THE STAR LEADER,

AERIAL PRESENTATION -- State Senator Fred L. Wineland (Democrat, Prince Georges County) climbs ladder at Forestville Volunteer Fire Department (Sunday, October 9) to present Maryland State Flag to Chief James W. Randall Sr., who raised it in place of the tattered State flag on the pole. Senator Wineland gave the Maryland colors to the Forestville Volunteers so that it will be in readiness over the firehouse, a polling place in the forthcoming general election. Watching the presentation from the ground are Bernard Eagleston (left), former chaplain of the Forestville company, and Robert Entwisle, president of the F.V.F.D. Two fighter planes from Andrews Air Force Base pass overhead. The flag presentation was made in time for observance of Fire Prevention Week.

Prince Georges Democrats Give Mahoney 'Recognition'

By MARTHA ANGLE
Star Staff Writer

The Prince Georges County Democratic State Central Committee last night steered clear of an explicit endorsement of George P. Mahoney after candidates for local office indicated they could not wholeheartedly embrace their party's gubernatorial nominee.

Instead, the official party organization adopted a carefully worded resolution stating:

"The Prince Georges County Democratic State Central Committee, in accordance with Paragraph 6 of its constitution, recognizes all Democratic nominees on the state and county level."

Paragraph 6 of the committee's constitution states that "members of the committee and precinct chairman shall support the Democratic nominees at each general election."

The central committee originally drafted a resolution affirming support for Mahoney, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Francis B. Burch, Democratic nominee for attorney general.

That version, however, met with stiff opposition from candidates for legislative and county office who met with the central committee in a turbulent two-hour closed session.

The entire 11-member central committee and 62 of the 65 Democratic nominees in Prince Georges ran on a primary ticket headed by Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, who lost to Mahoney by a narrow margin statewide.

Sickles attended last night's meeting and indicated he was satisfied with the resolution finally adopted by the central committee. "It's a lot better than it was before," he said.

The central committee also announced that "after consultation with Mr. Mahoney and his advisers, the conclusion has been reached that the best interests of all Democratic nominees will be served by the establishment of two campaign committees—one set up by Mr. Mahoney to direct campaigning by the statewide ticket, and the other by the State Central Committee to handle the campaign for county candidates."

The party leaders said the "dual campaign" structure will facilitate "a more intensive campaign for both state and county candidates" in Prince Georges.

Reporters were kept waiting outside the meeting room at the Prince Georges Motor Hotel in Marlow Heights while committee members and local candidates thrashed out changes in the wording of the original resolution.

Several of the candidates, including Gilbert Giordano and Xavier A. Aragona, strongly urged an outright endorsement by name of Mahoney, Goldstein and Burch.

State Sen. Fred L. Wineland, Giordano and Aragona were the only members of a rival Democratic primary ticket to survive the Sickles slate sweep in Prince Georges.

Members of the unsuccessful slate, which had supported Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan for governor, last week issued a blanket endorsement of Mahoney and strongly urged the central committee to do likewise.

Among those waiting outside the committee's meeting room last night was Dr. Oscar Lavine, director of Mahoney's Prince Georges campaign. Lavine refused to discuss the central committee's action, but said: "It's not what we had hoped for."

Bogley Set To Get State Roads Position

A well-known Prince Georges County man, S. Walter Bogley, Jr., will be named to the Maryland State Roads Commission this week by Governor J. Millard Tawes.

Bogley was the first administrative assistant to the Prince Georges County Commissioners and more recently was the treasurer of the local ticket supporting Thomas B. Finan for governor.

Tawes will name Bogley, a resident of Mt. Rainier, to a seat that was vacated three months ago by Lansdale G. Clagett of Upper Marlboro.

Clagett resigned to run for County Commissioner in the Democratic primary but was defeated.

Bogley would fill the remainder of Clagett's term, which expires in June, 1969. The part-time position, representing Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties on the seven-man Board, pays $4500 a year.

From 1956 to 1963, Bogley was executive director of the Prince George's Chamber of Commerce. For eight months he was the County's first administrative assistant to the Board of Commissioners, before resigning in late 1963.

He was also administrative assistant to Perry O. Wilkinson, former speaker of the House of Delegates, and managed Wilkinson's unsuccessful primary campaign in 1962 against Rep. Carlton R. Sickles (D) for Maryland's Congressman-at-large seat.

Party Wing for Mahoney

Some 200 of the Finan-Prince Georges First slate Democrats voted overwhelmingly last night, to support George P. Mahoney for governor of Maryland.

The meeting, composed of poll workers, precinct captains and candidates who supported the Atty. Gen. Thomas Finan for Governor in the Sept. 13 primary, also passed by voice vote the endorsement of Francis Birch for attorney general and Louis Goldstein for comptroller; both had been on the Finan slate.

It was the first gathering of the Finan supporters since the primary. They met in the home of State Sen. Fred Wineland in Silesia, Md.

MAHONEY GETS SUPPORT FROM LOCAL DEMOCRATS

Star leader 10/15/66
Democratic State Senator Fred L. Wineland of Prince Georges County led some 200 loyal party workers in voting overwhelmingly to support George P. Mahoney for governor of Maryland.

The meeting, composed of poll workers, precinct captains and candidates who supported the Finan-Prince Georges First slate in the September 13 primary election, also passed by voice vote the endorsement of Francis Burch for attorney general and Louis Goldstein for comptroller.

The organization workers met with Wineland in his hometown, Silesia, Md., near Ft. Washington. The meeting called by Wineland, was the first gathering in force of Finan supporters since the recent primary in which Wineland won nomination for return to the Maryland Senate. The incumbent Senator is a leader of the county faction which opposed Carlton Sickles, who was defeated in the race for governor.

The throng of Democrats told Wineland to throw their support to Mahoney in the general election, November 8.

The campaign workers came from as far away as Aquasco in Southern Maryland and from as far north as Laurel and Bowie to hear the Senator thank them for their support in his successful campaign.

Senator Wineland said: "I want to assure you of my gratitude and that of attorney general Thomas B. Finan for your efforts in turning out the large vote which almost carried the county for Finan.

"We worked together. We fought together and now we should all stick together. We are all Democrats. Now, let's work for a Democratic victory November 8.

"I'll heed the voice of the Democrats of Maryland and work as hard at the polls for Mr. Mahoney as I did for Mr. Finan."

The meeting was attended by Ernest Cory, of Laurel, an attorney and banker, who ran for attorney general on the Mahoney ticket.

Cory told the enthusiastic crowd "it's nice to be among so many people and be applauded for a change. I was alone for so long a time."

The gathering heard Dr. Oscar Lavine, Mahoney's campaign manager in Prince Georges County, who told the workers he welcomed the support and endorsement of Democratic candidate Mahoney.

Wineland reported to his supporters that he had sent a telegram of personal endorsement to Mahoney after Sickles conceded the election and after Mahoney had received the backing of Finan.

The telegram read:

"SINCERE CONGRATULATIONS TO YOU ON YOUR NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR BY OUR PARTY. IT IS INDEED A PLEASURE TO SHARE WITH YOU IN THE SUCCESS OF THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY AND I WANT TO ASSURE YOU OF MY COOPERATION AND THE COOPERATION OF ALL FORWARD THINKING DEMOCRATS IN PRINCE GEORGES

COUNTY. AS STATE SENATOR FOR PRINCE GEORGES COUNTY I LOOK FORWARD TO A VICTORIOUS CAMPAIGN IN NOVEMBER SO

THAT WE MAY JOIN TOGETHER IN ANNAPOLIS AND WORK FOR THE PROGRESSIVE AIMS OF THE FREE STATE OF MARYLAND."

From Major Factions The Carrier October 6, 1966 Mahoney Continues To Gain Support Of County Democrats

Maryland Democratic gubernatorial candidate George P. Mahoney continued to gain support in Prince Georges this week as candidates and campaign workers of the Finan for Governor group added their endorsement and support for the party standard bearer.

Meeting in the auditorium of the Capitol Plaza Shopping Center the group unanimously ratified by voice vote the action of their officers last week in endorsing Mahoney, Francis B. Bruch for Attorney General and Louis L. Goldstein for Comptroller.

After much discussion the group agreed to defer any endorsement of the local Democratic slate until the Democrat State Central Committee and the slate indicated whether or not they would support the statewide ticket.

In addition to Finan supporters there were a number of independent candidates and party workers who joined in the endorsement of Mahoney.

The group named a seven member committee to meet with the State Central Committee to determine whether or not they would support Mahoney.

A member of the committee said Wednesday evening that the group did meet with the county State Central Committee in Baltimore the same day, just after the Central Committee had met with Mahoney representatives.

Central Committee members indicated that a meeting would be held Sunday night to determine what course the official party committee would take.

One member present at the meeting declined to be quoted but declared that it was "pretty plain that the Central Committee is not going to endorse anyone for governor. And if they should it will only be a perfunctory endorsement without any work connected with it."

supporters last Thursday night in Silesia and endorsed Mahoney, Burch and Goldstein.

The action Tuesday night by the Finan group, which campaigned under the banner of Prince Georges First, was the first major faction to openly support Mahoney.

Democratic Congressional candidate Bill R. Hunter had added his support for Mahoney last week, as had Harry A. Boswell, Jr.

Although the committee announced no public meetings it was understood that a Mahoney for Governor committee was being formed from among the backers of Finan, Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, independents, and the Prince Georges First groups.

Mahoney's position on open occupancy, which he adamantly opposed in the primary, was repeatedly given as the reason for confusion among the Central Committee which was elected on the Sickles slate. Sickles advocated the strongest open occupancy legislation which could be written.

Democratic Slate $42,000 in Debt

By Richard Homan
Washington Post Staff Writer

The Democratic Central Committee slate in Prince George's — which mounted a vast and expensive primary campaign but won only three of 65 contests — reported yesterday that it is $42,000 in debt.

In a campaign expenditure report filed yesterday in Upper Marlboro, S. Walter Bogley Jr., the ticket's treasurer, said the slate, which supported Attorney General Thomas B. Finan for Governor, had a cash balance of $467 on Oct. 10, but owed $43,022 in loans and bills.

Among the loans are five for $5000 each that were authorized by a resolution of the Central Committee's campaign committee in July with the provision that they were to be repaid by Sept. 13, the date of the primary.

Bogley and Charles A. Duker, Jr., the Central Committee ticket's campaign manager, could not be reached for comment last night.

State Sen. Fred L. Wineland, a leader of the slate and one of its three successful candidates, said he was "surprised" at the deficit but said he was "totally unfamiliar with the financial machinery of the campaign."

Under provisions of Maryland's new Corrupt Practices Act, further reports must be made until the debt is repaid.

The report showed that the Central Committee slate spent $5697 in the last two weeks of the campaign, bringing its total expenses to $80,570.

The rival Sickles slate, which has not filed its final report, spent $58,054 before the final two weeks.

In a separate report, State Senate candidate Henry F. Long Jr., who ran on the Central Committee slate, reported spending $22,810 on his unsuccessful campaign. The amount is by far the largest among reports filed so far for a single candidate for local office in the County.

The Central Committee ticket's outstanding bills included $8542 for public relations work by Kal, Ehrlich and Merrick, Inc.; $3000 for crabs for a fund-raising crab feast and $549.65 for Federal and State payroll taxes.

The $5000 loans were made by Dukes, Long and three of the County's leading contractors and developers—Samuel S. Bevard, Alfred C. Scuderi and Alfred H. Smith.

The Central Committee members that led the slate's campaign are no longer in office with the election of a new Central Committee on Sept. 13. But according to election laws, members of the former Central Committee's campaign committee are still responsible for the debt.

In Montgomery County yesterday, the victorious Democratic Action Group (DAG) reported that it spent $25,129 in the primary campaign. DAG, which backed Carlton R. Sickles for the governorship, swept all contests for nomination to local offices.

At Unity Rally For Mahoney

With a strong plea for unity among Democrats in Prince George's County — "the most Democratic county in Maryland" —, George P. Mahoney cut the ribbon opening his Prince Georges headquarters this week.

The headquarters, gathering point for volunteers and distribution point for literature about the top of the Democratic ticket — Mahoney for governor, Francis B. Burch for attorney general, and Louis L. Goldstein for comptroller — is located in the Prince George's Motor Hotel, on Route 5 in Marlow Heights.

A Mahoney's side as he spoke, signifying the unity he expects to achieve between the various factions in the bitterly fought primary last month, were State Senator Fred Wineland, who was one of the leaders of the Prince George's First slate that supported Thomas B. Finan in the primary, and James Magruder Rea, chairman of the winning Sickles slate for the Prince George's State Central Committee.

Endorsements for Mahoney Burch - Goldstein are flowing into headquarters. Mahoney was joined on the platform at the opening by Perry O. Wilkinson, veteran speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, who formally endorsed the Mahoney gubernatorial candidacy a few minutes before.

The Prince George's County Council of Democratic Clubs, made up of Democratic organizations throughout the county, has also voted to support the ticket from top to bottom. Lloyd James, president of the Council, announced the endorsement.

A Welcome for Mahoney

UNITY FOR DEMOCRATS? — Anyhow, it looked like there was plenty of it around when George P. Mahoney, the Baltimore contractor and perennial State-wide Democratic candidate, came to Prince Georges County last Friday in his role of Democratic nominee for Governor. In a hard-hitting speech before an enthusiastic crowd at the opening of local Mahoney-for-Governor headquarters in the Prince Georges Motor Hotel in Hillcrest Heights, Mr. Mahoney, who won the gubernatorial nomination by a very slim margin over Prince Georges resident and Congressman-at-Large Carlton R. Sickles, made a strong plea for Party unity here. And, as apparently evidenced in the photos above, he found a goodly measure of it. For joining hands with him in

Mahoney Gives Unity Plea

With a strong plea for unity among Democrats in Prince Georges County — "the most Democratic county in Maryland" — George P. Mahoney cut the ribbon opening his Prince Georges headquarters.

"I have known George P. Mahoney for more than 20 years and I can assure you that he is the best candidate seeking the high office of governor of Maryland. I urge all my friends to cast their ballots for Mahoney, Burch and Goldstein on Nov. 8," Wilkinson said.

Another important endorsement for Mahoney was announced this week. The Prince Georges County Council of Democratic Clubs, made up of Democratic organizations throughout the county, voted to support the ticket from top to bottom. Lloyd James, president of the Council, announced the endorsement.

Speaks to Prince George's Democrats

Mahoney Warns County To Get on Bandwagon

By Peter A. Jay

Washington Post Staff Writer

George P. Mahoney rolled his bandwagon into Prince Georges County last night and bitterly attacked his defeated gubernatorial primary opponent, Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, and Maryland's Democratic Senators, Daniel B. Brewster and Joseph D. Tydings.

Fresh from a Democratic State Convention triumph on Thursday which was boycotted by Brewster, Tydings and Sickles—Mahoney bluntly told Prince George's Democrats that if they didn't get aboard the bandwagon, they'd miss the gravy train.

"With unity and harmony we'll have success," Mahoney promised a wildly cheering crowd of 200. "Without it, you could have a Republican Governor for eight years and no patronage whatsoever. And that is serious.

"You may not love me," Mahoney said—at which he was interrupted with dissenting cheers—"but I want you to love the Democratic Party."

The Prince George's and Montgomery County delegations formed most of the unsuccessful opposition Thursday to the inclusion of Mahoney's outspoken stand against open occupancy in the Democratic platform.

Tydings and Brewster have refused to endorse Mahoney, as has Sickles, and last night Mahoney didn't mince words about his feelings toward them.

"I am ashamed and embarrassed at the thought that these men will give up their

When George P. Mahoney, Maryland's Democratic gubernatorial candidate rolled his bandwagon into our fair County last Friday evening, there were some 200 supporters and spectators on hand to hear him say at Democratic headquarters in Hillcrest Heights that "unity and harmony will bring success to the Party in November."

Speaking extemporaneously and in clear voice, Mahoney minced no words in expressing his feelings toward Senators Daniel B. Brewster and Joseph D. Iydings and Representative Carlton R. Sickles, all of whom not only refused to endorse his candidacy for Governor but purposely boycotted the Democratic State Convention just the day before at Annapolis.

"I am ashamed and embarrassed at the thought that these men will give up their young futures to destroy themselves politically," he said. Bluntly, he added that if they didn't get aboard the bandwagon, they'd miss the gravy train.

"I've been very polite so far," he remarked, "but I say to anyone who walks out—they won't walk back in."

Refuses To Criticize President

And when Mahoney refused to criticize President Johnson's refusal to campaign for the Democratic slate in Maryland, the partisan crowd shouted in unison "who needs him."

There is no doubt that Mahoney is firmly at the controls of Maryland's Democratic Party, especially after his opposition to open occupancy in housing was overwhelmingly adopted as the campaign platform. The Party even included Mahoney's campaign phrase—"Your Home Is Your Castle—Protect It!"—in their plank.

Delegates to the party convention battered down a Prince George's and Montgomery County rebellion aimed at deleting the slogan from the platform by 137 to 46 votes and gave Mahoney everything he wanted.

Differs From Republicans Stand

What he asked for and got differed with the State Republicans' stand on the same issue. The GOP and its candidate for Governor, Spiro T. Agnew, came out for open occupancy in only new apartments and subdivisions.

