From the Alexandria Gazette, March 26. BALTIMORE ANNUAL CONFERENCE. This conference closed its session, in this place, on Saturday night last, after a session, of eleven days.—Bishops Andrew and Emory, about one hundred and forty preachers, were present. Much important business was transacted. Never have the members of this transacted. Never have the memoers of this Conference, large and important, as it is, met together and transacted the business of the Conference with greater unanimity, or under the influence of better feelings. The ordination of Deacons and Elders took place in the Methodist Church, on Sabbath week, Bishop Andrew officiating. Twelve were ordained Deacons, and thirteen Elders. Not soon will the solemn services of that day be torgotten The vast crowd attending to hear the word of God and witness the solemn services of the occasion, felt that it was, indeed, the shouse of God and the gate of Heaven.' The whole scene was truly imposing. There stood the messenger of God, and gave the solemn charge to those who were about taking upon themselves the work of the ministry. He had come a stranger amongst us, but he had brought the spirit of his Master and his mission with him. Before him sat more than one hundred men, some of them old, feeble, grey headed; the taper sending forth its last feeble flickerings; others young, ardent, strong to labour and to suffer. They had come together from various scenes of labour, and only waited to have other fields assigned them, and then they were prepared to address them-selves to their great work. No heart, from which the kinder and purer feelings had not been exiled, failed to enter, with deep and mense quantities of charcoal and pine and lively interest, into the scene presented. Eter-phard wood feel. rd wood fuel. nity, we have no doubt, will exhibit the ripen-ed and matured fruit of seed oswn on this oc-
