THE SENTINEL.

ROCKVILLE, MD.,
FRIDAY JULY 6, 1860.

National Democratic Nominations,
FOR PRESIDENT,
Hon. John C. Breckinridge,
FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
General Joseph Lane.

The Democratic National Executive Committee...

The following named gentlemen compose the Democratic National Executive Committee: Hon. L. S. Stevans, of Oregon; Chairman; Hon. W. Jones, of Indiana; Vice-Chairman; Hon. James D. Davis, of Mississippi; Hon. Jas. D. Deacon, of Indiana; Hon. Thomas D. Floryea, of Pennsylvania; Hon. Gideon W. House, of Maryland; Hon. John W. Stevenson, of Kentucky; Hon. John T. Tamm, of New Jersey; Hon. H. M. Williams, of New Hampshire; Ansterius Scott, Esq., of New York; Isaac H. Warner, Esq., of Massachusetts; Hon. Jas. O. Beaman, of Washington, D. C.; Wm. F. Fox, Esq., of Washington, D. C.; Jas. W. Lusk, Esq., of Washington, D. C.; Wm. C. Clancy, of Washington, D. C.; Rev. G. N. Russ, Esq., Washington, D. C., Treasurer.

All communications should be addressed to Hon. L. S. Stevans, Chairman, Washington, D. C.; Room 20 of the Committee at No. 24 street.

ED We published in our last number a series of principles known as the "majority platform" of the Charleston Convention, which were subsequently unanimously adopted by the National Democratic Convention of Baltimore, which nominated Meigs, Breckinridge and Lane, for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the United States; and we at the same time announced our determination to fight for those principles during the present political campaign. An animadication with sincere desire for the perpetuity of this Confederacy—for the triumph of the advocates and supporters of equal laws and equal privileges for every portion and every interest within the limits of the United States—with a determined and relentless hostility to the Southern Confederacy, with much feeling and great emphasis, wished for strength to battle against the fanatical Abolitionists of the North, and entrenched in Democratic friends to stand steadfast for the young and gallant cause of Old Hickory.

Appropriate and patriotic sentiments were proposed and responded to, till late in the afternoon, when the company dispersed with sincere wishes for the health and happiness of the patriot and hero, Maj. Gen. Peter.

Sixty CAITTEENDS SAID TO BE FOR BRECKINRIDGE AND LANE.—It is rumored in political circles here (says the Washington Star) that the Hon. J. J. Crittenton has declared his intention of supporting Breckinridge and Lane. The reason assigned by the venerable statesman for such action is said to be, that the National Union Convention would have selected Mr. Breckinridge as their nominee; if they had supposed that the National Democratic Convention would have made the same choice; and that all they desired was a conservative, national, honest man, all of which requires him. Mr. Breckinridge passed.

ED In the Binghamton Democrat the Hon. Daniel S. Dickinson declares himself for Breckinridge and Lane. "The majority of the New York delegation," he says, "held the balance of power in the National Convention under the unit rule, and could have saved and unseated the party they have so wantonly and wickedly divided and destroyed."

The responsibility is on them, and the shame is theirs. They will be held to an accountability which we believe will not be wholly lost on them, and which will furnish a wholesome lesson to political jobbers and managers generally.

ED BRECKINRIDGE AND LANE.—RATIFICATION MEETING.—A large and enthusiastic mass meeting was held in Philadelphia, on the 2d instant, to ratify the nomination of Breckinridge and Lane. Hon. Charles J. Ingoldsby presided, assisted by an imposing list of vice-presidents and secretaries.

Resolutions were adopted reaffirming the Cincinnati platform, with the exceptionary resolutions reported by the majority committee of the Charleston Convention. The resolutions also declare the front street theatre nominations a mere nullity, and that the nomination of Breckinridge and Lane is entitled to the respect and support of the democratic party.