The Democratic plank, of course, makes no reference to apartments or subdivisions, voicing opposition only to any legislation affecting the sale or rental of private homes.

Local successful primary candidates at the Hillcrest Heights rally included State Senator Fred L. Wineland, House of Delegates aspirants Gilbert R. Giordano and Andrew O. Mothershead, Circuit Court Judge Robert B. Mathias and William J. Kersey, who upended incumbent William J. Jamieson as the Democratic nominee for County Sheriff.

Candidate for Attorney General Francis B. Burch was also on hand for the occasion. Although he spoke briefly, Burch also stressed Party unity in the election of the Democratic ticket in November.

Unsuccessful Candidates Voice Support

Unsuccessful candidates in the person of Ernest N. Cory, Jr., of Laurel, who lost out to Burch for the Attorney General's spot and Harry A. Boswell, Jr., Hyattsville, who was defeated in his bid for the Fifth District Congressional seat, were also on hand to lend wholehearted support to the Mahoney bandwagon.

So were several of the area's leading businessmen, some of whom supported the Sickles and Finan slates in the primary but who are now solidly behind Mahoney's bid to be the next Governor of Maryland.

Breaking up just before midnight the rally ended shortly after the enthusiastic crowd sang "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" as a climatic tribute to the Baltimore contractor.

young futures to destroy themselves," he said. "They won't come back as long as I'm Governor of Maryland." He did not elaborate on that statement, and the announcement was greeted by cheers.

Local candidates elected on a successful Prince George's County slate backing Sickles were conspicuously absent last night as Mahoney opened his campaign headquarters in Marlow Heights, but the enthusiastic crowd clearly could not have cared less.

Mahoney has been deserted by many liberals in his party because of his stand on fair housing. But he has picked up other support: a Mahoney aide said "about 80 Goldwater Republicans" were at the opening.

In one of his strongest speeches in the campaign, Mahoney laid down the law to those who are crossing the Party line and coming out for Republican Spiro T. Agnew or Independent Hyman Pressman.

"I've been very polite so far," he said, "but I say to anyone who walks out — they won't walk back in!"

Mahoney said he refused to criticize President Johnson's refusal to campaign for him in Maryland, and the crowd cheered. "We don't want him!" went up the cry from the rear of the room.

The only local candidates at the gathering were State Sen. Fred L. Wineland and House of Delegates candidates Gilbert R. Giordano and Andrew Mothershead. Wineland and Giordano were elected on a slate opposing fair-housing laws and were pledged to former Attorney General Thomas Finan. Mothershead was the only representative of the local Sickles slate.

After leaving the headquarters opening in Marlow Heights, the Mahoney cavalcade went to the Prince George's County Democratic headquarters for local candidates in West Lanhams, which has not endorsed Mahoney.

Volunteer workers for that slate confronted Mahoney and his procession and refused to allow Mahoney placards to be posted in the headquarters. The Mahoney group left without incident.

It was indeed an auspicious occasion Saturday evening when three "outstanding citizens" were honored by the Congress of Southern Prince George's County Civic Associations, Inc., at a "Prince of Progress" citizenship awards banquet held at the Prince George Motor Hotel in Hillcrest Heights.

Recipients of the top awards were Walter J. Snellings of Oxon Hill, a member of the County's merit board system; Samuel S. Bevard of Manchester Estates, president of the Silver Hill Sand, Gravel & Concrete Company, and James Baker of Hyattsville, director of inspections and permits for the County.

Mr. Snellings, a retired Southern Railway employee, received the "Outstanding Citizen of the Year" award for his efforts in developing and administering the County employees' merit system.

In making the certificate presentation to Mr. Snellings, State Senator Fred L. Wineland cited the founder of the Congress of Civic Associations for his continuing contributions beyond the normal requirements of good citizenship toward making our County a better place to live, work and play.

"This award is given regardless of political philosophy, religious or other creed beliefs or race and I consider it a personal privilege and honor to present the "Outstanding Citizen of the Year" award to Walt Snellings," said Senator Wineland.

Mr. Bevard who is also a director of Peoples National Bank of Maryland, received the "Outstanding Citizen-Businessman" award for his "many unsung services to County hospitals, churches, service clubs and citizens."

In presenting this award, Carl Wilkinson, president of the Prince George's County Chamber of Commerce, said Mr. Bevard was selected by the Awards Committee for his contributions to the general welfare of the citizens of Prince George's County "above and beyond that which could be considered good business practice."

"I've known Sam Bevard a long time," said Wilkinson. "The honor the Congress of Civic Associations has fittingly bestowed upon him this evening is not only a tribute to a solid citizen and businessman but also to a fine family man."

In also citing Mr. Bevard as a founder of the Southern Maryland Natural Resources Association and for his work as a member of the Board of Trustees of Cafritz Memorial Hospital, Mr. Wilkinson said that Mr. Bevard was the type of man you call upon anytime for assistance in matters of civic importance.

"He's most deserving of the honor, indeed!"

Mr. Baker, who has held the post of director of inspections and permits for the County since October, 1964, received the "Outstanding County Employee of the Year" award for his "imagination and ingenuity in administering the department and for improving inspection services."

Gladys Spellman, left, James Baker and M. Bayne Brooke

Commissioner M. Bayne Brooke, with assistance from Commissioner Mrs. Gladys N. Spellman, made the award presentation.

"This award," said Mr. Brooke, "goes beyond the actions for which Jim Baker has contributed to the efficiency of government services in the County. A diligent worker, he has the welfare of our citizens at heart and by his efforts we can be justly proud of the beneficial results to date."

Special citations ably handled by President Melvin Zanchel and Vice President Dale Anderson were given to Mrs. Agnes B. Hatfield, unsuccessful candidate for the Republican Fifth Congressional nomination last month; Robert Walters, 18, of Fort Washington Forest, who saved a boy from drowning last summer, and 81-year-old scientist, Dr. Arno Viehoever, for his efforts in getting the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission to improve its Piscataway sewage treatment plant.

Guest speaker for the banquet was Donald P. Rampola, past district governor of Toastmasters International. The subject of his talk was "An Awarding Experience" which had the large audience laughing from start to finish. He's good . . .

At Mahoney's side as he spoke, signifying the unity he expects to achieve between the various factions in the bitterly fought primary last month, were State Sen. Fred Wineland, who was one of the leaders of the Prince George's First slate that supported Thomas B. Finan in the primary, and James Magruder Rea, chairman of the winning Sickles slate for the Prince George's State Central Committee.

Campaign Chairman, Dr. Oscar Lavine, who introduced Mahoney, was pleased with the turnout and thanked the people for the show of strength and unity for Mr. Mahoney. The Candidate for Governor pleaded for unity and stressed the fact that the Democrats, who take a walk during this election, can continue to walk after he is elected governor. The candidate spoke on crime in the State of Maryland, the ever increasing need for more and better educational facilities and the rights of individuals.

Wineland Would Urge "Good Samaritan" Law

State Senator Fred L. Wineland (D., Prince George's County), who won nomination for return to the Maryland State Senate in the Democratic primary Sept. 13, said last night he would ask for quick passage of the "Good Samaritan" act at the opening of the new legislature in January.

The bill, which provides compensation for persons who suffer physical injury or sustain financial loss in helping policemen in the fight against crime, was approved in August by Wineland and other members of the Maryland Legislative Council, the interim body of the state legislature.

Wineland, co-sponsor of the measure, said it has wide support among state legislators and that he would ask for a vote on the bill in the first week of the 1967 General Assembly, which convenes January 18.

"The Good Samaritan bill will, in effect, be a strong helping hand for the arm of the law in combating violence in the streets," Wineland said.

"Need for more help in the fight against crime has been increasingly evident in the past few months and the sooner this bill is passed and signed into law, the sooner our unfortunate citizens and over-burdened law enforcement officers will get support that has been lacking.

"Any resident of Maryland who is hurt when directly helping a policeman to make an arrest or attempting to help a policeman prevent a crime will be aided by the new law, if passed.

"So will any innocent victim of a crime originating or perpetrated within the state.

"Especially, our senior citizens who are now fearful of walking the streets will find that the State of Maryland walks with them.

"Until this bill becomes law, the citizens of the State of Maryland have no recourse against the indigent criminal for compensation for bodily injury and harm resulting from a crime of violence.

"I believe that the state has a moral responsibility to relieve the financial burden of loss sustained by innocent victims who suffer misfortune at the hands of the criminal.

"The entire public is benefited by persons who take direct action to prevent crimes against the person and property of others, or who help catch vicious offenders," he declared.

Wineland explained that the act calls for:

1. Establishment of a Criminal Victim Indemnity Fund to be maintained by the state at a balance of $250,000 to pay claims.

2. Placing an additional fine on any person convicted of a crime from which any compensatable injury resulted in an amount commensurate with the nature of the injury.

3. Payment for loss, resulting from injury, of employment based on the claimant's potential earning power, according to the schedule of benefits of the Workmen's Compensation Commission, which provides up to $30,000 for permanent total disability and $12,500 for temporary total disability.

4. Investigation of the circumstances of the "Good Samaritan's" injuries by the State's Attorney.

Helping Hand For Law In Street Crime

'Prince Of Progress' Awards Presented By Southern PG Civic Association

A civic leader, a businessman and a County official each received "Prince of Progress" awards last Saturday night from the Congress of Southern Prince George's County Civic Associations.

In its first such ceremony, the civic group cited Walter S. Snellings, of Oxon Hill, as "Citizen of the Year," Samuel S. Bevard, Sr., as "Businessman of the Year," and James S. Baker, director of the County's Department of Inspections and Permits, as "County Employee of the Year."

President Melvin Tanchel of the Southern Civic Association said his group, representing 21 member organizations, felt "there are many people who day by day perform outstanding work for the citizens of Prince George's County. We felt recognition was due."

A special panel went over "a long list of nominees -- each qualified in his way -- and the decision was a difficult one to make," added Tanchel.

Snellings, a founder and first president of the Congress, was honored "for service rendered to citizen groups in the area and also for his work in improving the County government service by his perseverance and integrity as well as long and devoted service in administering the County's Merit System."

Bevard, a local builder and sand and gravel operator, was honored "for his many unsung services to the County and to hospital, church and service clubs as well as for his leadership in development of an industrial group to provide for orderly use of natural resources in Prince George's."

Baker, first director of the new Inspections and Permits Department, received his award "for imagination and ingenuity in administering this department and for improving the inspections services of Prince George's County."

Since its formation in 1962, the Congress of Southern Prince George's County Civic Association, an association of citizens' associations, has grown to include 21 member groups, whose aggregate membership is over two thousand individuals.

President Tanchel described it as "oriented primarily towards service rather than political action, striving to keep its members 'up-to-date' on the latest goings-on in the County, as well as to represent them in dealing with problems of a regional nature such as legislation, County finances, highways, planning and the school system. Almost since its first meeting, the group has conducted a continuing program for a cleaner Potomac River. Membership in the Civic Congress is open to any citizens' association in Prince George's County south of Central Avenue."

Awards to the three County men honored at the Association's banquet were presented by local men also well-known in the area, Chamber of Commerce president Wilkinson, Commissioner Brooke and State Sen. Wineland.

NEW LIBRARY BOARD APPOINTEE — John W. Wolfgang (l.) of 2223 Jameson st., Hillcrest Heights, is sworn in as a member of the Prince Georges County Library Board by W. Waverly Webb, chief clerk of the Circuit Court, at Upper Marlboro. Mr. Wolfgang, 39, a lawyer and realtor, was graduated from the University of Maryland in 1951 with a degree in political science and took his law degree from American University in 1955. An active member of the Hillcrest Heights Citizens Association, he was appointed to the Library Board by Governor Tawes.

Spending by Democrats In Prince Georges Dips

Campaign spending by the Democratic party in Prince Georges County has declined sharply since the Sept. 13 primary election, according to financial reports filed with the clerk of the Circuit Court.

The winning Democratic primary slate, which spent $86,814 during the primary campaign, listed only $734 in disbursements for the general election.

The Republicans, however, have stepped up their spending considerably since the primary, when they reported relatively minor outlays.

Republicans For Better Government in Prince Georges County, a group made up largely of GOP party members who are candidates, listed general election expenses of $3,000, while the Republican State Central Committee reported spending $821.

After the September primary, the successful Democratic Steering Committee slate reported a campaign deficit of some $10,000. A committee spokesman said last night the debt has been shaved to about $8,000 now.

The steering committee will assume full responsibility for that deficit, the spokesman said. It will not be shifted to the Democratic Campaign Committee which is financing the general election campaign, he explained.

Yesterday was the deadline for filing pre-election spending reports for the general election. More comprehensive financial statements must be made 30 days after the election under Maryland's Corrupt Practices Act.

State Sen. Fred L. Wineland led the Democratic candidates in individual spending, according to the reports filed in Upper Marlboro. Wineland listed disbursements of $3,365 for the general election. Jesse S. Baggett, chairman of the County Commissioners, reported receiving $1,200 but spending only $140 so far.

Republican state senate candidate George G. H. McDaniel listed expenditures of $2,180. Democrat Steny H. Hoyer, also running for the state senate, reported spending $1,023. Included in his $3,258 receipts was a $500 contribution from U.S. Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., whom Hoyer serves as executive staff assistant.

FIRST DISTRICT: The closest legislative contest is between Democrat Edward T. Conroy 1st District and William W. Gullett for the single Senate seat. Mr. Conroy, now a member of the House of Delegates has faced intra-party troubles in the western and southern sections of the county, while Mr. Gullett is cashing in on his record as College Park mayor.

In the three-seat House race, the Democrats have incumbent Arthur Dorman, a Langley Park optometrist; Andrew O. Mothershead, a Beltsville fuel company executive; and Mrs. Pauline H. Menes, an economist and former chief clerk to the Election Board.

They are opposed by Republicans Robert S. Hoyer, a College Park attorney; George

Campaign Costs Dip

In Prince George's

Campaign spending has dropped off sharply in Prince George's County since the primary, in which two Democratic slates waged an expensive battle for nominations.

Through yesterday, Democratic candidates and organizations reported spending $1,300 and Republicans reported expenses of $9850.

During the primary campaign, the two Democratic slates spent more than $180,000.

Many of the candidates, however, reported spending half or less than half of their contributions, indicating that the pace of the spending will pick up in the last week.

The Democratic campaign Committee spent only $734. The Republican Central Committee spent $821 and a countywide organization called Republicans for Better Government spent $3000.

State Sen. Fred L. Wineland (D), who spent $10,000 in the primary, led the candidates in the first weeks of the election campaign, spending $3365.

George G. H. McDaniel Jr., a State Senate candidate, led Republicans with expenditures of $2180.

Other top spenders were Thomas Conrad, Republican for County Commissioner, $1448; William J. Kersey, Democrat for sheriff, $1344; Del. Edward T. Conroy, Democrat for State Senate, $1171; Steny D. Hoyer, Democrat for State Senate, $1023; and Francis B. Francois, Democrat for County Commissioner, $967.

Scandal Hints, Agnew Coattails May Affect Prince Georges Races

GOP Could Gain a Foothold

By FRANCIS PORTER

Prince Georges Democrats go into next Tuesday's election enjoying a nearly 3 to 1 registration edge.

But two factors give the GOP a chance to capture some local offices.

The first is the current grand jury investigation of zoning scandal charges hurled by Lawrence J. Hogan, the GOP's candidate for the 5th Congressional District seat held by Rep. Hervey G. Machen, (D.).

The second is the pull of the Republican candidate for governor, Spiro T. Agnew.

Both of these opportunities grew out of the bitter Democratic primary.

The Republican aspirants for state legislative seats argue that Mr. Agnew will need as many inspired by broad hints of irregularities made by the members of his own party in the General Assembly as possible to carry thru his far reaching pledges for improvement in the state government.

MACHEN HAS CHANGED

Rep. Machen, seeking a second term, is a Hyattsville lawyer. He has served as a Prince Georges Assistant State's Atty. and in the House of Delegates.

His voting record as a Delegate was conservative but his two years in Congress saw him become more liberal in support of the Johnson administration on virtually all of the key issues.

HOGAN A 'MODERATE'

Mr. Hogan, a Washington Public relations consultant, who lives in Cheverly, identifies himself with the "moderate" wing of the GOP. Besides his blasts on zoning, he has based his campaign on attacks on Mr. Machen's support of the Administration.

Except for three candidates for the General Assembly from the 3rd District the entire Democratic slate was on the ticket supporting Rep. Carlton R. Sickles in his unsuccessful primary bid for governor.

Those members of the ticket reflect a somewhat more liberal attitude than their three running-mates who teamed with Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan for governor.

W. Senge, a Beltsville insurance man and former town councilman; and Robert M. Woodside, a Bowie manufacturer's agent.

2ND DISTRICT: The two Senate seats are being sought by incumbent Democratic Delegates Meyer M. Emanuel, a West Hyattsville certified public accountant, and Royal Hart, Riverdale photographer.

The Republicans are Nelson H. Greene, a Hyattsville lawyer and engineer; and George G. H. McDaniel, a Hyattsville insurance broker.

