

The arts of many designing men, who by the most consummate hypocrisy had endeavored to bring into their support, and in the discharge of their trust, have added treachery to deception, are well understood. Hereafter they will be regarded, as they desire to be, with a family and scorn, and will serve as examples to coming generations, that a private station is far more honorable than office or station obtained by trick, and supported by faction.

thony, in the division of kingdoms, hatched the treasonable idea, which has exploded in this a bonaparte conspiracy virtually to destroy this Union, and sever it into fragments. In this business of dismemberment, look at the part that Maryland has performed through the means of a literary chieftain, a supporter of the Alien and Sedition Law Administration, an open bidder in the market of political anti-masonry, as a sectional candidate for the Presidency, and associates with him John Tyler of Virginia, for the Vice. Let us review and compare them—Tyler is in favour of a National Bank—Tyler opposed on constitutional grounds. Harrison in favour of a high tariff for protection of domestic manufactures—Tyler is opposed. Harrison is in favour of a system of Internal Improvement by the General Government—Tyler is opposed—and so on to the end of the chapter. Here is a marriage of the National and the Nullifier, and the ceremony performed under the auspices of the good Whigs of Maryland, who so often had denounced military chiefs, and Nullification as a dangerous heresy, whose aim was disunion. The plan of a political division of the country being openly proclaimed, and unblushingly supported, the question now presents itself—will the honest yeomanry of this glorious Union as the palladium of their safety, be ready and willing to sanction this treachery to the Constitution? Their answer will be an indignant response in the negative.

New York, one in Philadelphia, and one in Washington city, for the purpose of having the same impartially analyzed—all three of whom, although having no knowledge when the Coal came from, reported in writing that the Allegany Coal was thirty-two per cent better than either of the other coals. It has also been ascertained on trial that the Allegany coal answers all of the valuable purposes of smelting.—Cumberland (Md.) Advocate.

COMPANION TO WALDIE'S LIBRARY. The cheapest reprint from English Periodicals ever offered to the public. BEFORE the Select Circulating Library had been long in existence, it was discovered that there was still something wanting—that many occurrences in the ordinary world must pass unknown, as regarded our agency, without an extension of the plan. To establish a fuller medium of communication and supply the desideratum, the Journal of Belles Lettres was added, which we have reason to believe has afforded general satisfaction. The very liberal patronage extended to the Library induced the proprietor to give that gratuitously as an evidence of his acknowledgments. More extended experience has shown that the desiderata which the "Companion" is intended to supply. While reading for the "Library" a large mass of moral accumulations on the hands of the editor, of an interesting, entertaining, and instructive nature, such as would properly come under the designation of Magazines, interspersed with the Reviews from the English Quarterly. To publish every thing of this nature which we deem desirable would encroach too much on the columns of the "Library" designed for books, and yet to pass them by is constantly a subject of regret. To concentrate, therefore, the publication of Books, entire, Reviews, lists of new works, the choicest contributions to Magazines, &c. &c. the "Companion to Waldie's Library" will be offered to the patronage of the present subscribers and the public at large. It is believed that with the "Library," the "Journal," and the "Companion," such an acquaintance with the literature of the age may be cultivated as to leave little further to be desired. Being all published from the same office, more facility offers for subscribing, and having fewer people to deal with, mistakes are less liable to occur, and more readily corrected when they do. The short interval of two weeks between the publication of each number, it is thought too, will be an advantage over monthlies and quarterlies. The following plan is respectfully submitted. 1. The "COMPANION" will contain the earliest possible reprints of the best matter in the British periodicals. 2. It will be issued every fortnight, and the form will be the same as that of the Library—each number containing sixteen pages—thus, every six months, giving thirteen numbers, which can be bound with the Library at little or no more expense, and making a better sized volume; and to those who do not take the Library itself, a volume every year, of 130 quarto pages of the size of the present. 3. The price will be three dollars for a subscriber two dollars for two—and will rise and upwards will be applied at two dollars each. 4. As the work will not be commenced, unless a sufficient patronage be obtained, no payment is required at present, only the name, sent free of postage. Those wishing to support the publication will be pleased therefore to announce their intention as early as possible, as it is intended to commence the work on the first of January next. On the issuing of the second number payment will be expected, as its appearance will evidence a sufficiency of patronage. The proprietor of the "Select Circulating Library" fully aware from experience of the advantages to the public of the rapid diffusion of cheap and select literature, has been induced to add the important feature to the work, and of course leaves it optional with the present subscribers and others to take it or not. It is confidently believed, that with the attention on the part of the Editor, who has already at hand the material for such a work, all the really valuable matter of the English literary and amusing publications may be compressed in this form at a rate of subscription and postage, so trifling as scarcely to be felt. It will form the cheapest reprint of reviews and magazines ever attempted in any country; a comparison with others it were useless here to enter upon, the "Library" itself being the best test by which to judge of the difference between an octavo and a quarto page. It will be the study of the Editor to embody a record of the day, adapted to the wants of this country, which can have no competitor for value or cheapness; how far he is likely to do this he must leave at present to the decision of his readers. Clubs of five individuals, who subscribe to the "Library" and "Companion" both, will obtain the two for six dollars, the postage (a very important consideration) to the most distant post office, on the two, will be one dollar and ninety five cents, divided into seventy eight payments, and half that sum for 100 miles or a less distance from Philadelphia, while the same matter, in the usual American reprints of reviews and magazines in octavo form would be eighteen dollars, and the postage as three to one. We make this assertion advisedly. [Subscriptions to the "Companion," will be taken either with or without the "Library." The proprietor trusts that his punctuality and exactness in executing his part of the contract in the publication of the "Library," will be considered a sufficient guarantee of the completion of his proposed undertaking. ADAM WALDIE.

It will no doubt be gratifying to the people of the State of Maryland generally, to learn that a parcel of Liverpool, a parcel of Virginia (or Pennsylvania, we will not be certain which) and also a parcel of Allegany Stone Coal, were placed in the hands of three of the most eminent Chemists in the United States, one residing in Washington city, for the purpose of having the same impartially analyzed—all three of whom, although having no knowledge when the Coal came from, reported in writing that the Allegany Coal was thirty-two per cent better than either of the other coals. It has also been ascertained on trial that the Allegany coal answers all of the valuable purposes of smelting.—Cumberland (Md.) Advocate.

IRON ORE. We are gratified to learn that extensive banks of Iron Ore have been discovered in the immediate vicinity of several coal mines near Frostburg. The preliminary steps are being taken to render this ore a source of profit to its enterprising and worthy proprietor.—Ibid.

PROSPECTUS OF THE CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE. THE success of the experiment we have made to furnish a succinct history of the proceedings of Congress, from day to day, with sketches of the Debates, induces the undersigned to persevere in their plan to extend and perfect it. They have resolved that the Congressional Globe shall not only embody the parliamentary annals of the country, but shall also furnish an Appendix, which will contain the finished speeches of the prominent speakers, on the most important subjects, written out by the members themselves, from the notes and printed sketches of the reporters. The Congressional Globe, with an Index, will be published weekly, upon double royal paper, in octavo form, as heretofore, at One Dollar for the session. It may be subscribed for separately. The appendix of finished speeches will, also, be published for One Dollar.
