James E. Diggs

In The Baltimore City Court

vs

of

Bertha Stern

Baltimore City.

James E. Diggs by his his Attorney J. Steward Davis, ^{in trespass} sues Bertha Stern, for that Bertha Stern engaged in the business of catering or was so engaged on about March 27, 1921; And that on or about March 27, 1921, the said Bertha Stern, her servants or agents did negligently permit grease and gravy to fall and remain on the floor, of Albaugh's Theatre, at which place, on the above date, the aforesaid defendant was engaged in serving a collation; for that the plaintiff was caused to slip and fall upon the aforesaid grease or gravy, causing the plaintiff great pain and suffering; for that the plaintiff was using due care and caution and was guilty or no negligence, contributing to the aforementioned injury:

WHEREFORE the plaintiff claims $5000 damage thereto.