For the seven House seats the Democrats have incumbent William J. Goodman, a telephone company service engineer; Robert W. Banning, a Hyattsville auto agency executive; Mrs. Ann R. Hull, a Takoma Park housewife and vice chairman of the county's Community Action Committee; Arthur A. King, president of a Mt. Ranier research firm and the only Negro on the ballot; Truman C. S. Montfort, a New Carrollton marketing executive; Francis J. Santangelo, a Landover insurance broker; and Eric I. Weile, a Hyattsville ice cream firm owner.

The GOP is contesting only two of the seats with Francis A. Borelli, an Adelphi lawyer; and Jerome K. Lyle, a Palmer Park accountant.

3D DISTRICT: Democratic Senate nominees are Fred L.

Wineland, a Silesia theatre chain executive who now holds the county's single Senate seat; and Steny H. Hoyer, of Forestville, who is U.S. Sen. Daniel B. Brewster's administrative assistant.

Their lone GOP opponent is Victor L. Edwards, a Camp Springs attorney.

For the six House seats, the Democrats have Xavier A. Aragona, an Oxon Hill attorney; Edward J. Bagley, a Clinton attorney; Bernard W. Donavon, a District Heights real estate broker; Gilbert R. Giordano, a Camp Springs attorney; incumbent Raymond J. McDonough, a Forest Heights attorney and president of the Southeast Hospital; and Frederick C. Rummage, of Camp Springs, executive secretary of the Maryland State Teachers Association.

The Republicans have only five contestants for the six seats. They are Marvin S. Gallimore, of Accokeek, a former GOP Central Committee member; William G. Noland, Hillcrest Heights, a retired economist; Leonard J. Oreto, Accokeek, a retired D. C. Police lieutenant; Howard C. Warner, an Oxon Hill businessman; and Eugene Zamer, a department store executive and President of the Capitol Heights Town Council.

COUNTY COMMISSION: For the five-seat County Commission the Democrats have three incumbents, Jess S. Baggett, a Hyattsville businessman seeking a fourth term; M. Bayne Brooke, an Oxon Hill businessman seeking a third term; and Mrs. Gladys Noon Spellman, a Cheverly housewife seeking a second term. Their running mates are Francis J. Aluisi, District Heights civil engineer, and Francis B. Francois, a Belair patent attorney and chief judge of the Orphans Court.

The GOP candidates are James S. Brady, a Bowie builder and a member of the Election Board; Joseph A. Chesanek, a Greenbelt CPA; Thomas D. Conrad, a College Heights stockbroker; Sylvester G. Frederick, a Laurel auto dealer; and John H. Hughes, a Hyattsville real estate dealer.

STATE'S ATTORNEY: Incumbent Democrat Arthur A. Marshall is seeking a second term against Republican Donald B. H. Messenger, of Beltsville.

SHERIFF: Democrat William J. Kersey, a private detective and former deputy sheriff, is opposed by the GOP's William E. Sharpe, of Hyattsville, who was the party's nominee for the same post four years ago.

TREASURER: Democrat Charles E. Callow is seeking a fourth term against Republican

Charles J. DiNenna, a Hyattsville CPA.

REGISTRAR OF WILLS: Incumbent Orphans Court Judge Genella S. McGinnis, a Seat Pleasant housewife, is the Democratic nominee against Republican Mrs. Julia E. Nye, a College Park housewife.

ORPHAS COURT: Incumbent Mrs. Kathleen Shoap of Hillcrest Heights, Mrs. Mary T. O'Hare, wife of the late Hyattsville Peoples Court Judge George O'Hare, and Lanham attorney Frank Kratovil are the three Democratic candidates. The GOP is contesting only two seats with Mrs. Jean Snowden Hinchcliff of Brandywine, and Miss Matilda M. Miazga, a Hyattsville attorney.

CLERK OF THE CIRCUIT COURT AND SURVEYOR: Incumbent Democrats W. Waverly Webb, seeking a sixth term as Clerk, and Surveyor Walton G. Banks, seeking a fifth term have no opposition.

JUDGES OF THE CIRCUIT COURT: In the primary where contestants are allowed to file with all parties, incumbent Robert B. Mathias led both the Democratic and GOP voting, while incumbent Samuel W. H. Meloy won the second Democratic spot and the second GOP victory went to Walter H. Maloney, of Chillum, who is a registered Democrat.

WINELAND WANTS QUICK PASSAGE OF "GOOD SAMARITAN" ACT IN '67

State Senator Fred L. Wineland (D. Prince Georges County), who won nomination for return to the Maryland State Senate in the Democratic primary September 13, said he would ask for quick passage of the "Good Samaritan" act at the opening of the new legislature in January.

The bill, which provides compensation for persons who suffer physical injury or sustain financial loss in helping policemen in the fight against crime, was approved in August by Wineland and other members of the Maryland Legislative Council, the interim body of the state legislature.

AREA COMMERCIAL and BUSINESS SURVEY

Prince Georges County has saved nearly $80,000 in the cost of a $1.3 million hospital addition by ordering a second round of bidding on the construction contract.

The County Commissioners awarded the contract to John Tester and Son, Inc., of Clinton, yesterday, subject to approval by the Federal Government and Maryland.

Tester's bid of $1,298,109 for construction of the 100-bed nursing home and rehabilitative facility at Prince Georges General Hospital at Cheverly was $77,991 below the lowest bid submitted when first advertised in June.

The United Bank & Trust Co. of Maryland formally opened for business yesterday in temporary offices at 9400 Livingston Rd. in the Oxon Hill area. A permanent building will be constructed next year on the same site.

State Senator Fred Wineland cut a gold tape at the opening ceremonies, attended by 150 first-day depositors.

The Suburban Trust Co. was host recently to more than 300 of its employees at a luncheon during which 116 awards were made to Suburban employees of from five to 25 years. The president of Suburban Trust, J. Robert Sherwood, holds the record of longest service of any current employee--44 years. Almost half the bank's employees have been with Suburban for five years or more.

NOW TO THE BOTTOM SEAT...

3rd SUBDISTRICT

3 Seek 2 Seats

One of two state Senate seats allotted southern Prince Georges County this year will automatically go to a Democrat next Tuesday.

In the 3rd legislative subdistrict, attorney Victor L. Edwards of Camp Springs is the sole Republican challenger to incumbent State Sen. Fred L. Wineland and his Democratic running mate, Steny H. Hoyer.

The district will elect six of the county's 16 House of Delegates members, and two of five state senators. Democrats competing for the state Senate seats are:

Steny H. Hoyer, 27, of 8386 Donnell Place, Forestville, executive assistant to Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., and an upset victor in the 10-way September primary.

Hoyer supports a graduated income tax with more equitable distribution of revenues to meet the needs of county governments. He favors free public kindergartens and free community colleges to the extent financially possible.

Fred L. Wineland, 40, of 8673 Riverview Road, Silesia, presently is the sole state senator from Prince Georges County. The vice president and treasurer of a movie-theater chain, he was appointed to the Senate in 1965 to fill the unexpired term of the late H. Winship Wheatley.

V. L. EDWARDS (R) S. H. HOYER (D) F. L. WINELAND (D)

During the September primary, Wineland was one of two leaders of a local ticket backing Thomas B. Finan for governor.

He favors enactment of more forceful conflict-of-interest legislation, to apply to both state and county officials. Wineland supports revamping the General Assembly's committee structure and the creation of full-time staff assistants for legislators. He also supports pay raises for Maryland's classified workers.

Victor L. Edwards, 41, of 7328 Lansing Drive, Camp Springs, is an attorney in private practice with offices in Oxon Hill.

Edwards backs a fiscal reform program designed to shift the tax burden from private homeowners. He favors reform of Maryland's penal system, abolishment of capital punishment, and enlargement of the state and county police forces.

THE WASHINGTON DAILY NEWS, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1966

Prince Georges Unit Nixes Montessori Schools

A Prince Georges study committee yesterday rejected recommendations that the county adopt the controversial Montessori Method of teaching in its public schools.

The study, directed by a legislative resolution sponsored by Sen. Fred L. Wineland, was conducted by eight School Board officials.

The system, developed by Dr. Maria Montessori of Italy, starts children in school at 3 and they progress thru successive grades each lasting three years. An outgrowth of Dr. Montessori's experiences teaching mentally handicapped children, the method uses a rigidly controlled curriculum and materials which must be approved by the Association Monessori Internationale in Holland.

There are 22 private operated Montessori schools in the Washington area.

The Committee agreed that system can be very successful, but pointed out that Montessori schools often refuse to let older pupils transfer from conventional classes. The committee added that the cost of a school program beginning so early, plus the larger classrooms and limit of 15 pupils per class called for in the Method, would impose a staggering tax load.

Instead, the group recommended the immediate adoption of a policy to provide free kindergartens for 5-year-olds and construction of the necessary classrooms to accommodate them.

The school system should seek to reduce class sizes — now set at 30 pupils in elementary schools — acquire added modern materials and equipment and expand in-service training programs for teachers, the Committee said.

MAHONEY: THE MAN FOR MARYLAND

George Mahoney Embraces The Entire Maryland Democratic Platform

Some excerpts from the platform adopted by the Maryland State Democratic Convention in Baltimore on October 13. This is the platform of George Mahoney; the one he will seek to enact for Maryland as governor of the state:

"We must improve the quality of our schools, provide rapid transit in our cities, clean up our air and waters, remove our slums, and create better economic opportunities for all."

EDUCATION: State support for kindergartens. Expanded post-high school education with an expanded program of vocational and technical education. Higher education expanded in both quality and quantity. Strong State support for State colleges and community colleges to expand physical plants and improve quality of instruction. Higher teachers salaries.

WELFARE: "We have no intention of providing for malingers, or for others who are able to care for themselves. . . . On the other hand, we recognize our responsibility to provide adequate subsistence for the citizens helpless to provide for themselves—the indigent, aged, young, sick and infirm. We hold that it is the responsibility of society to meet legitimate welfare needs."

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT: Assurance of an adequate and trained labor force to attract new business and industry to the state. Training for the untrained. Retraining for those whose skills have become obsolete, and higher education facilities for continuing education of industrial personnel. A uniform system of taxation. Create an agency of State government charged specifically with responsibility for transportation. Its task would be development of a comprehensive transportation plan for the State.

TAXATION: "We recommend that the present tax system for the State of Maryland be thoroughly reviewed. . . . We recommend the formation of a new committee, jointly formed by the present Governor and the Governor-elect. Its purpose is to be the creation of new legislation to be submitted to the Maryland assembly immediately upon its convening in January. It would deliberate, among other items: the Cooper-Hughes Bill; elimination of subdivision authority to impose local income and earnings taxes; abolition of the state property tax; overhaul of business taxes to achieve internal equity."

LAW AND LAW ENFORCEMENT: Police salaries and fringe benefits have to be raised sharply. Establishment of an independent State Bureau of Intelligence and Investigation. State grants to assist subdivisions which cannot afford to raise police salaries. Bail reform is long overdue.

INDIVIDUAL LIBERTIES: "This Democratic assemblage, in the name of its constituencies, subscribes without stint to the doctrine of equality in the creation of people. We recognize, however, that generations of deprivation, inadequate schooling, restrictive rules and customs, the onrush of automation, the economically forced migrations to our great cities. . . . have prevented some of our citizens from taking advantage of the opportunities that are essential to the realization of equality. All ready and receptive minds are entitled to such educations as their owners desire. All willing hands are entitled to lucrative work. We commend the long steps that have been taken in the elimination of the never-justified racial discrimination in public buildings and in the use of other public facilities. We oppose any form of racism or bigotry."

We hold, however, to the undeniable right of all men and women of all creeds and races to acquire, own, manage, rent, sell or otherwise dispose of private homes without Governmental interference or dictation beyond the laws of zoning and essential health regulations.

We are opposed to any law which takes away the right of the individual home owner to sell or rent his home to whomever he chooses, and we will hold to one of the most basic and respected precepts which we have; that a man's home is his castle, his own, to live in as he chooses—without fear of search or seizure—with whom he chooses, for any reason he chooses.

Dear Fellow Marylander:

You and I have the same opponent in the coming election.

It's not another candidate.

It's the STATE OF THINGS AS THEY ARE.

What is this "state of things as they are"? It's women afraid to walk the streets alone; riots in prisons; high taxes; waste and extravagance in state government; shabby land deals; conflict of interest resignations under fire—and many, many other bad situations which are desperately in need of correction.

And that's the key: correction. I'm not interested in blaming or throwing mud, any more than you are. Instead, I want to correct all these things which plague Maryland. I want to put Maryland on a business basis—because that's what Maryland is—our biggest business—and I'm the ONLY businessman running for Governor.

Are you with me? I'm with YOU.

Sincerely,

George P. Mahoney

Voters Expected To Let George Do It

Maryland's next governor come January is expected to be one of its best known and most successful men—George Perry Mahoney, an outstanding life-long Democrat and Baltimore businessman.

If polls and advance predictions of analysts hold true, on November 8 the Free State's electorate will sweep into office George P. Mahoney and his running mates at the top of the ticket, Francis B. Burch as attorney general and Louis L. Goldstein, as comptroller.

Mahoney's victory will be the culmination of years of trying by Maryland voters to make Mahoney their governor—only to be foiled by the obsolete and now discarded unit system. The first time he ran Mahoney won the popular vote by more than 30,000 votes but lost the primary election because he lacked 1 1/2 unit votes. (The unit vote system was a system party bosses maintained in the state to keep control over elections.)

Mahoney: Man of Action

When Garrett County was cut off from the rest of Maryland by winter snow and blizzards in February, 1955, George P. Mahoney, at his own expense, purchased tons of flour, potatoes, and other necessities, rented trucks, and sent them through to the starving citizens of Garrett County.

When a number of firemen were killed in a tragic accident in 1949, George P. Mahoney persuaded celebrities, sports figures, and other luminaries to offer their services gratis for one of the first telethons in Baltimore. Over $250,000 was raised for the families of these firemen.

At 1 a.m. on the morning of July 7, 1964, George P. Mahoney read a news headline about a ransom demand in the case of a child who had disappeared. He got out of bed, drove to the home of the distraught parents and put up the $20,000 ransom money demanded. When the case was finally resolved, it was largely George P. Mahoney who was responsible for the solution.

No Unit Vote This Year

This year Mahoney was running for the first time without the stifling unit vote, which was declared illegal by the United States Supreme Court. The Mahoney popularity—always formidable in Maryland—this year broke through in the primary election on Sept. 13 and made him the Democratic Party's candidate over a field of rivals which include Attorney General Thomas Finan and Representative Carlton Sickles, in a close race.

It was particularly poignant because Rep. Sickles, who ran a close second, had broken into politics only four years before as a "protege" of George Mahoney. Sickles had successfully run for the nomination for Congressman-at-large on the Mahoney ticket. Mahoney, himself, lost to Gov. J. Millard Tawes. At the time Sickles immediately called for party unity and said:

"I am going to go into every county the way George Mahoney trained me. I am going to work for the entire Democratic Party in every county that will let me in."

"There is room within our Democratic Party for a divergence of ideas and personalities."

Tawes and Finan Support Mahoney

Atty. Gen.—now Judge—Finan warmly endorsed Mahoney as soon as the results of the Sept. 13 primary became official. So did Governor Tawes, who called a press conference. Political experts believe that the gubernatorial election this year may hinge in the Washington bedroom communities of Montgomery and Prince George's County. A heavy vote is anticipated, and a Mahoney triumph is in the cards.

Mahoney's Running Mates:

Louis L. Goldstein

COMPTROLLER

Everyone knows Louis Goldstein as Maryland's comptroller since 1959, this tireless campaigner and efficient public servant is an attorney and a newspaper publisher.

Louis Goldstein is a former member of the Maryland House of Delegates and State Senate. He was vice president of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers. He is owner-publisher of the Calvert Journal-Gazette. He is a member of the Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College.

Francis "Bill" Burch

ATTY. GENERAL

Francis "Bill" Burch has compiled an amazing record as Maryland Insurance Commissioner, discarding obsolete legislation and administering fairly for policy holders and insurance companies alike the laws of the state governing insurance.

Burch graduated from Loyola College and Yale Law School. He was City Solicitor in Baltimore City from 1961 to 1963 when he accepted his present appointment from Governor Tawes. He was chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Mass Transit in 1962. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Campfire Girls and a director of Goodwill Industries, Inc.

Policeman's Son, Sandhog, Engineer, All Parts of the Fabulous Mahoney Story

George P. Mahoney was born in very modest circumstances, the 11th child of a Baltimore City Policeman.

He went to public schools in Baltimore, leaving Baltimore in his late teens to work as a sand hog helping build the tunnels of New York City and studying engineering at night.

He is the owner of a successful contracting and engineering business, which he started and built from scratch.

In the 1940's he was made Chairman of the Maryland State Racing Commission, and proceeded to clean up racing in Maryland. He battled dopsters, gangsters, racketeers and crooked owners, trainers and officials. When he left, Maryland racing was a model for the entire nation.

A Chairman For All Seasons His philanthropic and civic efforts have been outstanding. He has served as Chairman of the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer fund and for the American Cancer Society. In both capacities, he broke all previous records for fund raising. Included in his spectacular efforts was the raising of over $65,000 at a benefit Polo Match!

BABIES, TAKE A BOW!

