

One hundred dollars reward.

RAN away from the subscriber living in Easton, Talbot county, Maryland, on the sixth instant, a negro woman named HENNY, about twenty-six or seven years old, five feet eight or nine inches high, a dark mulatto, genteel and slender made: when spoken to a down look. Her dress was a blue cloth jacket and petticoat; her other clothes not known. It is generally supposed she was enticed off by her husband, who calls himself George Hopps, the property of the hon. James Tilghman, of Queen Ann's county. George, a black fellow, somewhat pock-marked, about 5 feet 9 or ten inches high; his dress an old blue surtout, and blue sailor's trowsers. Whoever secures the said woman, so that her master may get her again, shall be entitled to the above reward.

SAMUEL NICOLS.

Easton, May 10, 1803.

P. S. I am authorized to say that Judge Tilghman will give a handsome reward for his fellow George, should he have gone off with his wife. S. N.