ED Our citizens are now enjoying all the facilities afforded by a rapidly increasing population, and indeed, we would fain, from the same source, that their nomination is favored by a large majority of the party throughout the United States. We regret that we have not room to transcribe our entire list of names, but it is difficult to give full details of the evidence of expressed preference.

ED The Democratic State Central Committee of Maryland is advertised to meet in Baltimore, to-night, to consider business of importance to the Party in this State, and to determine the time and place of holding its State Convention, if judged necessary and expedient.

The Democratic Electors of President and Vice-President, chosen by the late State convention, are expected to be present on the occasion.

ED The Fourth of July, this year, was more generally observed, as a holiday, by the citizens of our town and its vicinity than for many years. All the stores and public places of business were closed, and though there was no public demonstration of rejoicing at the anniversary of our National Independence, the stars and stripes proudly floated from a prominent point, and every one seemed fully to appreciate the important and momentous events which took place just eighty-four years ago.

About eight o'clock, a number of children, preceded by a beautiful banner, borne by a young lady, a teacher in the Presbyterian Sabbath school, in this place, took up the line of march for Bethesda, where they united with the Sabbath School of that church, and spent a delightful day. Appropriate, though impromptu addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Conner, Wm. Lakin, Esq., and Wm. W. Bouc, Esq.

Our venerable and distinguished fellow-citizen, Maj. General Peter, though confined to his bed by severe affliction, invited to his hospitable board those of his neighbors who, with him, had been in the war of 1812, periled their lives in defense of their country's cause, and a number of his friends and admirers, to commemorate an event dear to every American patriot. A rich and beautiful repast was prepared by the venerable host, which having been enjoyed by his happy and honored guests, the time was pleasantly spent in a recurrence to the scenes and trials of other days. The privations of a military campaign—the trials and difficulties of a soldier's life, and the exciting scenes of the battle-field, were the chief topics of conversation. The political questions of the day were only occasionally and incidentally alluded to. But, on one occasion, the time-honored patriot, with much feeling and great emphasis, wished for strength to battle against the fanatical Abolitionists of the North, and entrenched in Democratic friends to stand steadfast for the young and gallant cause of Old Hickory.

Appropriate and patriotic sentiments were proposed and responded to, till late in the afternoon, when the company dispersed with sincere wishes for the health and happiness of the patriot and hero, Maj. Gen. Peter.

At a public meeting of the democratic State executive committee, a vote of 40 to 6, recommending the democracy of the State to unite in support of a candidate for Governor. Also to unite in support of the electoral ticket appointed at Hagerstown on the basis that the electors, after the results in other States is ascertained, if the whole vote will elect Douglas to cast it for him, or for Breckinridge if it will elect him, and if neither, then the electors can divide the votes after their own judgment. The chairman of the committee is to obtain a pledge of the electors to act under this obligation.

For the compromise in the executive committee many propositions were made. Among others, one declaring Mr. Douglas the nominee of the democratic party for President, was voted down—yea 19, nays 43.

Deaths.

Died, at his father's residence, near this place, on Monday, the 1st instant, FRANCIS REMUS DURST, in the 61st year of his age. He was a useful son, a kind and virtuous man, and promised to be a useful member of society. We sincerely sympathize with his aged parents in their sad bereavement.

Died, at his residence, near Laytonville in this county, on Friday the 22d ultimo, Mr. REMUS DURST, in the 61st year of his age. Mr. D. was one of the most enterprising and successful farmers of our country, and by inheritance a member of the estate. He left a large family connection and a numerous circle of friends to mourn his death.

Died, on the 22d ultimo, at his residence near Laytonville in this county, Col. LLOYD DOSEY, in the 68th year of his age. In the death of this estimable citizen, the community has lost a most useful and good man, a kind friend, a wise and judicious counselor, and a useful member of the Legislature, and his loss manifested a mortal interest in all that affected the welfare. Through a protracted and severe affliction, he maintained a Christian's patience and resignation, and we trust now enjoys a blissful immortality.