In the heat of the primary election, George Mahoney was happily upstaged in the public prints by a family event: his daughter, Mrs. Dennis Rossi, presented him with a pair of twin grandsons.

Three guesses as to what one bright newspaper writer named the new bouncing babies in the next editions in honor of their campaigning grandpop: Would you believe "Primary" and "General"?

After his tremendous efforts in behalf of various cancer funds, he lost his wife of over 30 years, Abigail, to the dread disease in 1963. He has two children, George, Jr., a college student, and Mrs. Dennis Rossi.

Fine Fund Raiser

Additionally, Mahoney has raised money for the families of firemen killed in line of duty, and was prominently featured in solving the sad case of Mary Ott in Baltimore.

In 1964 he turned his fund-raising energies to the United Negro College Fund, to which he has been a contributor for many years. He served as chairman of the campaign luncheon. He is also a long-time supporter of the State of Israel and holds a substantial number of Israel bonds in his investment portfolio.

George Has Wide Appeal To Many, Many People Says "Washington Post"

Mahoney supporters are drawn from all walks of life and all economic levels, the Washington Post stated in a profile of the candidate on Oct. 18.

They "range from blue collar factory hands . . . to socialites who ride to the hounds," the Post said in the feature article by-lined by Alan L. Dessoff and Bart Barnes.

"Mahoneyites may be found tonging oysters on the Eastern Shore but more often driving a Baltimore hack, setting hair in a beauty parlor, manning an office switchboard, delivering milk, hawking tout sheets at a race track or punching a cash register."

The Post described George Mahoney as "a gentle, devoted family man."

"In business, Mahoney is an undisputed success—a millionaire at 40 in a career that began when he bought a truck and started hauling gravel. Now he owns a large and prosperous contracting firm.

"But he still can talk easily to his truck drivers and gravel haulers and his employees—he emphasizes that there are Negroes among them—find him to be a good boss.

"He grew up in poverty, but now he inhabits the manor house on a 312-acre estate in the Baltimore County hunt lands, and is an accomplished horseman."

MONTGOMERY COUNTY NEWS

THE ^{GEORGE P.} MAHONEY STORY-ELECTION DAY ISSUE

WIDE RANGE OF SUPPORT — George Mahoney's surge of support among Democrats in Montgomery is typified by this photo. Mrs. Dorothy Cooley of Rockville is a liberal Democrat, who is supporting Mahoney despite disagreement with him on the open occupancy issue. The man in the center is Col. E. Brooke Lee, head of the old Democratic organization in the county. Mrs. Cooley, a Sickles supporter in the primary, feels strongly that it is the responsibility of precinct chairmen to get behind the gubernatorial candidate.

Mahoney Committee in County. All Shades of Opinion Unite On One Subject: "Elect George!"

The purpose of a citizens' committee in politics is to provide a rallying point for all persons who want to offer support for a candidate—regardless of party affiliation.

The Mahoney-Goldstein-Burch Committee of Montgomery County, formed to campaign for the top of the Democratic ticket, is a classic example. It is made up of Republicans, Democrats and Independents of every band in the political rainbow—and consists of liberals, moderates and conservatives in each party.

Chairman of the committee is F. Archie Meatyard, Bethesda lawyer and U.S. Commissioner, a Mahoney supporter since the candidate's first run for governor in 1950. Its headquarters on the second floor of 4641 Montgomery Ave., is a beehive of activity on behalf of the three state-wide candidates.

Loyal Democrats Campaign

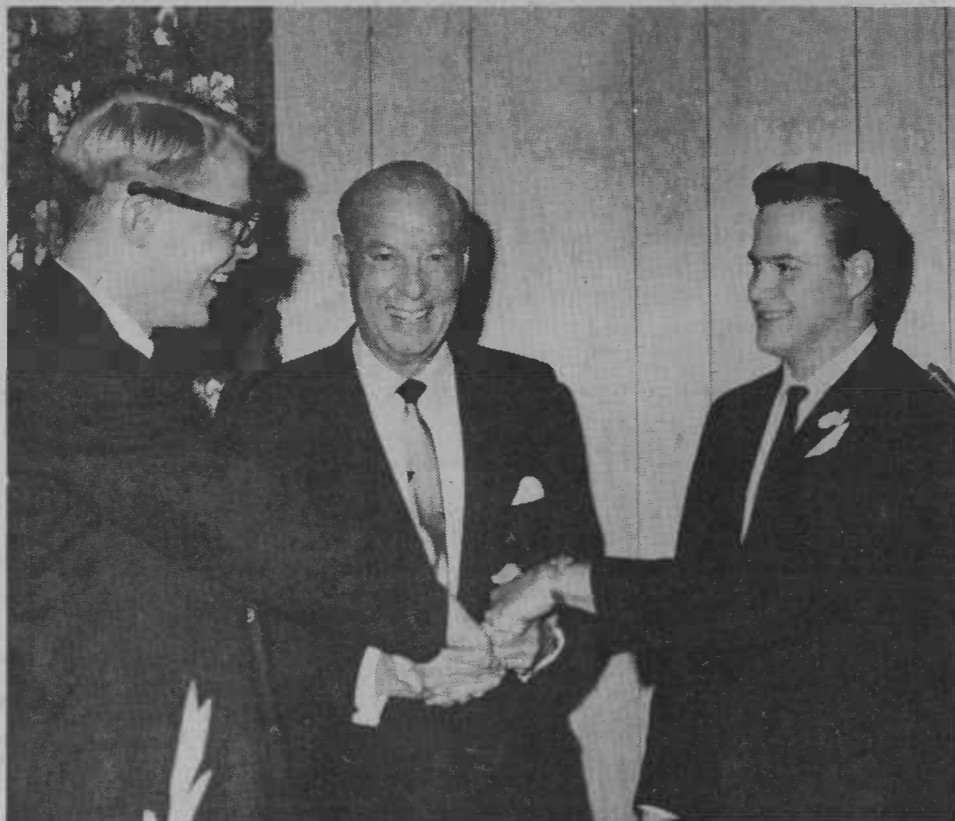

Democrats active in the Mahoney campaign range from E. Brooke Lee, leader of the old organization, to liberal precinct chairman Dorothy Cooley. Mrs. Cooley heads a group of some 20 other liberal precinct chairmen who have expressed their loyalty to the Democratic candidate for governor, though they are not in complete agreement on the platform. At least one-third of the county's Democratic precinct chairmen and vice chairman support Mahoney.

Also prominent in the Mahoney-Goldstein-Burch organization are William B. Wheeler, chairman of Democrats for Responsible Government; Austin Carlin, law partner of Archie Meatyard and another early supporter of Mahoney; Frank L. Hewitt, Jr., prominent county businessman; William Austin of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, and Virginia Black, Montgomery County Recorder of Wills.

Of the 500 political workers attending the opening of Mahoney headquarters at 4641 Montgomery Ave., Bethesda, at least 100 were Republicans.

YOUTH FOR MAHONEY — With a son of his own in college, George Mahoney appreciates the interest being shown in his candidacy by young people in Maryland. An organization called Youth for Mahoney sprung up overnight and is now active in Montgomery County. Here the candidate meets two of the officers, Jim Holford, treasurer, and Robert Morse, chairman.

"A Man's Home Is His Castle" Is A Cornerstone of English Law

The doctrine that "Your Home is Your Castle — Defend Your Home" has been the honorable and brave rallying cry of free men since 1215 when on the fields at Runnymede the barons supported by the English yeomen wrung from King John the Magna Carta.

Through that historic Great Charter, called the cornerstone of free government everywhere, the British gained the first freedom of law and record which has spread to all free peoples of the world. Principal cornerstones of the Magna Carta are: "No freemen can be seized and kept in prison without a fair trial" and "Taxes cannot be decided on by the King alone and collected by force."

For These Rights the English Fought
From these and other rights gained for free Englishmen through the force of arms at Runnymede, the great Sir Edward Coke developed and sustained, with the support of the English people, the great English Common Law.

A cornerstone of the English common law which gave to the yeomen and even to the serf then still attached to the feudal lands the rallying cry of the free that "Your Home is Your Castle — Defend

Your Home".

This Freedom of 850 Years is Still the Law of America

This great essential and hitherto generally accepted doctrine has been both strong and good for 850 years, and it is equally good and strong today. As freedom has increased, why has your importance and the importance of your home decreased?

Why does one great Washington daily paper write an editorial against Mahoney's "shabby castle home"? Is your home shabby? If you regard your home as shabby, it is, of course, not worthwhile to defend your home.

The homes of Montgomery County are not shabby castles. Your home is where your family lives, and your home community is the location you have chosen to raise and develop your children. Your community school is the location you have selected to educate your children. You have worked and saved to build your homes and home communities.

Suburban Montgomery County is the location into which you moved to live, to raise your children, and for a large part of the County residents, to work.

Fund-Raising Dinner Rated "Huge Success"

The Mahoney-Burch-Goldstein campaign got off to a fast start on Oct. 18 when an impressive cross-section of the Montgomery County electorate sat down to a fund-raising dinner at Brooke Manor Country Club. Observers said the attendance, cutting across party lines and viewpoints, indicated that George Mahoney would pile up a substantial vote in the county on Election Day.

Ticket holders and guests at the $250-a-plate dinner were:

As A Suburbanite Mahoney Knows County Problems

As a resident of Baltimore County, on the edge of a great city, George Mahoney easily relates to the comparable problems of Montgomery County bordering Washington.

He understands the concern of suburbanites about taxation, commuting, home ownership, law and order and schools.

Mahoney is strongly in favor of Metropolitan Transit and public ownership of mass transportation, which he feels is the only way to bring order out of the growing chaos of morning and evening rush hours to and from the great cities.

"I'll Appoint More Women Than The Last Three Governors Together"—Mahoney

Already known as a great believer in never underestimating the power of a woman, George Mahoney added to his stature with the fair sex when he told a luncheon of the Montgomery County Women's Club for Mahoney

"Women know how to get things done. They're smart and they're able. I'm going to appoint more women to boards and commissions in Maryland than the last three governors all put together."

There were almost 100 women in attendance at the luncheon organized by Mrs. Alva von Thyrring Kraft of Bethesda in the Women's National Democratic Club in Washington. Among the guests were:

Mrs. Edward A. Palamara, Mrs. Louis Okun, Mrs. P. W. Friedman, Mrs. Andrew J. Thomas, Mrs. Ralph V. Rawley, Mrs. F. Archie Meatyard, Mrs. E. Austin Carlin, Mrs. J. Lloyd Niles, Mrs. Charles W. ON THE TEAM — F. Archie Meatyard, chairman of the Mahoney committee in Montgomery County, left, presents his long-time friend, George Mahoney, to other friends at the Montgomery County dinner in his honor. Len Kardy, State's Attorney in Montgomery, is next to Mahoney. At right is Frank L. Hewitt, Jr., dinner chairman.

If you with your votes do not defend your home, your home community, your community schools, and the present business and living pattern of Montgomery County, no one else will.

George P. Mahoney is the only candidate for Governor who openly and regularly states that he will protect you, your home, your County and Maryland from law-enforced open housing at the State level. Mahoney is the only candidate who promises to make and keep your streets, parks, and homes safe — to strengthen and support the police forces and to maintain law and order throughout Maryland.

In 1966 You, Your Home, Your County, and Your State need George P. Mahoney for Governor of Maryland.

Mahoney Visit Set For Nov. 4

The top of the ticket—George P. Mahoney, Francis "Bill" Burch and Louis L. Goldstein—will campaign in Montgomery County on a whirlwind tour Friday, Nov. 4.

The schedule:
8:30 a.m. Damascus Volunteer Fire Department. Coffee and donuts.

9:30 a.m. King Pontiac, Route 355 near Shady Grave Rd., Gaithersburg.

10:30 a.m. Rockville Civic Center. Coffee and donuts. (Baltimore Rd. and Edmonston Dr.)

Noon: Luncheon, Almas Shrine, Washington, D. C.

Afternoon: Shopping center visits.

Volunteers: Mahoney Needs You!

There's plenty of work for volunteers at 4641 Montgomery Ave., Bethesda, headquarters of the Mahoney-Goldstein-Burch campaign committee.

* * *
If you'd like to show your interest but can't find the time, donations of money would also be useful.

* * *
Types of volunteer work include helping with mailings, telephoning, election day assignments and other stimulating projects that make you a part of the campaign team.

A FEW OF THE THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT GEORGE P. MAHONEY

- When Garrett County was cut off from the rest of Maryland by winter snow and blizzards in February, 1955, George P. Mahoney, at his own expense, purchased tons of flour, potatoes and other necessities, rented trucks, and got them through to the starving citizens of Garrett County.
- When a number of firemen were killed in a tragic accident in 1949, George P. Mahoney persuaded celebrities, sports figures and other luminaries to offer their services gratis for one of the first telethons in Baltimore. Over $250,000 was raised for the families of these firemen.
- George P. Mahoney has been a steady contributor to, and in 1964 was Chairman of the fund-raising luncheon for the United Negro College Fund.
- George P. Mahoney owns a considerable amount of State of Israel bonds. He bought them at various times, without fanfare, and still owns every one he purchased.
- At 1 a.m. on the morning of July 7, 1964, George P. Mahoney read a news headline about a ransom demand in the case of a child who had disappeared. He got out of bed, drove to the home of the distraught parents and put up the $20,000 ransom money demanded. When the case was finally resolved, it was largely George P. Mahoney who was responsible for the solution.
- As Chairman of the American Cancer Society drive in Maryland, and again as Chairman of the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund, George P. Mahoney broke all records for fund raising . . . as well as many other humanitarian activities which affect every segment of the population.

Democrats Attract Overwhelming Support on Basis of Their Record

WALTER H. WOOD

CLINTON MD 20735

Run On Record Of Performance, Not Promises

The Democratic Party is campaigning for re-election to all county offices in Prince Georges County on the basis of its record of performance. That this record of performance and achievement during the past four years has been outstanding will be proved at the polls on November 8 when the Democratic ticket will be overwhelmingly elected.

The accomplishments have been many and varied. On zoning, for example, these things were done for the benefit of the homeowner:

- New and more specific zoning categories adopted to control what is built on rezoned land.
- Filing of rezoning applications limited to twice a year and applications grouped for given areas, thus relieving the burden of taxpayers in fighting rezoning.
- Filing fees raised and withdrawals of zoning applications without prejudice curtailed.
- Better enforcement of building codes adopted, with a new code which has been nationally recognized as a model in its field. A recognized expert has been hired to head up the enforcement office, with a corps of outstanding inspectors under him.

OTHER REFORMS INSTITUTED

Here are some other reforms and improvements in county government, made in response to the 1962 Democratic platform:

- Teacher salaries were raised to the highest level in the area and the school plant was expanded to meet the needs of an increase in the school population of about 12,000 each year. This has been done without interrupting the progress toward quality education.
- A merit system was installed covering about 2,000 of 2,300 employees. This means that politics have been removed from the hiring and firing of your public servants.
- The Prince Georges General Hospital was upgraded and has received national recognition on two occasions.
- The Police Department has been developed into one of the finest in the area. It is now up to its authorized strength and it has a

KEEP PRINCE GEORGES DEMOCRATIC November 8 . . . That is exactly what the voters are going to do. Why? Because the Democratic Administration has clearly demonstrated in the past four years that it keeps its promises, that it will do those things in the best interest of the county which it pledges in a campaign it will do. No one can deny that vast improvements have been made in county Government in the past four years. The Democratic ticket is headed by men and women who are responsible for this outstanding record of performance. Because of this record, and the forward looking platform of the Democratic Party, the people will indeed . . . KEEP PRINCE GEORGES DEMOCRATIC.

The Democrats Look Ahead . . .

Progressive Platform Offered

The Democrats in Prince Georges County are running on an imaginative, forward looking platform which will meet the needs of the county in the years ahead. Excerpted below are some of the more significant sections of the platform:

EDUCATION

Prince Georges County can well be proud of developments in the field of education. We must continue to progress, in the face of rapidly increasing population which makes it difficult even to maintain the status quo. Such progress requires imaginative leadership. We pledge such leadership.

—We must purchase land ahead of need for school construction, to obtain it most economically.

—We support legislation to insure competitive bidding in all school construction.

—Over 70% of the county budget is spent on our system of public education. Over $11 million is now being spent on debt service for school construction. We must be sure our citizens get their money's worth from these expensive facilities the year around. We pledge to obtain maximum use of these and other public buildings through cooperation with other departments such as Recreation, and with citizen groups who request use of the buildings. Special concern must be directed toward providing for student after-hour activities. We will try to make our schools function as community centers.

—We will support state and local programs designed to attract and keep qualified teachers.

PLANNING AND ZONING

The most valuable natural resource of Prince Georges County is its land. Only meaningful planning can permit achievement of the County's long range goals, with proper accommodation of the needs of all segments of the business and residential communities. On planning, we will:

—Urge that the zoning ordinance be amended to implement preservation of the open space and green wedge concepts by inclusion of a large-lot classification and extension of the scenic easement concept, as well as imaginative approaches to necessary high density development.

—Accelerate parkland acquisition and development.

—Encourage citizen participation in the planning process. Future area master plans should be a product of coordinated efforts by the planning agency, the District Council and the citizens of the community. Such master plans should include not only long range land use determination, but also meaningful interim plans which will indicate a reasonable rate of development in the transition from existing land use to ultimate land use.

