executed Sept^r 2^d, 1871
with a codicil thereto executed November 8th 1877

filed April 8. 1879

I Elizabeth Patterson otherwise called Elizabeth Bonaparte, do make, publish and declare, this codicil to my last will and testament heretofore duly made by me and dated the second day of September in the year ~~eighteen~~ hundred and seventy one.

I hereby revoke the sixth clause of my said last will and testament, which disposes of all the rest, residue and remainder of my estate; and I do hereby give and bequeath all the said rest, residue and remainder of my estate of every kind and description, to my grandsons Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte and Charles Joseph Bonaparte, to be equally divided between them share and share alike, to them and their respective executors, administrators and assigns; and in case of the death of either of them during my life, leaving no issue who shall be living at my death, then the whole to vest in and belong to the survivor of my said two grandsons, his executors, administrators and assigns.

In testimony whereof I have hereto set my hand and affixed
my seal this eighth day of November in the year eighteen hundred and seventy seven.

I, Elizabeth Patterson, of the City of Baltimore, and State of Maryland, otherwise called Elizabeth Bonaparte, the divorced wife of Jerome Bonaparte, do make and execute this my last will and testament, in manner and form following:-

Firstly:- I give and devise to my grandson, Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, for and during his natural life, one undivided half part of all my real estate, wherever situated, including not only all whereof the title at the time of my death shall be in my own name, but also all that is subject to my power of disposition or appointment under a deed from myself and Robert Patterson to George and Edward Patterson, dated the fifteenth day of November Eighteen hundred and fifteen, and recorded among the land records of Baltimore County, in the State of Maryland, in Liber W. G. No. 125 folio 515 &c, or in any other manner whatsoever. And from and after the death of my said grandson, Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, I give and devise the said half part of all my real estate to his children as tenants in common, or to his child, if he should have but one, and to the heirs and assigns of such child or children. But in case my said grandson, Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, shall die without issue living at his death, I give and devise the said one half of all my real estate to his brother, Charles Joseph Bonaparte, for and during his natural life, subject to all the terms and provisions as to the reversion therein and transmission thereof contained in the next following article, by which the other half of all my real estate is devised to the said Charles Joseph Bonaparte for life.

Secondly:- I give and devise to my grandson Charles Joseph Bonaparte, for and during his natural life, one undivided half part of all my real estate, including as in the first article set forth, all real estate in any manner subject to my power of disposition or appointment, and from and after the death of my said grandson Charles Joseph Bonaparte, I give and devise the said last mentioned half of my real estate) to his children as tenants in common, or to his child, if he should have but one, and to the heirs and assigns of such child or children. But in case my said grandson Charles Joseph Bonaparte shall die without issue living at his death, I give and devise the said last-mentioned half-part of all my real estate to his brother, Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, for and during his natural life, subject to all the terms and provisions, as to the reversion thereof and transmission thereof contained in the next preceding article of this my will, by which the half of all my real estate is devised to the said Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte for life.

Thirdly:—I hereby empower the survivor of my two grandsons, by his last will and testament executed in conformity with the testamentary law of Maryland, to dispose absolutely of all the real estate and the reversion therein, of which the life-estate shall come to said survivor, under the terms of this my will, either directly, or after the death of one of my said grandsons, — the said last will and testament of the said survivor of my two said grandsons to take effect as to the said real estate only in the event of the said survivor dying without issue living at his death.

Fourthly;—I give and bequeath to my grandson, Charles Joseph Bonaparte, the portraits of King Jerome, his grandfather, and that of myself, — three heads on one piece of canvass, painted by Stuart; the cabinet portrait of myself painted at Geneva by Maffiot; and also the portrait made of me by Kinson; And I also give and bequeath to the said Charles Joseph all histories of my life, written by myself, all my diaries, my dialogues of the Dead, the letters received by me from various correspondents, and all manuscripts whatsoever belonging to me.

Fifthly:— I give and bequeath to my said grandson Charles Joseph Bonaparte all my furniture, silver-plate, books, clothes, and house-linen; and also all my jewelry; and if he should not desire to use said jewelry, or find it necessary to make sale thereof, then it is my particular request that the said jewelry be preserved for his descendants.

Sixthly:— I give and bequeath all the rest, residue, and remainder of my estate of every kind and description, one third part thereof to my said grandson, Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, and two third parts thereof to my said grandson, Charles Joseph Bonaparte, to them and their respective executors, administrators, and assigns; and in case of the death of either of them during my life, leaving no issue who shall be living at my death, then the whole to vest in the survivor of my said two grandsons, his executors, administrators and assigns.

Seventhly:— It is my will, and I hereby direct, that neither of my said grandsons shall be charged with, or in any manner be obliged to account for, any moneys, or other property, bestowed on either of them in my life time; nor shall any such gifts be at all considered in the distribution of my estate; and this provision I have made, having special reference to the large sums which I have heretofore given to my grandson Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, though I mean it to apply to both my said grandsons.

Eighthly:— I direct that my body shall be interred in my lot in Greenmount Cemetery, near Baltimore, and the sum of four hundred dollars is hereby appropriated to the erection of a suitable monument over my remains.

Lastly:— I constitute and appoint my said two grandsons, Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte and Charles Joseph Bonaparte, Executors, of this my last will and testament.

In witness whereof I hereunto set my hand and seal, at the City of Baltimore aforesaid, on this second day of September in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy one.
