September 21

NEW-YORK, September 26.

Captain McMillon, who arrived last evening from Cadix, informs that the talk of a war between the United States and Spain, had subsided—and that our Minister at the court of Spain, had not, to his knowledge, left Madrid, as reported. In to-morrow's Gazette, we shall probably be able to give extracts from letters on this subject, more full and satisfactory.

General Moreau and Lady were at Cadiz, and would sail for America as soon after the confinement of Mrs. Moreau as possible.

HORRID MURDER!!!

The recent murder of Ira Lane, who was murdered on the 27th ult. aged 7 years, by David Williams, aged 29, both of the town of Milton and County of Cayuga, depicts the depravity of the human heart, and the imbecility of the human mind, in so impressive a manner as to leave no doubt, that without the protection of Divine Providence, man, left to himself, becomes his own destroyer.

The circumstances attending this inhuman and awful murder, are marked in so peculiar a manner, as to disarm the vain boast of self sufficiency; and if this atrocious act is duly considered, will direct us to look up to that God from whom we have our being, as our only shield & defence from the seductive snares of our frail and depraved nature.

The circumstances which attended the awful catastrophe are as follow:—The said David Williams, when examined before the magistrate, after committing the horrid deed, declared that he was tired of existence, and determined to rid himself of the burden of life—and a first determined to commit suicide; but the fear of a future punishment for this life, & self-murder being an offence against the Supreme Being, that, if he died instantly, he would have no time for repentance, therefore thought, if he killed another person he must necessarily undergo the torments of law before execution, which would afford him an opportunity for repentance.

After abandoning the idea of self-murder, for the reasons above stated, he sent for a young woman of his acquaintance, in the neighbourhood, to come to his father's house to see him (the day he committed the deed) or it would be too late, after that, for the purpose he had in view, by requesting the interview. She having refused to come, he then determined to kill the first person that came in his way. Shortly after the refusal of the young woman being made known to him, the unfortunate Ira Lane, a neighbor's child, was going home from school, and saw Williams, with a gun in his hand, near the house of his (W. Williams) father and familiarly asked him if he was going to shoot a hawk? Williams replied in the affirmative, and instantly discharged his gun at the boy, which slightly wounded him in the abdomen—after which he carried the boy into the house, and laid him on a bed. The boy called for his father—Williams told him he would go and call him, but went for his axe, bringing it concealed behind him. The boy having followed him, he took him a second time and put him to bed, and then struck him three blows with the edge of his axe, aiming at his neck, the two first missing the same, mangled his face prodigiously, but the third cut off his head; after which Williams retired within a wood near the fatal spot awaiting for his pursuers, who shortly after came up to him. At their approach he made no attempt to escape, but surrendered himself without resistance. When being carried before the magistrate, he confessed the fact, and assigned the foregoing reasons as the cause, exhibiting no signs of sorrow or confusion for what he had done. He was committed to Carandigua jail, there to await the sitting of the supreme court. On being asked, if he was condemned to be hung, would he wish to be reprieved, he answered in the negative, but said he wished not to be tried till he had time to repent—The reason he assigned for selecting the child for the victim, was his being young and innocent, and needed no time for repentance.

Three things we infer from this monstrous deed, from the conduct of the murderer—First the frailty of human reason—Secondly, the total depravity of the human heart—Thirdly, a belief in a future state, having a great influence upon the most abandoned, to deter them from the commission of crimes—Take away the idea of future punishment, and the influence of religion on the human mind, and our eyes would often behold murders, suicides, and every species of crimes, and sink man far below the brute creation.

The Indian, executed in the same county for murder, assigned the same reason for committing the act.—It is worthy of remark, in favour of the population of the country, that the spectators who attended his execution were computed at 8000—Herkimer (N. Y.) paper.