—To protect the authority of the municipalities, require an extraordinary majority of the District Council to over-ride a recommendation of a municipality regarding requested zoning amendments within its boundaries.

The planning function can best be implemented when the District Council, which has final responsibility for planning and for the enforcement of plans, also has the necessary authority and control over all forces related to planning. Accordingly, we recommend:

—Re-examine the old and new patchwork Regional District Act, overhaul its mechanism or devise a more adequate planning structure for Prince George's County alone.

—Responsibility for appointments

Outstanding Commissioner Slate

Incumbents Head Ticket For Key Posts

The Democratic list of candidates for county commissioners is composed of men and women who are thoroughly familiar with the needs of the county and what must be done to keep the county moving forward. They include three incumbent members of the board:

Jesse S. Baggett of Hyattsville, presently serving as Chairman. He is completing his third four-year term on the board.

M. Bayne Brooke of Oxon Hill, vice chairman, who is serving his second term.

Mrs. Gladys N. Spellman of Cheverly, who has served one term.

These three incumbent members have taken the lead in instituting reforms which have lifted Prince George's into first place among area governments.

Seeking election with them are: Francis J. (Frank) Aluisi of District Heights, a consulting engineer and contractor who is thoroughly familiar with problems of the county.

Francis B. (Frank) Francois, of Bowie-Belair, who is completing a four-year term as chief judge of the Orphans Court.

Election of this Democratic team will insure that progress made in recent years will be continued and expanded.

Reelection of Two Judges Recommended By Bar Association

Circuit Court Judges Robert B. Mathias of Mt. Rainier and Samuel W. H. Meloy of Upper Marlboro, who are seeking election to a full 12 year term, have won the unanimous endorsement of the Prince George's County Bar Association.

In a resolution of endorsement, the Bar Association said "Judge Mathias and Judge Meloy have, in their active service on the bench, demonstrated ability, learning, industry, harmony, impartiality and temperatment fully in keeping with the requirements of their high judicial offices."

Pointing out that "it is desirable that competent sitting judges be retained in office" the Bar Association resolution stated that "they are hereby endorsed and recommended to the people of Prince Georges county as the only qualified candidates for reelection as Judge of the Seventh Judicial Circuit of Maryland."

The Democratic Party of Prince Georges County is happy to add its endorsement for the election of these outstanding judicial candidates.

CHARLES E. CALLOW, of Cheverly, seeking reelection as treasurer, has compiled an outstanding record which has won him many commendations. A certified public accountant he has modernized tax collection procedures by introducing automatic data processing methods and equipment. He has also taken advantage of new authority voted by his fellow Democrats in the General Assembly to invest idle county funds in such a manner as to bring significant financial return to the taxpayers.

Candidates For Register of Wills, Orphans Court

Democrats are proud of their candidates for register of wills and judges of the orphans court.

MRS. GENELLA MCGINNIS of Seat Pleasant is running for register of wills. Mrs. McGinnis is completing a term as judge of the Orphans Court. This experience has ideally equipped her to meet the demands of this important full-time office. Mrs. McGinnis is completing her third consecutive term as councilwoman in Seat Pleasant. Her activities have encompassed a broad cross section of county life.

Three outstanding county residents are seeking election as Judges of the Orphans Court. They are:

FRANK M. KRATOVIL, 33, of Lanham, a former associate county attorney who is regarded as one of the ablest young attorneys in the county. He served for five years as parole officer for the county before being appointed to the county legal position. He is a member of the Legal Aid Bureau and is active in the Beltsville Democratic Club. Mr. Kratovil is a graduate of the University of Maryland Law School.

MRS. MARY O'HARE of Hyattsville is the widow of Judge George O'Hare, one of the county's most respected attorneys. She is a former school teacher who is currently working with the Legal Aid Society and the Lawyers' Referral Service. Mrs. O'Hare is president of St. Jerome's Ladies of Charity and she has long been active in many religious and charitable groups.

MRS. KATHLEEN SHOAP of District Heights is completing a four year term as judge of the Orphans Court. She and her two colleagues, Francis B. Francois and Mrs. Genella McGinnis, who are seeking other positions on the Democratic Slate, have won wide praise for improvements they made in the court's services to lawyers and others using it.

Kersey Seeks to Streamline Sheriff's Office In County

WILLIAM J. KERSEY, 35, of Hyattsville, candidate for sheriff, is a former deputy sheriff and the operator of a private investigating firm. He is running on the platform of strengthening and streamlining the sheriff's office, to make it a better instrument to serve the courts and the people. He has proposed the creation of a Junior Deputy Corps, to enlist juveniles in constructive work that will keep them out of trouble and interest them in activities which will equip them to become better citizens. Mr. Kersey, young and dynamic, has long been active in the Jaycees and has devoted many hours to volunteer work in behalf of worthy causes.

The County Commissioners have authorized a $6.5 million improvement program for the county's General Hospital, with work to get underway soon.

- Centralized purchasing was installed, resulting in savings of about $500,000 for the county, municipalities and other agencies which buy through this one office.
- Recognized experts were hired for key county positions, thus assuring the taxpayers of maximum return for their tax dollar.
- A scenic easement ordinance was adopted—the first by any county—under which open spaces can be preserved at a minimum cost.

This is just part of the record of positive achievements of the Democratic Administration in Prince Georges County. The people approve of this record. They will keep Prince Georges Democratic on November 8.

Democrats' State-Wide Ticket

Mahoney Slate Includes Burch And Goldstein

George P. Mahoney, Baltimore County contractor, heads the state-wide Democratic slate as a candidate for governor.

His running mates are Francis B. Burch of Baltimore, candidate for attorney general; and Louis L. Goldstein, of Calvert County, candidate for state comptroller.

Tireless Campaigner

Mr. Mahoney, one of the most indefatigable campaigners the state has ever known, is conducting an aggressive campaign throughout the state, discussing a platform which calls for improved education at all levels, better law enforcement, a top level study of the state's tax structure with the objective of a complete overhaul, and other progressive and forward looking proposals.

Mr. Mahoney is a successful contractor, a self made man who rose to the top by dint of hard work. He is generally credited with completely reforming the state's racing commission and restoring confidence of breeders and trainers in Maryland's tracks.

FRANCIS B. BURCH

Currently Maryland's Insurance Commissioner, Mr. Burch has received national publicity for overhauling archaic insurance regulations to provide safeguards for policyholders. He rejected the companies' proposed 23.9% raise in insurance rates, and reduced Blue Cross and Blue Shield rates for group policyholders. He insisted on the insolvency fund to take care of accident victims left unprotected by insolvent companies.

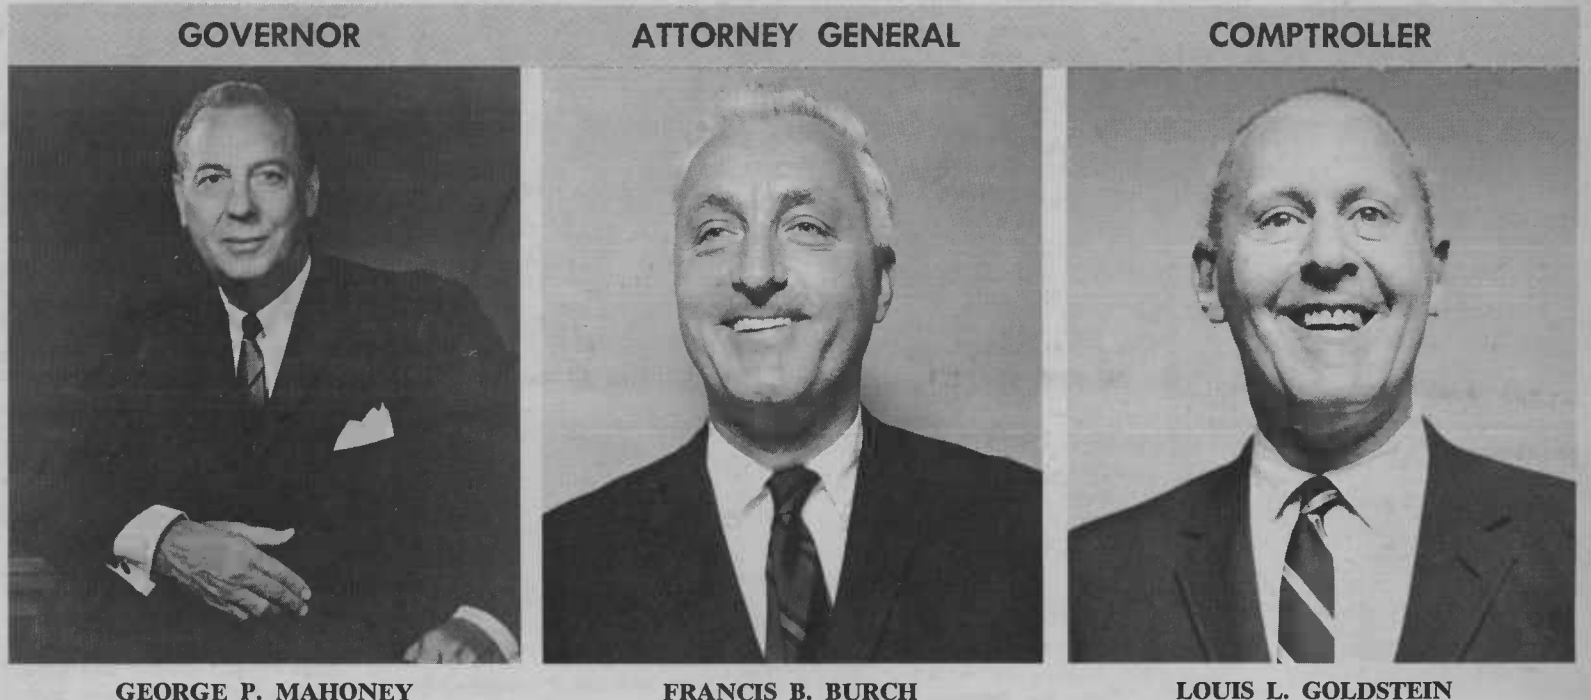

A graduate of Yale Law School, Mr. Burch was City Solicitor of Baltimore from 1961-63, and served on Baltimore's Pension Study Committee in '62.

Serving Maryland in public office since 1938 and Comptroller since 1959, Mr. Goldstein has won a deserved reputation as one of the most able and dedicated public officials in the State. Briefly, Mr. Goldstein is a graduate of the University of Maryland Law School, was in the House of Delegates from 1938-42, the State Senate from 1946-58.

He has saved Maryland taxpayers $2,000,000 collected in interests on State bank deposits; vigorously opposed and was instrumental in defeating the 1% increase in State Income Tax; and the list of Louis Goldstein's services to the people of Maryland goes on and on.

In the 1965-66 school year 107,580 pupils were enrolled in the county's schools, with 5,100 teachers and principals. Enrollment increased by about 12,000 at the beginning of the current year.

State's Attorney Marshall Running On His Record

State's Attorney Arthur A. Marshall Jr., is running for re-election on his record. He has established as his goal for the next four years greater protection under the law for all citizens of Prince George's County.

Elected to office in 1962, he moved quickly to stamp out illegal pinball gambling in the County and to end the notorious practice of ticket-fixing. Then he set about expanding and upgrading the staff of his important office to meet the requirements of a rising criminal caseload in the nation's fastest-growing County.

Four years ago, the County had no full-time prosecutors. Today, thanks to Marshall's aggressive leadership, there are five full-time prosecutors and four part-time legal assistants in the State's Attorney's Office.

Marshall also demanded and got a law controlling the sale of deadly weapons in the County and helped to win tighter controls over drug use here. He has worked closely and harmoniously with the County police and both he and his aides participate in police training programs.

Marshall is campaigning on a platform which calls for stronger industrial safety codes in Prince Georges County and revision of the state's archaic insanity laws. He has also called for higher standards in driver licensing.

Machen Gains Support

Fifth District Congressman Hervey G. Machen has compiled an outstanding record as a freshman member of the House of Representatives. In his first two years in Congress, he has become a recognized leader in the fight to conserve and protect our natural resources.

When a member of the Maryland House of Delegates, Mr. Machen first became interested in cleaning up the Potomac River and making it once more a natural playground for the residents of this area. He believed then, and he believes now, that pollution must be stopped and cleaned up so the river's full recreational potential can be realized.

Mr. Machen likewise early interested himself in preserving a green strip along the Patuxent River for the benefit of all the people. He can take much of the credit for the progress which has been made to date in maintaining this open space for public use.

Congressman Lauded For His Record

Congressman Machen

Mr. Machen has spearheaded the drive to acquire land for the Piscataway Park on the shores of the Potomac in Maryland. He has fought hard against what at times has appeared to be overwhelming odds to complete the George Washington Parkway to Fort Washington.

In addition to taking a lead in the fight for the conservation of this area's vital natural resources, Congressman Machen has also compiled a record of consistent support of all legislation in the interests of the people of this county. He has voted for a reduced income tax to stimulate business; he has voted for protection for the working man; and, as a member of the Armed Services Committee of the House, he has helped get through the Congress legislation to insure that our armed forces in Vietnam would have the equipment and material needed to get this nasty but necessary job over with as soon as possible.

to bi-county agencies, or to single-county planning agencies if a change in legislation should be made, must rest with the District Council.

—Construction follows available water and sewer facilities. Greater voice in water and sewer planning should be given the Park and Planning Commission. The District Council must hold final power to approve or disapprove five-year plans proposed by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

—Likewise, we believe the District Council must have final authority over placement of sewer trunk lines, to insure that such placement conforms to plans for county development.

TAXATION AND FINANCE

County and municipal real estate taxes are fast reaching a point at which they must be levelled off. We must maintain a healthy economic climate, so that our tax revenues may keep pace with our need for expanded services. Such economic development, with an attendant increased assessable base, must be consistent with good imaginative planning and zoning practices.

At the state and local levels sales, income and property taxes which bear most heavily on moderate and low income families are the major revenue sources. In the years ahead county wage and salary earners must expect to continue to provide the greatest part of our tax revenue as the county needs for public service inevitably continue to rise. But they have the right to urge that the overall tax burden be more fairly shared, if public confidence in the county tax structure is to be preserved. The relative burden imposed on county moderate and low income families should be reduced. Unjustifiable loopholes which now shelter those who pay too little should be closed.

CONSUMER PROTECTION

We pledge to support all legislation that will aid and protect the consumer and particularly to work for the passage of legislation providing for:

- A Consumer Protection Office.
- Regulation of second mortgage transactions.
- Limitation and regulation of credit account charges.
- Disclosure of actual interest rates.
- Truth in packaging and labeling.
- Elimination of State support for fixed high prices in retail sales.

The Democratic County Government has authorized a five-year, $20 million road improvement program which is now in its second year.

During the 1966-67 school year, 11 new elementary schools and additions to 21 elementary schools and seven secondary schools will be completed, making 477 additional classrooms available.

The county provides free vaccination against rabies for dogs in the county. A record breaking 29,361 dogs received the shots this year.

Larry Hogan

Reckless Representation Costs $$$

"The cost of living is at an all-time high. The value of the dollar is shrinking so fast, the housewife no longer knows how much money she'll need to buy groceries for her family. In terms of the 1939 dollar, today's dollar is worth 44 cents. During the past five years, inflation has cost the average U.S. family $423 per year in purchasing power.

"When the price of steel went up $2.50 per ton, the President raised the roof - and perhaps he should have - but when the cost of bacon went up $500 per ton and when the cost of pork went up $1,100 per ton, we didn't hear a word from the White House.

And what has the Administration done about the houses which remain unsold from coast to coast because mortgage money has been dried up? What's going to happen to the workers who build those houses or who work for building supply firms and other industries dependent on the construction industry? The number of new homes started has declined for the past several months and has reached the level it was at just before our last recession. LBJ has no solution to the problems of inflation.

"The chief cause of inflation is runaway government spending which LBJ and his rubber-stamp

Hogan Seeks Zoning Probe

Larry Hogan, GOP congressional candidate from Maryland's Fifth District has called for a federal investigation of zoning scandals in Prince Georges County "to ferret out any wrong doing by corrupt public officials, to remove the cloud of suspicion from honest officials and to clear the good name of Prince Georges County."

Hogan said that the alleged violations are similar to those on which several indictments were recently returned by the federal grand jury sitting in Northern Virginia.

"The charges are so serious," he said, "they warrant a thorough investigation however. If the information which has come to my attention is true, there have been outrageous breaches of the public trust."

Congress have foisted on our economy. It is not the war in Viet Nam which has caused inflation, but LBJ's attempt to provide 'guns and butter' for everyone at home and abroad. He has already indicated he will seek a tax increase (after the elections), and if you return my opponent to office he will vote for this tax increase just as he has voted for virtually everything else LBJ wanted.

"In spite of the fact that our economy is in serious trouble, an analysis of 12 Great Society programs shows that expenditures for these programs increased 258 per cent since 1964."

A new, constructive line of thinking has been introduced by Larry Hogan, Congressional candidate for the 5th District on the major issues facing the voters this year.

Larry has labeled as ineffective, dangerous and degrading his opponent's philosophy that Uncle Sam can cure all with increased spending of the voters' tax money.

