Susie J. Millard, plaintiff, by her attorneys, Davis and Evans, sues John Ansterlitz, defendant.

1. For that heretofore, to wit: on or about the 1st day of February, 1926 the defendant was a druggist with business at 1001 N. Broadway.

2. That the plaintiff left with the defendant a prescription to be compounded; that the defendant did not compound the prescription in a workmanlike manner and did so carelessly and negligently fill and give directions for the taking of said prescription that it aggravated the plaintiff's condition and she became and was sick and disordered as a result of the taking of said medicine so compounded and directed. And she was forced to and did spend divers sums of money in attempting to cure herself of her ills, hurts and wounds occasioned as aforesaid and was for a long time prevented from pursuing her usual occupation.

3. And the plaintiff says that all of her hurts, wounds and illness occasioned as aforesaid, were caused by the carelessness, negligence and want of due care on the part of the defendant and that she in no wise contributed thereto.

And the plaintiff claims $5,000 damages.