CHARLESTON, (Va.) Sept. 21. Owing to the unhappy prevalence of the present epidemical disease which afflicts our country, we were unable on the last week to issue our paper as usual. Since our last we hear of a number of citizens who have "shuffled off this mortal coil," among whom we are sorry to number Mr. Eli Phelps of this county, a gentleman of a most unblemished moral character.

CHARLESTON, September 17. Extract of a letter to James Simons, esq. collector, dated Keawah, September 15.

On Tuesday the 11th instant, after the distressing storm of the 8th and 9th instant, I rode on the sea beach of the island, to view the awful effects of the storm, which were exhibited in the spoils of the wrecked vessels. Among them I picked up a seaman's chest, in the bottom of which was a small drawer, containing a small tin case covering a certificate of citizenship, issued by George Latimer, collector of the district and port of Philadelphia, to John Jones, an American seaman, aged 20 years, dated 25th of October, 1800, No. 5846; also, a party-colored silk thread-case, in which was a pair of ear-rings and a finger-ring, both apparently gold. These four articles are herewith sent. In the inner part of the thread case, there are initial letters thus—J. I. to S. L.

I have taken the liberty of troubling you in this transmission, as they may lead to establish the fate of the unfortunate vessel and crew. These trifling articles, when conveyed to the distressed surviving friends, may prove a melancholy memento. The articles being all found in the same drawer, induces the belief that they all belonged to John Jones.

The ear-rings and finger-ring will be found in the first pocket of the thread-case. A small round wooden cigar box empty, has also been found on the beach, with the name of Thomas Sampson Dyck cut in letters on the cover of it.

N. B. The thread-case, ear rings, ring and the protection mentioned are left with Mr. Freneau.

The different printers in the United States, and particularly those of Philadelphia, are requested to publish the foregoing.

SAVANNAH, (Geo.) Sept. 11.

List of buildings, &c. destroyed at the late hurricane in this harbor.

We have not obtained information of all which come under this head, but the following are those which have come to our knowledge.

Presbyterian Church, the steeple blown down to the foundation. In falling, it broke the roof of a small house belonging to Green R. Duke.

Episcopal Church, a building of brick, two thirds of one broadside of the second story blown down to the window sills.

The Exchange, great part of the roof untiled, and many panes of glass broken.

A house occupied by Mr. Nelson, one chimney blown down.

Mrs. Minis's chimney blown down.

Mr. Wayne's chimney, the top blown off and lodged on the roof of the house.

Mr. Clay's new house, partially unslated.

Gibbons' buildings, partially untiled and the chimneys blown down to the roof.

Bolton's buildings, partially untiled.

Several other dwelling houses are considerably injured and particularly many windows are broken.

George Anderson has one store completely thrown down, the other injured.

A small store occupied as a retail shop by Mordecai McLean, has one end and two sides torn out and all his property lost.

Taylor and Scarbrough's store partially untiled.

Barroughs and Sturges, the end of their store torn out, their books and papers lost and the principal part of the articles in the store destroyed.

A printing press and types belonging to James Hey, of Louisville, were principally lost in this store.

Maurice Lehigh's store, the sides and the end next the river, completely broken, and almost every thing in the store destroyed.

Benjamin Maurice's store, one end broke, and much damage done to the goods.

Polly of St. Mary's escaped with only the loss of rigging.

Liberty, of Charleston, on Howard's wharf, bilged.

A lighter, belonging to R. & J. Bolton, has her boom broke,—afloat at the wharf.

Several Augusta and other boats, are likewise on the wharves, not one is left afloat, and scarce a small boat in the harbour but is broken and buried among the lumber.

Those vessels noted on the wharves are completely above the reach of the tide, & as fairly on the wharves as if they were building there.

We learn that Mr. William Campbell and Mr. Thomas Williamson, procured a boat and at near eleven o'clock on Sunday night, and visited the back river where their exertions were crowned with such success that they were enabled to collect and bring to Savannah a very large number of negroes belonging to various estates—such generous conduct deserves to be rewarded.