"LBJ and his rubber-stamp Congressmen", Mr. Hogan charged, "have spent the country into a state of chaos" He added, "violence has erupted in cities through the country..unskilled workers have been reduced to handout recipients and inflation has robbed each household of several hundreds of dollars in recent months."

Mr. Hogan believes each American should enjoy all the rights guaranteed by the Constitution. "But with civil rights we cannot approve civil wrongs," he adds. Mr. Hogan's views on the issues of this campaign are as follows:

CIVIL RIGHTS

"I believe in civil rights, but I am opposed to civil wrongs, no matter who commits them. I do not believe you can give rights to one group by taking them away from another.

"I am opposed to the open occupancy section of the proposed civil rights law on constitutional grounds.

"I agree that 'a man's home is his castle', but we must not build a moat around our hearts to deny equality to any group or race. We must build drawbridges of understanding and mutual respect to help Negroes to achieve the equality to which they are entitled.

"The Negro HAS been oppressed and mistreated for over a hundred years and our national conscience should be guilty over this fact, but we can't lose our national sanity and sacrifice the rights of the majority to give special rights to a minority. We must help the Negro to help himself to achieve equality. He must recognize that rights carry with them responsibilities and that each person is expected to make a contribution to society, as well as receive benefits from it. If the Negro wants justice done to him, he must be just. If he wants his rights respected, he must respect the rights of others.

"We are making the same mistake today with the Negro which we made with the American Indian. Because our national conscience was guilty over the mistreatment and injustices done to the Indian, we created for him a life built on the white man's handouts. By trying to do everything FOR him, we did a great deal TO him. Not only did we steal the Indian's land and kill his herds, but we robbed him of things more precious -- his self-reliance, his self-pride, and his initiative -- by taking from him the necessity to earn his own livelihood. We are now in the process of doing the same thing to the American Negro. Hasn't the Negro suffered enough because of the white man's ignorance?"

LAW AND ORDER

"I am deeply troubled by the violence which tears the fabric of law and order in so many of our cities. Irresponsible Negro leaders, doing irreparable harm to the advancement of civil rights, scream that, unless their demands are met, our cities will 'Burn, Baby, Burn!' and white hoodlums, equally irresponsible, goad civil rights demonstrators and putrify the air with their hatred, as extremists on both sides thirst for an excuse to commit violence. Everywhere throughout the land laws, the very fibers which hold a civilized society together, are disregarded and the police who are dedicated to enforcing these laws are abused and hamstrung and treated as if they were our enemies instead of our protectors. We are reaching a sad state in this country when men feel justified in choosing between the laws they wish to obey and those they wish to disobey. Everyone has the right to try to change the laws through the prescribed legislative process, but until the law is changed it must be obeyed by all citizens.

"Our police must have adequate pay and other incentives, of course, but more importantly, they must be given the tools to do their jobs, and treated with the respect they deserve for risking their lives to protect ours. "Government leaders do a disservice to all citizens when they fail to vigorously enforce all breaches of law."

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

"Establishing quotas to require a certain percentage of Negroes on the supervisory staff of federal agencies is in itself racial discrimination. I believe in equal employment opportunity, but promoting a person to a supervisory position because he is a Negro is just as wrong as DENYING him the promotion because he is a Negro. This discriminates against qualified white workers who are being passed over for the promotion.

"I am also strongly opposed to the proposal that qualifications for federal government be lowered so that more Negroes can qualify. One of the most serious problems confronting our Nation today is the wasteful inefficiency in the federal government which fans the flames of inflation. The taxpayers are entitled to have qualified people handling their affairs in the federal service. Lowering requirements is incompatible with efficient administration. Race should be totally irrelevant in employment considerations. The person's ability to perform the work involved should be the chief criterion for hiring or promoting.

"I am strongly opposed to the use of pressure tactics to urge federal workers to participate in charitable fund drives, to make political contributions, or to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Such participation should be 'VOLUNTARY' in the broadest sense of the word's meaning.

"I believe that payments being received by retired federal workers should be geared automatically to the Consumer Price Index to enable them to keep pace with the cost of living. They should receive back during their retirement years dollars of equal value to those they invested into the retirement system during their working years."

It's YOUR Government!

Representative form of government is in jeopardy. Our central government was established in separate branches, one to check on the other. These lines are now blurred.

The overwhelming majority now held by the party in power erodes the very foundation of our two - party form of government. The Democratic Party controls the White House, and the vast federal bureaucracy, holds a two - thirds majority in both houses of Congress, has appointed a majority of those sitting on the U. S. Supreme Court and controls more than 60 per cent of the country's governorships and state legislatures. Such overwhelming power in the hands of one party is dangerous. I would feel the same way if this great stifling power were in the hands of Republicans.

My opponent has voted on virtually every issue the way the President wanted him to vote, apparently, without concern for the views of those who elected him to office.

The 'consensus' President Johnson speaks of so often, really means to him, 'no dissent. We NEED dissent. Dissent was the anvil on which our founding fathers hammered out our great constitution. And throughout our history dissent has kept our progress on course and has kept power and ambition in check. And dissent has kept open in the halls of the federal government a forum where your views can be heard.

One of the chief functions of Congress is to investigate. Through its investigative committees, Congress is supposed to ferret out abuses, wrong doing, problems and situations which need legislation to remedy them. But during the current Congress, investigations have come to a halt. Celebrated cases (such as that involving LBJ - protege Bobby Baker) with potential embarrassment to the party in power were shelved.

If the greatest form of government conceived in the history of the world is to be preserved, we must have two strong political parties to give the voters a meaningful choice at election time.

We need responsible opposition to protect individual rights and liberties, to expose corruption and incompetence, to present constructive criticism and alternative solutions to the problems of government, to improve proposed legislation, to permit the people to fix credit or blame for government policies on the party in power.

When I announced my candidacy for Congress some people scoffed and said, 'Don't you know that the people of the Fifth District only vote for Democrats, no matter who happens to be running?'

I don't believe this. I don't believe that thinking Democrats will kowtow to the dictates from their party bosses when their better judgment tells them that they are being offered more ineptness, political stagnation, and lackluster leadership.

To win, I must have votes from Democrats since Democrats outnumber Republicans 3 to 1. Among my workers, Democrats outnumber Republicans 4 to 1.

John F. Kennedy, whose loyalty as a good Democrat no one can question, once said, "Party loyalty sometimes demands too much." Clearly, in the 5th district congressional race, party loyalty demands too much from Democrats.

I hope you will give me your vote on Nov 8.

Larry Hogan

Machen A Man Without Convictions

Incumbent Congressman Hervey G. Machen has demonstrated during his political career that he has no convictions of his own. He changes his positions with the prevailing political winds.

While serving in the House of Delegates, he was aligned with the "Old Guard" of the Democratic Party and voted as a conservative. In Congress he has worn the LBJ brand and voted as a liberal.

In the primary campaign of 1966, he ran on the Carlton Sickles slate. When Carlton Sickles was defeated, he double-crossed Sickles and threw his support to an "Old Guard" man for the chairmanship of the Democratic State Central Committee, by-passing the man preferred by the Sickles people.

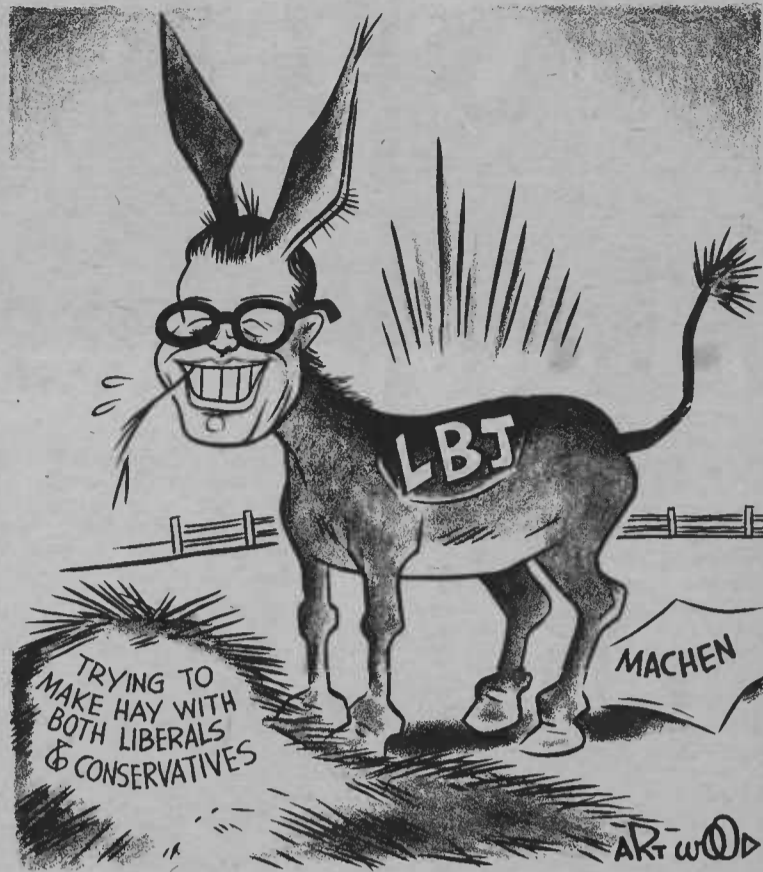

When the Sickles Slate was meeting to hammer out its campaign platform, Machen pleaded with his fellow candidates for inclusion of the strongest possible open occupancy clause, such a clause was in fact adopted.

Shortly thereafter, when he sensed opposition of the voters to the open occupancy provision, Machen announced that he was opposed to the open occupancy section of the Civil Rights Bill and, in fact, voted against it. It apparently didn't bother his conscience a bit that he had been the one who convinced the Sickles slate to include the open occupancy plank in its platform.

GOP candidate Larry Hogan has asked his opponent, "How can a man with principles justify supporting Carlton Sickles one day and George Mahoney the next?"

Hogan added, "I can respect a man who disagrees with me on principles, but I can't respect a man who has no principles. The only consistent thing about my opponent is his inconsistency," Hogan said.

A BRANDED DONKEY ON THE JOHNSON RANCH!

What Newspapers Are Saying

"Prince George's Republicans are jubilantly predicting that the confusion on the top of the state Democratic ticket will give them their best chance in years to win the Fifth District congressional seat.

"This year, with George P. Mahoney the gubernatorial nominee, the Democrats are badly split and some have indicated they will support the Republican candidate..." (Washington Post, September 25, 1966).

"A vote for Mr. Hogan is a vote for a new breed of young Republicans who hope to make Prince George's a two-party county. Bravo! (Washington Daily News, September 12, 1966).

"Hogan is anxious to debate the incumbent, and he has challenged Machen to several joint appearances. Machen, usually ready to debate all comers, has shied away." (Washington Post, September 26, 1966).

Democrats For Hogan Formed

A "Democrats for Hogan" organization has been formed by Democrats in Maryland's Fifth Congressional District.

"We are convinced that Larry Hogan is more responsive to the needs of Fifth District voters than the present incumbent," the group said in a formal statement. "Because we cherish political beliefs about party labels, we are going to work actively to elect Larry Hogan to Congress."

Chairman of "Democrats for Hogan" is Dr. Carter R. Bryan, professor and acting head of the School of Journalism at the University of Maryland. A lifelong Democrat and 26-year resident of Prince George's County, Dr. Bryan headed the "Committee of Educators" for Lyndon Johnson for President in 1960.

Executive Director of the new organization is Donald L. Boyd, president of the D. L. Boyd, Inc. contracting firm in Hyattsville. A registered Democrat and resident of Rogers Heights, Mr. Boyd supported John F. Kennedy for President in 1960.

The Assistant Director of "Democrats for Hogan" is Robert Edelen, an employee of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and a resident of Hyattsville. The campaign coordinator is Mrs. Mariann Anton, housewife, Democratic member of the Bowie City Planning Board, and coordinator of William Hunter's campaign in the Democratic primary. Marcia Merritt, an Adelphi resident, will serve as secretary, while Mary C. Murphy of Hyattsville will be treasurer.

"The first order of business for Democrats for Hogan," said Chairman Bryan, will be to swell

Hogan Hits Opponent

Larry Hogan has criticized his incumbent opponent of being an "ineffectual, rubber-stamp occupant whose sole term in Congress has produced nothing of benefit to the nation nor to Maryland's Fifth District."

"Hervey Machen," said Hogan, "introduced no bills of consequence and contributed no creative policy statements during his term. As 23rd ranking Democrat of the House Armed Services Committee, he produced little of value to his constituents."

"The incumbent Congressman," said the GOP candidate, "will probably be best known for his down-the-line endorsement for nearly every measure sought by Lyndon Johnson and the White House lobby. The only trouble is that the bills he rubber stamped were the wrong ones to bring home to his Fifth District constituency."

Hogan pointed out that his opponent ranks high among ultra-liberal legislators. The Americans for Constitutional Action, for example, lists the incumbent Congressman as voting only 4% of the time for bills advocating "sound money policies." According to House roll call votes, he supported bills favoring a private competitive market only 10% of the time, voted for issues favoring individual liberty 13% of the time and voted for national sovereignty on 17% of the roll calls dealing with that subject. On votes favoring private ownership over public

HOW DO YOU STAND?

Many Americans go to the polls and cast their ballots year after year for the same party without really asking themselves why. And yet, it is the man and the issues which really determine how a congressional district is represented.

Is YOUR vote based on the candidate and the issues? Here's a chance grade your vote in relation to Larry Hogan. Simply indicate by a YES or NO whether you agree with the 9 statements made below:

- | | YES | NO |
|--|-----|----|
| 1. Congress and the Executive Branch should strive vigorously to maintain a balanced budget from year to year? | | |
| 2. Congress, has been increasingly eclipsed by an ever-growing, domineering Executive Branch? | | |
| 3. One of the chief causes of inflation today is an escalation of spending for nonessential federal give-away programs. This should be curbed at once? | | |
| 4. America's policy in Viet Nam must be pursued with full support of our fighting men while at the same time pursuing every avenue to an honorable peace? | | |
| 5. Every American should be free to rent or sell his property to the party of his choice. Anything less would be a denial of his constitutional rights? | | |
| 6. Social Security recipients should be able to earn as much as possible from gainful employment without being made to give up part of their rightful pension benefits? | | |
| 7. Does Metropolitan Washington desperately need a balanced transportation system which includes rapid rail transit, freeways and adequate bus service? | | |
| 8. A proposal by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to "bus" school children across state and county lines to federally-created "educational parks" should be opposed vigorously? | | |
| 9. The federal government should thoroughly investigate national welfare programs and strive to restore individual initiative? | | |

Where does Larry Hogan stand? It's simple. Hogan votes a clear-cut YES for all 9 of the questions listed above. The next step is to match your own answers with Hogan's.

Should YOU vote for Larry Hogan? Let your conscience (and your ballot's score) be your guide! Not your party bosses!

ownership he scored 0%. He also failed on a single occasion to vote for a measure favoring local and state government over federal control. The national associated Business Scored Machen 0% on economy votes. The AFL-CIO's COPE, gave him a rating of 100% indicating he always votes the labor line.

Hogan singled out several individual issues where his incumbent opponent will have to answer to Fifth District voters for his performance. Hogan's opponent has not raised a finger to help combat the rising cost of living inflation. He has been totally indifferent to the plight of retirees and other who live on fixed incomes, and who must watch helplessly while their real purchasing power is eroded. If the incumbent has any plans or creative ideas for combating inflation, he has not revealed them.

The incumbent is a full-fledged member of the "spendthrift bloc" which now controls Congress. Not only has he gone down the line for every single LBJ money bill, but he has on at least six occasions gone on record to vote for more than the Budget Bureau requested.

The Fifth District incumbent has voted for interest rates which are both unduly high and discriminatory. Today small investors are paid 4.16% for investing in U.S. government bonds. Yet, last June the incumbent joined a bare majority in Congress who voted a special high interest rate of 5-3/4% for big investors who buy large chunks (blocks of $5,000 or more) of debt obligations held by the government. It is small taxpayers who will bear the burden of paying this 5-3/4% to wealthy investors.

Not only has he voted for big spending and high interest rates, Hogan's opponent helped whack away at the foundation of American monetary policy. On February 9, 1965, he voted for a bill to eliminate the requirement that each Federal Reserve bank maintain gold deposits of not less than 25% of the amount of its deposit liabilities. This was a vote to chisel away at a cornerstone of our banking system.

The present Representative demonstrated his indifference to future generations by voting twice to raise the national debt, the amount of money our children will owe on the money we spend today. On June 9, 1965, he voted to push the national debt to a record $328 billion. A year later he helped America set a new debtor's record when he signed an I.O.U. for $330 billion. The incumbent's consistent support of more power centralization in Washington was illustrated by his vote on July 22, 1965, against allowing a governor to veto a federal antipoverty project in his own state.

Hogan's opponent has gone down the line for the Johnson Administration in backing repeal of state "right to work" laws. He is on record as believing that in a unionized plant, a worker must support that union before he may have the right to employment.

The incumbent has supported the most ultra-liberal of proposals in the debate over how the District of Columbia should be governed.

