

Twenty Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber on the Easter holydays last, a young negro man named HARRY, about twenty-one years of age, supposed to be five feet ten inches high, black, stout made, and stands a little bow-legged, has generally a smile on his countenance when spoken to, if in good humor; he has no visible scars. He took with him a kersey jacket and trousers, black and white; a nankeen jacket and trousers, and a yellow casimere waistcoat; but often changes his clothes, as he is fond of trafficking; he has an uncle living at Wye, it is probable, he may be lurking thereabouts. Whoever takes up said negro and secures him so that the subscriber may get him, shall receive the above reward, if taken out of the county; if in it, ten dollars.
