'S VICTORY. We have, to-day, the high gratification of announcing, by an Extraordinary Gazette, published last night, the arrival of the dispatches of Lord Exmouth, which communicate the successful result of his Lordship's operations before Algiers. Captain Brisbane, with the dispatches, arrived on Saturday night, at the Admiralty, at a quarter before nine o'clock, but neither Lord Melville nor Mr. Croker being in town, the Captain changed horses at the Admiralty, and proceeded to the seat of Mr. Croker, at Fulham, with the dispatches. It appears that Lord Exmouth, after encountering some opposition from the adverse elements, placed himself before Algiers, by day-break on the 27th of last month, and that the irresistible gallantry of his fleet soon brought the ruffian enemy to terms. In the attainment of the important objects of his expedition, we have to lament the loss of many gallant officers and men, but this we must consider a "partial evil for universal good." The British Consul was happily restored in safety—and it is not an uninteresting circumstance, that his wife and daughter were brought away in the disguise of midshipmen. A child of the Consul unconsciously betrayed its intended escape in a basket, by its cries. It was, however, sent off next morning by the Dey, who, it appears, was disposed to make a virtue of necessity. The loss of the enemy is between 6 and 7000 men, besides the destruction of his implements of piracy, his vessels. Memorandum of the Destruction in the Mole of Algiers, in the attack of the 27th August, 1816. Four large frigates, of 44 guns, 5 large corvettes, from 24 to 30, all the gun and mortar boats, except

FOREIGN. LATE FROM EUROPE. From London papers to the 17th of September, received at the office of the New-York Evening Post, by the arrival last evening of the fast sailing ship, Comet, captain Ceffter, in 35 days from Havre. We have at length the satisfaction of congratulating the country that our navy has obtained a complete victory over one of the Piratical Powers of the Mediterranean, and have destroyed, in a good degree, their means of future piracy. It might, indeed, have been wished, that this destruction had been more complete, and that not only the vessels, but the town itself, had been destroyed. We had indulged this hope, and we must confess, that though we concur in the general feeling of the country, that the navy has added another victory to its former glory, we do not think that enough has been done. We surely have had sufficient experience of what kind of people these Barbary Powers are, not to expect any farther faith from them, than what is natural to robbers,—just so much and so long as we have them in our power. The moment our fleet is departed,—the moment that they can determine that it will cost us more money to punish them than to suffer their piracies, in that moment they will resume them. The security of treaties with other powers is founded in the common law of nations,—that public law of Europe, which acknowledges a political person of a State separate & independent of the Sovereign who temporarily governs and represents it, and which upon this principle renders all treaties as durable as the government. The Barbary Powers have no law of this kind, nor any notions founded upon it. They are strictly and truly Barbarians. If they dislike a treaty they murder the Dey who made it, & thus terminate all treaties by considering them only as his personal acts and obligations. Their next act is to proceed to the houses of the European Consuls, and unless they be fortunate enough to effect their escape in due time, to murder, or at least to imprison them. This is followed by the massacre of all slaves, &c. LORD EXMOUTH'S VICTORY. We have, to-day, the high gratification of announcing, by an Extraordinary Gazette, published last night, the arrival of the dispatches of Lord Exmouth, which communicate the successful result of his Lordship's operations before Algiers. Captain Brisbane, with the dispatches, arrived on Saturday night, at the Admiralty, at a quarter before nine o'clock, but neither Lord Melville nor Mr. Croker being in town, the Captain changed horses at the Admiralty, and proceeded to the seat of Mr. Croker, at Fulham, with the dispatches. It appears that Lord Exmouth, after encountering some opposition from the adverse elements, placed himself before Algiers, by day-break on the 27th of last month, and that the irresistible gallantry of his fleet soon brought the ruffian enemy to terms. In the attainment of the important objects of his expedition, we have to lament the loss of many gallant officers and men, but this we must consider a "partial evil for universal good." The British Consul was happily restored in safety—and it is not an uninteresting circumstance, that his wife and daughter were brought away in the disguise of midshipmen. A child of the Consul unconsciously betrayed its intended escape in a basket, by its cries. It was, however, sent off next morning by the Dey, who, it appears, was disposed to make a virtue of necessity. The loss of the enemy is between 6 and 7000 men, besides the destruction of his implements of piracy, his vessels. Memorandum of the Destruction in the Mole of Algiers, in the attack of the 27th August, 1816. Four large frigates, of 44 guns, 5 large corvettes, from 24 to 30, all the gun and mortar boats, except

