

VOL. XXI.

Printed and Published by JONAS G. ... At the Brick Building ... Price—Three Dollars

THE GENTLEMAN'S VADE MECUM

OR, A WEEKLY REPERTORY OF SPORTING AND DRAMATIC LITERATURE, TURF, FASHIONS, GENTLEMEN'S FASHIONS, &c.

THIS popular journal, which has obtained an extensive and increasing circulation, is daily increasing in value to the publishers to render it useful, amusing, and interesting to the public.

The subjects which are published in the VADE MECUM will be more fully explained in the following brief analysis: THE DRAMA forms a prominent feature in the VADE MECUM—every Farce is given. They are selected on their merits alone; a preference is given to those which are lauded in all reviews to native authors. Independent of the above, the VADE MECUM contains all invidious comparisons, their brevity, are occasional sketches, Anecdotes of the lives of the most eminent Comedians of the present age, and inexhaustible curiosities, by the liberality of Philadelphia Theatres, and connected with the stage, has an immense selection of Plays, many of which have been published in the VADE MECUM.

THE TURF.—A faithful and complete history of the American Turf, and of the various breeds of Horses, and of the various sports connected therewith. Every fact relative to the breeding, and the diseases of Horses, is particularly attended to. The Sporting Intelligence contains a considerable portion of the most authentic and interesting news collected from the most authentic sources. Portraits of celebrated Warriors, and of the most distinguished American Troopers, are given, and the following are included: The American Trotting, The Imported Racing Horses, The American Trotting, The Racing Mare, Ariel, The true-blooded popular, The American Trotting, The well known English Horses, Mandig, the winner of the 1833. The unrivalled American, The celebrated English, A complete Treatise on the various diseases of Horses, for the improvement and health of all exercises. Explanation of the Autograph, Four Engravings, which took place in Paris, and destruction of the Royal Academy of the Infernal Machine, view of the Infernal Machine, Assassin, Gerard. A correct Picture of a Horse, with of seven columns.

SPORTING.—Besides the above, there will be published Shooting Matches, Fencing, Fisticuffs, Aquatic Excursions, and anecdotes of noted Dogs.

MILITARY UNIFORMS.—Employed the assistance of a regular series of engravings, Uniforms worn by the principal Regiments, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, &c. which will be published in the VADE MECUM, with a particular description of each, and the general interest of the world.

GENTLEMEN'S FASHIONS.—A view is made out by a gentleman of the most fashionable house in Philadelphia, of the most fashionable and elegant improvements and changes in the dress circles, constant and be rendered an easy task, to suit their custom, and to suit their colours and modern style of dress.

MISCELLANY.—All subjects which may appear to be of general interest, and which may have a tendency to improve the mind, or to amuse the eye, will be published in the VADE MECUM, such as Tales, Poetry, Anecdotes of News, Places of Amusement, Domestic Economy, &c. Also, a republication of the old English and American Set to Music; besides many other subjects which are of general interest. By the above explanation, the Gentleman's VADE MECUM is rendered a most valuable companion for the patron of the Turf, the Fashionable, and the Farce—the price of which, at the bookstores, would be at least double the value of the VADE MECUM. It is an absolute saving to the patron of the Turf, and the Fashionable, and the Farce—the price of which, at the bookstores, would be at least double the value of the VADE MECUM. It is an absolute saving to the patron of the Turf, and the Fashionable, and the Farce—the price of which, at the bookstores, would be at least double the value of the VADE MECUM.