Hogan's opponent has an inconsistent, perplexing record on civil rights. As a member of Congress, he voted not only against "open occupancy," but against other provisions of the 1966 Civil Rights bill dealing with voting rights and jury selection. Then in a puzzling move, he swung solidly behind the gubernatorial candidacy of Carlton Sickles - a staunch advocate of liberal civil rights legislation. When Sickles was defeated he swung his support to George Mahoney who campaigned on an anti-civil rights platform. "The only thing consistent about my opponent," Hogan said, "is his inconsistency."

Issues

needs a balanced transportation system which includes rapid, rail transit, freeways, and adequate bus service. No one phase of the program alone can solve our transportation problems. All systems must complement each other. The bitter controversy between advocates of various modes of transportation which has plagued Washington's transportation situation for so many years is deplorable. We all suffer because of it.

"I would vigorously support legislation to create a Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, an interstate compact to regulate the rapid, rail transit system. (The compact has been approved by the Maryland and Virginia Compact, but has been opposed by the D.C. Democratic Central Committee.) The longer we wait, the more difficult it becomes to solve our transportation problems."

EDUCATION

"America's greatest natural resource is our youth. We must do everything possible to encourage our young people to pursue as much education as they are capable of pursuing. Our schools and colleges face tremendous burdens caused by increased population, and the resources of the federal, state, and local governments should all be utilized to help solve the problems of education. It is imperative, however, that control of education be maintained at the local level.

"If tax resources are made available to state and local governments which are now within the province of the federal government, federal aid to education would be unnecessary.

"I am opposed to bussing children from one area to another just to achieve racial integration. This is discrimination in reverse.

"I support giving a tax deduction to persons for training or education to improve their occupational skills. The deduction would apply when the person pursued such education or training to enter a new field of employment, acquire a new specialty or occupational skill, to qualify for a new position, or to obtain a promotion or to retain his present status.

"I favor federal aid to impacted areas because the federal government has thrust upon these localities an unfair burden and should help defray the costs assumed by local jurisdictions."

SOCIAL SECURITY

"I favor amending the Social Security Act to provide for cost-of-living increases in benefits. Inflation and its attendant rising costs of living strike hardest at those on fixed incomes such as Social Security recipients. For those in active employment wage increases usually help them to keep pace with rising costs, but some mechanism is needed to help those in retirement. I would introduce legislation to authorize the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to scale Social Security payments to the cost of living. At the beginning of each quarter, HEW would determine the extent to which the Consumer Price Index in the previous calendar was higher than for the previous quarter. The benefits paid would then be automatically increased by that percentage. The Social Security checks which these people receive from the government should have as much purchasing power as the dollars which they contributed to the system while they were working.

"Social Security recipients should also be allowed to work as much as they wish without losing any of their pensions. This restrictive regulation is a relic from the 30's when Congress wanted to keep as many workers out of the labor force as possible in order to spread the available work. In today's economy, this is unfair and unsound. Many older people possess experience and skills which are critically short in today's full-employment economy. Those who wish to work should not be penalized for contributing their skills to the Nation's well being. In addition, this would help the retired person to keep pace with inflation."

MEET LARRY HOGAN

Larry Hogan is a man of many accomplishments.

- * Attorney at Law
- * Owner of successful Public Relations - Advertising firm.
- * Manager of trade associations.
- * University of Maryland teacher.

- * Author
- * A.B., LL.B. and M.A. Degrees.
- * Former FBI Agent.

Larry Hogan is not a professional politician. He is a knowledgeable citizen concerned about the unhealthy political atmosphere in the Fifth District. He brings to the thinking voters the opportunity to throw off political bossism for responsible public officers.

Larry attended Gonzago High School. After high school, he enrolled in Georgetown University on a scholarship, using a part-time job as assistant director of publicity to help pay his way. In his sophomore year, he married Nora Maguire. As other college newlyweds have discovered, you can't run a full-fledged household on a part-time salary. So Larry left his job at the University to take a full-time position with the FBI. He followed a demanding schedule of day courses at Georgetown University with an eight-hour night shift at FBI headquarters.

He excelled at both. He received a Bachelor of Arts Degree from Georgetown University in 1949 while continuing to serve with the FBI, advancing into positions of increasing responsibility. Always looking for self-improvement, he enrolled in Georgetown University in 1954 to earn a Law Degree.

His distinctive background -- lawyer, FBI Agent, business executive -- gives him a solid foundation of experience and insight for serving the people of the Fifth District in Congress.

During his 10 years with the FBI, Larry received 11 commendations from Director J. Edgar Hoover, and a citation from the Attorney General of the United States. Following his resignation from the FBI he worked with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Larry has never sought political office before, although he was elected an alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1964. In 1962, he managed the gubernatorial campaign for Frank Small, Jr. From 1961 to 1962 he was consultant to Congressman Frank J. Becker of New York, making suggestions regarding legislation and communicating with the Congressman's constituents.

In 1959, Larry struck out on his own, establishing a public relations - advertising firm in downtown Washington. As the executive head of his firm, he has met with initiative and ingenuity the varied challenges of many varied clients.

One of the most rewarding experiences for Larry Hogan other than his business career has been that of being a college instructor. Since September 1960 he has been teaching courses in public relations and law at the University of Maryland.

"I think teaching is one of the most satisfying things I do," Larry says. "Working with young people is challenging and stimulating. I find a constant need to learn just to keep up with the young people I am teaching."

Nora and Larry Hogan have been residents of Prince George's County for the past eight years. Both grew up in Northeast Washington. They have two children, Mary Theresa, 18, and Larry, Jr., age 9. Mary Theresa is a student at Prince George's Community College. Larry, Jr. attends 5th grade at St. Ambrose School in Cheverly.

Larry Hogan is the type of man any resident of the Fifth District, whether Republican, Democrat or Independent will be proud to call, "My Congressman."

Your Congressman . . .

HERVEY G. MACHEN

He was elected to the 89th Congress in 1964 and has distinguished himself in service on the Armed Services Committee, in protection and preservation of natural resources and open spaces and in service to his constituents. Congressman Machen pushed through the bill to preserve the view from Mount Vernon and the Potomac shoreline in the largest Federal park-land acquisition in this area since 1890. Congressman Machen makes his home in Hyattsville.

Circuit Court Judges . . .

ROBERT E. MATHIAS

Incumbent Member of the bench who has a deserved reputation as one of the outstanding lawyers in the State. A resident of Mt. Rainier, he has long been active in civic affairs, working in behalf of better schools and a better Prince Georges County generally. His candidacy has the vigorous support of his fellow lawyers in the County and State Bar Associations.

SAMUEL W. H. MELOY

An incumbent judge, Mr. Meloy has been a member of the Maryland bar for 27 years. He served as U.S. Commissioners for the District of Maryland for 19 years. Mr. Meloy has also been active in civic affairs and, as a private citizen, has worked to bring about improvements in our county and state. He lives on a farm near Upper Marlboro. Mr. Meloy is supported for election to the Judgeship by the County and State Bar Associations.

Board of County Commissioners . . .

FRANCIS J. ALUISI, of District Heights

Being a consultant engineer and general contractor, Mr. Aluisi believes his particular skills and experience can give new perspective to the board as it guides the progressive development of the county. He is a graduate of Catholic University.

JESSE S. BAGGETT,
of Hyattsville

He is incumbent chairman of the County Commissioners, since taking office he has brought in major reforms to county government, including highly qualified, highly educated experts in government operations. He is now a candidate for his fourth term.

M. BAYNE BROOKE, of Oxon Hill

Vice-chairman of the Commission for the past four years, has lead efforts in major improvements in the police and fire departments, including higher salaries for policemen.

FRANCIS B. FRANCOIS, of Bowie-Belair

He is now chief judge of the Orphan's Court. As an attorney and an engineer, Mr. Francois is primarily concerned with proper development of the county in co-ordination with municipalities recognizing the needs of all citizens.

MRS. GLADYS SPELLMAN,
of Cheverly

Incumbent in charge of Commissioner Health & Welfare activities. Sparked reforms in proper zoning and planning responsive to citizens, not speculators. A former school teacher, her interests lie in the best education for all county students.

States Attorney

ARTHUR MARSHALL, JR.,
of Upper Marlboro

Incumbent who is seeking a second term. Since election in 1962, has brought reforms into the States Attorney's office which have set the pace for the whole state, particularly in the areas of bail bonds and more efficient processing of minor offenses. A graduate of Rutgers and Georgetown Law.

Sheriff

WILLIAM J. KERSEY,
of Hyattsville

He favors an increased full-time staff of deputy sheriffs with branch offices outside the courthouse. He pledges better service to the courts and higher pay for deputies. He studied at School of Criminology of the Armed Forces Institute, and advanced school of business management at Rutgers University.

Treasurer

CHARLES E. CALLOW,
of Cheverly

Incumbent treasurer seeking election for fourth consecutive term. A certified public accountant, he has modernized tax collection procedures by introducing automatic data processing methods and equipment. A graduate of Southeastern University, he is a former deputy collector of internal revenue.

Register of Wills

MRS. GENELLA MCGINNIS, of Seot Pleasant

Incumbent Orphan's Court Judge. Now in her third consecutive term as councilwoman for Seot Pleasant. Former member of County Board of License Commissioners and active member of American Business Women's Association, Florists Associations, and Southern Maryland Heart Association.

Orphans Court

FRANK M. KRATOVIL, of Lonham

Former associate county attorney, served as parole officer for county five years prior to appointment in county attorney's office. Present member of Legal Aid Bureau board of directors, member of Beltsville Democratic Club. Graduate University of Maryland Law.

MRS. MARY O'HARE, of Hyattsville

Former school teacher, now with Legal Aid Society and Lawyer's Referral Service, president of St. Jerome's Ladies of Charity. Is past president of Hyattsville Democratic Club. Graduate of Mount St. Joseph's College.

MRS. KATHLEEN SHOAP, of District Heights

Incumbent Orphan's Court Judge. Active in County Council of PTAs, Girl Scouts, Council of Notional Capital Area, Women's Club of District Heights. Graduate of Creighton University.

Legislators First District

State Senate

EDWARD T. CONROY, of Bowie-Belair

He is an attorney and incumbent Delegate having served two terms as chairman of Prince Georges Delegation. Founder of Belair Citizens Association, former State Commander Disabled American Veterans, Korean War hero (holder silver star and two purple hearts), graduate Fordham University and Georgetown Law School. Is a member of the Judiciary and Agriculture and National Resources Committees in House of Delegates. Member Knights of Columbus (fourth degree), member Chamber of Commerce, American Legion (Post 136), VFW, Lions, Elks, and Prince Georges Young Democrats.

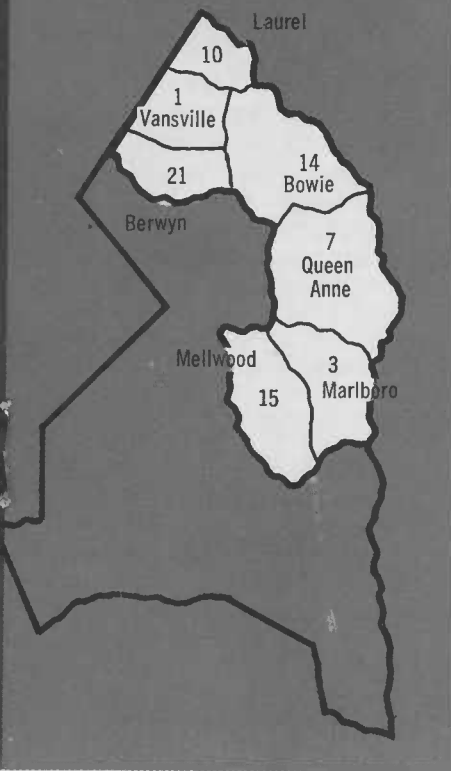

House of Delegates

ARTHUR DORMAN,

of Beltsville

Incumbent Delegate now vice chairman of Prince Georges Delegation. An optometrist, he is a graduate of George Washington University and president of his Parent-Teachers Association. He is active in the Langley Park Democratic Club and in Kiwanis.

a record of performance

Democratic candidates are running on a record of performance in the county—not promises. Here is part of the record:

- Illegal gambling and multiple adds pinball machines eliminated.
- Our school system developed into the finest in the area, with an average of about 10,000 new pupils absorbed each year without sacrificing quality education.
- Teachers' salaries increased to the highest in the area, giving our schools the pick of all teacher applicants.
- A centralized purchasing system inaugurated, at a savings of at least $500,000 a year.
- County employees placed under a strict merit system.
- Police and fire protection improved and strengthened.
- The first in a series of regional libraries opened.
- A Community College nearing completion, capable of enrolling 2,500 fulltime students.
- A kindergarten program expanded, and an eventual goal of free kindergartens adopted as official policy.
- Recreational services and facilities expanded.
- Zoning practices and procedures reformed to give individual citizens a better break in fighting rezoning applications inimical to them.
- The State Roads Commission forced to begin work or planning on some of the more urgent highway projects, such as Chillum Road, Riverdale Road Overpass, Route 202, and the St. Barnabas Underpass at Branch Avenue.

a pledge for progress

The forward-looking platform of the Democratic Party calls for:

- Education

- Maintenance of one of the finest educational systems in the Nation.

- Pre-purchase of land for new schools to reduce costs.

- Competitive bidding on all construction.

- Year around use of school facilities to give taxpayers a better return on their investment.

- Continued programs to attract and retain the best teachers.

- Support of public kindergartens.

- Public Safety

- Continued build-up of our fine police department.

- More and better paid volunteer and fulltime firemen.

- Strict enforcement of the building codes.

- Health & Welfare

- Increase professional help to assist welfare recipients to become self-supporting citizens.

- Expanded programs to train unskilled workers for better paying jobs.

- Continued use of the Poverty Program for maximum benefit of county resident.

- Housing

- Support of equal housing opportunities.

- Ending of slum areas through urban renewal.

- Consumer Protection

- Support of legislation creating consumer protection office, regulation of second mortgage transactions, limitation and regulation of credit charge accounts, truth in packaging and labeling.

- Zoning

- Increase citizen participation in the planning process.

- Protection of authority of municipalities in zoning matters.

- Development of both short term and long range master plans to guide growth of our county.

- Authority of County Commissioners to veto sewer and water lines.

- Study of the need to strengthen bi-county agencies.

LOUIS L. GOLDSTEIN Dedicated to Leadership and Loyalty in Government

An early supporter of the late President John F. Kennedy, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein pledged his support at Annapolis, August 28, 1959.

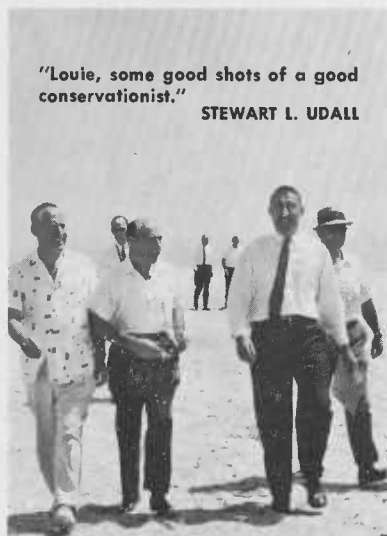

A tireless campaigner and worker for the Democratic party, Louis L. Goldstein greets Vice President Hubert Humphrey on his visit to Maryland.

"For outstanding contributions to the wise use and management of the Nation's Natural Resources." A leader in the field of conservation and an avid foe of strip mining on lands of the State forests, Comptroller Goldstein receives the 1965 Legislative Conservation Award from Maryland and National Wildlife Federation.

Comptroller Goldstein shows Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall Assateague Island. The Secretary and his group had just landed by helicopter.

"Louie, some good shots of a good conservationist." STEWART L. UDALL

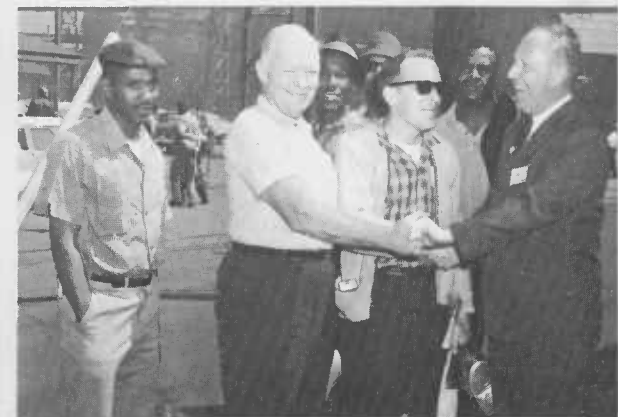

A devoted family man, Louis is loyally supported in his bid for re-election as State Comptroller by his wife, Hazel, and his children, Philip, 17, Louisa Horton, 14, and Margaret Senate, 12.—Filing, June 27, 1966.

Civic minded, volunteer fireman Goldstein attends Maryland Volunteer Fireman's Association Convention and talks with Mayor Hugh Cropper of Ocean City about the necessity for a convention hall in that city and pledges his support.

Always interested in sports, Comptroller Goldstein congratulates Brooks Rabinson of the Baltimore Orioles and wishes them luck in the 1966 pennant race.

As one of State's leaders Louis has always been interested in the working man. On a tour of Baltimore area industrial plants he has on-the-spot discussions of working conditions.