FOREIGN. LATE FROM EUROPE. From London papers to the 17th of September, received at the office of the New-York Evening Post, by the arrival last evening of the fast sailing ship, Comet, captain Ceffter, in 35 days from Havre. We have at length the satisfaction of congratulating the country that our navy has obtained a complete victory over one of the Piratical Powers of the Mediterranean, and have destroyed, in a good degree, their means of future piracy. It might, indeed, have been wished, that this destruction had been more complete, and that not only the vessels, but the town itself, had been destroyed. We had indulged this hope, and we must confess, that though we concur in the general feeling of the country, that the navy has added another victory to its former glory, we do not think that enough has been done. We surely have had sufficient experience of what kind of people these Barbary Powers are, not to expect any farther faith from them, than what is natural to robbers,—just so much and so long as we have them in our power. The moment our fleet is departed,—the moment that they can determine that it will cost us more money to punish them than to suffer their piracies, in that moment they will resume them. The security of treaties with other powers is founded in the common law of nations,—that public law of Europe, which acknowledges a political person of a State separate & independent of the Sovereign who temporarily governs and represents it, and which upon this principle renders all treaties as durable as the government. The Barbary Powers have no law of this kind, nor any notions founded upon it. They are strictly and truly Barbarians. If they dislike a treaty they murder the Dey who made it, & thus terminate all treaties by considering them only as his personal acts and obligations. Their next act is to proceed to the houses of the European Consuls, and unless they be fortunate enough to effect their escape in due time, to murder, or at least to imprison them. This is followed by the massacre of all slaves, &c. LORD EXMOUTH'S VICTORY. We have, to-day, the high gratification of announcing, by an Extraordinary Gazette, published last night, the arrival of the dispatches of Lord Exmouth, which communicate the successful result of his Lordship's operations before Algiers. Captain Brisbane, with the dispatches, arrived on Saturday night, at the Admiralty, at a quarter before nine o'clock, but neither Lord Melville nor Mr. Croker being in town, the Captain changed horses at the Admiralty, and proceeded to the seat of Mr. Croker, at Fulham, with the dispatches. It appears that Lord Exmouth, after encountering some opposition from the adverse elements, placed himself before Algiers, by day-break on the 27th of last month, and that the irresistible gallantry of his fleet soon brought the ruffian enemy to terms. In the attainment of the important objects of his expedition, we have to lament the loss of many gallant officers and men, but this we must consider a "partial evil for universal good." The British Consul was happily restored in safety—and it is not an uninteresting circumstance, that his wife and daughter were brought away in the disguise of midshipmen. A child of the Consul unconsciously betrayed its intended escape in a basket, by its cries. It was, however, sent off next morning by the Dey, who, it appears, was disposed to make a virtue of necessity. The loss of the enemy is between 6 and 7000 men, besides the destruction of his implements of piracy, his vessels. Memorandum of the Destruction in the Mole of Algiers, in the attack of the 27th August, 1816. Four large frigates, of 44 guns, 5 large corvettes, from 24 to 30, all the gun and mortar boats, except

