The defendants, Arthur M. Bragg and J. Gene Payne, by Thurgood Marshall, their attorney for a plea to the plaintiffs declaration say:

1. That they did not take the goods and chattels of the plaintiff as mentioned in the declaration, or any of them, in manner and form as the plaintiff hath complained.
2. That at the time of the issuing of the writ in this case, the property in the goods and chattels mentioned in the declaration was in the said defendants.
3. That at the time of the issuing of the writ in this case, the property in the goods and chattels mentioned in the declaration was in the firm of the National Publicity Company.
4. That at the time of issuing of the writ in this case, the plaintiff had no property in the goods and chattels mentioned in the declaration.
