HE LUNATIC ASYLUM AT PALER-

BY M. P. WILLIS.

Palermo June 28. Two of the best conducted lumitic asylums the world are in the kingdom of Naplesalermo. The latter is managed by a whimal baron, who has devoted his time and forat, has carried it to great extent and perthose who can afford it, enter as boarders.

tovely neighbourhood of Palermo. We refrectived by a porter in a respectable v. who introduced us immediately to the biron-a kink-looking man, rather adbe sowed on our entrance. We stood in and coopen court, surrounded with porticoes linated by the stone seats. On one of them lay a condition in the seats of the nes, talking to himself with great appar- al dil passed without checking the motion of his dy li so as he came up, and fell into his train, apmy as much interested as ourselves in e old man's explanation.

The kitchen was occupied by eight or ten One man, of about forty, was broila steak with gravest attention. Another, bad been furious till employment was ven him, was chopping meat with violent dustry in a large wooden bowl. Two or ree girls were about obeying the little orders like reses cooking on a patent store. I was raok a small bucket and went to the jet of a sustain, and getting impatient from some are or other, dashed the water upon the one the baron mildly called him by name, and mentioned to him as a piece of information that he had wet the floor. He nowded a heal, and filled his bucket quietly, poura little into one of the pans, and resumed | vain

We pissed from the kitchen into an open art, curiously paved, and ornamented with hinese grottoes, artificial rocks, trees, cot-ges and fountains. Within the grottoes re-land figures of wax before the altar of one, tel up as a Chinese chapel, a mandarin was ostrated in prayer. The walls on every de were painted in perspective scenery, and whole had as little the air of a prison as e open valley itself.