Books & Harris's store, in Clay's new buildings, one corner, next the river, broke.

John Jackson's store, partially injured. Crook and Seaman's store, much torn and damaged in the two lower stories.

H. Reynolds & Co, store much broken, many articles floated away, and others almost ruined.

John Davis, two stores broken, nearly all the articles in one destroyed and swept away, in the other much injured.

Hunter and Minis, two stores partially broken and much damage done.

H. Lord and Co. store completely laid open and great injury sustained.

Jacob Idler's store, gone with its contents, without a single trace left.

A. Dunn's blacksmith's shop, completely broken down and carried some yards from the foundation.

A vacant store, much broken.

Samuel Howard's store, lower story broken and considerable injury sustained.

Dennis & Williams's store completely swept down, and almost all its contents lost, together with their books and papers. A small part of the latter has been recovered.

Hunter & Minis's new store, occupied by Thomas Lawrence, the foundation toward the river broken and the store leaned. Considerable loss was sustained by Mr. Lawrence.

James Wallace's store, taken down to the foundation, carried several hundred feet from the wharf it stood on, and its timbers scattered along shore. Its contents entirely lost.

The three last mentioned stores were built this summer.

Beside these stores enumerated, scarce one near the wharves, but has suffered injury from the water which found its way into them. It was supposed that the height of water was from ten to twelve feet above the common level of spring tides, and the waves run very high.

Shipping including all in the harbor. Ships.

Brutus, of Savannah, (late Casualidad) grounded about high water mark near T. & R. Newell's store.

Gustavo, of St. Thomas, at Putnam's wharf, afloat, has all her topmasts and foremast carried away.

Magdalen, of Glasgow, upset, has her bottom much torn and is sunk by the wharf near Johnston & Robertson's.

General Jackson, of this port, her keel at high water mark on M'Creedy's wharf.

Mary, of Charleston, loaded with cotton, and waiting for a wind, driven on the wharf near the fort.

Brigs. Diamond, of New York, grounded at Bolton's upper wharf.

Brandywine, of Savannah, grounded at low water mark, at Wayne's wharf.

Hiram of Savannah, on the piles of Williamson & Morel's wharf, has several holes broke in her bottom.

Minerva, of Savannah, on the coffee house wharf above high water mark.

Schooners. Cornelia, of Charleston, upset and sunk near the shore at Gordon's wharf.

Carolina, of Charleston, grounded at Bolton's upper wharf.

Hannah, of St. Thomas's on the corners of two wharves, above high water mark, her foremast broke down by the deck.

York, of St. Simon's, on Chig and Mitchell's wharf, above high water mark.

Savannah Packet, of Charleston, on Johnston & Robertson's wharf, bilged.

Hiram of New York, on Burrroughs and Surges's wharf above high water mark, but uninjured.

Delight of Charleston, on the piles at Stark's wharf, with one or two of them through her bottom.

Revenue Cutter, Thomas Jefferson, on the wharf occupied by Hunter & Minis's new store, her mainmast gone, her stern broken out and her rudder unshipped.

L'Amitie, French national corvette, high on M'Creedy's wharf.

A small boat, name unknown, on the same wharf with both masts broke, and bilged.

A pilot boat belonging to Scranton, three feet higher than high water mark at Belcher's wharf.

Sloops. Themis of Beaufort, high on Gordon's wharf.

of Coosawatchie, grounded high and dry near Wayne's wharf.

Rachel, of Charleston, upset, mast broke, and sunk, at Johnston and Robertson's wharf.

Just received. By the brig Sopha, from Trieste, and for sale by the subscribers.

Plattias, Checks, Hollands, Britannias, Bagging, Red Turkey Cotton Yarn, Velvets, White and Marbled Cassile Soap, Zante Currants, Iron Wire, Sheet Iron, and Fans. For terms apply to S. SMITH & BUCHANAN, or JOSEPH YOUNG, two doors below the custom house.