Democrats in Prince Georges Win All Races for Legislature

By MARTHA ANGLE
Star Staff Writer

Democrats have swept all 21 legislative seats in Prince Georges County despite Republican Spiro T. Agnew's victory in Maryland's gubernatorial contest.

Maintaining an unbroken streak which began in 1954, the Democrats carried every seat in the House of Delegates and State Senate by handy margins.

Among the winners in the 2nd District House of Delegates race was Arthur A. King, first Negro ever sent to the legislature by Prince Georges County voters. He placed third among the seven Democratic victors in his race.

3 Incumbents Move Up

Topping the list of five new state senators elected in Prince Georges were three incumbent House members—Meyer M. Emanuel Jr., Royal Hart and Edward T. Conroy—along with incumbent State Sen. Fred L. Wineland and newcomer Steny H. Hoyer.

Wineland and Hoyer carried Southern Prince Georges (3rd Legislative Subdistrict) by 8,000-vote margins over Victor Edwards, the lone Republican challenger. In the populous 2nd District, Emanuel and Hart ran some 3,000 votes ahead of Republican George G. H. McDaniel Jr. and almost 5,000 ahead of Nelson H. Greene, the other GOP candidate. Conroy defeated College Park Mayor William W. Gullett by about 3,000 votes in the sprawling 1st Subdistrict.

In the House, incumbent Del. Arthur Dorman led his Democratic running mates, Pauline H. Menes and Andrew O. Mothershead, to victory over Republicans Robert M. Woodside, Robert S. Hoyert and George W. Senge in the 1st Subdistrict.

Trail by 5,000 Votes

Sweeping the 2nd Legislative District were seven Democrats—Robert W. Banning, incumbent Del. William J. Goodman, Ann R. Hull, Arthur A. King, Truman C. S. Montfort, Francis J. Santangelo Sr. and Eric Weile.

Trailing the Democrats by some 5,000 votes were GOP contenders Francis A. Borelli and Jerome K. Lyle Jr., the only Republicans competing for the 2nd District's seven House seats.

In the 3rd Subdistrict, com-

Raymond J. McDonough, five Democratic running mates easily defeated an incumbent slate of five Republicans.

Besides McDonough, the 3rd District winners were Xavier Aragona, Edward J. Bagley, Bernard W. Donovan, Gilbert R. Giordano and Frederick C. Rummage. They defeated GOP contenders Marvin S. Gallimore, William G. Noland, Leonard J. Oreto, Howard C. Warner and Eugene A. Zamer to win the district's six House seats.

On Sickles Slate

All but three of the 21 Democrats winning House and Senate seats from Prince Georges were members of a primary slate headed by Rep. Carlton R. Sickles. Only Wineland, Aragona and Giordano—who ran on a rival ticket backing former Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan—survived the primary to go on to victory yesterday.

Because of this year's legislative reapportionment, the new Prince Georges delegation to Annapolis will be nearly twice the size of the present one. With five state senators and 16 delegates, Prince Georges will have one of the largest delegations in the General Assembly. The present delegation consists of one senator and 10 House members.

DEMOCRATS SWEEP COUNTY OFFICES DESPITE AGNEW VICTORY OVER MAHONEY

Bluebird Cabs Ride Voters Without Charge

Voters who chose taxi transportation to third subdistrict polling places benefitted from an unusual public service gesture Tuesday.

With the sanction of president Joe Hanson, all Bluebird Cab Company drivers were instructed by Southern District Manager Bill Poole that all fares giving polling places as their destinations were not to be charged for the trip. While tabulations of another sort were being recorded last Tuesday night, Bluebird officials tallied 221 no-charge runs, all of which came as a surprise to the passengers involved.

Cabbies personally aided many invalids who might otherwise have had difficulty reaching the polling booths. Poole himself, a Mahoney supporter, used his private car to pick up the elderly and infirm who requested transportation from Mahoney headquarters. "Some of these," he said, "I had to practically carry in my arms."

According to Poole, not one Bluebird driver complained about the service, although since the drivers all rent their cabs from Bluebird, the free rides, in effect, came out of the drivers' pockets. Many found themselves waiting at the polls to return passengers to their homes, or acting as impromptu babysitters for a back-seat kindergarten, but all were cheerful and apparently pleased with themselves for having done a public service, according to Poole.

Capitol Heights Cops Are On Again Off Again

Mayor Leo P. Forami of Capitol Heights was found in contempt of court Monday in an on-again off-again dispute over the employment of four men as police officers in the town.

Judge Perry Bowen of Prince Georges Circuit Court found Forami in contempt but suspended sentence in the case.

The dispute began when Forami

Mahoney Fails To Carry Prince Georges Even Though All County Democrats Win

Republican Spiro T. Agnew's sweep of Maryland and his 13,000 vote margin in Prince Georges County did little to help other GOP candidates in Tuesday's election.

Democrats swept every county office, as they have since 1954, with no Republican even coming close.

GOP congressional candidate Larry Hogan made the strongest run a Republican candidate has made in years but even anti-Great Society sentiment which was demonstrated across the nation failed to bring him home a victor.

From top to bottom it was all Democratic and left Prince Georges still the only major subdivision of the state with a completely Democratic administration, both in the county and representation to the Maryland Legislature.

Throughout the county voters turned out in record numbers for a non-presidential election year. Almost 100,000 county residents went to the polls.

Although long lines developed in many precincts during midday most polling places were clear of the long lines at closing time which had marred the primary election two months ago.

Local political observers noting the big turnout here, and around the state, felt that such a turnout would help George P. Mahoney but apparently the reverse was true.

All incumbents seeking re-election were returned to office but two newcomers scored well to become members of the board of county commissioners. Frank Aluisi and Francis Francois won handily along with incumbents M. Bayne Brooke of Oxon Hill, Jesse Baggett of Hyattsville, and Gladys Spellman of Lanham.

In the three man race for two circuit court judgeships former county attorney Robert B. Mathias once again proved to be a big vote getter as he did in the primary, while Samuel Meloy easily outdistanced his rival Walter Maloney, a trial attorney for the National Labor Relations Board, who led the ill fated charter government fight two years ago.

Voters were obviously unimpressed by recent charges of irregularities in zoning cases brought by congressional candidate Larry Hogan and margins of victory for the three incumbent commissioners were a vote of confidence in their integrity.

Agnew Beats Mahoney Here Though Democrats Win All Local Offices and Machen Turns Back Hogan

THE REPUBLICAN GOVERNOR-ELECT

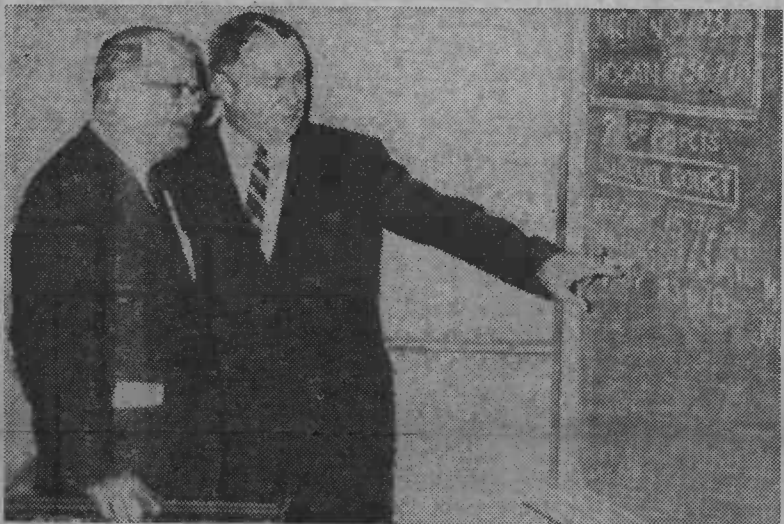

SPIRO T. AGNEW, of Baltimore County handily won election as Governor of Maryland Tuesday, and bested Democratic nominee George P. Mahoney for the top State spot here in heavily-Democratic Prince Georges County, while the entire slate of local County Democratic candidates was sweeping to victory. Governor-elect Agnew is here shown as he addressed an audience at the Park University Motel in College Park during the Primary campaign.

JUBILANT COUNTY DEMOCRATS

HAPPY DEMOCRATS — thronged to the Bladensburg Fire House ballroom Tuesday night to celebrate the victory of the entire local Democratic ticket in the General Elections, which attracted a heavy vote to the County's 88 polling places. Despite the general bedlam which prevailed, the photographer managed to capture this group of successful candidates — just a part of the entire winning ticket. Left to right (standing) are: Francis J. Aluisi, County-Commissioner-elect; Edward T. Conroy, present Delegate who is the new State Senator from the 1st legislative district; present State Senator Fred L. Wineland, Senator-elect from the 3rd district; Francis J. Santangelo, sr., elected to House of Delegates, 2nd. district; Mrs. Gladys N. Spellman, present County Commissioner who won re-election; Congressman Hervey G. Machen, elected Tuesday to his second term; Mrs. Mary T. O'Hare, elected a Judge of the Orphans' Court; Trueman C. S. Montfort, Delegate-elect, 2nd. district; present Orphans' Court Judge Francis B. Francois, elected to the Board of County Commissioners; Frank M. Kratovil, elected as Judge of Orphans' Court; and Arthur A. King, Delegate-elect, 2nd. district. Kneeling in front are Mrs. Genella S. McGinniss, elected as Register of Wills; and Sheriff-elect William J. Kersey. At the rather late time at which this photo was snapped, many of the winners had gone home to a well-deserved rest. (Cosmopolitan Photo)

TWO WINNERS — in the General Election on Tuesday take a look at one of the election-tally boards set up by area news-gathering agencies that night at the County Service Building in Hyattsville. They are (l. to r.) County Commissioner M. Bayne Brooke, (Democrat) who easily won re-election to the Board of County Commissioners, and incumbent Circuit Court Judge Robert B. Mathias, who garnered 38,516 votes to win one of the two Judgeships up for determination.

ANOTHER HOLIDAY

All Prince Georges County governmental agencies, including the Courts, will be closed tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 11, in observance of Veterans' Day. Also closed will be the Park and Planning Commission and the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. Business as usual will resume on Monday, Nov. 14.

The Bowie Special Center for Retarded Children is again selling Claxton fruitcakes as its main fund-raising project. Orders will be taken at the school, Eighth and Chestnut sts., Bowie. Deliveries will be made in Belair by calling Madeline Sitko, 262-2618, and in the Lanham, Seabrook and New Carrollton areas by calling Lora Neveleff, 577-4968.

62% of Registered Voters Visit Polls; Republicans Display New Strength

About 62% of the County's registered voters went to the polls here on Tuesday, and came up with some results that had seasoned political observers scratching their heads.

The 99,958 persons who voted for Governor (out of a total registration of 157,984) gave, on the basis of unofficial tallies, 54,450 votes to Republican Spiro T. Agnew to help along his State-wide victory, compared to 41,548 for Democrat George P. Mahoney, and 3,960 to independent candidate Hyman A. Pressman — while the voters at the same time returned victories for all Democratic nominees for County offices, and for incumbent Democratic Congressman Hervey G. Machen over his Republican opponent Lawrence J. Hogan.

Mr. Mahoney, despite the fact that he had in this County run far behind his two major opponents for Governor in the Democratic Primary of Sept. 13, had been expected to wage a much closer battle in this overwhelmingly Democratic stronghold. Puzzled watchers were uncertain whether to attribute the Mahoney total to the strong campaign against his candidacy mounted last week by Washington newspapers and area church groups; to a largely below-the-surface remaining split in Democratic ranks; or to a Country-wide Republican protest tide against National Administration policies.

In any event, Democrats remained firmly in control of County affairs for the next four years, though in most races Republican candidates showed more strength than had been expected by most observers.

VOTES

to Republican Agnew, Democrats seeking the other State-wide offices scored handy triumphs here, as they did State-wide.

Incumbent Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein of Calvert County, a popular figure here, not only won over Republican Charles S. Bresler, but led in the County balloting over all other candidates with 62,209 votes, Mr. Bresler scored 33,030.

In much the same fashion, Francis B. Burch, Democratic nominee for Attorney General, trounced his Republican opponent, William O. Doub, by 59,723 to 32,915.

Republican challenger Lawrence J. Hogan, of Landover Knolls, rolled up an impressive total of votes while losing to incumbent Democratic Congressman Hervey G. Machen of Hyattsville.

Mr. Machen scored 51,038 votes to 43,671 for Mr. Hogan here. The total vote for Mr. Machen in the entire Fifth District (which also includes Charles County) was 55,331 to 47,424 for Mr. Hogan.

Second high to Mr. Goldstein in vote-garnering here was veteran Clerk to the Circuit Court W. Waverly Webb, who was unopposed and received 61,321 votes. Longtime County surveyor Walton G. Banks, also unopposed, got 57,773 votes.

Other high vote-getters (in County-wide competition) were Mary T. O'Hare, of Hyattsville, who scored 54,263 votes to lead in the race for Judge of the Orphans' Court; incumbent County Treasurer Charles E. Callow, who garnered 53,420 votes to win over Republican Charles J. DiNenna, who had 32,438; and State's Attorney Arthur A. Marshall, jr., who bested his Republican opponent Donald B. W. Messenger by a vote of 51,926 to 34,081.

The voters registered confidence in the present County Administration, by decreeing that things should remain in the hands of Democratic County Commissioners, of which three are incumbents. Returned to office were present, Board chairman Jesse S. Baggett, of Hyattsville; present Board vice-chairman M. Bayne Brooke, of Oxon Hill, and present Commissioner Gladys N. Spellman, of Cheverly, whose 50,836 votes topped the list here. Also elected to the Board were Democrats Francis J. Aluisi, of District Heights, a consultant engineer and builder, and Francis B. Francois, of Bowie, an attorney and engineer who is presently Chief Judge of the Orphans' Court.

Winners of the five State Senate seats at stake in the election and who will represent the various districts into which the County has been divided by last year's reapportionment legislation are: 1st District, present Delegate Edward T. Conroy, of Bowie; 2nd District, present Delegates Meyer M. Emanuel jr., of Hyattsville and Royal Hart of Riverdale; and 3rd District, Fred L. Wineland, of Silesia, who is the present State Senator representing the entire County, and Steny H. Hoyer, of Forestville. In the Third District the margin of victory by the Democrats ranged roughly from 6,800 to 7,700 votes over the one Republican challenger, Victor Edwards; but in the other two districts the voting was closer.

In the Second District Mr. Emanuel had 20,235 votes; Mr. Hart 20,076, and the closest Republican, George G. H. McDaniel, jr., received 17,044. Nelson H. Greene, the other Republican challenger here, was given 14,860 votes. And in the First district Mr. Conroy held roughly a 3,000 vote edge over Republican and College Park Mayor William W. Gullett, with 13,395 to Mr. Gullett's 10,361.

Three Democratic Delegates — incumbent Arthur Dorman, Andrew O. Mothershead, and Pauline H. Menes — were elected to represent the First district; seven — Robert W. Banning, incumbent William J. Goodman, Ann R. Hull, Arthur A. King, Trueman C. S. Montfort, Francis J. Santangelo, sr., and Eric I. Weile — were chosen in the Second district. Six were elected in the Third district — Xavier Aragona, Edward J. Bagley, B. W. Donovan, Gilbert R. Giordano, incumbent Raymond J. McDonough, and Frederick C. Rummage.

In the balloting for Circuit Court Judges — who run first, by law, in both Democratic and Republican Primaries — sitting Judge Robert B. Mathias of Mt. Rainier, led the voting with 38,516. Also elected was sitting Judge Samuel W. H. Meloy, of Upper Marlboro with 26,840 votes. Trailing was the third candidate, Walter H. Maloney, jr., of Chillum, with 16,707 votes. Judge Mathias had been nominated in both Democratic and Republican primaries; Judge Meloy in the Democratic Primary; and Mr. Maloney in the Republican.

Prince Georges voters, perhaps wearied by the voting for the many candidates, chose to pull "Yes" levers in the balloting on 16 constitutional amendments and one referendum question. They thus varied from the State norm in the voting on at least two questions. State-wide, voters rejected the proposal to build a second Chesapeake Bay Bridge next to the present span, and also said nix to the proposal to let legislators set their salaries for themselves.

The unofficial balloting results in detail follow. Local winners are listed in bold face capital letters.

McDonough Heads County Delegation

Prince Georges County's 16 new House of Delegates members last night elected incumbent Raymond J. McDonough as delegation chairman for the next two years.

McDonough, who was elected to his second term in the House, won the chairmanship on the first ballot, defeating three other contenders.

The five-member state senate delegation for Prince Georges postponed choosing a chairman because two senators-elect, Edward T. Conroy and Fred L. Wineland, were not at last night's meeting.

The combined Prince Georges delegation rejected the suggestion that it choose one overall chairman and two administrative chairmen—one for each house of the legislature.

Instead, vice chairmen will be elected from each of the county's three legislative subdistricts.

McDonough, 44, was elected in 1962 and re-elected easily last week. An attorney, he has been a member of the House Judiciary Committee and chairman of the Prince Georges-Montgomery bi-county delegation.

He won the delegation leadership post over two other incumbents, Arthur Dorman and William J. Goodman, and a newcomer, Andrew O. Mothershead.