FOREIGN. LATE FROM EUROPE. From London papers to the 17th of September, received at the office of the New-York Evening Post, by the arrival last evening of the fast sailing ship, Comet, captain Ceffter, in 35 days from Havre. We have at length the satisfaction of congratulating the country that our navy has obtained a complete victory over one of the Piratical Powers of the Mediterranean, and have destroyed, in a good degree, their means of future piracy. It might, indeed, have been wished, that this destruction had been more complete, and that not only the vessels, but the town itself, had been destroyed. We had indulged this hope, and we must confess, that though we concur in the general feeling of the country, that the navy has added another victory to its former glory, we do not think that enough has been done. We surely have had sufficient experience of what kind of people these Barbary Powers are, not to expect any farther faith from them, than what is natural to robbers,—just so much and so long as we have them in our power. The moment our fleet is departed,—the moment that they can determine that it will cost us more money to punish them than to suffer their piracies, in that moment they will resume them. The security of treaties with other powers is founded in the common law of nations,—that public law of Europe, which acknowledges a political person of a State separate & independent of the Sovereign who temporarily governs and represents it, and which upon this principle renders all treaties as durable as the government. The Barbary Powers have no law of this kind, nor any notions founded upon it. They are strictly and truly Barbarians. If they dislike a treaty they murder the Dey who made it, & thus terminate all treaties by considering them only as his personal acts and obligations. Their next act is to proceed to the houses of the European Consuls, and unless they be fortunate enough to effect their escape in due time, to murder, or at least to imprison them. This is followed by the massacre of all slaves, &c. LORD EXMOUTH'S VICTORY. We have, to-day, the high gratification of announcing, by an Extraordinary Gazette, published last night, the arrival of the dispatches of Lord Exmouth, which communicate the successful result of his Lordship's operations before Algiers. Captain Brisbane, with the dispatches, arrived on Saturday night, at the Admiralty, at a quarter before nine o'clock, but neither Lord Melville nor Mr. Croker being in town, the Captain changed horses at the Admiralty, and proceeded to the seat of Mr. Croker, at Fulham, with the dispatches. It appears that Lord Exmouth, after encountering some opposition from the adverse elements, placed himself before Algiers, by day-break on the 27th of last month, and that the irresistible gallantry of his fleet soon brought the ruffian enemy to terms. In the attainment of the important objects of his expedition, we have to lament the loss of many gallant officers and men, but this we must consider a "partial evil for universal good." The British Consul was happily restored in safety—and it is not an uninteresting circumstance, that his wife and daughter were brought away in the disguise of midshipmen. A child of the Consul unconsciously betrayed its intended escape in a basket, by its cries. It was, however, sent off next morning by the Dey, who, it appears, was disposed to make a virtue of necessity. The loss of the enemy is between 6 and 7000 men, besides the destruction of his implements of piracy, his vessels. Memorandum of the Destruction in the Mole of Algiers, in the attack of the 27th August, 1816. Four large frigates, of 44 guns, 5 large corvettes, from 24 to 30, all the gun and mortar boats, except

7; 30 destroyed, several merchant brigs and schooners, a great number of small vessels of various descriptions, all the pontoons, lighters, &c. store-houses and arsenal, with all the timber and various marine articles, destroyed in part, a great many gun carriages, mortar beds, casks, and ships' stores of all descriptions.

EXMOUTH. His Britannic Majesty's ship Queen Charlotte, Algiers Bay, Aug. 28. Sir, For your atrocities at Bona on defenceless Christians, and your unbecoming disregard to the demands I made yesterday, in the name of the Prince Regent of England, the fleet under my orders has given you a signal chastisement, by the total destruction of your navy, store-houses, and arsenal, with half your batteries.

As England does not war for the destruction of cities, I am unwilling to visit your personal cruelties upon the inoffensive inhabitants of the country, and I therefore offer you the same terms of peace which I conveyed to you yesterday in my Sovereign's name, without the acceptance of these terms, you can have no peace with England. If you receive this offer as you ought, you will fire three guns, and I shall consider your not making this signal as a refusal, and shall renew my operations at my own convenience.

I offer you the above terms, provided neither the British Consul, nor the officers and men so wickedly seized by you from the boats of a British ship of war have met with any cruel treatment, or any of the Christian slaves in your power, and repeat my demand, that the Consul, and officers and men, may be sent off to me, conformably to ancient treaties, &c. EXMOUTH. To his Highness the Dey of Algiers.

Queen Charlotte, Algiers Bay, Aug. 30. GENERAL MEMORANDUM. The Commander in Chief is happy to inform the fleet of the final termination of their strenuous exertions, by the signature of peace, confirmed under a salute of 21 guns, on the following conditions, dictated by his Royal Highness the Prince Regent of England:— I. The abolition, for ever, of Christian slavery.

II. The delivery, to my flag, of all slaves in the dominions of the Dey, to whatever nation they may belong, at noon to-morrow. III. To deliver also, to my flag, all money received by him for the redemption of slaves since the commencement of this year, at noon also to-morrow. IV. Reparation